(b.) Where property contracted to be purchased for one consideration for the whole, by two or more persons jointly, or by any person for himself and others, or wholly for others, is conveyed in parts by separate instruments to the persons by or for whom the same was purchased, for distinct parts of the consideration, the conveyance of each separate part shall be chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of the distinct part of the consideration therein specified.

(c.) Where a person having contracted for the purchase of any property, but not having obtained a conveyance thereof, contracts to sell the same to any other person, and the property is in consequence conveyed immediately to the sub-purchaser, the conveyance shall be chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of the consideration for the sale by the original purchaser to the sub-purchaser.

(d.) Where a person having contracted for the purchase of any property, but not having obtained a conveyance thereof, contracts to sell the whole, or any part, thereof, to any other person or persons, and the property is in consequence conveyed by the original seller to different persons in parts, the conveyance of each part sold to a sub-purchaser shall be chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect only of the consideration paid by such sub-purchaser, without regard to the amount or value of the original consideration, and the conveyance of the residue (if any) of such property to the original purchaser shall be chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect only of the excess of the original consideration over the aggregate of the considerations paid by the sub-purchasers:

Provided that the duty on such last mentioned conveyance shall in no case be less than one rupee.

(e.) Where a sub-purchaser takes an actual conveyance of the interest of the person immediately selling to him, which is chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of the consideration paid by him, and is duly stamped accordingly, any conveyance to be afterwards made to him of the same property by the original seller shall be chargeable with a duty equal to that which would be chargeable on a conveyance for the consideration obtained by such original seller; or where such duty would exceed five rupees, with a duty of five rupees.

E.—Duty by whom payable.

29. In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, the expense of providing the proper stamp shall be borne—

(a) in the case of any instrument described in numbers 2, 11, 13, 14, 15, 24, 28, 29, 30, 44, 53, 51, 55, 57 and 60 (a) and (b) of the first schedule—by the person drawing, making or executing such instrument:

(b) in the case of a policy of insurance—by the insured:

(c) in the case of a conveyance—by the grantee: in the case of a lease or agreement to lease—by the lessee or intended lessee:

(d) in the case of a counterpart of a lease—by the lessor:

(e) in the case of an instrument of partition—by the parties thereto in proportion to their respective shares in the property comprised therein, or when the partition is made in execution of an order passed by a Revenue-authority, in such proportion as such authority directs:

(f) in the case of an instrument of exchange—by the parties in equal shares: and

(g) in the case of a certificate of sale—by the purchaser of the property to which such certificate relates.

CHAPTER III.

ADJUDICATION AS TO STAMPS.

30. When any instrument, whether executed or not, and whether previously stamped or not, is brought to the Collector, and the person bringing it applies to have the opinion of that officer as to the duty (if any) with which it is chargeable, and pays a fee of such amount (not exceeding five rupees and not less than eight annas) as the Collector may in each case direct, the Collector shall determine the duty (if any) with which, in his judgment, the instrument is chargeable:

and may for that purpose require to be furnished with an abstract of the instrument, and also with such affidavit or other evidence as he may deem necessary to prove that all the facts and circumstances affecting the chargeability of the instrument with duty, or the amount of the duty with which it is chargeable, are fully and truly set forth therein, and may refuse to proceed upon any such application until such abstract and evidence have been furnished accordingly :

Provided that no evidence furnished in pursuance of this section shall be used against any person in any civil proceeding, except in an enquiry as to the duty with which the instrument to which it relates is chargeable; and every person by whom any such evidence is furnished shall, on payment of the full duty with which the instrument to which it relates is chargeable, be relieved from any penalty he may have incurred under this Act by reason of the omission to state truly in such instrument any of the facts or circumstances aforesaid.

31. When an instrument brought to the Collector under section thirty is in his opinion one of a description chargeable with duty and

(a) the Collector determines that it is already fully stamped, or

(b) the duty determined by the Collector under section thirty, or such a sum as, with the duty already paid in respect of the instrument, is equal to the duty so determined, has been paid, the Collector shall certify by endorsement on such instrument that the full duty (stating the amount) with which it is chargeable has been paid.

When such instrument is in his opinion not chargeable with duty, the Collector shall certify in manner aforesaid that such instrument is not so chargeable.

Any instrument upon which an endorsement has been made under this section shall be deemed to be duly stamped, or not chargeable with duty, as the case may be; and if chargeable with duty, shall be receivable in evidence or otherwise, and may be acted upon and registered as if it had been originally duly stamped :

Nothing in this section shall authorize the Collector to endorse—any instrument executed or first executed in British India and brought to him after the expiration of one month from the date of its execution or first execution (as the case may be);

any instrument executed or first executed out of British India and brought to him after the expiration of three months after it has been first received in British India; or any instrument chargeable with the duty of one anna, or any bill of exchange or promissory note, when brought to him after the drawing or execution thereof on paper not duly stamped.

32. Every payment of a fee under section thirty shall be made in stamps, or cash, as the Governor General in Council may by rule direct.

Payment of fees under section 30 how made.

CHAPTER IV.

INSTRUMENTS NOT DULY STAMPED.

33. Every person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, and every person in charge of a public office except an officer of Police, before whom any instrument chargeable in his opinion with duty is produced or comes, in the performance of his functions, shall, if it appears to him that such instrument is not duly stamped, impound the same.

For that purpose every such person shall examine every instrument so chargeable and so produced or coming before him, in order to ascertain whether it is stamped with a stamp of the value and description required by the law in force in British India when such instrument was executed or first executed.

Provided that nothing herein contained shall be deemed to require any Magistrate or Judge of a criminal Court to examine or impound any instrument coming before him in the course of any proceeding other than a proceeding under chapter forty or chapter forty-one of the Code of Criminal Procedure, or chapter eighteen of the Presidency Magistrates Act :

Provided also that, in the case of a Judge of a High Court, the duty of examining and impounding any instrument under this section may be delegated to such officer as the Court appoints in this behalf.

The Local Government may from time to time, in cases of doubt, determine who shall be deemed to be, for the purpose of this section, persons in charge of public offices.

34. No instrument chargeable with duty shall be admitted in evidence for any purpose by any person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, or shall be acted upon, registered or authenticated by any such person or by any public officer, unless such instrument is duly stamped :

Provided that—

1st, any such instrument, not being an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna only or a bill of exchange or promissory note, shall, subject to all just exceptions, be admitted in evidence on payment of the duty with which the same is chargeable or (in the case of an instrument insufficiently stamped) of the amount required to make up such duty, together with a penalty of five rupees, or when ten times the amount of the proper duty or deficient portion thereof exceeds five rupees, of a sum equal to ten times such duty or portion ;

2nd, nothing herein contained shall prevent the admission of any instrument in evidence in any proceeding in a criminal Court other than a proceeding under chapter forty or chapter forty-one of the Code of Criminal Procedure, or chapter eighteen of the Presidency Magistrates Act ;

3rd, when an instrument has been admitted in evidence, such admission shall not, except as provided in section fifty, be called in question at any stage of the same suit or proceeding on the ground that the instrument has not been duly stamped.

35. When the person impounding an instrument under section thirty-three has by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence and admits such instrument in evidence upon payment of a penalty as provided by section thirty-four, he shall send to the Collector an authenticated copy of such instrument, together with a certificate in writing, stating the amount of the duty and penalty levied in respect thereof, and shall send such amount to the Collector, or to such person as he may appoint in this behalf.

In every other case, the person so impounding an instrument shall send it in original to the Collector.

36. When a copy of an instrument is sent to a Collector under the first paragraph of section thirty-five, he may, if he thinks fit, upon application made to him in this behalf, refund any portion of the penalty in excess of five rupees which has been paid in respect of such instrument, or when such instrument has been impounded only because it has been written in contravention of section twelve, or section thirteen, he may refund the whole penalty so paid.

37. When the Collector impounds any instrument under section thirty-three, or receives any instrument sent to him under the second clause of section thirty-five, he shall adopt the following procedure :—

(a.) If he is of opinion that such instrument is duly stamped, or is not chargeable with duty, he shall certify by endorsement thereon that it is duly stamped, or that it is not so chargeable (as the case may be), and shall upon application made to him in this behalf deliver such instrument to the person from whose possession it came into the hands of the officer impounding it, or as such person may direct.

(b.) If the Collector is of opinion that such instrument is chargeable with duty and is not duly stamped, he shall require the payment of the proper duty or the amount required to make up the same, together with a penalty of five rupees ; or if ten times the amount of the proper duty or of the deficient portion thereof exceeds five rupees, then such penalty, not less than five rupees and not more than ten times the amount of such duty or portion, as he thinks fit :

Provided that, when such instrument has been impounded only because it has been written in contravention of section twelve or section thirteen, the Collector may, if he thinks fit, remit the whole penalty prescribed by this section.

Every certificate under clause (a) of this section shall, for the purposes of this Act, be conclusive evidence of the matters stated therein.

Nothing in this section applies to an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna only, or to a bill of exchange or promissory note.

38. If any instrument chargeable with duty and which is not duly stamped is produced by any person of his own motion before the Collector within one year from the date of its execution or first execution, and such person brings to the notice of the Collector the fact that such instrument is not duly stamped, and offers to pay to the Collector the amount of the proper duty, or the amount required to make up the same, and the Collector is satisfied that the omission to duly stamp such instrument has been occasioned by accident, mistake or urgent necessity, he may, instead of proceeding under sections thirty-three and thirty-seven, receive such amount and proceed as next hereinafter prescribed.

Nothing in this section applies to an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna only or to a bill of exchange or promissory note.

39. When the duty and penalty (if any) leviable in respect of any instrument have been paid under section thirty-four, section thirty-seven or section thirty-eight, the person admitting such instrument in evidence, or the Collector (as the case may be), shall certify by endorsement thereon that the proper duty or (as the case may be) the proper duty and penalty (stating the amount of each) have been levied in respect thereof, and the name and residence of the person paying them.

Every instrument so endorsed shall thereupon be admissible in evidence, and may be registered and acted upon and authenticated as if it had been duly stamped, and shall be delivered on his application in this behalf to the person from whose possession it came into the hands of the officer impounding it, or as such person may direct :

Provided that no instrument which has been admitted in evidence upon payment of duty and a penalty under section thirty-four shall be so delivered before the expiration of one month from the date of such impounding, or if the Collector has certified that its further detention is necessary and has not cancelled such certificate :

Provided also that nothing in this section shall affect the Code of Civil Procedure, section 144, clause 3.

40. The payment of a penalty under this chapter in respect of an instrument shall not bar the prosecution of any person who appears to have committed an offence against the stamp-law in respect of such instrument :

But no such prosecution shall be instituted in the case of any instrument in respect of which such a penalty has been paid, unless it appears to the Collector that the offence was committed with an intention of evading payment of the proper duty.

41. When any duty or penalty has been paid, under section thirty-four, section thirty-seven or section thirty-eight, by any person in respect of an instrument, and by agreement, or under the provisions of section twenty-nine or any other enactment in force at the time such instrument was executed, some other person was bound to bear the expense of providing the proper stamp for such instrument, the first-mentioned person shall be entitled to recover from such other person the amount of the duty or penalty so paid ; and for the purpose of such recovery any certificate granted in respect of such instrument under section thirty-nine shall be conclusive evidence of the matters therein certified.

42. When any penalty is paid under section thirty-four or thirty-seven, the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority may, upon application in writing made within one year from the date of the payment, refund such penalty wholly or in part.

43. If any instrument sent to a Collector under the second paragraph of section thirty-five be lost, destroyed or damaged during transmission, the person sending the same shall not be liable for such loss, destruction or damage.

When any instrument is about to be so sent, the person from whose possession it came into the hands of the person impounding the same may require a copy thereof to be made at the expense of such first-mentioned person and authenticated by the person impounding such instrument.

44. When any bill of exchange or promissory note chargeable with the duty of ~~the~~ anna, or any cheque, is presented for payment unstamped, the person to whom it is so presented may affix thereto the necessary adhesive stamp, and upon cancelling the same in manner hereinbefore provided may pay the sum payable upon such bill, note or cheque, and may charge the duty against the person who ought to have paid the same, or deduct it from the sum payable as aforesaid, and such bill, note or cheque shall, so far as respects the duty, be deemed good and valid.

But nothing herein contained shall relieve any person from any penalty he may have incurred in relation to such bill, note or cheque.

CHAPTER V.

REFERENCE AND REVISION.

45. If any Collector acting under section thirty, Procedure where Collector feels doubt as to duty chargeable. section thirty-seven or section thirty-eight feels doubt as to the amount of duty with which any instrument is chargeable, he may draw up a statement of the case, and refer it, with his own opinion thereon, for the decision of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, and such Authority shall consider the case and send a copy of its decision to the Collector, and he shall proceed to assess and charge the duty (if any) in conformity with such decision.

46. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority may state any case referred to it under section forty-five or otherwise coming to its notice and refer such case with its own opinion thereon, if the case arises in the territories for the time being administered by the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council or the Governor of Bombay in Council—to the High Court of Judicature at Madras or Bombay as the case may be: if it arises in the North-Western Provinces or Oudh—to the High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces: if it arises in the territories for the time being administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjab—to the Chief Court of the Panjab: if it arises in the Central Provinces—to the High Court of Judicature at Bombay; and if it arises in any other part of British India—to the High Court of Judicature at Fort William.

Every such case shall be decided by not less than three Judges of the High Court or Chief Court to which it is referred, and in case of difference the opinion of the majority shall prevail.

47. If the High Court or Chief Court is not satisfied that the statements contained in the case are sufficient to enable it to determine the questions raised thereby, the Court may refer the case back to the Revenue-Authority by which it was stated, to make such additions thereto or alterations therein as the Court may direct in that behalf.

48. The High Court or Chief Court, upon the hearing of any such case, shall decide the questions raised thereby and shall deliver its judgment thereon containing the grounds on which such decision is founded: and it shall send to the Revenue-Authority by which the case was stated, a copy of such judgment under the seal of the Court and the signature of the Registrar, and the Revenue-Authority shall, on receiving such copy, dispose of the case conformably to such judgment.

49. If any Court other than a Court mentioned in section forty-six feels doubt as to the amount of duty to be paid in respect of any instrument under the first proviso to section thirty-four, the Judge may draw up a statement of the case and refer it with his own opinion thereon for the decision of the High Court or Chief Court to which, if he were the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, he would under section forty-six refer the same, and such Court shall deal with the case as if it had been referred under section forty-six, and send a copy of its judgment under the seal of the Court and the signature of the Registrar to the Judge making the reference, who shall, on receiving such copy, dispose of the case conformably to such judgment.

References made under this section, when made by a Court subordinate to a District Court, shall be made through the District Court, and when made by any subordinate Revenue Court shall be made through the Court immediately superior.

50. When any Court in the exercise of civil or revenue jurisdiction makes any order admitting any instrument in evidence as duly stamped or as not requiring a stamp, or upon payment of duty and a penalty under section thirty-four, the Court to which appeals lie from, or references are made by, such first-mentioned Court may, of its own motion or on the application of the Collector, take such order into consideration; and if it is of opinion that such instrument should not have been admitted in evidence without the payment of duty and penalty under section thirty-four, or without the payment of a higher duty and penalty than those paid, may record a declaration to that effect, and determine the amount of duty with which such instrument is chargeable, and may require any person in whose possession or power such instrument then is to produce the same, and may impound the same when produced.

When any declaration has been recorded under this section, the Court recording the same shall send a copy thereof to the Collector and, where the instrument to which it relates has been impounded or is otherwise in the possession of such Court, shall also send him such instrument; and thereupon the Collector may, notwithstanding anything contained in the order admitting such instrument in evidence, or in any certificate granted under section thirty-nine, or in section forty, prosecute any person for any offence against the stamp-law which the Collector considers him to have committed in respect of such instrument:

Provided that no such prosecution shall be instituted where the amount (including duty and penalty) which according to the determination of such

Court was payable in respect of the instrument under section thirty-four is paid to the Collector, unless he thinks that the offence was committed with an intention of evading payment of the proper duty :

Provided also that, except for the purposes of such prosecution, no declaration made under this section shall affect the validity of any order admitting any instrument in evidence, or of any certificate granted under section thirty-nine.

CHAPTER VI.

ALLOWANCES FOR SPOILED STAMPS AND STAMPS NO LONGER REQUIRED.

51. Subject to such rules as may be made by the Governor General in Council as to the evidence which the Collector may require, allowance shall be made by the Collector for impressed stamps spoiled in the cases hereinafter mentioned, namely :—

(a.) The stamp on any paper inadvertently and undesignedly spoiled, obliterated or by any means rendered unfit for the purpose intended, before any instrument written thereon is executed by any person :

(b.) The stamp used or intended to be used for any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note, signed by or on behalf of the drawer or intended drawer, but not delivered out of his hands to the payee or intended payee, or any person on his behalf, or deposited with any person as a security for the payment of money, or in any way negotiated, issued or put in circulation, or made use of in any other manner, and which, being a bill of exchange or cheque, has not been accepted by the drawee, and provided that the paper on which any such stamp is impressed does not bear any signature intended as or for the acceptance of any bill of exchange or cheque to be afterwards written thereon :

(c.) The stamp used or intended to be used for any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note signed by, or on behalf of, the drawer thereof, but which from any omission or error has been spoiled or rendered useless, although the same, being a bill of exchange or cheque, may have been presented for acceptance or accepted or endorsed, or, being a promissory note, may have been delivered to the payee, provided that another completed and duly stamped bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note is produced identical in every particular, except in the correction of such omission or error as aforesaid, with the spoiled bill, cheque or note :

(d.) The stamp used for any of the following instruments, that is to say :—

- (1) an instrument executed by any party thereto, but afterwards found by a competent Court to be absolutely void in law from the beginning :
- (2) an instrument executed by any person, but afterwards found unfit, by reason of any error or mistake therein, for the purpose originally intended :
- (3) an instrument executed by any party thereto, but which, by reason of the death of any person, by whom it is necessary that it should be executed, without having executed the same, or of the refusal of any such person to execute the same, or to advance any money intended to be thereby secured, cannot be completed so as to effect the intended transaction in the form prescribed :

- (4) an instrument executed by any party thereto which, for want of the execution thereof by some material party, and his inability or refusal to sign the same, is in fact incomplete and insufficient for the purpose for which it was intended :
- (5) an instrument executed by any party thereto which, by reason of the refusal of any person to act under the same, or by the refusal or non-acceptance of any office thereby granted, totally fails of the intended purpose :
- (6) an instrument executed by any party thereto which becomes useless in consequence of the transaction intended to be thereby effected being effected by some other instrument duly stamped :
- (7) an instrument executed by any party thereto which is inadvertently and undesignedly spoiled, and in lieu whereof another instrument made between the same parties and for the same purpose is executed and duly stamped :

Provided that in the case of an executed instrument—

- (a) such instrument is given up to be cancelled :
- (b) the application for relief is made within six months after the date of the instrument or, if it is not dated, within six months after the execution thereof by the person by whom it was first or alone executed, except where from unavoidable circumstances any instrument for which another instrument has been substituted cannot be given up to be cancelled within the aforesaid period, and in that case within six months after the date or execution of the substituted instrument, and except where the spoiled instrument has been sent out of British India, and in that case within six months after it has been received back in British India :

Provided also that, in the case of stamped paper not having an executed instrument written thereon, the application for relief is made within six months after the stamp has been spoiled as aforesaid.

52. When any person has inadvertently used, for an instrument chargeable with duty, a stamp of a description other than that prescribed for such instrument by the rules made under this Act, or a stamp of greater value than was necessary, or has inadvertently used any stamp for an instrument not chargeable with any duty, or when any stamp used for an instrument has been inadvertently rendered useless under section fourteen owing to such instrument having been written in contravention of the provisions of section twelve, the Collector may, on application made within six months after the date of the instrument or, if it is not dated, within six months after the execution thereof by the person by whom it was first or alone executed, and upon the instrument, if chargeable with duty, being re-stamped with the proper duty, cancel and allow as spoiled the stamp so misused or rendered useless.

53. In any case in which allowance is made for spoiled or misused stamps, the Collector may give in lieu thereof (a) other stamps of the same description and value, or, (b) if required, and he thinks fit, stamps of any other description to the same amount in value, or (c) at his discretion, the same value in money, deducting one anna for each rupee or fraction of a rupee.

54. When any person is possessed of a stamp which has not been spoiled or rendered unfit or useless for the purpose intended, but for which he has no immediate use, the Collector shall repay to such person the value of such stamp in money, deducting one anna for each rupee or portion of a rupee, upon such person delivering up the same to be cancelled, and proving to the Collector's satisfaction that it was purchased by such person with a bona fide intention to use it, and that he has paid the full price thereof, and that it was so purchased within the period of six months next preceeding the date on which it is so delivered.

CHAPTER VII.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

55. The Local Government, subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, may make rules consistent herewith for regulating the supply and sale of stamps and stamped papers, the persons by whom alone such sale is to be conducted, and the duties and remuneration of such persons.

56. The Governor General in Council may make rules consistent herewith to carry out generally the purposes of this Act.

57. All powers to make appointments, rules and orders conferred by this Act may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

All rules made under this Act other than rules made under section fifty-five shall be published in the Gazette of India, and all rules made under section fifty-five shall be published in the local Gazette. All rules published as required by this section shall, upon such publication, have the force of law.

58. Any person receiving any money exceeding twenty rupees in amount, or any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note for an amount exceeding twenty rupees, or receiving in satisfaction of a debt any moveable property exceeding twenty rupees in value shall, on demand by the person paying or delivering such money, bill, cheque, note or property, give a duly stamped receipt for the same.

59. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect the duties chargeable under any enactment for the time being in force relating to Court-fees.

60. Every Local Government shall cause Act to be carefully translated into the principal vernacular languages of the territories administered by it. A full alphabetical index shall be added to every such translation, and the translation and index shall be printed and sold to the public at a price not exceeding four annas per copy.

CHAPTER VIII.

CRIMINAL OFFENCES AND PROCEDURE.

61. Any person drawing, making, issuing, endorsing or transferring, or signing otherwise than as a witness, or presenting for acceptance or payment, or accepting, paying or receiving payment of, or in any manner negotiating, any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note without the same being duly stamped, any person executing or signing otherwise than as a witness any other instrument chargeable with duty without the same being duly stamped, and any person voting or attempting to vote under any proxy not duly stamped, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees :

Provided that, when any penalty has been paid in respect of any instrument under section thirty-four, section thirty-seven or section fifty, the amount of such penalty shall be allowed in reduction of the fine (if any) subsequently imposed under this section in respect of the same instrument upon the person who paid such penalty.

62. Any person required by section eleven to cancel an adhesive stamp and failing to cancel such stamp in manner prescribed by that section shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

63. Any person who, with intent to defraud the Government of any duty, (a) executes any instrument in which all the facts and circumstances required by section twenty-seven to be set forth in such instrument are not fully and truly set forth, or

(b) being employed or concerned in or about the preparation of any instrument, neglects or omits, fully and truly to set forth therein all such facts and circumstances, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five thousand rupees.

64. Any person who, being required under section fifty-eight to give a receipt, refuses or neglects to give the same, or who, with intent to defraud the Government of any duty, upon a payment of money or delivery of property exceeding twenty rupees in amount or value, gives a receipt for an amount or value not exceeding twenty rupees, or separates or divides the money or property paid or delivered, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

65. Every person who—

(a) receives, or takes credit for, any premium or consideration for any contract of insurance, and does not, within one month after receiving, or taking credit for, such premium or consideration, make out and execute a duly stamped policy of such insurance; or

(b) makes, executes or delivers out any policy which is not duly stamped, or pays or allows in account, or agrees to pay or allow in account, any money upon, or in respect of, any such policy, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

66. Any person drawing or executing a bill of exchange or a policy of marine insurance purporting to be drawn or executed in a set of two or more, and not at the same time drawing or executing on paper duly stamped the whole number of bills or policies of which such bill or policy purports the set to consist, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

67. Whoever, with intent to defraud the Government of duty, draws, makes or issues any bill of exchange or promissory note bearing a date subsequent to that on which such bill or note is actually drawn or made, and whoever, knowing that such bill or note has been so post-dated, endorses, transfers, presents for acceptance or payment, or accepts, pays or receives payment of, such bill or note, or in any manner negotiates the same, and whoever, with the like intent, practises or for other devices to defraud the revenue, is concerned in any act, contrivance or device not specially provided for by this Act or any other law for the time being in force, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

68. Any person appointed to sell stamps who disobeys any rule made under section fifty-five, and any person not so appointed who sells or offers for sale any stamp, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

69. No prosecution in respect of any offence punishable under this Act, or the General Stamp Act, 1869, or any Act thereby repealed, shall be instituted without the sanction of the Collector or such other officer as the Local Government generally, or the Collector specially, authorizes in that behalf.

The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, or any officer authorized by it in this behalf, may stay any such prosecution or compound any such offence.

70. No Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate and a Magistrate whose powers are not less than those of a Magistrate of the second class shall try any offence under this Act.

71. Every such offence committed in respect of any instrument may be tried in any district or Presidency-town in which such instrument is found, as well as in any district or Presidency-town in which such offence might be tried under the law relating to criminal procedure for the time being in force.

72. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act, or the rules made under it:

Provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same offence.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th January, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee.

No. 1 of 1879.

A Bill to amend the law relating to Coast-lights in the eastern part of the Bay of Bengal.

WHEREAS it is expedient to increase the Coast-light dues paid under the provisions of Act No. XIII of 1867 (An Act to provide for the establishment and maintenance of Coast-lights in the eastern part of the Bay of Bengal) and to render chargeable with such dues certain vessels which are not now so chargeable; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the "Burma Coast-lights Act, 1879;"

Local extent. It extends to the territories respectively administered by the Governors of Fort St. George and Bombay in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal and the Chief Commissioners of British Burma and the Andamans.

But nothing herein contained shall apply to any vessel belonging to, or in the service of Her Majesty, or the Government of India, or to any vessel of war belonging to any Foreign Prince or State.

2. Act No. XIII of 1867 (An Act to provide for the establishment and maintenance of Coast-lights in the eastern part of the Bay of Bengal) and section 77 of the Indian Ports Act, 1875, are hereby repealed.

But any appointment made under the said Act No. XIII of 1867 shall be deemed to have been made under this Act.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Customs-Collector" means a Customs-Collector or appointed under the Sea Customs Act, 1878, and includes any person appointed by the Local Government by name or in virtue of his office to discharge the functions of a Customs-Collector under this Act at any port:

"Vessel" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or of property:

"Master," when used in relation to any vessel, means any person (except a Pilot or Harbour Master) having for the time being the charge or control of such vessel:

"Voyage" means the whole distance between a vessel's place of departure and her final place of arrival; but the return of a vessel from any place shall, notwithstanding the terms of any charter party, be deemed a distinct voyage.

Coast-light Dues.

4. A toll, hereinafter called "Coast-light dues," shall be paid in respect of every vessel of the burden of fifty tons and upwards making any voyage mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed, at the rate of one anna six pie per ton of burden:

Provided that such vessel sails from or enters during the course of, or at the termination of, any such voyage a port in British India.

5. The said toll shall become due and payable—

(a) in the case of a vessel clearing out of a port in British India upon any such voyage previous to the grant of any port-clearance;

(b) in the case of a vessel entering a port in British India in the course, or at the termination, of any such voyage, immediately upon her entering such port:

Provided that the said toll shall not be levied more than once on any vessel in the course of the same voyage.

6. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, reduce or raise the rate of Coast-light dues, in respect of all vessels or any particular class of vessels:

Provided that such rate shall not in any case exceed the rate fixed by section four.

7. The Customs-Collector shall collect the Coast-light dues; and shall grant to the person paying the same a proper voucher in writing under his hand, setting forth the name of his office, the port at which the Coast-light dues are paid, and the name, tonnage and other proper description of the vessel in respect of which such payment is made.

8. Within twenty-four hours after the arrival within a port of any vessel chargeable with Coast-light dues, the master of such vessel shall give notice of such arrival to the Customs-Collector.

9. In order to ascertain the tonnage of any vessel chargeable with Coast-light dues, the following rules shall be observed:—

(a.)—If such vessel be a British registered vessel, or a vessel registered under Act No. X of 1841, or Act No. XI of 1850, or under any other law for the time being in force for the registration of vessels in India, the Customs-Collector may require the owner or Master of such vessel, or any person having possession of her register, to produce such register for inspection. If any such owner, Master or other person neglects or refuses to produce such register, or otherwise to satisfy the Customs-Collector as to what is the true tonnage of the vessel in respect of which such Coast-light dues are payable, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, and the Customs-Collector may cause such vessel to be measured and the tonnage thereof to be ascertained; and in such case the owner or Master of such vessel shall also be liable to pay the expenses of such measurement.

(b.)—If such vessel be not a British registered vessel, or a vessel registered under Act No. X of 1841, or Act No. XI of 1850, or under any other law for the time being in force for the registration of vessels in India, and the owner or Master thereof fails to satisfy the Customs-Collector as to what is her true tonnage according to the mode of measurement prescribed by the law in force for the time being for regulating the measurement of British registered vessels, the Customs-Collector shall cause such vessel to be measured and the tonnage thereof, according to the mode of measurement, to be ascertained; and in such case the owner or Master of such vessel shall be liable to pay the expenses of such measurement.

Explanation.—In this section “owner” includes any agent to whom the vessel referred to is consigned.

10. If the Master of any vessel refuses or neglects to pay to the Customs-Collector on demand by him the amount of any dues or expenses payable in respect of such vessel under this Act, the Customs-Collector may distrain or arrest such vessel, and the tackle, apparel and furniture belonging thereto, or any part thereof, and detain the same until the amount of such dues or expenses is paid; and in case any part of such dues or expenses, or of the costs of the distress or arrest, or of the keeping of the same, remains unpaid for the space of five days next after any such distress or arrest so made, the Customs-Collector may cause the vessel or other thing so distrained or arrested to be sold, and with the proceeds of such sale may satisfy such dues, expenses and costs, including the costs of sale remaining unpaid, and shall render the surplus (if any) to the Master of such vessel upon demand.

11. The officer of Government whose duty it is to grant a port-clearance for any vessel shall not grant such port-clearance until her Master, or some other person, has paid, or secured to the satisfaction of such officer, the amount of all dues, expenses and costs with which such vessel is chargeable under this Act, and of any fine to which any person is liable for anything done by him in contravention of this Act.

12. The Master of any vessel departing from or entering any port in British India upon, or in the course of, or at the termination of, any voyage, shall, upon the demand of the Customs-Collector, specify upon what voyage he is or has been bound.

13. If the Master of any vessel evades, or attempts to evade, the payment of any Coast-light dues, expenses or costs payable in respect of such vessel under this Act, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Determination of Disputes under Act.

14. If any dispute arises as to whether any vessel is chargeable with any Coast-light dues, expenses or costs under this Act, or as to the amount of such dues, expenses or costs, such dispute shall, upon application made in that behalf by either of the disputing parties, be heard and determined by any Magistrate exercising powers under the Code of Criminal Procedure not less than those of a Magistrate of the second class, or in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay by a Presidency Magistrate; and the decision of such Magistrate shall be final.

Maulmain and Bassein Port-dues.

15. The port-due leviable under the Indian Ports Act, 1875, in either of the ports of Maulmain and Bassein, shall, to the extent of one anna six pie, be applicable in the first place to defray the expenses of maintaining the existing port-lights of British Burma.

Prosecutions under other Laws.

16. Nothing herein contained shall prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act: provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same act or omission.

Saving of prosecutions under other laws.

SCHEDULE.

(See section 4.)

1. A voyage to or from Chittagong or any place west of the longitude of Chittagong—

(a) from or to any port in British Burma; or

(b) from or to Port Blair, or any place east of the longitude of Mergui, by a route passing between the northern extremity of the Andaman Islands and the coast of British Burma.

2. A voyage to or from any port in British Burma—from or to any other port in British Burma

Except voyages to or from Moulmein from or to Tavoy or Mergui, or to or from Tavoy from or to Mergui.

3. A voyage to or from Rangoon and any port in British Burma west of the longitude of Rangoon—from or to any place east of Mergui.

4. A voyage to or from any port in British Burma other than Tavoy and Mergui—from or to Port Blair.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE present coast-light dues of one anna per ton levied under section 3 of Act XIII of 1867 (An Act to provide for the establishment and maintenance of Coast-lights in the eastern part of the Bay of Bengal) have been found insufficient to pay a fair rate of interest on the capital expended on the lights which at present exist on the coast of British Burma and provide for their maintenance. Moreover, the recent total destruction of the Krishna Shoal Light-house will immediately entail a large expenditure. It has therefore been determined to raise the present coast-light dues from one anna per ton to one anna six pie and to subject to the dues vessels making certain voyages not mentioned in the Act but in the course of which they benefit by the lights. These voyages are—

- (a) voyages from ports in British Burma to Chittagong and places west of Chittagong;
- (b) voyages from Chittagong to ports in British Burma;
- (c) voyages by certain routes to or from Chittagong and places west of Chittagong (except Calcutta) from or to Port Blair and places east of Mergui;
- (d) voyages from places east of Mergui to Rangoon and from Rangoon and ports in British Burma west of Rangoon to places east of Mergui;
- (e) voyages to or from any port in British Burma other than Tavoy and Mergui from or to Port Blair.

2. The Bill repeals Act XIII of 1867 (which has already been amended) and re-enacts it in a simpler form, with the requisite alterations in respect of the coast-light dues and with some changes in wording and arrangement.

WHITLEY STOKES.

The 14th January, 1879.

D. FITZPATRICK,

Secy. to the Govt. of India.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 29th January, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 3 of 1879.

A Bill for the regulation and control of Hackney-carriages in certain Municipalities and Cantonments.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages in certain municipalities and cantonments; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Hackney-Carriage Act, 1879,"

Commencement.

and it shall come into force at once;

but nothing herein contained shall affect any power conferred by any law relating to municipalities.

Saving.

Interpretation-clause.

2. In this Act—

"Hackney-carriage" means any wheeled vehicle drawn by animals and used for the conveyance of human beings, which is kept, or offered, or plies, for hire, and

"Committee" means a Municipal Committee, or a body of Municipal Commissioners constituted under the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force.

3. The Lieutenant-Governors of the North-

Western Provinces and the municipalities, Punjab, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces, British Burma, Assam, Ajmer and Coorg may, by notification in the official Gazette, apply this Act to any municipality in the territories administered by them respectively.

When this Act has been so applied to any municipality, the Committee of such municipality may from time to time make rules for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages within the limits of such municipality, in the manner in which, under the law for the time being in force, it makes rules or bye-laws for the regulation and control of other matters within such limits.

Every rule made under this section shall, when sanctioned and published by the Local Government and published for such time and in such manner as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe, have the force of law.

Provided that the Local Government may at any time rescind any such rule.

4. The Local Government of any of the said territories may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make rules for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages in any military cantonment situated in the territory administered by it, and the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages in any place in India, but not in British India, in which British troops are cantoned.

What rules under sections 3 and 4 may provide for.

5. The rules to be made under section three or section four may, among other matters,

(a) direct that no hackney-carriage, or no hackney-carriage of a particular description, shall be let to hire, or taken to ply, or offered, for hire, except under a license granted in that behalf;

(b) direct that no person shall act as driver of a hackney-carriage except under a license granted in that behalf;

(c) provide for the issue of the licenses referred to in clauses (a) and (b), prescribe the conditions (if any) on which such licenses shall be granted, and fix the fees (if any) to be paid therefor;

(d) regulate the description of animals, harness, and other things to be used with licensed carriages, and the condition in which such carriages, and the animals, harness, and other things used therewith, shall be kept;

(e) provide for the inspection of the premises on which any such carriages, animals, harness, and other things are kept;

(f) fix the time for which such licenses shall continue in force and the events (if any) upon which within such time they shall be subject to revocation or suspension;

(g) determine the times at which, and the circumstances under which, any person keeping a hackney-carriage shall be bound to let such carriage to any person requiring the same, and any driver of a hackney-carriage, being with such carriage in a public place, shall be bound to go with any person desirous of hiring such carriage;

(h) appoint places or stands for hackney-carriages and prohibit such carriages waiting for hire except at such places;

(i) limit the rates or fares, as well for time as distance, which may be demanded for the hire of any hackney-carriage; and

(j) limit the number of persons, and the weight of property, which may be conveyed by any such carriage.

6. Any person breaking any rule made under this Act shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

7. The amount of any fees received, and the amount of any expenses incurred, by any Committee giving effect to this Act shall respectively be credited and debited to the Municipal Fund, and in any cantonment where there is a Cantonment Fund, to such Fund.

8. If any dispute arises between the hirer of any hackney-carriage and the owner or driver of such carriage as to the amount of the fare payable by such hirer under any rule made under this Act, such dispute shall, upon application made in that behalf by either of the disputing parties, be heard and determined by a Magistrate or bench of Magistrates, and the decision of such Magistrate or bench shall be final.

When any such dispute is heard by a bench, any difference of opinion arising between the members of such bench shall be settled in the same manner as differences of opinion arising between such members in the trial of criminal cases.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE want of a law to regulate hackney-carriages in towns and cantonments in the interior of India has long been felt, and has lately been pressed upon the notice of the Government of India by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab and His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

2. The present Bill has been prepared to supply this want in the case of municipalities in those parts of India which have not local Legislatures, and in all cantonments, whether in British India or in Native States.

3. It gives power to the Municipal Committee, in the case of a municipality, and to the Local Government, in the case of a cantonment, to make rules (subject, in the former case, to the sanction of the Local Government, and in the latter, to that of the Governor General in Council) to ensure that carriages offered for hire, and the animals and harness used with them, shall be in proper condition; that fit persons shall be employed as drivers; that the fares charged shall be reasonable, and that the carriages shall not be over-laden.

4. It further provides that breach of these rules shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and that disputes between the hirer and owner of a carriage, as to the amount of a fare, shall be determinable by a Magistrate.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE, AND COMMERCE.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 28th JANUARY 1879.

GENERAL REMARKS.—In Madras prospects are reported to be fair in most districts; extraordinary drought prevails in the Tinnevely district. No material change has taken place in the Bombay Presidency, where local damage from rats and locusts still continues. The rabi is likely to be good. In Mysore matters are satisfactory as before, and prices continue to fall. No rain has yet fallen in the Central Provinces, and in the Saugor, Damoh and Jubbulpore districts prospects are gloomy; in other districts they are still on the whole fair. The report from Berar mentions clear weather and gives a favourable account of the spring crop. Central India and Rajputana exhibit no change; in the former prices are rising, and in the latter rain is needed, especially in Ajmere. In Bengal slight rain has fallen only in Chittagong and in the Chittagong Hill Tracts, and it is much wanted in other places; frost has done much damage in the Patna division and in Palamow, but otherwise the rabi crops are generally fairly good; large exportations continue and prices remain high. Prospects are satisfactory in Assam and also in British Burma. In the last named province, although the general health is good, there has been slight cholera in some parts of Thonkwa, Henzada, Mergui, and Bassein, where, too, there is cattle disease. The reports from the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and the Punjab repeat the complaint of want of rain, of which unfortunately there appears to be no prospect at present. There has been clear bright weather in almost every part of India. The failure of the winter rains in the north up to the present time is certainly unfortunate, but there is no reason as yet to entertain any apprehension of extensive injury to the spring crop.

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
| Nuddea ... | Nil | Weather cold; the amun harvest is over; the outturn is nowhere below the average; but the prices are still high; the winter crops generally are doing well; cholera is still reported, and a few deaths have also been caused by small-pox. |
| Moorshedabad ... | Nil | The weather has again become cooler; clear bright days; the rabi continues to promise well; the price of rice remains high, and exportation continues; health is good. |
| Pubna ... | Nil | Weather clear and cold; the prospects of the crops are good; public health is good; no report has been received from Serajgunge. |
| Rajshahye ... | Nil | The dhan crop still continues to be reaped, but it is being exported abundantly from several parts of the district; the rabi crops, though thriving, still require rain; cholera has disappeared. |
| Bogra ... | Nil | Weather cooler than last week; north wind is prevalent; almost all the amun has been reaped; the rabi crops are doing well; fever still prevails; cholera is on the decrease. |
| Dinagapore ... | Nil | Weather clear and cold; the cold-weather crops are progressing favourably; the price of rice varies from 13 to 18 seers per rupee. |
| Rungpore ... | Nil | Weather colder; the prospects of tobacco are good, and of wheat and mustard are moderate; rain would cause an improvement; cholera is disappearing, but small-pox is reported from Bagdogra. |
| Cooch Behar ... | Nil | Weather seasonable, clear, and cool; the reaping of the rice crop is completed; the prospects of the winter crops continue to be promising; but a little rain would have greatly benefited them; the state of the public health is good. |
| Jalpaiguri ... | Nil | Hazy foggy mornings; weather considerably cooler than last week; the ploughing of land for bhadai is slowly progressing; mustard and tobacco are doing well; the picking of the latter has commenced; in the Duars the mustard is said to be rather backward for want of rain. |
| Darjeeling ... | Nil | Weather cloudy; very cold; threatening snow or rain; the few crops on the ground are doing well, the ground is being cleared for other crops. |
| Midnapore ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable. |
| Howrah ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the small amount of crop still on the ground is doing well. |
| Hooghly ... | Nil | Weather cold and clear; the amun crop is nearly harvested; the prospects of the cold-weather crops are good; fever has much abated; cholera still continues at Goopipara. |
| Burdwan ... | Nil | Weather cool and dry; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable. |
| Bankoora ... | Nil | Weather much cooler than last week, but clear and bright; no change in the prospects of any of the crops since last report; fever is gradually disappearing. |
| Beerbhoom ... | Nil | The weather has turned suddenly colder; there is nothing further to report about the crops. |
| Sonthal Pergunnahs ... | Nil | Weather fine and cold, but sultry in Pakour; the prospects of the crops continue satisfactory, but rain is wanted in Doonkee and Godda; in Jantara rahar is ripening, sugarcane is being planted, and the old crop of sugarcane is being cut. |
| Bhāgalpur ... | Nil | Weather very cold; west wind is prevailing; the prospects of the winter crops are favourable; the price of rice continues high; general health is very good. |
| Monghyr ... | Nil | Weather very cold, with west wind; the state and prospects of the crops are excellent. |
| Purneah ... | Nil | Weather fine and cold; the state and prospects of the crops are fair. But rain is required in places. |
| Maldah ... | Nil | Weather fair; the reaping of the haimanta paddy is about to close; the matore plants are flowering, the wheat plants are thriving; the prospects of the crops are good; fever has abated, as the weather has become quite cool; cases of cholera are decreasing. |
| Durbhunga ... | Nil | Weather very cold, with west wind; no change since last report; the rabi is suffering much from want of rain; prices are rising. |
| Mozufferpore ... | Nil | Weather cold and clear; the prospects of the rabi crops are less promising than heretofore; the country is exceedingly dry, and rain is greatly needed. |
| Sarun ... | Nil | Weather very cold; west wind (favourable to the rabi crops) is prevailing; the cold-weather crops are decidedly suffering for want of rain; rahar and cotton are doing well; sugarcane manufacture is going on. prices are stationary; public health is good. |
| Chumparun ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; cool west winds in the day; the rabi crops are poor for want of rain. |
| Patna ... | Nil | Weather very cold; there has been no change in the state of the crops. rain is wanted. |
| Gya ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the thermometer in the shade was 79.5°; the prospects of the rabi crops continue to be favourable, but rain is wanted to secure a good outturn; several cases of small-pox have been reported from Gya, Aurungabad, Nabimagar and Nowada; the health of the plough cattle is good. |
| Shahabad ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; no change to report; rain is urgently wanted to ensure the rabi crops; public health is good. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|------------------------------|---|
| Hazáribágh ... | Nil | Weather fine and colder; the rabi crops are at present flourishing, but rain would do good. |
| Lohardugga ... | Nil | Weather cold, with frosty nights; the rabi crops promise well, except in the Palamow sub-division, where they are said to have been much injured by frost; general health is good. |
| Manbhoom ... | Nil | Weather cooler and more seasonable; the condition of the crops continues good; and the general health is fair. |
| Singhbhoom ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the rabi crops are doing fairly; the price of rice is the same; the district is healthy. |
| Balasore ... | Nil | Weather cool and seasonable; the paddy harvest is well in now. |
| Cuttack ... | Nil | Weather fine and seasonable; the harvesting of the sarad and rabi crops is going on; the sowing of the dahua or spring rice has commenced; cholera is on the decrease. |

HACKNEY-CARRIAGES BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. THORNTON introduced the Bill for the regulation and control of Hackney-carriages in certain municipalities and cantonments, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs. Stokes, Cockerell and Colvin, the Hon'ble Sayyad Ahmad Khān and the Mover. He said that the circumstances which had led to the introduction of the measure had been explained at the last meeting of the Council. Briefly stated, its object was to provide for the regulation, where necessary, of hackney-carriages in those Provinces and parts of India in which there were no local legislatures.

It was accordingly provided in the Bill, that the law should be applicable, if required, to the following localities ; namely :—

- (1) to municipalities situated in the territories known as the North-Western Provinces, the Panjāb, Oudh, the Central Provinces, British Burma, Assam, Ajmer and Coorg ;
- (2) to cantonments situated in those territories ; and
- (3) to British cantonments situated in the territories of Native Chiefs.

As to the mode of operation, it was proposed that the regulation of hackney-carriages, where effected, should be effected by local rules. These local rules would be made, in the case of municipalities, by the municipal committees, subject to confirmation by the Local Government ; in the case of cantonments in British territory, by the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council ; in the case of British cantonments in the territories of Native States by the Governor General in Council.

The several matters to be dealt with by the rules were set forth in section 5 of the Bill. They might require, inter alia, that carriages offered for hire, and the animals and harness used with them, should be in proper condition ; that fit persons should be employed as drivers ; that the fares charged should be reasonable, and that the carriages should not be over-laden.

The Bill further provided that breach of rules should be punishable with fine extending to fifty rupees, and that disputes between the hirer and owner or driver of a carriage, as to amount of fare, should be determinable by a Magistrate.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. THORNTON also moved that the Bill be published in the local official Gazettes, in English and in such other languages as the Local Governments think fit.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

PLEADERS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES presented the preliminary Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Pleaders, Mukhtárs and Revenue Agents Act, 1865. He said that the Committee had made only two additions of any substantial importance. The first of these was the bringing of the practitioners in the Presidency Small Cause Courts within the scope of the Pleaders Act. He had already explained that, owing to Sir Barnes Peacock's interpretation of the expression "Courts of Small Causes" as used in that Act, there was no power to make rules as to the qualification, admission and control of those practitioners; and the expediency of making such rules would (MR. STOKES supposed) be admitted by every one except, perhaps, some of the practitioners in question.

The second addition had been suggested by the Chief Justice of Bengal, for whose wise and kindly counsel, given on this and on many other occasions, MR. STOKES wished to express his hearty thanks. The addition was the giving power to make rules for the qualification, admission and control of mukhtárs practising on the Appellate side of the High Court. The present Act, XX of 1865, section 44, purported to give such a power, and it was clear that the intention of the legislature at that time was to oblige all persons who desired to practise either in the High Court or the Mufassal Courts as mukhtárs, to be duly admitted and enrolled as recognized officers of those Courts, and to place them under the Court's supervision and control.

Accordingly, under the power thus conferred upon them, the High Court at Fort William on the 19th of January, 1871, passed the following rules relating to mukhtárs in the High Court:—

"I. Persons who have hitherto practised as mukhtárs on the appellate side of the High Court, and also persons desiring so to practise, may apply to be admitted and enrolled as mukhtárs in the High Court.

"II. No person so applying shall be admitted, except he shall satisfy the Court as to his character and competency.

"III. Every person so applying, on being approved by the Court, shall, before he is admitted and enrolled as a mukhtár, be required to give security in the sum of Rs. 2,000 for his honesty and good conduct, for his compliance with the rules and orders of the High Court, and for the faithful discharge of his duties towards the Court and towards his employers.

"IV. Every person admitted and enrolled as a mukhtár of the High Court shall be at liberty—

- (1) to instruct counsel or vakíl;
- (2) to inspect the records of any civil or criminal case in which he is engaged as mukhtár, and if necessary to obtain copies of any papers or documents in order to the preparation of a brief or instructions for the counsel or vakíl employed, or to be employed, in the case;
- (3) to deposit in the office money or securities on behalf of his clients;
- (4) to withdraw monies or securities deposited on account of his clients;
- (5) to receive back original or other documents filed in any case, after the case shall have been completely disposed of;
- (6) and, generally, to do all other such duties on behalf of his clients as mukhtárs are now, according to the existing practice in the Court, empowered to do; provided that no monies, securities or documents shall be handed out to any mukhtár, except on production of a special or general power-of-attorney under the hand of his client, and duly registered, authorizing him to receive the same.

"V. Mukhtárs, within the first fortnight in January in every year, or on the occasion of taking out or renewing their certificates, shall be required to satisfy the Registrar as to the state of their securities."

Soon after this, on the 15th of April, 1872, the vakíls of the High Court presented a petition to the Judges, praying that the rules so made might be reconsidered, upon the ground that the introduction of a fourth class of practitioners, under the name of mukhtárs, into the High Court was injurious to the rights and privileges to which they (the vakíls) were entitled under the Letters Patent of 1862 and 1865, and the rules made by the High Court pursuant to those Letters Patent.

Their contention was, that the Letters Patent provided for only three classes of practitioners in the High Court, namely, advocates, vakils and attornies; that clause 10 of the Letters Patent of 1862 contained a positive prohibition against any persons being allowed to act in any way for suitors in the High Court, except vakils and attornies, and that section 44 of Act XX of 1865 was ultra vires of the Indian legislature, in so far as it contravened, or enabled the High Court to contravene, this prohibition. They insisted, therefore, that the introduction of a fourth class of practitioners to act in any way for clients in the High Court, under the name of mukhtárs, was contrary to law notwithstanding section 44 of the Act of 1865; and they prayed the Judges, upon those grounds, to rescind the rules of December, 1871.

This petition was opposed by a large number of persons, professing to be the mukhtárs of the High Court, who contended that they were, and had been for years past, acting for clients in that capacity, and that their status, as such, was recognized by the vakils and the public, as well as by the Act of 1865.

The question thus raised was argued before the Judges; and, upon reconsideration, a majority of the Court were of opinion (no formal decision was given) that the rules which they had made in 1871 were contrary to law; and those rules were consequently rescinded.

MR. STOKES did not for a moment presume to question the correctness of the opinion of the High Court as the law then stood or was supposed to stand. But three days before Act XX of 1865 was passed, the Statute 28th Vic., c. 15, had been enacted by Parliament, and under it new Letters Patent were granted to the High Courts. The sixth section of the Statute expressly saved our legislative powers, and though clause 10 of the new Letters contained a prohibition like that in clause 10 of the former Letters, the 44th clause of the new Letters expressly declared that all the provisions of the Letters Patent (including, of course, the prohibition) were subject to the legislative powers of the Governor General in Council. Furthermore, owing to the full discussion which the authority of the Indian legislature had received in Meares' case, 11 Beng. 106, in Feda Hussein's case, 1 L. R. 1 Cal. 431, and in Bura and Bakh Singh's case, 1 L. R. 3 Cal. 63, there could now be no reasonable doubt as to the extent of those powers.

The ground was therefore cleared. This legislature was fully competent to modify the Letters Patent and to enable the High Court to regulate the mukhtárs that practised on its appellate side. As to the expediency of so doing, there could be no question. "In order to the due protection of suitors (MR. STOKES quoted Sir R. Garth) from injustice and wrong, all persons, by whatever name they may be called—vakils, mukhtárs, agents, or otherwise—who are allowed to take any part in the business of the Court, should have a defined and recognized position as the Court's officers, and should be bound by such wholesome rules as the Court should from time to time think fit to pass. In other words, it was highly desirable, in the interests of the public, that the intention of the legislature in 1865 with regard to High Court mukhtárs, as well as others, should be fully and fairly carried out." MR. STOKES had lived too long in India to be sanguine as to the complete success of any measure intended to stop an evil practice. But he did hope and believe that the rules which the High Court at Fort William, and also, he presumed, the High Court at Allahabad, would pass as soon as the Bill became law, would to some appreciable extent restrict the dishonest and demoralizing custom of giving commission on fees paid to legal practitioners.

Act XX of 1865 having been already thrice amended, the Committee had thought it better to repeal and consolidate, with the changes proposed by the Bill and those now described, than to have the law on so small a subject contained in five Acts.

The Council adjourned to Wednesday, the 12th February, 1879.

NOTIFICATIONS.

Fort William, the 6th February 1879.

No. 3.—Whereas by Resolution passed by the Secretary of State for India in Council, on the sixteenth day of March 1871, the provisions of the thirty-third of Victoria, chapter three, section one, were declared applicable to Ajmer and Merwara; and whereas the Chief Commissioner of Ajmer has proposed to the Governor General in Council a draft of the following Regulation together with the reasons for proposing the same;

and whereas the Governor General in Council has taken such draft and reasons into consideration, and has approved of such draft, and the same has received the Governor General's assent;

in pursuance of the directions contained in the said section, the said Regulation is now published in the Gazette of India:—

REGULATION No. I of 1879.

A Regulation to provide for the levy of a duty on salt imported into Ajmer and Merwara without payment of duty.

WHEREAS it is expedient to impose a duty on

Preamble. salt which has been imported into Ajmer and Merwara without payment of duty and is now in large quantities therein; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Regulation extends to all the territories now under the administration of the Chief Commissioner of Ajmer and subject to the provisions of the thirty-third of Victoria, chapter three, section one;

Local extent. and it shall come into operation at once.

Commencement.

2. In the following sections of this Regulation, Interpretation-clause. "maund" means a maund of three thousand two hundred and two hundred tolas, that is 82½ lbs. avoirdupois, and "section" means a section hereof.

3. On all salt exceeding five maunds in weight which has been imported into the said territories without payment of duty and which is at the time this Regulation comes into operation in the possession or under the control of any person or firm in the said territories, a duty of two rupees eight annas per maund shall be levied; and in calculating the amount of such duty, fractions of quarter maunds shall be reckoned as quarter maunds.

4. Every person in whose possession, or under whose control, such salt is, shall, within one week from the date on which this Regulation comes into operation, give notice in writing to such officer as the said Chief Commissioner may appoint in this behalf, stating the weight of such salt, and pay to such officer the amount of the duty leviable upon such salt.

No such person shall move, or transfer to another the possession or control of, such salt or any portion thereof until the duty leviable thereon has been paid.

5. Any person possessing or having the control of any such salt after the expiration of the said period of one week without having given the notice required by section four and paid the duty leviable on such salt under section three, and any person moving, or transferring the possession or control of, any salt in contravention of section four, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with imprisonment with or without hard labour which may extend to six calendar months, or with both.

6. The duty leviable upon any salt under section three shall be a first charge thereon, and if such duty is not paid as required by section four, such salt may be seized and detained by any officer empowered by the said Chief Commissioner in this behalf.

MARINE SURVEYS—CASUALTIES AND DANGERS TO NAVIGATION.

The 3rd February 1879.

No. 8 of 1879.—The following Notice to Mariners is published for general information :—

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

INDIA—WEST COAST—KATTIWAR.

Fixed Light at Goapnath Point, Gulf of Cambay.

Information has been received from the Executive Engineer, Bhaunagar State, that a light is now exhibited from a light-house recently erected on Goapnath point, at the entrance to the Gulf of Cambay.

The light is a fixed white light, elevated 68 feet above high water, and should be visible in clear weather through an arc of 180°, or between the bearings of S. S. W., through west, to N. N. E., from a distance of 6 miles.

The light-house—a buff-coloured limestone masonry tower, 32 feet high from base to vane—is situated on a hillock 240 yards inshore from Goapnath point.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric or by lenses, of the 6th order.

Position : Latitude, 21° 11' 35" N. ; longitude, 72° 6' 0" E.

[Bearings are Magnetic and from Seaward : Variation 1° Easterly in 1879.]

No. 9 of 1879.—The following Notice to Mariners is published for general information :—

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

THE MARKING OF WRECKS.

The Corporation of the Trinity House, London, has issued the following notice :—

" It being desirable, when light-vessels or other craft are anchored to mark the position of wrecks, that Mariners should be able to distinguish them, and to learn on which side of them they should go,

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN

That with these objects, wreck-marking vessels will in future have their top-sides coloured green, and will exhibit—

By DAY—Three balls on a yard 20 feet above the sea ; two placed vertically on the side on which navigating vessels may safely pass, and one on the other side.

By NIGHT—Three white fixed lights will be shown similarly arranged, but not the ordinary riding light.

Mariners will thus know, on sighting a wreck-marking craft, that she is so employed ; and that they should pass on that side of her on which the two balls or two lights are shewn."

The above is published for general information.

The Coconada Circle of Issue to consist of the Districts of Ganjam, Vizagapatam, Godavari, and Kistna.

The Calicut Circle of Issue to consist of the Districts of Malabar, South Canara, Coimbatore, and Nilgiri Hills, and Coorg.

The Madras Circle of Issue to consist of all the other districts in the said Presidency.

And to appoint the town of Coconada to be the place of Issue in the Coconada Circle; the town of Calicut to be the place of Issue in the Calicut Circle; and the town of Madras to be the place of Issue in the Madras Circle.

And to establish an Office of Issue in each of the said towns of Coconada, Calicut, and Madras.

This Notification shall come into force on the 1st day of March 1879.

No. 658.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to make the following regulation with regard to Paper Currency in the Town and Cantonment of Bangalore, in the Province of Mysore:

1. Within the said Town and Cantonment, a note, issued under the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, from the Office of Issue at Madras, within the Madras Circle of Issue, shall be a legal tender to the amount expressed in such note in payment or on account of any revenue or other claim to the amount of five rupees and upwards due to the State; or any sum of five rupees and upwards due by the State or by any body corporate or person in the said Town and Cantonment.
2. No body corporate or person in the said Town and Cantonment shall draw, accept, make or issue any bill of exchange, hundi, promissory note, or engagement for the payment of money payable to bearer on demand, or borrow, owe or take up any sum or sums of money on the bills, hundies or notes payable to bearer on demand, of any such body corporate or of any such person provided that cheques or drafts payable to bearer on demand or otherwise may be drawn on bankers, shroffs or agents by their customers or constituents, in respect of deposits of money in the hands of such bankers, shroffs, or agents, and held by them at the credit and disposal of the persons drawing such cheques or drafts.

3. Any body corporate or person committing any offence under the preceding clause shall, on conviction before a Magistrate of the first class, be punished with a fine equal to the amount of the bill, hundi, note or engagement, in respect whereof the offence is committed.

Every prosecution under this clause shall be instituted by the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Madras, and all fines imposed may be recovered in the manner prescribed by the Code of Criminal Procedure.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

PUBLISHED UNDER AUTHORITY.

The "Indian Law Reports," published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, will appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and will comprise four series,—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court will be reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court will be reported in the Calcutta Series. The Parts of each Series can be had separately, or all four Parts can be had stitched into one wrapper at the option of subscribers and purchasers. It will be observed from the following statement of the terms of subscription and sale, that a considerable reduction is allowed to persons taking the complete set:

Terms of subscription, payable annually in advance.

| | Without Postage. | With Postage. |

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 29th January, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 3 OF 1879.

A Bill for the regulation and control of Hackney-carriages in certain Municipalities and Cantonments.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages in certain municipalities and cantonments; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called
“The Hackney-carriage
Act, 1879,”

Commencement.

and it shall come into force
at once;

but nothing herein contained shall affect any power conferred by any law relating to municipalities.

Interpretation-clause.

2. In this Act—

“Hackney-carriage” means any wheeled vehicle drawn by animals and used for the conveyance of human beings, which is kept, or offered, or plies, for hire, and “Committee” means a Municipal Committee, or a body of Municipal Commissioners constituted under the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force.

3. The Lieutenant-Governors of the North-Western Provinces and the municipalities, Panjáb, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces, British Burma, Assam, Ajmer and Coorg may, by notification in the official Gazette, apply this Act to any municipality in the territories administered by them respectively.

When this Act has been so applied to any municipality, the Committee of such municipality may from time to time make rules for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages within the limits of such municipality, in the manner in which, under the law for the time being in force, it makes rules or bye-laws for the regulation and control of other matters within such limits.

Every rule made under this section shall, when sanctioned and published by the Local Government, have the force of law.

Provided that the Local Government may at any time rescind any such rule.

4. The Local Government of any of the said territories may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make rules for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages in any military cantonment situated in the territory administered by it, and the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages in any place in India, but not in British India, in which British troops are cantoned.

What rules under sections 3 and 4 may provide for.

5. The rules to be made under section three or section four may, among other matters,

(a) direct that no hackney-carriage, or no hackney-carriage of a particular description, shall be let to hire, or taken to ply, or offered, for hire, except under a license granted in that behalf;

(b) direct that no person shall act as driver of a hackney-carriage except under a license granted in that behalf;

(c) provide for the issue of the licenses referred to in clauses (a) and (b), prescribe the conditions (if any) on which such licenses shall be granted, and fix the fees (if any) to be paid therefor;

(d) regulate the description of animals, harness, and other things to be used with licensed carriages, and the condition in which such carriages, and the animals, harness, and other things used therewith, shall be kept;

(e) provide for the inspection of the premises on which any such carriages, animals, harness, and other things are kept;

(f) fix the time for which such licenses shall continue in force and the events (if any) upon which within such time they shall be subject to revocation or suspension;

(g) determine the times at which, and the circumstances under which, any person keeping a hackney-carriage shall be bound to let such carriage to any person requiring the same, and any driver of a hackney-carriage, being with such carriage in a public place, shall be bound to go with any person desirous of hiring such carriage;

(h) appoint places as stands for hackney-carriages and prohibit such carriages waiting for hire except at such places;

(i) limit the rates or fares, as well for time as distance, which may be demanded for the hire of any hackney-carriage; and

(j) limit the number of persons, and the weight of property, which may be conveyed by any such carriage.

6. Any person breaking any rule made under this Act shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

7. The amount of any fees received, and the amount of any expenses incurred, by any Committee in giving effect to this Act shall respectively be credited and debited to the Municipal Fund, and in any cantonment where there is a Cantonment Fund, to such Fund.

8. If any dispute arises between the hirer of any hackney-carriage and the owner or driver of such carriage as to the amount of the fare payable by such hirer under any rule made under this Act, such dispute shall, upon application made in that behalf by either of the disputing parties, be heard and determined by a Magistrate or bench of Magistrates, and the decision of such Magistrate or bench shall be final.

When any such dispute is heard by a bench, any difference of opinion arising between the members of such bench shall be settled in the same manner as differences of opinion arising between such members in the trial of criminal cases.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE want of a law to regulate hackney-carriages in towns and cantonments in the interior of India has long been felt, and has lately been pressed upon the notice of the Government of India by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb and His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

2. The present Bill has been prepared to supply this want in the case of municipalities in those parts of India which have not local Legislatures, and in all cantonments, whether in British India or in Native States.

3. It gives power to the Municipal Committee, in the case of a municipality, and to the Local Government, in the case of a cantonment, to make rules (subject, in the former case, to the sanction of the Local Government, and in the latter, to that of the Governor General in Council) to ensure that carriages offered for hire, and the animals and harness used with them, shall be in proper condition; that fit persons shall be employed as drivers; that the fares charged shall be reasonable, and that the carriages shall not be over-laden.

4. It further provides that breach of these rules shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and that disputes between the hirer and owner of a carriage, as to the amount of a fare, shall be determinable by a Magistrate.

The 20th January, 1879.

D. FITZPATRICK,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

[First publication.]

The following preliminary Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 29th January, 1879 :—

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Pleadings, Mukhtárs and Revenue Agents Act, 1865, was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

2. We have deemed it well, instead of adding a fifth Act to the four Acts already in force relating to pleaders, mukhtárs and revenue-agents, to frame a consolidation measure embracing the entire law.

3. We have, at the instance of the Hon'ble the Chief Justice of Bengal, restored in section 16 of the Bill now submitted, the power of the High Courts to make rules for the admission and control of mukhtárs practising on the appellate side of those Courts, which was conferred by section 44 of Act XX of 1865, but which has been held by the Calcutta High Court to have been ultra vires.

4. We have made the Bill applicable to the Courts of Small Causes in the Presidency towns, where we understand some such law is needed.

5. We have substituted, for the stamp-duties on certificates prescribed by Act XX of 1865, fees fixed according to the scale which was proposed in the Bill to amend the law relating to stamps and court-fees recently before the Council. The alterations here made are of no substantial importance.

6. We have made several amendments in arrangement and drafting, with a view to clearness and simplicity.

7. We recommend that the Bill now submitted be published.

8. The publication ordered by the Council has been made.

No. II.

A bill to Consolidate and amend the law relating to Legal Practitioners.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to legal Practitioners, in the Lower Provinces of Bengal, the

North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb, Oudh and Assam; and to empower each of the Local Governments of the rest of British India to extend to the territories administered by it such portions of this Act as such Government may think fit; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

1. This Act may be called "The Legal Practitioners' Act, 1879:" and shall come into force on the first day of April, 1879.
Short title.
- Commencement Act.
- Local extent. This section and section two extend to the whole of British India.

The rest of this Act extends, in the first instance, only to the territories respectively administered by the Lieutenant-Governors of the Lower Provinces of Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and the Panjáb, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh and Assam. But any other Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend all or any of the provisions of the rest of this Act to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration.

2. On and from the first day of April, 1879, the enactments mentioned in the first schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent specified therein.

All rules and appointments made, penalties prescribed, fees fixed, persons admitted, names enrolled, certificates issued, sanctions given and orders passed under any enactment hereby repealed shall be deemed to be respectively made, prescribed, fixed, admitted, enrolled, issued, given and passed under this Act.

All references made to any enactment hereby repealed, in any Act or Regulation passed, or notification published, subsequently thereto, shall be read as if made to this Act.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—
"Judge" means the presiding judicial officer in every civil and criminal Court by whatever title he is designated:

"Subordinate Court" means all Courts subordinate to the High Court, including Courts of Small Causes established under Act No. IX of 1850 or Act No. XI of 1865:

"Officer subordinate to such Authority," "Subordinate Revenue-officer" and "Revenue-office" include all Courts (other than civil Courts) trying suits under any Act for the time being in force relating to landholders and their tenants or agents.

CHAPTER II.—Of Advocates, Vakils and Attorneys.

4. Every person now or hereafter entered as an Advocate or Vakil on the roll of any High Court under the Letters Patent constituting such Court shall, notwithstanding anything herein contained, be entitled as such to practise in any Court in British India other than a High Court on whose roll he is not entered, or in any such Court with the permission of the Court, and in any Revenue office, subject nevertheless to the rules in force relating to the language in which the Court or office is to be addressed by Pleaders or Revenue-agents:

Provided that no such Vakil shall be entitled to practise under this section before a Judge of the High Court, Division Court, or High Court exercising original jurisdiction.

5. Every person now or hereafter entered as an Attorney on the roll of any High Court shall, notwithstanding anything herein contained, be entitled as such to practise in any Court of British India other than a High Court established by Royal Charter and in any Revenue-office.

CHAPTER III.—Of Pleaders and Mukhtárs.

Power to make rules as to qualification, &c., of pleaders and mukhtárs.

6. The High Court may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) for the qualification, admission and certificates of proper persons to be pleaders of the subordinate Courts, and of the revenue-offices situate within the local limits of its appellate jurisdiction, and, in the case of a High Court not established by Royal Charter, of such Court:

(b) for the qualification, admission and certificates of proper persons to be mukhtárs of the subordinate Courts, and, in the case of a High Court not established by Royal Charter, of such Court:

(c) for the fees to be paid for the examination and admission of such persons; and

(d) for their suspension and dismissal.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette and shall thereupon have the force of law; provided that, in the case of rules made by a High Court not established by Royal Charter, such rules have been previously approved by the Local Government.

7. On the admission, under section six, of any person as a pleader or mukhtár, the High Court shall cause a certificate, signed by such officer as the Court from time to time appoints in this behalf, to be issued to such person, authorizing him to practise for the period of one year from its date in the Courts and, in the case of a pleader, the offices, specified therein.

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Judge of the District Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction he then ordinarily practises, or by such officer as the High Court from time to time appoints in this behalf.

On every such renewal, the certificate then in possession of such pleader or mukhtár shall be cancelled and retained by such Judge or officer.

Every certificate so renewed shall be signed by such Judge or officer.

Every Judge or officer so renewing a certificate shall notify such renewal to the High Court.

8. Every pleader holding a certificate issued under section seven, may apply to be enrolled in any Court or office mentioned therein and situate within the local limits of the appellate jurisdiction of the High Court by which he has been admitted, and on being so enrolled, may appear, plead and act in such Court or office.

9. Every mukhtár holding a certificate issued under section seven, may apply to be enrolled in any civil or criminal Court mentioned therein and situate within the same limits, and, on being so enrolled, may appear and act in any such civil Court, and may (subject to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, section 186) appear, plead and act in any such criminal Court.

10. Except as provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 37, or any other enactment for the time being in force, no person shall appear, plead or act as a pleader or mukhtár in any Court not established by Royal Charter, unless he holds a certificate issued under section seven and has been enrolled in such Court:

Provided that persons holding certificates as revenue-agents under this Act in the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may, on being enrolled in any Munsif's Court, appear, plead and act in such Court in suits under Bengal Act No. VIII of 1869 (to amend the procedure in suits between Landlord and Tenant) or under any other Act for the time being in force, regulating the procedure in suits between landholders and their tenants or agents.

11. The High Court may suspend or dismiss any pleader or mukhtár holding a certificate issued under this Act, who is convicted of any criminal offence.

12. The High Court may also, after such enquiry as it thinks fit, suspend or dismiss any pleader or mukhtár holding a certificate as aforesaid, who is guilty of fraudulent or grossly improper conduct in the discharge of his professional duty, or of giving, receiving or retaining commission on remuneration paid to any legal practitioner, or for any other reasonable cause.

13. If any such pleader or mukhtár practising in any subordinate Court or in any revenue-office, is charged in such Court or office with any such conduct as aforesaid, the presiding officer shall send him a copy of the charge and also a notice that, on a day to be therein appointed, such charge will be taken into consideration.

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the pleader or mukhtár at least ten days before the day so appointed.

On such day or on any subsequent day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the presiding officer shall receive all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the pleader or mukhtár, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If such officer finds the charge established, and considers that the pleader or mukhtár should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding and the grounds thereof, and shall report the same to the High Court, and the High Court shall proceed to acquit, suspend or dismiss the pleader or mukhtár.

Any Judge or Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority acting under this section may, and, with the previous sanction of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, any subordinate revenue-officer so acting may, pending the investigation and the orders of the High Court, suspend the pleader or mukhtár from practising as such in his Court or office.

Every report made to the High Court under this section shall—

(a) when made by any Civil Judge other than the District Judge, be made through the Judge;

(b) when made by a Magistrate subordinate to the Magistrate of the District, be made through the Magistrate of the District and the Sessions Judge;

(c) when made by the Magistrate of the District, be made through the Sessions Judge;

(d) when made by any subordinate revenue-officer, be made through the Revenue-Authorities to which he is subordinate.

Every such report shall be accompanied by the opinion of each Judge, Magistrate or Revenue-Authority through whom or which it is made.

14. The High Court, in any case in which a

Power to call for record in case of acquittal under section 13.

pleader or mukhtár has been acquitted under section thirteen otherwise than by an order of the High Court, may call for the record and pass such order thereon as it thinks fit.

15. Whenever a mukhtár who has been sus-

Report when dismissed mukhtár is also a revenue-agent.

suspended or dismissed by order of the High Court is also a revenue-agent holding a certificate under this Act, the High Court shall forward a report of the case to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority.

Such Authority, after making any enquiry which it thinks necessary, may suspend or dismiss him as such revenue-agent.

16. Notwithstanding anything contained in any

Power to make rules for mukhtárs on appellate side of High Court.

Letters Patent or in the Code of Civil Procedure, section 37, clause (a), any High Court established by Royal Charter may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) for the qualification, admission, suspension and dismissal of proper persons to be mukhtárs practising on the appellate side of such Court;

(b) for the security which they may be required to give for their honesty and good conduct; and

(c) as to their powers and duties; and may prescribe and impose fines for the infringement of such rules not exceeding in any case five hundred rupees; and such fines, when imposed, may be recovered as if they had been imposed in the exercise of the High Court's ordinary original criminal jurisdiction.

CHAPTER IV.—Of Revenue-Agents.

17. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority

Power to make rules as to qualifications, &c., of revenue-agents.

may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) for the qualification, admission and certificates of proper persons to be revenue-agents;

(b) for the fees to be paid for the examination and admission of such persons; and

(c) for their suspension and dismissal.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

18. On the admission of any person as a Revenue-

Certificate to revenue-agents.

agent under section seventeen, the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority shall cause a certificate, signed by such officer as such Authority from time to time appoints in this behalf, to be issued to such person, authorizing him to practise for the period of one year from its date in such offices as may be specified therein.

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Secretary of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, or by any other officer authorized by such Authority in that behalf.

On every such renewal, the certificate then in the possession of such revenue-agent shall be cancelled and retained by such Secretary or other officer.

Every certificate so renewed shall be signed by such Secretary or other officer.

Every officer so renewing a certificate shall notify the renewal to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority.

19. Every revenue-agent holding a certificate

Enrolment of revenue-agent. issued under section eighteen, may apply to be enrolled in any revenue-office mentioned therein and situate within the limits of the territory under the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, and, on being so enrolled, may practise in such office as a revenue-agent.

20. Except as provided by any enactment for the

No person to act as agent in revenue-offices, unless qualified. time being in force, no person, other than a pleader duly qualified under the provisions hereinbefore contained, shall practise as a revenue-agent in any revenue-office, unless he holds a certificate issued under section eighteen, and has been enrolled in such office;

Provided that any person duly authorized in this behalf may, with the sanction of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, or of an officer empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, transact all or any business in which his employer may be concerned in any revenue-office;

The sanction mentioned in this section may be general or special, and may at any time be revoked or suspended by such Authority or officer.

21. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority

Dismissal of revenue-agent convicted of criminal offence. may suspend or dismiss any revenue-agent holding a certificate issued under this Act, who is convicted of any criminal offence.

22. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority

Dismissal of revenue-agent guilty of unprofessional conduct. may also, after making such enquiry as it thinks fit, suspend or dismiss any revenue-agent holding a certificate issued under this Act who is guilty of fraudulent or grossly improper conduct in the discharge of his professional duty, or of giving, receiving or retaining commission on remuneration paid to any legal practitioner, or for any other reasonable cause.

23. Every revenue-agent holding a certificate

Procedure when revenue-agent is so charged in subordinate office. issued under this Act is charged with any such conduct in any office subordinate to the Chief Controlling

Revenue-Authority, or in the Court of any Munsif, the officer at the head of such office, or such Munsif, as the case may be, shall send him a copy of the charge and also a notice that, on a day to be therein appointed, such charge will be taken into consideration.

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the person charged at least ten days before the day so appointed. On such day or on any other day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the officer or Munsif shall receive all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the person charged, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If the officer or Munsif finds the charge established and considers that the person charged should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding, and the grounds thereof, and report the same to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority; and such Authority shall proceed to acquit, suspend or dismiss him.

Where any officer acting under this section is subordinate to the Commissioner of a Division, he shall forward the report through such Commissioner, who shall accompany the same with an expression of his own opinion on the case.

24. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, in any case in which a revenue-agent has been acquitted under section twenty-three, otherwise than by an order of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, may call for the record and pass such order thereon as seems fit.

25. Whenever a revenue-agent who has been dismissed or suspended by order of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority is also a mukhtár holding a certificate under this Act, the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority shall forward a report of the case to the High Court by which he was admitted.

Such Court, after making any enquiry which it thinks necessary, may suspend or dismiss him as such mukhtár.

CHAPTER V.—Of Certificates.

26. For every certificate, whether original or renewed, issued under this Act, a fee of the amount prescribed therefor in the second schedule hereto annexed, shall be paid by the person entitled to such certificate.

27. When any pleader, mukhtár or revenue-agent is suspended or dismissed under this Act, he shall forthwith deliver up his certificate to the Court, or officer at the head of the office, before or in which he was practising at the time he was so suspended or dismissed, or to any Court or officer to which the High Court or Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority (as the case may be) orders him to deliver the same.

CHAPTER VI.—Of the Remuneration of Pleaders, Mukhtárs and Revenue-Agents.

28. The High Court shall from time to time fix and regulate the fees payable by any party in respect of the fees of his adversary's pleader or vakil upon all proceedings (a) on the appellate side of such Court, (b) in the case of a High Court not established by Royal Charter, on its original side, and (c) in the subordinate Courts.

The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority shall from time to time fix and regulate the fees payable upon all proceedings in the revenue-offices by any party in respect of the fees of his adversary's pleader or revenue-agent.

Tables of the fees so fixed shall be published in the local official Gazette.

Nothing in this section applies to the agents mentioned in the proviso to section twenty.

29. All persons employing pleaders, mukhtárs or revenue-agents shall be at liberty to settle with them by private agreement the remuneration to be paid for their professional services; and it shall not be necessary to specify such agreement in the power under which such pleaders, mukhtárs or revenue-agents for the time being act.

Such agreements shall not be enforced otherwise than by suit.

CHAPTER VII.—Penalties.

30. Any person who appears, pleads, acts or practises in any Court or office in contravention of the provisions of section ten or section twenty, shall be liable, by order of such Court, or the officer at the head of such office, to a fine not exceeding ten times the amount of the fee required by this Act to be paid for a certificate authorizing him to appear, plead, act or practise in such Court or office, and, in default of payment, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

He shall also be incapable of maintaining any suit for, or enforcing any lien in respect of, any fee or reward for, or in respect of, anything done, or any disbursement made, by him as pleader or mukhtár or revenue-agent whilst he has been contravening the provisions of either of such sections.

31. Any pleader, mukhtár or revenue-agent failing to deliver up his certificate as required by section twenty-seven, shall be liable, by order of the Court, Authority or officer to which or to whom, or according to whose orders, the delivery should be made, to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees and, in default of payment, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to three months.

32. Any pleader, mukhtár or revenue-agent who, under the provisions of this Act, has been suspended or dismissed, and who, during such suspension or after such dismissal, practises as a pleader or mukhtár or revenue-agent in any Court or office, shall be liable, by order of such Court, or the officer at the head of such office, to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees and, in default of payment, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

33. Every order under section thirty, thirty-one or thirty-two shall be subject to revision, by the High Court, where the order has been passed by a subordinate Court, and by the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, where the order has been passed by an officer subordinate to such Authority.

CHAPTER VIII.—Miscellaneous.

34. To facilitate the ascertainment of the quali-fications respectively mentioned in sections six and seventeen, the Local Government shall from time to time appoint persons to be examiners for the purposes aforesaid, and make regulations for conducting such examinations.

35. Except as provided by sections four, five, sixteen and twenty-eight, nothing in this Act applies to advocates, vakils and attorneys admitted and enrolled by any High Court under the Letters Patent by which such Court is constituted, or to mukhtárs practising in such Court.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE, AND COMMERCE.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 4th FEBRUARY 1879.

GENERAL REMARKS.—General prospects, both in Madras and the Bombay Presidency, have not undergone any material change; in parts of the latter damage by rats continues. In Mysore prices are still falling. Clear weather has prevailed in the Central Provinces, and in the districts of Damoh, Saugor, Hoshangabad and Chhindwāra the crops are not doing well; in the eastern districts, however, matters are still favourable, and in the remainder the outlook is not discouraging. The report from Berar is satisfactory, but in Central India and Rajputana no change for the better has taken place. No rain has fallen in Bengal during the week, and the want of it is much felt in several districts; the prospects of the rabi, which has begun to be harvested in places, are however generally good, except as before in the Patna division and in Palamow; prices continue high. Some crops in Assam now need rain. In British Burma the crops generally are in good condition; slight cholera in a few districts and cattle disease in Bassein and Herwad are still reported. No rain has fallen in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and in the Punjab; in the former it is much required, and if it does not come speedily the crops must suffer; in the latter clouds are again gathering and an early fall of rain is anxiously looked for.

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
| Madras— | | |
| Kistna (Feb. 1st) | Nil | Rice 9·68, cholum 15·5, raggi 16·93, cumboo 15·18; ague general; cholera and small-pox in some taluks; 1½ feet water over ancient; later dry crops generally good; pulse slightly affected by insects in places. |
| Kurnool (" ") | ... | Rice 10·22, cholum 16·49, raggi 20·13, cumboo 17·84; fever prevalent; season favourable; cotton, white cholum , Bengal gram, wheat, and gram in good condition; fodder and water ample. |

| Kaladgi ... | ... | Rabi crops middling, injured by rats; cotton suffering from blight, fever continues in southern talukas. |
| Belgaum ... | ... | Rabi reaping commenced; damage by rats continues. |
| Dharwar ... | ... | No material change in state of crops and public health. |
| Kanara ... | ... | Second crop plants healthy; fever prevalent; dysentery in Honawar and Coompta; cattle disease in Coompta. |
| Kattywar and Guekwar's Territory— | | |
| Rajkot ... | ... | Weather cold; fever decreasing. |
| Wadhwan ... | ... | } No change. |
| Baroda ... | ... | |
| | | General Remarks. —No change of importance; rats have done some harm in several Deccan and Southern Mahratta Country districts. |
| Bengal—(Feb. 4th). | | |
| Chittagong ... | Nil | Weather fair; no material change in the state and prospects of the crops since last week. |
| Noakholly ... | Nil | The weather has been colder for the last five days, colder than it has been at any time this winter; mornings are foggy; the state and prospects of the rabi crops are fair; paddy has been almost all harvested. |
| Chittagong Hill Tracts... | Nil | Weather seasonable; very cold throughout the week; both the tobacco and mustard crops are doing well; the latter is being gathered in small quantities. |
| Hill Tipperah ... | Nil | Weather seasonably cold in the first part of the week; latterly the temperature has become a little too high for the time; no important crop is now on the field; the prospects of chillies are good; sugarcane is being cut. |
| Backergunge ... | Nil | Weather very cold; the prospects of the crops are good; prices are rising in Perozapore on account of the large exportation of rice; fever is prevalent in the Sudder sub-division. |
| Furzedpore ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the state and prospects of the crops are generally good; rain would do good. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
| Dacca ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; heavy fogs during the week; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable, but prices do not fall. |
| Mymensingh ... | Nil | Weather cold and seasonable; the state and prospects of the crops are good. |
| Tipperah ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; a little rain would be of advantage to the cold weather crops; sporadic cholera is reported from most of the thanas. |
| 24-Pergunnahs ... | Nil | Weather warmer than last week; the state and prospects of the crops are good; but prices of grains continue very high; fever and cholera are prevalent at Barripore. |
| Jessore ... | Nil | Weather seasonable, but getting warmer during the day; no material alteration from last week in the state and prospects of the crops; rain is wanted in some parts of the district. |
| Nuddea ... | Nil | Weather rather warm; the winter crops still on the ground are doing fairly well; prices are still high; cholera is still prevalent. |
| Moorshedabad ... | Nil | Weather rather warm for the time of the year; the state and prospects of the crops are on the whole satisfactory; it is said that the wheat crop wants a shower or two. |
| Pubna ... | Nil | Weather warmer, with southerly and westerly wind; the prospects of the crops remain unchanged, but in Serajgunj rain is required; prices are stationary; public health is good. |
| Rajshahye .. | Nil | The mustard is still being cut; the rabi crops in some places appear to suffer from want of rain, but in other places they continue to thrive; public health is good. |
| Bogra ... | Nil | Weather slightly warmer in the day time; mustard is now nearly all cut; other cold-weather crops are doing well, but would be none the worse for a few showers. |
| Dinagapore ... | Nil | Weather getting warmer; mustard is being cut; other cold-weather crops are in good condition; the price of rice is unchanged, being 12 to 18 seers the rupee. |
| Rungpore .. | Nil | Weather has become very cold; the state and prospects of the crops continue to be satisfactory; public health is improving; cholera is gradually disappearing. |
| Cooch Behar ... | Nil | Weather very cold; the haimanta dhan has been harvested; the prospects of the winter crops are good, but rain is wanted; public health is good. |
| Jalpaiguri ... | Nil | Weather continues unchanged since last report; mustard and tobacco are doing well; katai and mussoor require rain. |
| Darjeeling ... | Nil | Weather chilly and cold; sky cloudy; no crops of importance on the ground; land is being cultivated for other crops. |
| Midnapore .. | Nil | Weather seasonable; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable. |
| Howrah ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; foggy in the mornings almost throughout the district; the winter rice crop has been gathered; the rabi crops are doing well. |
| Hooghly ... | Nil | Weather cool and clear throughout the week; the aman crop has been reaped and stored; the prospects of the rabi crops are good; fever and cholera have much abated. |
| Burdwan ... | Nil | Weather cool and dry; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable. |
| Bankoora ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; no change in the prospects of the crops; fever is disappearing. |
| Beerbhoom ... | Nil | Weather continues cold; no change to report in the state and prospects of the crops. |
| Sonthal Pergunnahs .. | Nil | Weather warmer in Doonka; cool and seasonable elsewhere; the dhan has been reaped with good outturn; the crops on the ground are getting on fairly, but rain is wanted in some places. |
| Bhāgalpur ... | Nil | Weather fine; less cold than last week; mustard is being harvested; other cold weather crops are thriving well; unprecedentedly large exportation of rice makes prices very high for this season; general health is good. |
| Monghyr ... | Nil | Weather cold, with strong west wind; rain is wanted to fill out the ears of corn. |
| Farneah ... | Nil | Weather fine; the state and prospects of the crops are good; rain is wanted in places. |
| Maldah ... | Nil | Weather fair and cold, with west wind blowing strong at midday during the last two days; the crops in the field are doing well; the fever, which has been very prevalent in the centre and south of the district, has now abated; sporadic cases of cholera still occur. |
| Durbhunga ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; rain is much wanted for the rabi crops; prices have fallen at head quarters to some extent during the week. |
| Mozufferpore ... | Nil | Weather very cold, with strong west wind; the continued dry weather is doing much harm to the rabi crops, the outturn of which is likely to be very small unless rain fall soon. |
| Sarun ... | Nil | Weather much cooler than last week; west wind is prevailing; the cold weather crops on unirrigated lands are stunted and thin, and a very small outturn is expected; rahar has been injured by frost; prices have risen; public health is good. |
| Chumparun ... | Nil | Weather cold; strong west winds; the rabi crops are poor for want of rain. |

|---|------------------------------|--|
| Patna | Nil | Weather cold and seasonable; no change since last report, but west wind (favourable to the rabi crops) is prevailing. |
| | Nil | Sky clear; wind westerly; thermometer in the shade 84.5°; a heavy fall of rain is greatly needed to improve the prospects of the rabi crops; the public health is generally good, but a good many cases of small-pox are reported; the health of the plough-cattle is good. |
| Shahabad | Nil | Weather seasonable; the rabi crops are still doing well; rain is urgently wanted in most parts of the district; public health is normal; a few cases of small-pox have been reported from the interior. |
| Hazáribágh | Nil | Weather fine and growing warmer; the rabi crops are looking well throughout the district. |
| Lohardugga | Nil | Weather seasonable; the rabi crops promise well, except in the Palamow sub-division, where the prospects are not so favourable; fever is prevalent in the Palamow sub-division. |
| Manbhoom | Nil | Weather warm again; high winds, which are also hot; the prospects of the crops continue good; so also does the general health. |
| Singhbhoom | Nil | Weather seasonable; the cold weather crops are being harvested with an average outturn; the price of rice is still high, and no change has taken place during the week. |
| Balasore | Nil | Weather appreciably warmer; dry and breezy; the rice harvest is all in; the cold-weather crops are being gathered in some parts of the district. |
| Cuttack | Nil | Weather less cold than last week, but fine; the reaping of the sarad and cold-weather crops, and the sowing of dahua or spring rice are going on; a few cases of cholera here and there. |
| Pooree | Nil | Weather seasonable; the sarad rice is being harvested; dahua rice is progressing fairly; common rice sells at 15 to 21 seers for the rupee; public health is good. |
| General Remarks. —There has been no rain in Bengal during the week; it is greatly needed in the Patna division and is also wanted in many districts in Central Bengal and in the Bhágalpur division, as well as in Furréepore and Tipperah; the prospects of the rabi crops are generally favourable, except in the Patna division and in Palamow, as before reported; the rice harvest is now generally over, and the rabi harvest is beginning in places; high prices are generally complained of in spite of the good rice crop, in Bhágalpur and in Perozepore; in Backergunge prices are still rising owing to the large exportation of rice. | | |
| N. W. P. and Oudh—(Feb. 5th). | | |

OBSERVATIONS.

In his despatch dated the 7th February 1878, the Secretary of State noticed an experiment at the Nagpur Model Farm in 1876-77, where, in consequence of irrigation and manuring, Jelalia wheat produced 1,600 lbs., and white-eared wheat 2,200 lbs. an acre, the average yield per acre in the country being only about 400 lbs. The value of the produce at Nagpur was estimated at Rs. 60, while the cost of cultivation, including all expenses, was given at Rs. 10 per acre. His Lordship desired to be informed “what steps are taken in the above and other provinces to impart to the agricultural community generally the lessons to be learnt from the operations of the model and experimental farms;” and observed, “as in many cases these farms appear to involve financial loss, it is the more important that their results, when satisfactory, should be utilized to the utmost for the general good of the country.”

2. A copy of this despatch was circulated on the 21st March 1878 to the Governments of Madras, Bombay, and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and to the Chief Commissioners of the Central Provinces, British Burma, and Mysore, with a request for a report in connection with the farms maintained under their orders.

3. In Mysore, the Chief Commissioner states that no general steps have hitherto been taken in the direction indicated, the condition of the province during the past two or three years having forbidden any such measures. Mr. Harman, the Superintendent of the Bangalore Farm, has recently been authorized to make tours in the province twice in the year, once in the summer when the rabi crops are being sown, and again during the winter months when the crops are being reaped, in view to his acquiring practical experience in the native systems of agriculture and imparting to the ryots by personal communication and by experiments the benefits of deep ploughing, as also the advantages to be gained by the use of improved seed. The Chief Commissioner has also under consideration a scheme for placing one or two plots of land in each district under the charge of a village patel or other suitable person, who would cultivate the land in accordance with instructions from Mr. Harman. "By this means," the Chief Commissioner observes, "it is hoped that the ryots will have an opportunity, which the location of the Government Farm at Bangalore does not afford them, of judging of the results to be obtained by a better system of farming." Since these remarks were written, however, it has been decided to abolish the Bangalore Farm and to transfer the services of Mr. Harman to the Bombay Presidency.

4. In Burma, the only Government Farm is one established at Myouk-toung in the Arakan Hill Tracts for the purpose of growing and curing tobacco. As regards the cultivation of tobacco on the low lands lying along the banks of rivers, the natives have but little to learn: the farm was started with a view of testing the capabilities of soil in up-land tracts, and more especially for the purpose of teaching the people an improved method of curing the leaf; but there has not been time to judge of the results as yet.

5. Mr. Buck, Director of Agriculture and Commerce, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, in reporting on the subject, refers to that portion of the minute recorded by Sir John Strachey in November 1874, proposing the formation of a Department of Agriculture in the North-Western Provinces, in which it was suggested that a good means of reaching the agricultural community would be by experiments in the estates under the Court of Wards. This suggestion, it is said, has been carried into effect, though not to so great an extent as was desired, in consequence of the drought of 1877. To some estates, however, improved English ploughs, improved sugar-mills, and selected seeds, were sent; and in some districts, where the local officers took an interest in agricultural matters, seed and implements were distributed to estates other than those administered by the Court of Wards. As a further means of introducing improvements to the notice of the agriculturists, Mr. Buck lays great stress on the advantages of agricultural fairs; and he proposes to give greater encouragement to such fairs in future years. No attempts seem to be made by the Local Government to bring directly to the notice of the natives the results of the experiments conducted on the State Farms.

6. There are two Government Farms in the Bombay Presidency, one at Bhadgaon in Khandesh and the other at Salaru in Sind. At Salaru, nothing has as yet been done in the desired direction; but the Superintendent proposed making a tour in the cold weather months, during which he would acquire and diffuse useful information. He is to report the results of his first tour, in order that the Government of Bombay may be in a position to judge of the desirability of repeating the experiment.

At Bhadgaon, too, little appears to have been attempted. The Superintendent reports that instruction is imparted through farm apprentices, farm servants, and visitors. The system of apprentices, if carefully worked, would no doubt prove useful; but nothing can be expected from farm servants as a means of imparting agricultural information to the native community. Mr. Stormont, the Superintendent, recently visited Madras and Bangalore, under authority from the Government of Bombay, with a view to ascertain the system followed on the farms at those places; and he was instructed to report the result of his enquiries on his return to Khandesh.

The Local Government has also, after consultation with Mr. Robertson of the Sydapet Farm, decided on commencing a system of agricultural education in the Deccan, and probably, in due course, the Bhadgaon Farm will be made subsidiary to the scheme of instruction.

7. In the Central Provinces, Major Macdougall, the Superintendent of the Nagpur Farm, proposes to publish the results of "any decidedly successful experiment" in the Rural Gazette, a paper printed in Hindi, Mahrathi, and Urdu by the Educational Department, of which a copy is sent to every Government School in the Central Provinces. The Chief Commissioner approves of this proposal; but such a means of making known the operations of the farm seems scarcely to be what is required, the record of these experiments being useful to the agricultural community only when they can be followed and explained on the farm on which they have been tried.

8. In the Madras Presidency, good and useful work is being done under the supervision and guidance of Mr. Robertson, the Superintendent of Government Farms. Attached to the Sydapet Farm, on which experiments of various kinds are tried, is an Agricultural College, in which a complete course of agricultural instruction is afforded, and which is intended eventually to accommodate upwards of one hundred students. In view to a further diffusion of information, Mr. Robertson has proposed the establishment of small agricultural experimental stations all over the Presidency, each being placed in charge of a trained agriculturist, who is also to conduct an elementary agricultural class. This scheme is, however, at present in abeyance for want of funds.

Recently, a very interesting ploughing competition was held at the Sydapet Farm, in which European, American and native ploughs were used, the competitors as well as the visitors from different parts of the country being very numerous. Such open competitions as these afford an efficient means of interesting neighbouring cultivators in the methods and processes of the improved system of agriculture practised on the farm. The public reports shew that the exhibition was watched with very great interest and was completely successful.

9. From the facts summarised above, it may be said generally that only in the North-Western Provinces and Madras is any real effort being made to teach agricultural reform to the people. In the North-Western Provinces, a Department of Agriculture and Commerce has been created, with a Director at its head, whose special duty it is to organise the collection of agricultural and commercial statistics; to direct experiments for agricultural improvement in model farms and elsewhere; to watch and report on the progress of trade, and to suggest in what directions it may be developed, or hindrances to its prosperity removed; and to investigate facts connected with the condition of the agricultural classes. The scope and objects of the Department are clearly explained in a minute recorded by Sir John Strachey in November 1874, to which the attention of the Local Governments and Administrations was drawn in the letter from this Department dated the 11th August 1875, Nos. 11—426-433, regarding the collection of agricultural statistics.

In Madras there is a Department, which, though not as yet formally recognised as a Department of Agriculture, is practically one, with an efficient and well qualified Director at its head; but its expansion has hitherto been greatly impeded by various causes, not the least among which has been the want of funds.

10. In other provinces very little is being done, nor as matters stand can much be expected. Experimental farms indeed, when they stand alone, are of comparatively small utility. To be really useful they should be part of a system of agricultural instruction; they should be attached to a school where sound agricultural instruction is conveyed in class, and they should be the field for carrying into practice in the presence of students the theories of which the reasons have been explained to them in the class. If the students are taken from the classes dependent on the land for their living, satisfactory progress in the diffusion of agricultural instruction under such a system will soon be apparent. It is with much satisfaction that the Government of India has watched the recognition of these principles in Madras and the efforts that are being made there gradually to mature a complete system for their application in practice. The scheme for action in the same direction which has just been proposed by His Excellency the Governor of Bombay is also gratifying as indicating the interest taken in the matter by the Government of that Presidency. In other provinces much cannot be expected under the present system, though, defective as it is, the farms, if they are carefully and intelligently managed, intelligently supervised, and placed on a substantial and permanent basis, must gradually do good, and the Government of India desire again to commend the subject very earnestly to the attention of Local Governments and Administrations. Bengal especially is a province which is singularly deficient in opportunities for agricultural instruction, while it is perhaps of all Indian provinces the one where a reform of practice is most needed. It is also the province of whose agricultural resources and capacities the governing body knows least. It is a matter of more than ordinary importance that the cultivating and wealthy land-owning community in this great province should be taught to realise the advantages of a better agricultural practice, and the steps should be taken to remove the reproach which now exists that the very elements of agricultural information, such as the average yield of particular crops in particular soils, are wholly absent. Efforts in this direction were made some years ago by Sir George Campbell; but these efforts, though well intentioned, were frustrated by radical errors in the selection of sites for farms, as well as in the selection of Superintendents. The results were so unsatisfactory that the farms were broken up one after the other, the last being abolished in 1877, on the ground that all the attempts which had been made to teach agriculture to the people of the country had ended in failure. This conclusion was not accepted by the Government of India, and it is desirable in connection with the present question that the views then expressed to the Government of Bengal should be brought prominently before other Local Governments and Administrations. In the letter from the Government of India to the Government of Bengal dated the 14th May 1877, No. 99, it was said:—

"His Excellency in Council is by no means prepared to admit that, because it is not necessary at present to teach to the natives on a scientific basis all the technicalities of the highest farming, there is therefore no opening for instruction of a highly useful, if of a more modest kind, adapted to the present elements and agricultural standard of the country. His Excellency in Council is unable to agree with His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in the opinion that the attempts of the Government to teach agriculture to the people have failed everywhere. Where these attempts have failed, as at Pousah, failure has been the result of inefficient management; but where ordinary care and attention have been intelligently given to the subject, it is unquestionable that, as at Sydapet in the Madras Presidency for instance, good results have ensued.

"5. It is not necessary to employ specially qualified agricultural chemists for the purposes contemplated by Government in the establishment of model or experimental farms. The objects of the Government have been frequently stated, but they have been well and briefly summarised by Sir John Strachey in the following extract from his Minute of the 28th November 1871, proposing the creation of a Department of Agriculture and Commerce in the North-Western Provinces:—

"The object of these model farms should be three-fold: first, to obtain complete information, based on actual facts, as to the average productiveness of different crops on the different classes of soil on which they are ordinarily cultivated, and the cost of cultivation; secondly, to establish and prove to the native agriculturists the advantages to be gained from small improvements, such as they are able themselves to carry out under existing conditions, such as deeper ploughing, economical use of canal water, selection of seed, &c.; thirdly, to make experiments as to staples and industries which it may be possible to introduce if new, or to familiarise and improve if already existing in the country. The extension of sericulture, the improvement of indigenous fibres, and the manufacture of a finer class of tobacco, may be mentioned among the objects of such experiments."

"It is to these objects that attention should be particularly directed. It is evident that lessons in such matters, especially under the second head, and instructions in such details (important though they are) as the proper storage and application of the manures ordinarily employed in the country, shewing experimentally how they may be made to retain all their fertilising elements, of which much is now wasted, the proper treatment and breeding of live stock, the improvement of the implements employed, and other similar matters, may as successfully be imparted by an energetic man of fair intelligence, possessing an adequate practical knowledge of modern farming (and consequently having such knowledge of agricultural chemistry as is essential to the successful pursuit of modern farming), as by a professional chemist of high scientific attainments.

"The Governor General in Council is convinced that lessons of this kind are urgently needed, and that if measures for the elementary instruction in such matters of the agricultural community are persevered in by the Local Government: (without whose cordial co-operation nothing can be done), they cannot fail after a reasonable time to have very considerable effect upon the cultivators in the neighbourhood of the Government farm and through them upon others further away."

11. The excellent results which have followed the creation of a Department of Agriculture, and Commerce, in the North-Western Provinces, in the impulse which has been given by it to agricultural enquiry and improvements, indicate perhaps the best form in which Government action can be directed to the promotion of the objects in view. With the establishment of such a Department in each province (and it is maintained in the North-Western Provinces entirely from provincial funds) the extension of the system, whether by agricultural instruction in schools, or by practical teaching in experimental farms, or where means are available by a combination of both, could be regulated under efficient control and advice according to the particular requirements or circumstances of each province. From this point of view the Governor General in Council will be glad to learn that the matter has again received from the Government of Bengal and other Local Governments and Administrations the consideration which its importance merits, and he would wish to be informed at an early date of the results of that consideration.

STAR OF INDIA.

No. 7 S. I.

NOTIFICATION.

Fort William, the 14th February 1879.

In obedience to the Command of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland Queen, Defender of the Faith, Empress of India, Sovereign of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India, a Grand Chapter of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India was held in Calcutta on Saturday, the 1st February 1879, at Government House, for the purpose of investing the Hon'ble SIR JOHN STRACHEY, K.C.S.I., C.I.E., with the Insignia of the First Class; and the Hon'ble ASHLEY EDEN, C.S.I., C.I.E., and STEUART COLVIN BAYLEY, Esq., C.S.I., with the Insignia of the Second Class, of the said Order.

The following Members of the Order, who were summoned, attended the Chapter :—

His Highness Maharaja Sindia of Gwalior, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., C.I.E.
 Maharaja Sir Jai Mangal Sing Bahadur, of Gidhaur, K.C.S.I.
 The Hon'ble Sir Alexander John Arbuthnot, K.C.S.I., C.I.E.
 The Hon'ble Lieutenant-General Sir Michael Kavanagh Kennedy, K.C.S.I.
 Nawab Syad Ashgar Ali Khan Bahadur, C.S.I.
 The Hon'ble Lieutenant-General Richard Strachey, C.S.I., F.R.S.
 The Hon'ble Syad Ahniad Khan Bahadur, C.S.I.
 George Nelson Barlow, Esq., C.S.I.
 Major-General Peter Stark Lumsden, C.B., C.S.I.
 John Ware Edgar, Esq., C.S.I.
 Robert Barclay Chapman, Esq., C.S.I.
 Charles Edward Bernard, Esq., C.S.I.
 Raja Digambar Mitra, C.S.I.
 The Hon'ble W. Stokes, C.S.I., C.I.E.
 The Hon'ble Augustus Rivers Thompson, C.S.I.
 The Hon'ble Thomas Henry Thornton, C.S.I., D.C.L.
 The Hon'ble Theodore Cracraft Hope, C.S.I.

The seats of Members of the Order were placed on either side of the Dais, right and left, in alternate order according to seniority.

His Highness the Maharaja of Gwalior, who was the only Knight Grand Commander present on the occasion, was, when robed, conducted by the Under-Secretary in the Foreign Department to the Council Chamber, where the Knights Commanders and the Companions of the Order were also assembled. A procession was formed of the Members of the Order according to ancient custom, the Junior preceding the Senior Members of the Order. As the procession entered the Marble Hall, a Viceregal Salute was fired. All present rose and remained standing till the GRAND MASTER had taken his seat.

The following was the procession :—

Spears.

Maces.

The Marshal of the Procession.

The Under-Secretary in the Foreign Department.

The Secretary of the Order.

Companions of the Star of India.

Knights Commanders of the Star of India.

Knights Grand Commanders of the Star of India.

Each Knight Grand Commander was preceded by the Officer bearing his Banner, and was followed by his Pages and Attendants.

Aide-de-Camp to the Viceroy.

Aide-de-Camp to the Viceroy.

Military Secretary to the Viceroy.

Private Secretary to the Viceroy.

Officer bearing the Banner of the GRAND MASTER.

His Excellency the Grand Master, G.C.S.I., G.C.B.

Pages and Attendants of His Excellency the GRAND MASTER.

On entering the Throne Room, each Member of the Order filed off, right and left, to the seat allotted to him, and made his reverence to the GRAND MASTER as His Excellency passed.

The Band played the National Anthem. At its conclusion, His Excellency the GRAND MASTER ordered the Secretary to call the roll of those summoned to attend the Chapter. Each Member of the Order, who was present, bowed to the GRAND MASTER as his name was called, and then took his seat.

When the roll-call was over, the Secretary, by command of the GRAND MASTER, declared the Chapter open.

The Secretary then reported that the business before the Chapter was the investiture of the Hon'ble SIR JOHN STRACHEY, K.C.S.I., C.I.E., as a Knight Grand Commander; and of the Hon'ble ASHLEY EDEN, C.S.I., C.I.E., and STEUART COLVIN BAYLEY, Esq., C.S.I., as Knights Commanders, under the Sovereign's Grants.

The Secretary then delivered to His Excellency the GRAND MASTER the Sovereign's Grant of the dignity of Knight Grand Commander.

The Secretary of the Order and the Under-Secretary in the Foreign Department and the two Junior Knights Commanders then withdrew from the Chapter in order to conduct the Hon'ble SIR JOHN STRACHEY into the presence of the GRAND MASTER.

A procession was then formed of—Spears.

Maces.

Under-Secretary, Foreign Department, bearing the Insignia of the Order.

Secretary of the Order.

The two Junior Knights Commanders present.

Officer bearing the furled banner of the Hon'ble SIR JOHN STRACHEY.

The Hon'ble SIR JOHN STRACHEY, K.C.S.I., C.I.E.

Pages and Personal Staff of the Hon'ble SIR JOHN STRACHEY.

The Guard of Honor presented arms as SIR JOHN STRACHEY passed. All Members of the Second and Third Classes of the Order rose and remained standing until the proclamation, hereinafter mentioned, was made.

SIR JOHN STRACHEY, with the two Knights Commanders, advanced to within a few paces from the Dais, and the Under-Secretary in the Foreign Department placed the Insignia on the table.

The Secretary having received from the GRAND MASTER and read the Sovereign's Grant in favor of the Hon'ble SIR JOHN STRACHEY, conducted him to the table, and the Junior Knight Commander, receiving the Ribbon and Badge from the Secretary, decorated SIR JOHN STRACHEY therewith, and the next Junior Knight, receiving the Star of the Order from the Secretary, attached it in its proper place.

The two Knights Commanders next robed SIR JOHN STRACHEY with the Mantle of the Order.

This done, SIR JOHN STRACHEY was conducted by the Secretary to the front of the Dais, and made his reverence to the GRAND MASTER.

Meanwhile, the two Junior Knights withdrew to their places and remained standing.

The Under-Secretary in the Foreign Department took from the table the Collar of the Knight Grand Commander, and, with due reverence, delivered it to the GRAND MASTER.

The GRAND MASTER, remaining seated, then invested SIR JOHN STRACHEY with the Collar, and addressed the following admonition :— •

“In the name of the Queen and Empress of India and by Her Majesty's Command, I hereby invest you with the Honorable Insignia of the Star of India, of which Most Exalted Order Her Majesty has been graciously pleased to appoint you to be a Knight Grand Commander.”

A salute of 15 guns was then fired.

When the admonition had been given, the newly-invested Knight made his reverence to the GRAND MASTER, and was then conducted by the Secretary to his seat, in front of which he remained standing. The officer bearing SIR JOHN STRACHEY's Banner then unfurled it, the Guard of Honor presented arms, and the Secretary of the Order proclaimed the full titles of SIR JOHN STRACHEY, that is to say :—

The Hon'ble SIR JOHN STRACHEY, Knight Grand Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India, Companion of the Order of the Indian Empire.

The proclamation being ended, all resumed their seats.

The investiture of the Knight Grand Commander having been finished, the Under-Secretary in the Foreign Department and the two Junior Knights Commanders conducted the Hon'ble ASILEY EDEN, C.S.I., C.I.E., from his seat to the Dais, where he made his reverence to the GRAND MASTER. Members of the Third Class of the Order present rose from their seats.

The GRAND MASTER then conferred upon the Hon'ble ASILEY EDEN the Title, Degree and Honor of a Knight Bachelor of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and he was then conducted by the Secretary to the table.

The two Junior Knights Commanders, by desire of the GRAND MASTER, on receiving the Star of the Order from the Secretary, attached it in the proper place. This done, the Hon'ble ASILEY EDEN was conducted by the Secretary to the front of the Dais, and made his reverence to the GRAND MASTER.

Meanwhile the two Junior Knights Commanders withdrew to their places and resumed their seats.

The Under-Secretary then, with due reverence, delivered the Ribbon and Badge of the Order to the GRAND MASTER.

The GRAND MASTER next invested the Hon'ble ASILEY EDEN with the Ribbon and Badge, addressing him as follows :—

“In the name of the Queen and Empress of India and by Her Majesty's Command, I hereby invest you with the Honorable Insignia of the Star of India, of which Most Exalted Order Her Majesty has been graciously pleased to appoint you to be a Knight Commander.”

The newly-invested Knight then made his reverence to the GRAND MASTER, and was led by the Secretary to the seat appointed for him. Those standing resumed their seats.

Similar ceremonies were observed on the investiture of STEUART COLVIN BAYLEY, Esq., C.S.I., as Knight Commander.

The Secretary then represented that there was no further business before the Chapter, and the GRAND MASTER, rising, commanded him to declare the Chapter dissolved.

A procession of Knights Grand Commanders of the Star of India, Knights Commanders of the Star of India, and Companions of the Star of India, thereupon, formed and left the Marble Hall and returned to the Council Room in the reverse order to that in which it entered, under a Viceregal Salute, a Grand March being performed and the Guard of Honor presenting arms.

The Secretary of the Order and the Under-Secretary in the Foreign Department conducted the Knights Grand Commanders to their carriages.

Full dress was worn by all Officers who attended the Chapter.

By Command of His Excellency the GRAND MASTER,

A. C. LYALL,

Secretary,

Most Exalted Order of the Star of India.

MEDALS.

No. 143.—His Excellency the Governor-General in Council has much satisfaction in publishing, for general information, the following Military letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India:—

MILITARY.

INDIA OFFICE,

No. 9. London, 16th January 1879.

To His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor-General of India in Council.

MY LORD,—Para. 1. I have had under my consideration in Council your Military Letters Nos. 254 and 255, dated 12th August 1878, the former transmitting correspondence, and the General Order dated 9th August 1878, issued by your Government in regard to the operations against the Jowaki Afridis in the months of November and December 1877; and the latter recommending the grant of a medal with clasps for "Bori" and "Jamu" to the troops composing respectively the divisions of Brigadier-Generals Ross and Keyes.

2. I have now the satisfaction of expressing to your Lordship the cordial concurrence of Her Majesty's Government in your high appreciation of the services of Brigadier-Generals Ross and Keyes, and in your commendation of the behaviour and endurance of the Officers and men of the forces under their command whilst engaged in operations which, though happily unattended by any great sacrifice of life, were both protracted and trying.

3. I have likewise the pleasure of acquainting you that the Queen has been graciously pleased to comply with the recommendation contained in your Letter No. 255, and has sanctioned the grant of the "India" medal to the troops employed. A clasp, inscribed "Jowaki," will be issued with the medal.

4. Those Officers and men who are already in possession of the medal will receive the clasps only.

5. With reference to your suggestion that there should be two clasps in the present instance, I am of opinion that it is not desirable any distinction should be made between the two forces which composed the expedition, the services of both having been of a very similar and equal character.

6. I request you will cause the necessary medal rolls to be forwarded as soon as practicable.

I have, &c.,

(Sd.) CRANBROOK.

2. With reference to the above, His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief in India is requested to adopt early measures for the submission of rolls of the officers and soldiers of corps who are entitled to the decorations now authorized by Her Majesty.

PENSIONS.

No. 144.—With reference to G. G. O. No. 1092 of 1876, Sergeant John Winter, late 2nd Battalion, 22nd Foot (18th Brigade Depot), an t-pensioner of the Royal Hospital at Chelsea, has been granted an increased pension of one shilling and ten pence per diem, with effect from the date of commencement of original pension.

BYRAMGHAT DEPÔT.

On the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway:

From this date the prices of Sál beams and scantlings supplied from this Depôt will be as follows:—

BEAMS—

| | | |
|------------------|------------|-----------------|
| 21 feet length @ | Rs. 2 10 0 | per cubic foot. |
| 22 " @ | " 2 12 0 | " |
| 23 " @ | " 2 14 0 | " |
| 24 " @ | " 3 0 0 | " |

Above the lengths given two annas per foot run will be charged. Any inches over the foot will be charged as a foot.

SCANTLINGS—

| | | |
|-----------------------|-----------|-----------------|
| from 12 to 20 feet @ | Rs. 2 8 0 | per cubic foot. |
| under 12 & over 7 " @ | " 2 4 0 | " |
| under 7 " @ | " 2 0 0 | " |

The above prices are for ordinary building purposes.

For planking, sleepers, &c., special rates will be fixed by agreement.

The Department will still take orders for buildings all over @ Rs. 2-4-0 per cubic foot, provided the scantlings are taken in fair proportion.

SECOND AND THIRD CLASS TIMBER will be sold, and price fixed by agreement.

AUCTION SALES will be held from time to time to clear off stock.

For further particulars apply to the Officer in charge.

By order of the Conservator, Oudh Forests,

KUNHYALAL,

Assistant Conservator of Forests.

The 9th December 1878.

500 Rupees Reward.

The above reward will be given by the Government of India for the best Sanitary Primer suitable for use in Indian schools, both English and Vernacular. The work must be in the English language from which it will afterwards be translated into the principal languages of India: it must be simple, without theories, and thoroughly practical, showing in particular the chief sanitary defects of Indian towns and villages and the best means of remedying these defects, and it must not cover more than from 24 to 30 pages of print of small pica octavo size. Competing Printers, either in print or very legible manuscript, to be sent so as to arrive not later than the 1st April, 1879 at the Home Office, Calcutta. Each should bear a motto and have a sealed envelope attached with the same motto outside and the name of the author within.

C. BERNARD,

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of India.

HOME DEPARTMENT;

SIMLA,

The 4th October 1878.

Central Provinces Gazetteer—Edition of 1870 in one Vol.

A limited number of the above work, strongly bound in cloth, octavo size, for sale at Rs. 12 per Vol., exclusive of postage charge. Apply to Messrs. Thacker, Spink & Co., Calcutta; Thacker & Co., Bombay; or to Superintendent, Chief Commissioner's Office, Nagpur.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

PUBLISHED UNDER AUTHORITY.

The "Indian Law Reports," published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, will appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and will comprise four series,—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court will be reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court will be reported in the Calcutta Series. The Parts of each Series can be had separately, or all four Parts can be had stitched into one wrapper at the option of subscribers and purchasers. It will be observed from the following statement of the terms of subscription and sale, that a considerable reduction is allowed to persons taking the complete set:

Terms of subscription, payable annually in advance.

| | Without Postage. | With Postage. |
|-----------------------------|------------------|---------------|
| For the CALCUTTA SERIES ... | Rs. 35 | Rs. 37-8 |

BENGAL CIVIL FUND.

At a Half-yearly General Meeting of Subscribers to the Bengal Civil Fund, held at the Town Hall, Calcutta, on Wednesday, the 29th January 1879.

PRESENT :—The Hon'ble W. F. McDonell, v.c.; W. Waterfield, Esq.; the Hon'ble H. T. Prinsep; C. F. Bernard, Esq., c.s.i.; H. L. Harrison, Esq.; the Hon'ble J. O'Kinealy; R. H. Pawsey, Esq.; J. Westland, Esq.; T. W. Gribble, Esq.; W. H. Grimley, Esq.; J. G. Charles, Esq.; J. Scobell Armstrong, Esq.; Colman Macaulay, Esq.; C. E. Buckland, Esq.

R. H. Pawsey, Esq., in the Chair.

The following report was submitted by the Managers :—

REPORT.

1. The Managers submit their proceedings for the past half-year for the consideration and sanction of the Meeting.

2. Subject to the approval of the subscribers, they have admitted to the benefits of the Fund the following families :—

|------------------------------------|-----|
| Widow | £ |
| 4 Children | 300 |
| | 230 |
| Total | 530 |
| Widow | 300 |
| 2 Daughters | 200 |
| Total | 500 |
| Widow | 300 |
| Widow | 300 |
| 2 Sons | 60 |
| | 360 |
| Less one-sixth under Rule 7 | 60 |
| Total | 300 |

The widow and four children (two sons and two daughters) of the late Mr. V. T. Taylor, who died at Hazareebagh on the 9th March last.

The widow and two daughters of the late Mr. A. R. Young (annuitant of 1862), who died in England on the 23rd October last.

The widow of the late Mr. E. H. C. Monckton (annuitant of 1857), who died in England on the 24th July last.

The widow and two sons of the late Mr. E. S. Moseley, who died at Pubna on the 12th December last.

3. Mr. A. C. Tute has applied for remission of the fine of Rs. 50 incurred under article V of the rules for not reporting the birth of a son within one month of its occurrence. He explains that the cause of the delay of six weeks in reporting the birth was the severe illness of his wife, whose life was despaired of during that time. The Managers have informed Mr. Tute that they will submit his case for the decision of the Meeting.

4. Mr. J. Power, who retired on the 24th March last, has objected to pay the subscription due from the date of resignation up to 1st November 1878, the date on which the composition of £119 was paid. He asks for consideration of this matter on the following grounds :—

1st.—That he had not left India on the 17th April, the date of the Fund letter, and he could then have compounded had the letter been forwarded to Shajchanpore instead of to Messrs. Coutts & Co.

2nd.—That when he received the letter he referred to Messrs. Coutts & Co. to know what sum he ought to pay, but they could give no information.

The Managers have informed him that they had no means of knowing that he proposed to remain in India after his retirement, and that the payment of composition is a matter left open to the subscriber, whereas that of subscription at half rates is imperative. It is for retiring subscribers who desire to compound to ascertain the amount of composition payable in each case. This is not a fixed sum, but has to be calculated in the Fund office from actuarial tables, and varies according to the age of the subscriber, and, if he is married and has a family, according to the ages of the different members of his family. Mr. Power, however, did not communicate in any way with the Fund office regarding his subscription. Under these circumstances the subscription, £7-11-2, is clearly due, and should be paid to the agents of the Fund.

5. Lord William Hay, who retired on an invalid annuity on the 27th September 1865, wishes to make up his balance to Rs. 12,500, and thus secure for his family the half benefits of the Fund. He says—

“I continued my subscriptions to the Fund under the impression that the deductions made up to my retirement with the accumulations of interest would entitle me to the scale of half benefits, with which scale I was satisfied. In the present year I have married and have given due notice and made the required payments on this event. But I have been informed that the amount standing to my credit with the Fund at the date of my retirement was £38 (more or less) short of the amount entitling me to the half scale of benefits. I have now to request permission to pay this amount with such back interest as the Managers may determine. I need scarcely assure the Managers that the omission to make this payment earlier has arisen from ignorance and inadvertence only; and I trust that they will not on account of an inadvertent delay in the payment of so small a sum hold me deprived of the half benefits to which the deductions made from my pay and allowances during my service would otherwise entitle me.”

As Lord William Hay had been informed at the time of retirement of the sum payable, the Managers have told him that by article VIII of the rules, which permits retiring subscribers to make up their balances to the prescribed minima, that option can be exercised at the time of retirement only, and that they have no authority to carry the privilege further.

6. The facts of the case of Miss Amy Augusta Lawford, eldest daughter of the late Mr. H. B. Lawford, were submitted at the last general meeting. The Managers have recently received intimation that the decree annulling Miss Lawford's marriage with Captain Davies has been made absolute. They will therefore recommend to the subscribers Miss Lawford's admission to the benefits of the Fund, with effect from the date of her father's death, on payment of all arrears of subscription on her account then due, with interest. As the case is not distinctly provided for under the rules, two months' notice of this proposal must be given under article XVII, and this will accordingly be done.

7. Mr. H. F. Bartlett has reported that he has been divorced from his wife, and applied to subscribe at reduced rates as a widower subscriber from July last. He has intimated that the decree nisi has been made absolute, and the Managers have informed him that he may subscribe at widower rates from that date.

8. As requested at the last Meeting, the Managers have taken into consideration the effect on the revenue of the Fund of the despatch of the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State, dated 17th January 1878, amending supplement A of the Civil Pension Code rules, whereby a Civil Servant resigning the service vacates any office under the Government which he may then hold, and excepting from the rule the office of Viceroy and Governor-General of India, Governor of Madras, Governor of Bombay, and Ordinary Members of the Council of the Governor-General. The Managers have thought it unnecessary to take any action on the despatch.

9. In accordance with articles XLIII and XLIV of the Rules the Managers lay on the table the result of the quinquennial valuation of the assets and liabilities of the Fund for the period ending 31st March 1878. They have heard from Mr. E. F. Harrison that the actuary is actively engaged on the valuation, and will shortly submit his report.

10. The accounts of the year 1877-78 are submitted.

Proposed by Mr. J. Scobell Armstrong, seconded by Mr. G. E. Buckland, and carried—

“That the Managers' proceedings in admitting the families of the late Messrs. V. T. Taylor, A. R. Young, E. H. C. Monckton, and E. S. Moseley, to the benefits of the Fund be confirmed.”

Proposed by Mr. Westland, second by Mr. O'Kinealy, and carried—

“That Mr. Tute be informed that the rule as to fine for failure to report birth being absolute, the meeting regret that the fine imposed upon him cannot be remitted.”

Proposed by Mr. H. L. Harrison, seconded by Mr. C. E. Buckland, and carried—

“That the reply of the Managers to Mr. J. Power be approved.”

Proposed by Mr. C. E. Buckland, seconded by Mr. H. L. Harrison, and carried—

“That the reply of the Managers to Lord William Hay be approved.”

Proposed by Mr. Grimley, seconded by Mr. Prinsep, and carried—

“That the accounts of the past year 1877-78, be approved.”

Proposed by Mr. Gribble, seconded by Mr. Charles, and carried—

“That the following gentlemen be elected Managers for the ensuing year:—The Hon'ble L. S. Jackson, C.I.E.; the Hon'ble C. T. Buckland; the Hon'ble W. F. McDonell, v.c.; the Hon'ble J. O'Kinealy; and W. M. Souttar, Esq.”

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 29th January, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 3 OF 1879.

A Bill for the regulation and control of Hackney-carriages in certain Municipalities and Cantonments.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages in certain municipalities and cantonments; I is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called
“The Hackney-Carriage
Act, 1879.”

Commencement.

and it shall come into force
at once;

but nothing herein contained shall affect any power conferred by any law
relating to municipalities.

Interpretation-clause.

2. In this Act—

“Hackney-carriage” means any wheeled vehicle drawn by animals and used for the conveyance of human beings, which is kept, or offered, or plies, for hire, and “Committee” means a Municipal Committee, or a body of Municipal Commissioners constituted under the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force.

3. The Lieutenant-Governors of the North-Western Provinces and the Panjāb, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces, British Burma, Assam, Ajmer and Coorg may, by notification in the official Gazette, apply this Act to any municipality in the territories administered by them respectively.

When this Act has been so applied to any municipality, the Committee of such municipality may from time to time make rules for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages within the limits of such municipality, in the manner in which, under the law for the time being in force, it makes rules or bye-laws for the regulation and control of other matters within such limits.

Every rule made under this section shall, when sanctioned and published by the Local Government and confirmed by the Local Government, have the force of law.

Provided that the Local Government may at any time rescind any such rule.

4. The Local Government of any of the said territories may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make rules for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages in any military cantonment situated in the territory administered by it, and the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages in any place in India, but not in British India, in which British troops are cantoned.

What rules under sections 3 and 4 may provide for.

5. The rules to be made under section three or section four may, among other matters,

(a) direct that no hackney-carriage, or no hackney-carriage of a particular description, shall be let to hire, or taken to ply, or offered, for hire, except under a license granted in that behalf;

(b) direct that no person shall act as driver a hackney-carriage except under a license granted in that behalf;

(c) provide for the issue of the licenses referred to in clauses (a) and (b), prescribe the conditions (if any) on which such licenses shall be granted, and fix the fees (if any) to be paid therefor;

(d) regulate the description of animals, harness, and other things to be used with licensed carriages, and the condition in which such carriages, and the animals, harness, and other things used therewith, shall be kept;

(e) provide for the inspection of the premises on which any such carriages, animals, harness, and other things are kept;

(f) fix the time for which such licenses shall continue in force and the events (if any) upon which within such time they shall be subject to revocation or suspension;

(g) determine the times at which, and the circumstances under which, any person keeping a hackney-carriage shall be bound to let such carriage to any person requiring the same, and any driver of a hackney-carriage, being with such carriage in a public place, shall be bound to go with any person desirous of hiring such carriage;

(h) appoint places as stands for hackney-carriages and prohibit such carriages waiting for hire except at such places;

(i) limit the rates or fares, as well for time as distance, which may be demanded for the hire of any hackney-carriage; and

(j) limit the number of persons, and the weight of property, which may be conveyed by any such carriage.

6. Any person breaking any rule made under this Act shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

7. The amount of any fees received, and the amount of any expenses incurred, by any Committee in giving effect to this Act shall respectively be credited and debited to the Municipal Fund, and in any cantonment where there is a Cantonment Fund, to such Fund.

8. If any dispute arises between the hirer of any hackney-carriage and the owner or driver of such carriage as to the amount of the fare payable by such hirer under any rule made under this Act, such dispute shall, upon application made in that behalf by either of the disputing parties, be heard and determined by a Magistrate or bench of Magistrates, and the decision of such Magistrate or bench shall be final.

When any such dispute is heard by a bench, any difference of opinion arising between the members of such bench shall be settled in the same manner as differences of opinion arising between such members in the trial of criminal cases.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE want of a law to regulate hackney-carriages in towns and cantonments in the interior of India has long been felt, and has lately been pressed upon the notice of the Government of India by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb and His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

2. The present Bill has been prepared to supply this want in the case of municipalities in those parts of India which have not local Legislatures, and in all cantonments, whether in British India or in Native States.

3. It gives power to the Municipal Committee, in the case of a municipality, and to the Local Government, in the case of a cantonment, to make rules (subject, in the former case, to the sanction of the Local Government, and in the latter, to that of the Governor General in Council) to ensure that carriages offered for hire, and the animals and harness used with them, shall be in proper condition; that fit persons shall be employed as drivers; that the fares charged shall be reasonable, and that the carriages shall not be over-laden.

4. It further provides that breach of these rules shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and that disputes between the hirer and owner of a carriage, as to the amount of a fare, shall be determinable by a Magistrate.

instead of adding a fifth Act to the four Acts already in force relating to pleaders, mukhtárs and revenue-agents, to frame a consolidation measure embracing the entire law.

3. We have, at the instance of the Hon'ble the Chief Justice of Bengal, restored in section 16 of the Bill now submitted, the power of the High Courts to make rules for the admission and control of mukhtárs practising on the appellate side of those Courts, which was conferred by section 44 of Act XX of 1865, but which has been held by the Calcutta High Court to have been ultra vires.

4. We have made the Bill applicable to the Courts of Small Causes in the Presidency towns, where we understand some such law is needed.

5. We have substituted, for the stamp-duties on certificates prescribed by Act XX of 1865, fees fixed according to the scale which was proposed in the Bill to amend the law relating to stamps and court-fees recently before the Council. The alterations here made are of no substantial importance.

6. We have made several amendments in arrangement and drafting, with a view to clearness and simplicity.

7. We recommend that the Bill now submitted be published.

8. The publication ordered by the Council has been made.

No. II.

A Bill to Consolidate and amend the law relating to Legal Practitioners.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to legal Practitioners, in the Lower Provinces of Bengal, the

North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb, Oudh and Assam; and to empower each of the Local Governments of the rest of British India to extend to the territories administered by it such portions of this Act as such Government may think fit; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

1. This Act may be called "The Legal Practitioners' Act, 1879:" and shall come into force on the first day of April, 1879.

This section and section two extend to the whole of British India.

The rest of this Act extends, in the first instance, only to the territories respectively administered by the Lieutenant-Governors of the Lower Provinces of Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and the Panjáb, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh and Assam. But any other Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend all or any of the provisions of the rest of this Act to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration.

2. On and from the first day of April, 1879, the enactments mentioned in the first schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent specified therein.

All rules and appointments made, penalties prescribed, fees fixed, persons admitted, names enrolled, certificates issued, sanctions given and orders passed under any enactment hereby repealed shall be deemed to be respectively made, prescribed, fixed, admitted, enrolled, issued, given and passed under this Act.

All references made to any enactment hereby repealed, in any Act or Regulation passed, or notification published, subsequently thereto, shall be read as if made to this Act.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—
"Judge" means the presiding judicial officer in every civil and criminal Court by whatever title he is designated:

"Subordinate Court" means all Courts subordinate to the High Court, including Courts of Small Causes established under Act No. IX of 1850 or Act No. XI of 1865:

"Officer subordinate to such Authority," "Subordinate Revenue-officer" and "Revenue-office" include all Courts (other than civil Courts) trying suits under any Act for the time being in force relating to landholders and their tenants or agents.

CHAPTER II.—Of Advocates, Vakils and Attorneys.

4. Every person now or hereafter entered as an Advocate or Vakil on the roll of any High Court under the Letters Patent constituting such Court shall, notwithstanding anything herein contained, be entitled as such to practise in any court in British India other than a High Court on whose roll he is not entered, or in any such Court with the permission of the Court, and in any Revenue office, subject nevertheless to the rules in force relating to the language in which the Court or office is to be addressed by Pleaders or Revenue-agents:

Provided that no such Vakil shall be entitled to practise under this section before a Judge of the High Court, Division Court, or High Court exercising original jurisdiction.

5. Every person now or hereafter entered as an Attorney on the roll of any High Court shall, notwithstanding anything herein contained, be entitled as such to practise in any Court of British India other than a High Court established by Royal Charter and in any Revenue-office.

CHAPTER III.—Of Pleaders and Mukhtárs.

Power to make rules as to qualification, &c., of pleaders and mukhtárs.

6. The High Court may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) for the qualification, admission and certificates of proper persons to be pleaders of the subordinate Courts, and of the revenue-offices situate within the local limits of its appellate jurisdiction, and, in the case of a High Court not established by Royal Charter, of such Court :

(b) for the qualification, admission and certificates of proper persons to be mukhtárs of the subordinate Courts, and, in the case of a High Court not established by Royal Charter, of such Court :

(c) for the fees to be paid for the examination and admission of such persons ; and

(d) for their suspension and dismissal.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette and shall thereupon have the force of law ; provided that, in the case of rules made by a High Court not established by Royal Charter, such rules have been previously approved by the Local Government.

7. On the admission, under section six, of any person as a pleader or mukhtár, the High Court shall cause a certificate, signed by such officer as the Court from time to time appoints in this behalf, to be issued to such person, authorizing him to practise for the period of one year from its date in the Courts and, in the case of a pleader, the offices, specified therein.

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Judge of the District Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction he then ordinarily practises, or by such officer as the High Court from time to time appoints in this behalf.

On every such renewal, the certificate then in possession of such pleader or mukhtár shall be cancelled and retained by such Judge or officer.

Every certificate so renewed shall be signed by such Judge or officer.

Every Judge or officer so renewing a certificate shall notify such renewal to the High Court.

8. Every pleader holding a certificate issued under section seven, may apply to be enrolled in any Court or office mentioned therein and situate within the local limits of the appellate jurisdiction of the High Court to which he has been admitted, and on being so enrolled, may appear, plead and act in such Court or office.

9. Every mukhtár holding a certificate issued under section seven, may apply to be enrolled in any civil or criminal Court mentioned therein and situate within the same limits, and, on being so enrolled, may appear and act in any such civil Court, and may (subject to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, section 186) appear, plead and act in any such criminal Court.

10. Except as provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 37, or any other enactment for the time being in force, no person shall appear, plead or act as a pleader or mukhtár in any Court not established by Royal Charter, unless he holds a certificate issued under section seven and has been enrolled in such Court :

Provided that persons holding certificates as revenue-agents under this Act

Revenue-agents may appear, plead and act in Munsifs' Courts in suits under Bengal Act VIII of 1869.

enue-agents under this Act in the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may, on being enrolled in any Munsif's Court, appear, plead and act in such Court in suits under Bengal Act No. VIII of 1869 (to amend the procedure in suits between Landlord and Tenant) or under any other Act for the time being in force, regulating the procedure in suits between landholders and their tenants or agents.

11. The High Court may suspend or dismiss any pleader or mukhtár holding a certificate issued under this Act, who is convicted of any criminal offence.

12. The High Court may also, after such enquiry as it thinks fit, suspend or dismiss any pleader or mukhtár holding a certificate as aforesaid, who is guilty of fraudulent or grossly improper conduct in the discharge of his professional duty, or of giving, receiving or retaining commission on remuneration paid to any legal practitioner, or for any other reasonable cause.

13. If any such pleader or mukhtár practising in any subordinate Court or in any revenue-office, is charged in such Court or office with any such conduct as aforesaid, the presiding officer shall send him a copy of the charge and also a notice that, on a day to be therein appointed, such charge will be taken into consideration.

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the pleader or mukhtár at least ten days before the day so appointed.

On such day or on any subsequent day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the presiding officer shall receive all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the pleader or mukhtár, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If such officer finds the charge established, and considers that the pleader or mukhtár should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding and the grounds thereof, and shall report the same to the High Court, and the High Court shall proceed to acquit, suspend or dismiss the pleader or mukhtár.

Any Judge or Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority acting under this section may, and, with the previous sanction of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, any subordinate revenue-officer so acting may, pending the investigation and the orders of the High Court, suspend the pleader or mukhtár from practising as such in his Court or office.

Every report made to the High Court under this section shall—

(a) when made by any Civil Judge other than the District Judge, be made through the Judge ;

(b) when made by a Magistrate subordinate to the Magistrate of the District, be made through the Magistrate of the District and the Sessions Judge;

(c) when made by the Magistrate of the District, be made through the Sessions Judge;

(d) when made by any subordinate revenue-officer, be made through the Revenue-Authorities to which he is subordinate.

Every such report shall be accompanied by the opinion of each Judge, Magistrate or Revenue-Authority through whom or which it is made.

14. The High Court, in any case in which a

Power to call for record in case of acquittal under section 13.

pleader or mukhtár has been acquitted under section thirteen otherwise than by an order of the High Court, may call for the record and pass such order thereon as it thinks fit.

15. Whenever a mukhtár who has been suspended or dismissed by order of the High Court is also a revenue-agent holding a certificate under this Act, the High Court shall forward a report of the case to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority.

Such Authority, after making any enquiry which it thinks necessary, may suspend or dismiss him as such revenue-agent.

16. Notwithstanding anything contained in any

Power to make rules for mukhtárs on appellate side of High Court.

Letters Patent or in the Code of Civil Procedure, section 37, clause (a), any High Court established by Royal Charter

may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) for the qualification, admission, suspension and dismissal of proper persons to be mukhtárs practising on the appellate side of such Court;

(b) for the security which they may be required to give for their honesty and good conduct; and

(c) as to their powers and duties, and may prescribe and impose fines for the infringement of such rules not exceeding in any case five hundred rupees; and such fines, when imposed, may be recovered as if they had been imposed in the exercise of the High Court's ordinary original criminal jurisdiction.

CHAPTER IV.—Of Revenue-Agents.

17. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority

Power to make rules as to qualifications, &c., of revenue-agents.

may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act

(a) for the qualification, admission and certificates of proper persons to be revenue-agents;

(b) for the fees to be paid for the examination and admission of such persons; and

(c) for their suspension and dismissal.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

18. On the admission of any person as a Revenue-agent under section seventeen, Certificates to agents.

the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority shall cause a certificate, signed by such officer as such Authority from time to time appoints in this behalf, to be issued to such person, authorizing him to practise for the period of one year from its date in such offices as may be specified therein.

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Secretary of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, or by any other officer authorized by such Authority in that behalf.

On every such renewal, the certificate then in the possession of such revenue-agent shall be cancelled and retained by such Secretary or other officer.

Every certificate so renewed shall be signed by such Secretary or other officer.

Every officer so renewing a certificate shall notify the renewal to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority.

19. Every revenue-agent holding a certificate

Enrolment of revenue-agent.

issued under section eighteen, may apply to be enrolled in any revenue-office mentioned therein and situate within the limits of the territory under the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, and, on being so enrolled, may practise in such office as a revenue-agent.

20. Except as provided by any enactment for the

No person to act as agent in revenue-offices, unless qualified.

time being in force, no person, other than a pleader duly qualified under the provisions hereinbefore contained, shall practise as a revenue-agent in any revenue-office, unless he holds a certificate issued under section eighteen, and has been enrolled in such office:

Provided that any person duly authorized in this behalf may, with the sanction of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, or of an officer empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, transact all or any business in which his employer may be concerned in any revenue-office:

The sanction mentioned in this section may be general or special, and may at any time be revoked or suspended by such Authority or officer.

21. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority

Dismissal of revenue-agent convicted of criminal offence.

may suspend or dismiss any revenue-agent holding a certificate issued under this Act, who is convicted of any criminal offence.

22. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority

Dismissal of revenue-agent guilty of unprofessional conduct.

may also, after making such enquiry as it thinks fit, suspend or dismiss any revenue-agent holding a certificate issued under this Act who is guilty of fraudulent or grossly improper conduct in the discharge of his professional duty, or of giving, receiving or retaining commission on remuneration paid to any legal practitioner, or for any other reasonable cause.

23. If any revenue-agent holding a certificate issued under this Act is charged with any such conduct in any office subordinate to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, or in the Court of any Munsif, the officer at the head of such office, or such Munsif, as the case may be, shall send him a copy of the charge and also a notice that, on a day to be therein appointed, such charge will be taken into consideration.

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the person charged at least ten days before the day so appointed. On such day or on any other day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the officer or Munsif shall receive all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the person charged, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If the officer or Munsif finds the charge established and considers that the person charged should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding, and the grounds thereof, and report the same to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority; and such Authority shall proceed to acquit, suspend or dismiss him.

Where any officer acting under this section is subordinate to the Commissioner of a Division, he shall forward the report through such Commissioner, who shall accompany the same with an expression of his own opinion on the case.

24. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, in any case in which a revenue-agent has been acquitted under section twenty-three, otherwise than by an order of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, may call for the record and pass such order thereon as seems fit.

25. Whenever a revenue-agent who has been dismissed or suspended by order of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority is also a mukhtár holding a certificate under this Act, the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority shall forward a report of the case to the High Court by which he was admitted.

Such Court, after making any enquiry which it thinks necessary, may suspend or dismiss him as such mukhtár.

CHAPTER V.—Of Certificates.

26. For every certificate, whether original or renewed, issued under this Act, a fee of the amount prescribed therefor in the second schedule hereto annexed, shall be paid by the person entitled to such certificate.

27. When any pleader, mukhtár or revenue-agent is suspended or dismissed under this Act, he shall forthwith deliver up his certificate to the Court, or officer at the head of the office, before or in which he was practising at the time he was so suspended or dismissed, or to any Court or officer to which the High Court or Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority (as the case may be) orders him to deliver the same.

CHAPTER VI.—Of the Remuneration of Pleaders, Mukhtárs and Revenue-Agents.

28. The High Court shall from time to time fix and regulate the fees payable by any party in respect of the fees of his adversary's pleader or vakíl upon all proceedings (a) on the appellate side of such Court, (b) in the case of a High Court not established by Royal Charter, on its original side, and (c) in the subordinate Courts.

The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority shall from time to time fix and regulate the fees payable upon all proceedings in the revenue-offices by any party in respect of the fees of his adversary's pleader or revenue-agent.

Tables of the fees so fixed shall be published in the local official Gazette.

Nothing in this section applies to the agents mentioned in the proviso to section twenty.

29. All persons employing pleaders, mukhtárs, or revenue-agents shall be at liberty to settle with them by private agreement the remuneration to be paid for their professional services; and it shall not be necessary to specify such agreement in the power under which such pleaders, mukhtárs or revenue-agents for the time being act. Such agreements shall not be enforced otherwise than by suit.

CHAPTER VII.—Penalties.

30. Any person who appears, pleads, acts or practises in any Court or office in contravention of the provisions of section ten or section twenty, shall be liable, by order of such Court, or the officer at the head of such office, to a fine not exceeding ten times the amount of the fee required by this Act to be paid for a certificate authorizing him to appear, plead, act or practise in such Court or office, and, in default of payment, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

He shall also be incapable of maintaining any suit for, or enforcing any lien in respect of, any fee or reward for, or in respect of, anything done, or any disbursement made, by him as pleader or mukhtár or revenue-agent whilst he has been contravening the provisions of either of such sections.

31. Any pleader, mukhtár or revenue-agent failing to deliver up his certificate as required by section twenty-seven, shall be liable, by order of the Court, Authority or officer to which or to whom, or according to whose orders, the delivery should be made, to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees and, in default of payment, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to three months.

32. Any pleader, mukhtár or revenue-agent who, under the provisions of this Act, has been suspended or dismissed, and who, during such suspension or after such dismissal, practises as a pleader or mukhtár or revenue-agent in any Court or office, shall be liable, by order of such Court, or the officer at the head of such office, to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees and, in default of payment, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

33. Every order under section thirty, thirty-one or thirty-two shall be subject to revision, by the High Court, where the order has been passed by a subordinate Court, and by the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, where the order has been passed by an officer subordinate to such Authority.

CHAPTER VIII.—Miscellaneous.

34. To facilitate the ascertainment of the qualifications respectively mentioned in sections six and seventeen, the Local Government shall from time to time appoint persons to be examiners for the purposes aforesaid, and make regulations for conducting such examinations.

35. Except as provided by sections four, five, sixteen and twenty-eight, nothing in this Act applies to advocates, vakíls and attorneys admitted and enrolled by any High Court under the Letters Patent by which such Court is constituted, or to mukhtárs practising in such Court.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.
LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

APPOINTMENT OF A COMMISSION FOR THE CODIFICATION OF INDIAN SUBSTANTIVE LAW.

No. 12 (Legislative), dated 4th March, 1875.

*From—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India,
To—The Government of India.*

In preparing for Parliament the Bill for the consolidation of the law as it relates to India, which has been the subject of correspondence between your Excellency and my predecessor, it has come to my notice that section 28 of the 16 & 17 Vic., cap. 95, providing for the appointment of an Indian Law Commission, has not been repealed by the Indian Councils Act of 1861, or by any other enactment. It is at this moment of no practical force, inasmuch as the Law Commission which was appointed under the authority of that section brought its labours to a premature conclusion under circumstances with which your Excellency is probably acquainted. But the existence of that section makes it necessary to decide, previous to the introduction of a Consolidation Act, whether it is expedient that the powers which it confers should be kept alive, or any similar powers reserved to Her Majesty or to the Secretary of State for India.

2. It is difficult to exaggerate the value of the work which has been accomplished by the various persons and bodies who have contributed to the codification of Indian law, and specially by the successive Law Commissions. It is no small benefit to the people who resort so freely to English Courts of Judicature, that they should possess so many branches of the law of India stated in orderly sequence and simple language. But the work is not complete, although the portion already accomplished is considerable. The criminal law is set forth in the Penal Code. The procedure of the Criminal Courts, and most of the administrative rules essential to efficient government, are contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure. A Code of Civil Procedure has been in force for several years, and when it has been revised by you it will contain the whole procedure of the Civil Courts. These three codes are alone complete; but the whole law of contract, of evidence, of testamentary and intestate succession among Europeans, of European marriage and divorce, of limitation and prescription, are contained in a series of measures of no great compass or intricacy, which are ready to be made chapters of a Civil Code.

3. It is impossible to deny that these measures have removed a serious amount of complexity and confusion. But some of the chief branches of law remain still uncoded, and litigation on questions arising under them is still subject to needless uncertainty and cost. The causes which led to the suspension by the Law Commissioners of the process of codification are much to be regretted; but they form no ground for abandoning the completion of an indispensable task.

4. It does not, however, necessarily follow that the same or a similar machinery should continue to be employed. An unpaid Commission, containing distinguished statesmen and judges, is a proper instrument for deliberation upon important general principles. Its decisions will not only presumably be sound, but they will also be authoritative. But there are obvious reasons which make it less suitable for the treatment of laborious details upon which discussion and controversy necessarily arise. I think it preferable, therefore, to entrust to a small body of eminent draftsmen, selected for the purpose, the task of preparing for the consideration of your Legislative Council the remaining branches of the Indian Code. The form in which, if at all, they shall ultimately pass into law will depend, of course, upon the deliberations of the Legislature presided over by you. You will doubtless inform me if any changes of serious moment are contemplated. In order to reserve to Her Majesty the power of exercising, without inconvenience to the general progress of the work, her prerogative of disallowance, in case of important alterations, I shall desire that it be submitted to the Council in a series of comparatively brief Bills.

5. I shall be glad to receive from your Excellency in Council any observations upon this subject which it may occur to you to make.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) SALISBURY.

No. 6 (Legislative), dated 5th July, 1875.
From—The Government of India,
To—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

We have the honour to reply to your Lordship's despatch of the 4th March 1875 (Legislative, No. 12), which states that it has become necessary to decide whether it is expedient that the powers conferred by section 28 of the Statute 16 & 17 Vic., cap. 95, should be kept alive, or any similar powers reserved to Her Majesty or to the Secretary of State for India; and in which, after some discussion on the work and the constitution of former Law Commissions, and of the constitution of a possible new one, your Lordship invites any observations upon the subject which it may occur to us to make. The subject seems to us one of great importance and difficulty, and we have given careful consideration to it.

2. With regard to the mere question of continuing, or modifying, or repealing the statutory provision, we hardly know what power it conferred which did not exist without it, unless it were the power of examining certain official persons and calling for certain official documents connected with the administration of India. But, though there may have been some use in conferring such a power in the year 1853, there can hardly be any use in it now. Unless, therefore, it is in contemplation to pay out of English funds any new Commissioners who may be appointed, our opinion is that the enactment in question may be repealed without being replaced by anything similar to it.

3. This opinion, however, only touches the form and not the substance of the question. The substantial question is, whether a new Indian Law Commission shall be created in any shape, and if so, in what shape?

4. That a great quantity of valuable work was done by previous Commissions is certain. How much of it would have been done without them must of course remain uncertain. We think it may be said positively that if it had not been for the Commissions, the Government of India must have sought some other skilled assistance for the preparation of its laws, beyond the legislative staff which it has actually employed in India. And it may be added with great probability that, if it had not been for the Commissions, the Supreme Indian Legislature would not have undertaken so much, or have proceeded with so much confidence, as has actually been the case.

5. These benefits, however, have been attended with two great disadvantages. One is that the discussion in India of projects of law initiated in England has not been so free as it would have been if those projects had been initiated in India itself. The other is that a body sitting in England for the purpose of producing Indian Codes, and under no other responsibility for the government of this country, has a natural tendency, an inevitable one as we believe, to do its work with reference rather to some general notions of legal symmetry than to the circumstances of the country for which the law is to operate; and then projects of law will be promoted which may not be wanted at the time, or may not be wanted at all. These two difficulties, and especially the latter, led to the extinction of the last Commission, who were dissatisfied with the slowness of the Government of India to adopt the fruits of their labour.

6. We do not anticipate any disagreement on your Lordship's part when we say that the Local Government of India should take the responsibility of judging what new laws are wanted for India, and at what time it is expedient to discuss and pass them. Yet the difficulties we have mentioned show the strong tendency of a permanent Commission sitting in England for the purpose of making laws for India to draw the initiative out of India into England. Every complaint by them of undue criticism or of undue hesitation here, is in effect a complaint that the initiation of Indian laws is retained in India; and how far such complaints may go to transfer that responsibility is strongly illustrated by the correspondence which took place in the years 1869 and 1870 between the Government of India and the Secretary of State with respect to the Contract Law. We hardly know by what means your Lordship proposes to avoid a recurrence of the difficulties which have been already experienced, because the precise mode in which the contemplated Commission is to work is not explained in the despatch under reply. But your Lordship proposes to employ eminent draftsmen, who are not apt to be too submissive under criticism or apparent neglect of their work. And, as at present advised, we are afraid that the difficulties we have dwelt upon will be found inseparable from the employment in England of any permanent body of strong lawyers charged with the duty of turning out laws for India.

7. As an instance of the difference of view which may prevail on the question what laws it is desirable to prepare for India, we may refer to one of the works of the last Commission, which doubtless seemed to them both desirable and unexceptionable from their point of view, namely, the theoretical view of what was proper matter for codification. The work we refer to is the draft law of Negotiable Instruments. It was introduced by Mr. Massey into the Legislative Council in the year 1867, and met with a very adverse reception from the commercial members of Council. It was referred to a Select Committee, but has never proceeded beyond that stage. We are informed by our colleague, the Law Member of Council, that it was placed in his hands when he first came to the country as a desirable piece of codification, and that he devoted some time to a careful study of its provisions. In some few points it purported to alter the law. But besides this, Mr. Hobhouse satisfied himself that in attempting to declare the law, it did in fact effect substantial alterations in it—a result almost unavoidable in the reduction of unwritten law to writing—and that it must be most carefully revised, or the alterations thoroughly discussed. Then came the question whether the circumstances of India, as distinguished from an abstract approval of codification, required a Code upon the subject. To ascertain this Mr. Hobhouse made enquiries of several leading merchants and several leading lawyers in Calcutta. They all answered in the same sense, namely, that no difficulty occurred in practice; that it was a very rare thing for a dispute on a negotiable instrument to come into an Indian Court of law; that nobody wanted any change; that unless hundis, i.e., the great bulk of the negotiable instruments of the country, were excepted from the measure, the Native community would dislike it extremely; and that, even with regard to English transactions, the introduction of a Code would probably only create difficulty where none now existed.

8. Again, we are aware that, from a lawyer's point of view, a Code on the subject of tortious acts or wrongs would be a valuable addition to a body of written law. But we doubt very much whether it would benefit Indian society. It would perhaps be more effectual in suggesting kinds of litigation now very rare, if not wholly unknown in India, than in removing difficulties actually felt in practice. In fact, on many subjects, rights have not become sufficiently settled to afford a basis for a codified law of wrongs. In some cases (as, for instance, the somewhat delicate subject of claims to privacy) a right has been found to exist in one territory, and not elsewhere. To propose a uniform law on such a subject would lead to much difficulty.

9. Furthermore, we have to be very careful not to introduce new laws into this country faster than it can bear. The capacity of the country to receive new law may be considered with reference to the changes which it introduces into the Indian community, to the ability of the Legislature to frame laws, and to the ability of the Judges to digest and apply them. On all these grounds we think that the introduction of new law into this country should be very gradual.

10. It must be remembered that codification cannot be accomplished without change. On some points there is conscious and intentional change, more or less, according to the case. On others there is unintentional change; how much, cannot be known till the new law has been at work for some time. By codification we mean the expression in authoritative writings of law previously to be gathered from traditions and records of a much more flexible and less authoritative character. But it is impossible to give in a few sentences the precise equivalent of a number of traditions and judgments. The moment that is attempted, the language of the Statute becomes the starting-point for fresh controversies as to its precise meaning. And partly from the imperfections of human language; partly because the legislator cannot always save himself from an erroneous view of the true mark; partly because his interpreters are subject to an equal amount of error,—the result is that a good deal of change is introduced without being intended or foreseen.

11. Now the people of this country do not accept change readily. They have no constitutional machinery for making their sentiments known, so that we may be long in finding out how they are affected by changes in laws; but they are more or less unsettled by every change, and if the change happens to be an important one, the unsettlement is lasting. It is therefore more prudent not to make many changes simultaneously, because the inevitable disturbances resulting from each may be too much in the aggregate; and also because it is desirable to know something of the working of one before bringing on another. Indeed, in our judgment, India is not the country into which any large body of law, either actually or virtually new, can prudently be introduced, except slowly and cautiously.

12. It must further be remembered that all the laws of general importance to the country have to pass through one channel, that of the Legislative Council. The Select Committees of that body have to consider every Bill that passes through their hands, clause by clause and word by word, with all the light that external criticism invited by publication and circulation of the first draft can throw on them. This is a labour which no doubt is lightened by good draftsmanship, and by a careful consideration of the substance of the law in the first instance; but the Committees cannot with propriety or prudence be relieved from it by any means. This labour is the greatest when the draft before them deals with law previously unwritten. In order, therefore, to give the requisite attention to a new Code, a time has to be chosen when other legislation is not pressing, and when dangers arising from haste or weariness may best be avoided.

13. Then we have to consider those who administer the law. It must always be borne in mind with how small a staff of officials the business of this country is conducted. We are disposed to think that our administration of the law we have is a matter in which we are considerably more deficient than in the substance of the law itself, or in the expression of it. It is true that the labour of the Judges may ultimately be lightened by codification, and if the Codes be well framed, certainly will be so. But for a considerable time the acquisition of the new law imposes much additional labour on the Judge. This was brought to our notice in the year 1872, when great energy and ability were displayed in legislation, and a large body of new law was added to the Statute-book. We do not doubt the benefit ultimately accruing even to the Judges from these new laws; but the burden of learning them so as to be able to apply them with promptitude and accuracy has undoubtedly been great. And while the Judge is learning his work, there is risk of erroneous decisions, which again necessitate fresh legislation.

14. Since the year 1872 there has been very little codification in the sense in which we have above used the term, unless the Code for the Criminal Procedure of the High Courts just passed, and that for the Police-courts of the Presidency-towns, which we hope will soon be passed, may be considered such. On the other hand we have bestowed a great deal of attention on the consolidation of existing laws and the repeal of such as have become obsolete. What has been done in this way will be found stated in a speech delivered by His Excellency the Viceroy at a meeting of the Legislative Council on the 15th March 1875, and reported in the proceedings of that date. Our object is to produce a new edition of Acts of Council which shall, as far as possible, represent the state of that portion of our law at the time of publication. We hope to publish in the course of the current year so much of this work as will comprise the general Acts, and the volumes containing the Provincial Acts and Regulations will follow in due course. We have put the Revenue and Rent Laws of the North-Western Provinces into a much more concise and methodical shape, not without considerable changes, both in substance and in procedure, the effect of which can hardly yet be seen. We are doing the same thing for Oudh, the Central Provinces and British Burma. And we have also turned our attention to that great branch of law which consists of judicial decisions, and which, though not the subject of legislation, is so intimately connected with it as to come properly under the cognizance of our Legislative Department. We are endeavouring to prepare a Digest embodying the judicial law which has taken its place in our system, and we anticipate that such a work will not only be useful in itself, but will form the best starting-point for future plans of codification. We are also undertaking to supervise reports of current decisions, and, if possible, to put them into a better shape.

15. Now if, in addition to all these things, our attention was demanded by several projects of law issuing from England, we should have more on our hands than we could do. We have been doing that which we thought most required by the circumstances of the time. When the new edition of Acts is published, the work of consolidation and repeal will stand still for a while. We shall then have on our hands the Civil Procedure Code, which is not only of great bulk, but involves several controversies of considerable difficulty, and will tax the strength of Committees, of the Legislative Department, and of other Departments too. In connection with this Code, our colleague Mr. Hobhouse, informs us that he is turning his attention to a measure for the purpose of laying down rules as to various modes of relief to be granted by Courts of Justice. He conceives that they may find in such a measure a convenient and useful guide in many cases. We say no more on that subject now because it has not yet been formally brought before us. If, however, the plan should be adopted, we shall have as much codification on our hands as ought to be going on at one moment.

16. We have gone into these matters because we wish to insist that the time at which measures are brought forward is a matter next in importance to the expediency of the measures themselves, and it is one of which the Local Government of India is the most qualified to judge. The conclusion to which, as we think, all these considerations point, is that whatever professional assistance we want should be obtained, when it is wanted, by the employment of competent persons for particular legislative work; and that if a permanent body at home is appointed for the purpose, it will lead either to inconvenient pressure on the Government of India, or to waste of power by producing work at a time when it is not wanted, or to both.

17. Connected with our last remark is another consideration, that of finance. Waste of power is waste of money, and if eminent draftsmen are employed to frame laws, they must be handsomely paid for it. In our view, we should spend money to more advantage by seeking assistance when we want it. Drafts prepared in England and sent out to us to be kept till the time arrives at which the Government of India thinks it expedient to pass them would almost inevitably require to be wholly or partially redrawn. In a country like this, where the social condition of large classes of the population is rapidly changing, and where three local legislatures are employed in varying and adding to the law, the most carefully prepared Bills would soon need more or less alteration; and change in any part of a skilful and coherent draft generally involves modification, if not reconstruction, of the whole fabric.

18. Inasmuch as we are endeavouring to dissuade your Lordship from the appointment of any permanent Commission at all, it may seem out of place to offer any remarks on the constitution of that which is foreshadowed in the despatch under reply, especially as your Lordship has not entered into any particulars about it. Two remarks, however, I venture to make, because they have a general bearing on the whole tenor of this letter, as well as a particular bearing on the composition of a Commission.

19. During the last fifteen years Indian Law has diverged more and more from English Law; and unless the draftsmen employed are familiar with Indian Law or work immediately under those who are so, they will never be able to adapt their drafts to the existing system. In drawing a new law, the most essential part of the draftsman's art is to make it fit on to the law with which it comes into contact; and unless that law is thoroughly engrained into the draftsman's mind, or unless his work is constantly supervised by some one who has his mind so furnished, inconsistencies and mistakes are sure to occur. This consideration again points to the inference that the best machinery is to be found in a single draftsman in India either possessed of the requisite knowledge or working under those who have it.

20. Again, there are many subjects or parts of subjects on which it is a great advantage that those who are framing a Bill should be able in a free and unrestrained manner to consult those who are conversant with them in their daily business. In other words, some Bills will be framed at a disadvantage unless they are framed in India. The Penal Code, which has been now pretty well tried by time, and may be pronounced a very successful piece of legislation, was framed wholly in India. The same may be said of the Limitation Act of 1871, except that it has not undergone so long a probation. Other laws, such as the Civil Procedure Code and the Contract Act, originally framed in England, had to be very largely altered in India. The Evidence Act was completely re-cast here. It seems to us, therefore, that on each subject it would have to be considered whether the advantages which may be gained by greater legal strength in England are not counterbalanced by the disadvantage of disconnection from practical men—a consideration which would be forestalled by the appointment of a permanent body in England.

No. 1 (Legislative), dated 20th January, 1876.

From—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India,

To—The Government of India.

The despatch of your Excellency in Council of 5th July last (No. 6 of 1875), relating to the question whether it is expedient that the powers conferred by section 28 of Statute 16 & 17 Victoria, chapter 95, for the appointment of a Law Commission, should be kept alive, or any similar powers reserved to Her Majesty or to the Secretary of State for India, has been considered by me in Council.

2. The despatch touches upon various subjects which it would be foreign to the purpose of the present communication to discuss, and on which I abstain from expressing any opinion in this place. I perceive from it with regret that, owing apparently to your sense of the difficulty of reducing law successfully to the form of a Code, you attach less importance than I should have expected to the early completion of the body of Substantive Civil Law which has long been in course of formation for India.

3. While I recognize the delicate and arduous nature of the work of codification, and feel that it must be almost impossible to execute it in such a manner as to be wholly free from the objections which you urge against it, I am convinced that the force of those objections may be reduced to a minimum by skill, moderation and discretion, and that, rating these drawbacks on codified law at the utmost, they are altogether outweighed by the vast practical usefulness which has recommended this method of legislation to most of the nations of Europe.

4. But, independently of these considerations, the long and continuous course of action which has been pursued by the Indian Government in all its branches forbids me to regard the question of giving a Civil Code to India as in any sense an open one.

5. So far back as 1829, the reform of the Indian Laws and Judicature had engaged the attention of the Government of Bengal, and it was suggested by that eminent statesman, Sir Charles Metcalfe, that the various tribunals should be united under a code of laws fitted for local purposes.

6. This policy was embodied in the Act of Parliament which was passed in 1833 for the renewal of the East India Company's Charter. That measure, while it created a Council having authority to legislate for the whole of India, and possessing a member specially qualified to aid in the exercise of that power, likewise provided for the appointment of a Law Commission, with a view to the reform of the judicial system and the enactment of such laws as might be applicable in common to all classes of the inhabitants of India, due regard being had to the rights, feelings and peculiar usages of the people.

7. The general revision of the Civil and Criminal Law thereupon became and continued to be an avowed object of the Indian Government. The East India Company and the Governor General in Council directed and superintended the operations of the Commission, and when the regulation of Indian affairs again came under the consideration of Parliament, the Act of 1853, while it remodelled the local legislature, also directed the appointment of a Commission in England to carry on the work of legal reform.

16 & 17 Vic., cap. 95.

8. The English Law Commission then created, and the succeeding Commission of 1861, which was constituted expressly for the purpose of preparing a body of Substantive Civil Law, discharged their duties under the instructions of the Home Government of India, and the discontinuance of their assistance was neither anticipated nor desired by the Government.

9. On a review of these facts, I am of opinion that the completion of a Code of Law is an accepted policy, which cannot now be abandoned without great detriment to the people and serious discredit to the Indian Government. I forbear, therefore, from dwelling on the reasons which might be adduced in favour of that policy, if its continuance were now under discussion.

10. I may, however, observe that the need of such a Code appears to me to be even greater at this moment than when its preparation was first resolved upon, because there is now an additional agency at work which is already producing embarrassing effects, and requires to be properly directed. The amalgamation of the Presidency and Mufassal Courts having taken place before the formation of the Civil Code which they were intended to administer, it has been remarked that the general direction to follow the dictates of equity, which is alone given to them for their guidance, is apt to be interpreted by many of the Judges of appeal by the light of English authorities with which they are familiar, but which are necessarily unknown to the litigant parties, and even to the Judges of first instance. Thus, it is said, many rules ill-suited to oriental habits and institutions, and which would never recommend themselves for adoption in the course of systematic law-making, are indirectly finding their way into India by means of that informal legislation which is gradually effected by judicial decisions.

11. It is manifest that the only way of checking this process of borrowing English rules from the recognized English authorities is by substituting for those rules a system of codified law adjusted to the best Native customs and to the ascertained interests of the country. Up to the present time, only two chapters of the Indian Civil Code have been enacted, treating respectively of Succession and of Contract. In order that the formation of this body of law may be carried on to the best advantage, it will be important to know on what subjects legislation is most urgently required. Your Excellency's Government enjoys peculiar opportunities of forming a judgment on this point, and I request that I may be favoured with your opinion on the question, in what order the remaining branches of law ought to be taken up, and whether each branch should, as in the case of the Contract Act, extend to the whole country, or should, like the Law of Succession, apply only in the first instance to certain special classes or provinces.

12. After receiving your reply, I will consider what is the best machinery for carrying on Indian codification.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) SALISBURY.

No. 34 (Legislative), dated the 10th May, 1877.

From—The Government of India,

To—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

WE have now the honour to reply to your Lordship's despatch of the 20th January 1876 (Legislative, No. 1).

2. We have, in the first place, to express our regret that our answer to your Lordship's despatch of 4th March 1875 (Legislative, No. 12) was so worded as to lead your Lordship to suppose that we attach less importance than you should have expected to the early completion of the body of Substantive Civil Law which has long been in course of formation for India. We feel, on the contrary, that the reduction to a clear, compact and scientific form of the branches of our Substantive Law which are still uncoded would be a work of the utmost utility, not only to the Judges and the legal profession, but also to the people and the Government. It would save labour and thus facilitate the despatch of business and cheapen the cost of litigation: it would tend to keep our untrained Judges from error: it would settle disputed questions on which our superior Courts are unable to agree: it would (as your Lordship has observed in the despatch under reply) preclude the introduction of technicalities and doctrines unsuited to this country: it would, perhaps, enable us to make some urgently needed social reforms without the risk of exciting popular opposition; and it would assuredly diffuse among the people of India a more accurate knowledge of their rights and duties than they will ever attain if their law is left in its present state, that is to say, partially codified, but the bulk ascertainable only from English text-books written solely with reference to the system of English law, and from a crowd of decisions, often obscure and sometimes contradictory, to be found in the English and Indian Law Reports.

3. The subject on which our opinion was invited by your Lordship's despatch of 4th March 1875 was the expediency of creating a Law Commission for India, and the proper constitution of one if created. In our despatch of 5th July 1875 (Legislative, No. 6) we addressed ourselves exclusively to the consideration of those questions, and were led to conclusions adverse to the appointment of a permanent body in England to frame the drafts of laws for India.

4. But we beg to assure your Lordship that the detailed explanation of our general objections to any such arrangement was not dictated by any desire to contest the duty of completing the codification of our Substantive Law—a duty fully recognized by the Government of India.

5. In the despatch under reply, your Lordship states that, up to the present time, only two chapters of the Indian Civil Code have been enacted, treating respectively of Succession and Contract. You observe that, in order that the formation of this body of law may be carried on to the best advantage, it will be important to know on what subjects legislation is most urgently required, and you request our opinion on the question, in what order the remaining branches of law ought to be taken up, and whether each branch should, as in the case of the Contract Act, extend to the whole country, or should, like the Law of Succession, apply only in the first instance to certain special classes or provinces.

6. To answer the question thus put, it is necessary to mention the branches of our Substantive Law which still remain uncoded.

7. Foremost in importance, both in itself and as being applicable at once to every class of the population, is the law of Contract. It is true that Act IX of 1872 (one of the two chapters of the Civil Code to which your Lordship refers) deals with Contract in general, Sale of Goods, Indemnity and Guarantee, Bailment, Agency and Partnership. But the following subjects (namely)—

- (a) Sale of Immoveable Property, Mortgages, Exchanges, Leases;
- (b) Insurance (Marine, Fire and Life);
- (c) Carriers (Marine and Inland), except so far as they fall within the sections on Bailment in Act IX of 1872;
- (d) Negotiable Instruments; and
- (e) Bottomry, ~~Responsa~~ and the other liens on moveables, except those of unpaid vendors, bailees, pawnees and agents; are still uncoded and would properly be dealt with by chapters completing the Code of Contract Law.

8. The laws of Persons, Personal Rights and Personal Relations stand next in importance. As to the law of Persons, we already possess Acts dealing directly with minors and lunatics, and no further legislation seems necessary at present in this respect. But, save as regards the infractions provided for by the Penal Code, the law relating to Personal Rights of British subjects and of Aliens is almost untouched by the Indian Legislature. So far as regards the right of protection from bodily injury, defamation and insult, it would be conveniently dealt with in a Code of the law of Torts or Actionable Wrongs; but for the reasons mentioned in paragraph 8 of our despatch of 5th July 1875 (Legislative, No. 6), we would not now take up this subject. As to the law of Personal Relations, namely, Husband and Wife, Parent and Child, Guardian and Ward, Master and Apprentice, and Master and Servant, something has been done by way of codification. Thus, the laws as to the solemnization of Marriage and as to Divorce have been codified so far as regards Christians and persons (such as members of the Bráhma-Samáj) not professing the Christian, Jewish, Hindú, Muhammadan, Pársí, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina religion. The law of Guardian and Ward is codified, so far as regards Europeans, their children and grandchildren, by Act XIII of 1874; but this Act is in force only in territories not under a High Court, that is to say, only in the Panjáb, Oudh, the Central Provinces, Ajmer, Coorg, Assam and British Burma. The law of Master and Apprentice is dealt with by Act XIX of 1850 and a section in Act I of 1859. But, save as aforesaid, the law of Personal Relations remains uncodified, and, so far as regards Parent and Child and Master and Servant, this defect is of much importance.

9. The law of Property has already been touched by the Succession Act and the Contract Law (Act IX of 1872) and will, to a large extent, be covered by the measures suggested in paragraph 7 of this despatch. There seems no pressing need for declaring the law as to certain matters not so covered, such as the property of the State and the ownership of animals wild by nature. The subjects of Shipping, Corporate Property, Patents, Copyright and Trade-marks have already been treated by the Indian Legislature. Settlements and Powers will be dealt with by the Transfer of Property Bill sent to Your Lordship with our despatch (Legislative, No. 3 of 1877) dated the 26th day of January last. But there remain the three important subjects of Trusts, Servitudes (or Easements) and Boundaries. As to Trusts, we beg to refer to the remarks contained in paragraphs 24-26* of the last-mentioned despatch. Except so far as regards the acquisition of a prescriptive title, the law of Servitudes is still untouched; and the subject of Boundaries in their civil aspect is also untouched save by some local laws dealing with boundary disputes and the erection and repair of boundary-marks.

10. The law relating to the acquisition of Property by accession is still uncodified, partially, so far as regards moveable, and wholly, so far as regards immoveable, property. Fixtures will be dealt with by the Transfer of Property Bill above referred to. As to Alluvion, a matter of paramount importance in the Lower Provinces, the Panjáb and Sindh, it is true that there is an old Bengal Regulation (XI of 1825) which purports to deal with that subject. But this Regulation is not only incomplete but obscure: it is encrusted with decisions (some of which are conflicting) by the late Sadr Courts, the High Courts and the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council; and lastly, it does not apply to Sindh, where, it is believed, the only rules in force on the subject are certain executive orders which, under the Indian Councils Act, section 25, have gained the force of law. As to acquisition by transfer inter vivos the law is also uncodified so far as regards immoveable property. But Sales, Exchanges, Mortgages and Leases will be dealt with by the Bill last mentioned, and rules as to Gifts for religious

* "24. The subject of Trusts is of itself a very large and difficult one, and whenever it is reduced into the shape of an Act, will, for proper treatment, require a separate measure. Again, so far as relates to the functions of Trustees, the subject is quite foreign to the subject of Transfer of Property: a difficulty which probably the Commissioners felt because, though they have touched on this part of the subject of trusts, they have done so only to a slight and imperfect extent. These remarks apply to all those provisions about Trusts which are found in clauses 96 and 101 to 109, inclusive, of the Commissioner's draft."

"25. The remaining clauses which are fairly connected with the subject of Transfer of Property are those numbered 3, 97, 98 and 110; and of these the two latter are only for the purpose of qualifying the effect of the two former. The question to decide is whether it is expedient to enact such a law as is contained in clauses 3 and 97; and as at present advised we are of opinion that it is not."

"26. The effect of these two clauses is that, excepting in the case of trusts for sale and for creditors, no person shall have any interest in land as a trustee, but the persons for whom benefit is intended shall take directly the interests given to them indirectly through the trustee. With all that the Commissioners say as to the Statute of Uses we agree; but practically the bad effects of the severance of legal and equitable estates are to a great extent, if not wholly, avoided by having, as we have long had in India, a single jurisdiction instead of a double one. The Commissioners, we venture to think, can hardly have considered the impossibility of getting rid of trust-estates except by abolishing innocent and useful family arrangements; for they have not provided for those numerous cases in which a trustee has active duties to perform. Suppose, for instance, a man wishes to secure upon his land an annuity for his widow and portions for his nephews and nieces: what arrangement can possibly be so convenient or efficacious as to give the land to a trustee absolutely in fee or for some substantial interest? How can we say that an annuitant for so much a year and portionists are to have each of them the interests which the settlor has given to a trustee for the benefit of all? Again, the Commissioners themselves say that "duties in the nature of trusts will of course arise where the proprietor is under disability." We cannot see why they should not be made trusts to all intents and purposes. We cannot see why the settlor should not be allowed to name the trustees who are to work his own arrangements. If a man wishes to give land to his infant niece, why should he be compelled to make her legal owner and leave the property to be managed by whosoever may chance to be her guardian? Why may not the settlor name a trustee himself? Who is likely to make a better choice? Such questions might be multiplied, and we cannot see our way to answer them in the sense of the Commissioners' draft. We are therefore not willing to encounter the disturbance which would certainly be caused by such large alterations, even to the extent of publishing them for comment."

and charitable purposes will be prescribed by the same Bill. The Succession Act, section 178, contains rules as to Donations mortis causa; but in other respects the subject of Gifts is still untouched by the Legislature.

11. Having thus enumerated the branches of our law which seem to require codification, we proceed to indicate the order in which we think they should be taken up. We should here, of course, be influenced more by the actual wants of the country than by any love for logical arrangement, legal symmetry or scientific completeness. Bearing this in mind, we should first, we think, take up the three Bills which the late Indian Law Commission framed with a view of completing the Code of Contract Law. Of these the Transfer of Property Bill is ready for introduction into our Council, and so far as regards leases and mortgages is much required: the Negotiable Instruments Bill, which was introduced and referred to a Select Committee as far back as December 1867, if rendered, as we propose to render it, an embodiment of the actual law of Bills of Exchange, Promissory Notes and Cheques, will, we doubt not, be welcomed by the mercantile community; and the Insurance Bill (which was sent out in an unfinished state) can be completed in the course of the summer, and will supply rules on subjects of great and growing importance in India.

12. Then, or pending the completion of the Insurance Bill, the Guardian and Ward Act (XIII of 1874) might be extended to the whole of British India, and possibly to all the classes to which the Succession Act applies, and the two subjects of Parent and Child and of Master and Servant might be taken up. The rules as to custody of children, which a Bill on the former subject would of course contain, would supply a want often felt by the Courts of this country. A Bill on the latter subject has already been prepared by our colleague, Mr. Stokes, and will, we think, prove useful. Much of the harshness with which Europeans and East Indians occasionally treat Native servants is due, we are convinced, to the absence of any distinct ascertainable rules as to their respective rights and duties. The opportunity might be taken to amend the law as to the right of servants to compensation for injury caused by the negligence of foremen in their masters' employment, and to enable the Local Governments and Administrations to establish a system of registering household servants.

13. Alluvion and its kindred subject Diluvion should then, we think, be dealt with.

14. We would then take up the law of Easements—a difficult and complicated subject, but one on which the law has recently been digested with exceptional care and completeness.

15. The law of Boundaries might then be dealt with. A short Act would contain all the rules that a Civil Code need provide on this subject.

16. When these measures are passed, the rights of the population will, to a large extent, have been ascertained and declared. Then (but not till then) we should deal with the subject of Torts or Actionable Wrongs, laying down clear rules as to the damages to be awarded in respect of each, and taking the opportunity to amend the law in three respects, namely, by barring suits for mere oral abuse, by finally getting rid of suits for criminal conversation, and by altering the law in the Presidency towns so as to allow an injured person to bring a civil suit without instituting criminal proceedings.

17. The outline of a complete Civil Code would then be nearly filled in. There would remain the subjects of Carriers (Marine and Inland), Trusts, Gifts inter vivos, Bottomry and the other liens on Moveables which have not been treated by the Contract Act, and Accession to Moveables so far as this subject is not disposed of by sections 155-157 of the same Act. The order of dealing with them is unimportant.

18. The task of arranging scientifically the various chapters of the Civil Code thus produced would then remain; and to the finished work we should either prefix or subjoin a chapter containing rules for its interpretation. The enactment of such a chapter would be welcomed by our Mufassal Magistracy, and would afford an opportunity for abolishing the pernicious and illogical distinctions between the modes of construing remedial statutes, penal statutes and statutes imposing charges on the subject, which have been imported from England by Judges more familiar with the common-law than impressed by the importance of giving effect to the wishes of the Legislature.

19. We have now to answer your Lordship's enquiry as to whether any and which of the laws that we have recommended should apply, like the Succession Act, only to certain classes of the population. In reply to this question, we beg to say that, in our opinion, the right of pre-emption exercised by Muhammadans and their Hindú imitators, the option of certain Native mortgagees to make further advances required by the mortgagors, and the custom of Hindú merchants as to hundís (Native bills of exchange) should not be interfered with; but that, with these savings, and those mentioned in sections 49 and 93 of the Transfer of Property Bill, all the measures which we have mentioned as necessary to complete the Code of Contract Law may safely and usefully be applied in the first instance to every one in British India. A like answer may be given as regards the proposed enactments relating to Alluvion and Diluvion, Easements, Boundaries, Torts, Trusts, Gifts inter vivos, and, probably, Master and Servant. On the other hand, we would, in the first instance at all events, confine legislation on the subjects of Husband and Wife, Parent and Child, and Guardian and Ward to the classes to which the Succession Act applies; in other words, we would leave all persons professing the Muhammadan, Hindú, Buddhist, Sikh, Jaina or Pársi religion their existing laws and usages on these subjects. Those laws and usages are, in the case of Muhammadans, founded on the Kurán and the Traditions, and interference with them might therefore excite religious feeling. In the case of Hindús, though it would be desirable to settle certain vexed questions as to the right of a Hindú father to the custody of his child, the right of a Hindú outcaste to the custody of his minor wife, we should prefer to let them stand over for the present. The fact that in the Presidency-towns the rights of Hindú and Muhammadan fathers are expressly reserved by statute* should not be lost sight of in considering the propriety of applying to Natives our laws as to Personal Relations.

* 21 Geo. III, c. 70, s. 18.

37 Geo. III, c. 142, s. 12.

20. In conclusion, we beg to repeat our deliberate opinion that the codification of Indian Law should be carried out in India rather than in England. We adhere to the reasons against the constitution of a permanent Indian Law Commission working in England which are given in paragraphs 5, 17, 19 and 20 of our despatch of the 5th July 1875. We would add that there is nothing in parliamentary legislation which countenances the appointment of such a Commission. On the contrary, under 3 & 4 Wm. IV, c. 85, ss. 53, 54,† the Indian Law Commissioners were to do, and did, their work in India, not in England, and the existence of the Commission appointed under 16 & 17 Vic., c. 95, s. 28, to examine and consider the recommendations of the former Commission, and to report their opinion thereon to Her Majesty, was expressly limited to three years after the passing of the latter statute. We submit, further, that the finances of India can ill afford the considerable outlay which would be needed to establish and maintain for many years in London a Commission composed of eminent lawyers. A Commission like the first, acting in India under the instructions of the Governor General in Council, and reporting to the same authority, would, no doubt, be free from many of the objections above referred to: its projects of law would be suited to the country and would be freely discussed and criticised by the Indian public: the introduction of those projects would be gradual: the Bills prepared to give them effect would be passed into law soon after they were finished; and the Bills themselves would be prepared by draftsmen conversant with the Indian Acts and Regulations, and able to consult unofficially judges, lawyers and civilians familiar in practice with the subjects dealt with. But here again the financial difficulty arises. The cost of the Indian Law Commission from 1835-36 to 1849-50 was Rs. 22,29,866, or an average annual charge of Rs. 1,59,276; and there is no reason to believe that a new Commission would cost less. On the whole, we think that the assistance which our Legislative Department will doubtless require in completing our Civil Code may most economically and effectively be given by attaching to that Department one of the barristers whom the Parliamentary Counsel has trained as parliamentary draftsmen. And should your Lordship be satisfied that the appointment of a Commission is open to the objections which we have submitted to your consideration, we shall be glad if you will request Sir Henry Thring to select from his former pupils one

P. S.—We enclose a Minute written by our Hon'ble colleague Sir E. C. Bayley after most of us had signed this despatch.

Minute by the Hon'ble Sir E. C. BAYLEY, dated 15th May, 1877.

I do not dissent from the present despatch, but I think that paragraph 20 hardly expresses fully some of the objections to the establishment of a Law Commission in England.

Gentlemen of the ability and standing to whom alone a task of this sort could be committed, would hardly consent that their work should be submitted to the absolutely unrestricted revision of the Indian Government and the Indian legislature; and yet it is impossible to pass laws free from the most serious, even dangerous, errors and defects unless this condition be fulfilled. For it is only through the numerous references to persons interested or skilled in the matters which form the subject of legislation—and through the discussions for which the constitution of the Indian legislature provide—that such errors and defects can be discovered and cured. Within my own knowledge, some draft measures have been altogether abandoned in consequence of the opinions so elicited in India; and I think it may be fairly said that no one measure of importance has of late years passed into law which has not been very much modified and improved in deference to external criticism obtained by this means.

I believe it is of vital importance, both from a political and from an administrative point of view, to maintain the opportunity thus secured for the legitimate expressions of sound public opinion on our legislative measures, and this would be either altogether lost, or reduced to an unimportant minimum, if these measures received their substantial form in England.

On the whole, I believe the existing machinery for legislating in India is admirably fitted for the present requirements of the country, and I should greatly deprecate any modification which would limit its powers.

No. 46 (Legislative), dated 9th August, 1877.

*From—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India,
 To—The Government of India.*

The despatch of your Excellency in Council, dated 10th May, No. 34 of 1877, on the subject of the codification of Indian substantive law, has been considered by me in Council.

2. The course which your Government proposes to follow is clearly stated in the despatch under reply. The question whether the work of codification shall be initiated in India or in England is of extreme difficulty; but, on the whole, after much consideration, I am prepared to acquiesce in the plan proposed by your Excellency in Council, and I shall therefore consult Sir Henry Thring as to the selection of a skilled draftsman who shall be attached to the Legislative Department of your Government.

3. I desire, in thus sanctioning the course suggested by your Lordship in Council, to make two remarks. As the subjects which will engage the attention of your Legislative Department will be of great complexity and importance, I trust that the orders requiring all Bills to be sent to me before they become law will be strictly complied with, and you will, of course, be prepared for some delay in receiving my views upon them. I cannot undertake to deal with Bills on the subjects discussed in your despatch under reply without ample time for deliberation.

4. I would further suggest for the consideration of your Government that, when once the scheme for the completion of the Code has been finally settled, it might be expedient that the rough drafts of some of the required chapters should be prepared in this country, and, after examination by me in Council, should be transmitted to India for revision. There are exceptional facilities for obtaining skilled professional assistance in England, and I am inclined to think that, by occasional resort to the above expedient, both economy and early completion of this important work would be promoted.

5. Referring, now, to the general question of the preparation of Acts, and especially to the last paragraph of the despatch under reply, in which it is requested that I will continue my endeavours to procure for your Government the services of a competent Parliamentary draftsman, I have to inform you that I will not fail to bear your wishes in mind, but that there will be great difficulty in obtaining for you the assistance of a really competent man. This is shown by a letter addressed to a member of my Council by Sir Henry Thring, a copy of which I enclose. Under the circumstances stated by that gentleman, I would wish your Excellency in Council to give full consideration to the plan sketched out by Sir Henry Thring, and furnish me with your opinion, after due deliberation, whether, under a choice of difficulties, his scheme, or some modification of it, might not be adopted, as affording the best means of proceeding with Indian codification.

(Signed) SALISBURY.

Dated 10th November, 1877.
Demi-official from—Sir Henry Thring, To—The Hon'ble Sir H. S. Maine.

In compliance with your request that I should suggest for the consideration of the Government of India the names of any gentlemen whom I might deem qualified for the post of Legislative Secretary to that Government, or of Assistant Legislative Secretary, I named Mr. C. P. Ilbert and Mr. G. A. R. FitzGerald. I find that neither of these gentlemen is willing to go to India. It would seem then that my duty would end by merely stating to you that I have no further recommendation to make upon the subject; but as you have consulted me in respect of the appointment of persons qualified to fill a post which, as I understand, involves the duty of drawing or assisting to draw a code for India, I may perhaps be allowed to add that, in my judgment, the best course the Government of India could adopt for carrying into effect any scheme of general or partial codification, would be to send to England instructions with respect to the subject-matter to be embodied in the form of Statutes, accompanied by directions that the English draftsmen should be employed to work out those instructions under the direct control and supervision of the Government of India. Such a plan would command the services of the best draftsmen in England; and if personal communication were required to give a complete finish to the work, a draftsman might go out from England for a few months, and finally settle any important points under the immediate supervision of the Indian Government.

I consider such a plan to be quite practicable, as it does not appear to me that the work of codifying or consolidating the law requires the constant personal communication which is necessary as between a minister and his draftsman in the conduct of current legislation in England.

I am, &c.,
(Signed) HENRY THRING.

No. 53 (Legislative), dated 24th June, 1878.

From—The Government of India,

To—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

We have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of the despatch of Your Lordship's predecessor, Legislative No. 2, dated 31st January 1878, in which, referring to our request that the services of a Parliamentary draftsman might be procured for our Government, Lord Salisbury informs us that there will be great difficulty in obtaining the assistance of a really competent man. This, His Lordship says, is shown by a letter addressed to Sir Henry Maine by Sir Henry Thring, a copy of which Lord Salisbury encloses. Lord Salisbury then desires us to give full consideration to the plan sketched out by Sir Henry Thring and furnish our opinion, after due deliberation, whether, under a choice of difficulties, his scheme, or some modification of it, may not be adopted, as affording the best means of proceeding with Indian codification.

2. In reply, we beg to say that we have considered the proposal made by Sir Henry Thring with the respect due to every thing emanating from so able and distinguished a man. It amounts in effect to this: that we should employ draftsmen in London to frame our measures of codification under our direct control and supervision, and that in special cases a draftsman might come out to India for a few months and finally settle any important points arising out of his drafts. Two questions at once suggest themselves: can we exercise direct control and supervision over a gentleman working 5,000 miles away? And can the services of a draftsman of sufficient standing be secured for such temporary employment in India? As regards the first of these questions, we would observe that the substance of every complex Bill introduced into the Indian legislature, no matter how carefully framed it may be in the first instance, undergoes constant modification in Committee, partly owing to the action of the members, but chiefly owing to the communications received from and through the Local Governments. It has been found by experience that these modifications, to be made effectually, and without spoiling other parts of the same measure, must be made by the hand that originally drew the Bill, and that the expediency of making them often depends on technical considerations with which the draftsman is alone familiar. Either, then, he must be constantly present during the process of revision, or the Committee must engage in protracted correspondence which would certainly cause great loss of time and would probably lead to unsatisfactory results. With reference also to the form of a Bill, we fear that any one working in England would find it almost impossible to maintain that uniformity of structure, arrangement and wording, to which special importance has been attached in our legislation. We cannot, therefore, dispense with constant personal communication with our draftsman. As regards the second question, we cannot think it probable that any one of the lawyers whom it would be worth our while to employ would ever consent to leave his work in London and break up his professional connection for the sake of the remuneration that we could afford to give him for a few months' labour at Simla or Calcutta.

3. But these difficulties, serious as they are, are of but little importance as compared with another objection which appears to us to attach to Sir Henry Thring's proposal. It is this, that to draw even the simplest Act, the draftsman must have at his finger-ends the whole of the existing law relating to its subject-matter, and that there is not now, and probably never will be, a body of draftsmen in England familiar enough with Indian law to frame Bills which will provide for all matters which they should deal with, and steer clear of all rules which they should not repeal. In drawing a new law, the most essential part of the draftsman's art is to make it fit on to the law with which it comes into contact; and unless that law is thoroughly engrained into the draftsman's mind, or unless his work is constantly supervised by some one who has his mind so furnished, inconsistencies and mistakes provocative of litigation, wasteful of public time, costly to suitors, injurious to our intellectual prestige, are absolutely certain to occur.

4. We will now enumerate briefly the sources of the laws in force in India, all of which ought to be as well known to the Indian draftsman as the English reports and Statutes are to Sir Henry Thring himself. They fall under three heads: statutory law, case-law, and Native law and local usages.

A.—Statutory Law.

- I. The Statutes relating to India. Of these there are now 195, without counting those passed before the year 1726, when the Mayors' Courts were established in the Presidency-towns.
- II. The Acts of the Governor General in Council. Of these there are now about 388, filling (say) 4,000 pages.
- III. The Acts of the three Local Legislative Councils. Of these there are now about 180.
- IV. The unrepealed Bengal, Madras and Bombay Regulations. Of these there are still 113.
- V. The unrepealed Regulations made under 33 Vic., c. 3. Of these there are 31.

B.—Case-law.

- VI. The decisions of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council reported in Moore's Indian Appeal Cases, the Law Reports (Indian Appeals) and elsewhere.
- VII. The Reports of the late Supreme Court, the late Sadr Diwání Adálat, and the present High Court at Fort William.
- VIII. The Reports of the late Supreme Court and the present High Court at Madras.*
- IX. The Reports of the late Sadr Adálat and the present High Court at Bombay.
- X. The Reports of the late Sadr Adálat and the present High Court in the North-Western Provinces.

These reports fill 263 volumes, which are constantly growing in number.

C.—Native Law and Local Usages.

These may, to some extent, be gathered from text-books and translations; but our chief sources of information are the reports of Local Governments on the draft Bills and oral communication with intelligent Natives and other persons of Indian experience.

5. The total absence of anything like a complete index to the Indian Acts and Regulations or a decent digest of the decisions of the Indian Courts enhances the difficulty of getting up in a short time the Indian law on any given subject, and it is certain that even the most industrious draftsman could not gain in less than three years a sufficient familiarity with this mass of jurisprudence.

6. We should anticipate the greatest difficulty in inducing any English lawyer with an established, or even a promising, practice (and such alone we should care to employ) to devote himself to so long and so laborious a task for the chance of being retained to draw one or two of our measures of codification.

7. It need hardly be pointed out to persons in England who interest themselves in the codification of Indian law, that this country is not a tabula rasa on which we may inscribe fancy Codes or copy bodies of English rules. Whatever may be the case at home or on the Continent, in this country there is not now, and never has been, any opportunity or desire for such anti-historical codification as was proposed by Bentham. With the sole exceptions of Insurance and Maritime Lien, India has either developed, with more or less completeness, or adapted to local circumstances, rules on every branch of law that could fitly be codified; and the first principle of the policy of codification which the Government of India has resumed is that as little change as possible should be made in the substance of the existing law, whether enacted by the legislature, declared by judicial decisions, or established by ancient usage. To give effect to this principle, the draftsman must obviously know, not only what to say, but what to abstain from saying; and this knowledge, we are persuaded, can only be obtained by training and study in India.

8. Since, therefore, we have reluctantly been forced to the conclusion that neither Sir Henry Thring's scheme, nor any modification of it, could be adopted with a reasonable chance of success: since we retain our opinion that the codification of Indian law should be carried out in India rather than in England; and since, from the despatch under reply, it appears impracticable to obtain a

* There are also several volumes of printed judgments of the late Sadr Adálat at Madras; but they are now hardly ever cited, and may, for the present purpose, be neglected.

Parliamentary draftsman competent to aid us in the work of codification, we feel constrained to revert to the proposal suggested rather than made in paragraph 20 of our Legislative despatch No. 34, dated 10th May 1877, namely, that a Commission should be appointed to complete the codification of the Substantive Law of this country, and to consider such other matters in relation to the laws of India as may be referred to it by the Government; but that it should act in India under the instructions of the Governor General in Council, and report to the same authority.

9. The Commission might be composed of three: a distinguished English lawyer (preferably a Barrister Judge of one of our High Courts), a Civilian Judge of one of the same Courts, and the Law Member of our Council, who should of course be President of the Commission. This would secure not only adequate legal ability and learning, but also familiarity with the practice of the Indian Courts, large experience of the working of our present laws, intimate knowledge of the people, their feelings and usages, and lastly, the due influence of the Executive on the operations of the Commissioners.

10. The cost of such a Commission would not be serious. We have reason to believe that the services of one of the ablest and most experienced of our Barrister Judges could be obtained for Rs. 5,000 a month, and the pay of the Civilian member would of course not exceed that sum. Allowing, then, Rs. 2,000 a month for the salary of a Secretary, the annual cost of such a Commission as we propose would not exceed Rs. 1,44,000. The Commission should, we think, be temporary, not permanent; and as four of the Bills mentioned in our Legislative despatch No. 34, dated 10th May 1877, have already

* The Easements Bill.
The Alluvion Bill.
The Master and Servant Bill.
The Trusts Bill.

been drawn by our colleague Mr. Stokes;* as two others (the Transfer of Property Bill and the Negotiable Instruments Bill) have already been recast by Select Committees of our Legislative Council, the codification-bills yet remaining to be drawn might be prepared, and the various chapters of the body of law thus produced might be circulated to the Local Governments, revised and arranged, within the period of five years. The total cost of the Commission (assuming it to last for the full time named) would thus be Rs. 7,20,000—a sum which we think may be regarded as quite inconsiderable when compared with the benefits which the country would derive from the early completion of its Civil Code.

11. Should Your Lordship in Council approve of our present proposal, we shall be prepared to make specific recommendations as to the personnel of the Commission.

No. 46 (Legislative), dated 5th September, 1878.

From—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India,

To—The Government of India.

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your Excellency's despatch, No. 53 of 1878 (Legislative), dated Simla, 24th June 1878. I have considered it in Council in connection with the correspondence which had already passed between my predecessor in office and the Government of India on the subject of the continuance and completion of a Civil Code for India, and of the machinery best suited for carrying on this important work.

2. Lord Salisbury, on March 4th, 1875, called the attention of Lord Northbrook's Government to section 28 of 16 & 17 Viet., c. 95, providing for the appointment of an Indian Law Commission, and observed that, as these provisions had not been repealed, they formed part of the statute law regulating Indian government. The Governor General in Council, on July 5th of the same year, raised strong objections to the revival of any Law Commission in England, and Lord Salisbury in reply,* after urging on Lord Northbrook's Government that the question of giving a Civil Code to India was no longer an open one, reserved his opinion as to the best machinery for carrying on Indian codification. Some attempts subsequently made, at the instance of your Excellency in Council, to obtain skilled assistance for your Legislative Department from this country have failed through the refusal of the draftsmen nominated for this service to go to India, and you now object, in the second, third and following paragraphs of your letter under reply, to a proposal of Sir Henry Thring that drafts of Indian laws should be prepared in his office in London, and sent to India. You suggest, however, in the eighth and following paragraphs, that a Law Commission of a new description should be appointed, and that it should act in India under the instructions of the Governor General in Council.

3. I am prepared to give my favourable consideration to any proposal for reviving the Indian Law Commission in a convenient form. I share the opinion which appears to have been entertained by my predecessor, that it is very doubtful whether Parliament intended that the preparation of an Indian Code should be exclusively confided to the Law Member of Council, however great his ability and energy, and the examination of draft laws of that description exclusively entrusted to your Council for making Laws and Regulations, however well that body may be constituted for purposes of current legislation.

4. Your Excellency's present proposals are contained in paragraphs 9 and 10 of your letter, which are as follows:—

"The Commission might be composed of three, a distinguished English lawyer (preferably a Barrister Judge of one of our High Courts), a Civilian Judge of one of the same Courts, and the Law Member of our Council, who should of course be President of the Commission. This would secure not only adequate legal ability and learning, but also familiarity with the practice of the Indian Courts, large experience of the working of our present laws, intimate knowledge of the people, their feelings and usages, and lastly, the due influence of the Executive on the operations of the Commissioners.

"The cost of such a Commission would not be serious. We have reason to believe that the services of one of the ablest and most experienced of our Barrister Judges could be obtained for Rs. 5,000 a month, and the pay of the Civilian Member would, of course, not exceed that sum. Allowing, then, Rs. 2,000 a month for the salary of a Secretary, the annual cost of such a Commission as we propose would not exceed Rs. 1,44,000. The Commission should, we think, be temporary, not permanent, and as four of the Bills mentioned in our Legislative despatch, No. 34, dated 10th May 1877, have already been drawn by our colleague Mr.

* The Easements Bill.

The Alluvion Bill.

The Master and Servant Bill.

The Trusts Bill.

Stokes,* as two others (the Transfer of Property Bill and the Negotiable Instruments Bill) have already been recast by Select Committees of our Legislative Council, the Codification Bills yet remaining to be drawn might be prepared, and the various chapters of the body of law thus produced might be circulated to the Local Governments, revised and arranged, within the period of five years. The total cost of the Commission (assuming it to last for the full time named) would thus be Rs. 7,20,000, a sum which we think may be regarded as quite inconsiderable when compared with the benefits which the country would derive from the early completion of its Civil Code."

5. There are some precedents which raise a certain presumption in favour of a scheme of this nature. The Indian Legislative Council was formerly assisted in its deliberations by two of the Judges of the Supreme Courts, and the Code of Indictable Offences prepared in this country and introduced into the House of Commons by the Attorney General is to be referred to a Commission very closely corresponding to that which you propose. But the cost of the plan which you submit to me will be very considerable, and I am not altogether satisfied with some of its details. I entirely agree with you that the Judges selected as Commissioners should have "large experience of the working of the present laws;" but if they have had time to obtain this experience, and are withdrawn from their judicial duties for five years, they probably will have completed their service before their labours as Commissioners are finished, so that your proposal would seem to be one for employing retired Judges rather than gentlemen actively engaged in judicial duty.

6. I am again strongly opposed to any scheme for compressing the completion of the Civil Code within a period of five years, or any other definite time. Any such attempt will tend to produce haste and consequent imperfection in an undertaking which, before all things, requires deliberate care. The branches of law which remain to be codified are, on the whole, more complex than those which have been already declared in chapters of the Code, and the difficulties of harmonizing them with the feelings and usages of the people, of which, as you justly observe, knowledge is essential to the codifier, will be unusually great. I concur with my predecessor in deprecating any arrest of codification, but I am convinced that rapidity of execution is much less important than circumspection and thorough consideration.

7. For these reasons, and having regard to the novelty and probable cost of your proposal, I am of opinion that it should, in the first instance, be carried into effect experimentally. I am willing that you should take measures for securing the services of two Judges as Commissioners during six months of the year preceding the commencement of your Legislative sittings in Calcutta during the winter of 1879. They may be treated as on leave for that period, though upon full pay; and at the end of the six months the Commissioners should report to Your Excellency, and I request that you will furnish me with their report before taking any further steps. The cost of the Commission would thus practically be confined to the expense of temporarily supplying the places of the Judges in their Courts, and it would not I, presume, be necessary in all cases to provide substitutes for them.

8. I am not sure whether I am to infer from the 10th paragraph of your letter under reply that you desire to withdraw from the cognizance of the Commissioners, Bills intended to be chapters of the Code, which have already made some progress in the Legislative Council. I am, however, of opinion that this withdrawal would be inexpedient, and I think that all codifying Bills should be submitted to the Commissioners for report. I note Your Excellency's statement that all intended chapters of the Code will be circulated to the Local Governments, and I have observed with pleasure that this appears, from the papers sent to this Office, to be your usual practice.

I have, &c.,

No. 90 (Legislative), dated 6th December, 1878.

From—The Government of India,

To—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

WE have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Lordship's despatch No. 46 (Legislative), dated the 5th September last, on the subject of the continuance and completion of the Indian Civil Code, and to state that we accept your Lordship's proposal that the new Commissioners should, in the first instance, be appointed only for the six months preceding the commencement of our legislative sittings in Calcutta during the winter of 1879-80.

2. We have already ascertained that Mr. Justice Turner of the Allahabad High Court, and Mr. Justice West of the Bombay High Court will be willing to sit on the Commission, and we think ourselves fortunate in securing their services.

3. With reference to paragraph 8 of your Lordship's despatch, we beg to state that we had no intention of withdrawing from the cognizance of the Commissioners the Bills intended to be chapters of the Code, which have already been drafted. On the contrary, it is our desire that the attention of the Commissioners should, in the first instance, be directed to those Bills. The opinions of the local authorities on them are still coming in, and we believe that the consideration of those opinions and the final elaboration of the drafts with reference thereto will be sufficient to occupy the time of the Commissioners during the greater part of the six months' period fixed by your Lordship.

4. There is, however, another matter to which we desire that the Commissioners should apply themselves during this their first session, namely, the consideration of the subjects on which a codification of the law is most urgently needed; the order in which those subjects should be taken up, and the extent, both as regards territory and classes of the population, which should be given to each chapter of the Code—the consideration, in short, of the general plan of operations.

5. We have already in our despatch No. 34 (Legislative), dated 10th May 1877, stated our views on this matter at some length; but we think it due to the learned persons who are now to be associated with our hon'ble colleague Mr. Stokes in the actual execution of the work, that they should be allowed an opportunity of pronouncing an opinion on the proposed scheme, and should not be absolutely bound down to every detail of a plan which, however carefully considered, was drawn up without any reference to them.

6. As we regard this matter of the selection of subjects for treatment, the order in which they are to be taken up, the general arrangement of the Code and the applicability of its various parts, as one of the first importance, and as we are accordingly anxious that the Commissioners should have all possible assistance in considering it, we would ask Your Lordship to invite two of our late law members, who have always displayed a warm interest in the progress of codification in India—we mean Sir H. Maine and Sir J. Stephen—to favour us with their opinion upon it. We trust that they will not refuse to aid us in this important work, and that their views may be communicated to us by your Lordship in time to be laid before the Commissioners when they meet next May.

We have, &c.,

RETURNS OF ACCIDENTS ON INDIAN RAILWAYS FOR THE 1st QUARTER OF 1879.

Circular No. 4 R., dated Fort William, 6th February 1879.

READ AGAIN—

Public Works Department Circular No. 4 R of 5th March 1878.
" " " " 27 R of 16th September 1878.

READ ALSO—

Returns of accidents to trains, &c., on railways open for traffic in India during the 1st quarter of 1878.

OBSERVATIONS.—In accordance with the instructions issued in Circular No. 4 R, just read, the system of quarterly accident returns came into force from 1st January 1878. The forms adopted were those prescribed by the Board of Trade for the railways in the United Kingdom, with scarcely any variation. The object of this change was to bring under review the accidents which occur on Indian Railways at shorter intervals, and more promptly than had been found possible with the system of annual returns. The period contained in the present return being only 3 months, no useful comparison can be made with previous returns.

Part I.—Accidents to Trains, Rolling-Stock, Permanent-way, &c.

During the quarter ending 31st March 1878, the total casualties resulting from accidents to trains, rolling-stock, &c., were 3 servants killed and 4 injured.

There were 3 collisions between passenger trains, or parts of passenger trains; 16 collisions between passenger trains and goods or mineral trains, engines or vehicles standing foul of the line, causing injury to 2 railway servants; 15 collisions between goods trains or parts of goods trains, causing the death of 1 servant and injury to another; 1 collision between light engines; 12 cases of passenger trains or parts of passenger trains leaving the rails; 130 cases of goods trains, or parts of goods trains, engines, &c., leaving the rails, causing the death of 1 servant and injury to another; 24 cases of trains or engines travelling in the wrong direction through points, by which 1 servant was killed; 3 cases of trains running into stations or sidings at too high a speed; 150 cases of trains running over cattle; 15 cases of running over obstructions; 9 cases of trains running through level crossing gates; and 4 cases of bursting of boilers or tubes of engines. There were also reported 24 cases of failures of machinery, springs, &c., of engines; 1 case of failure of wheels; 37 failures of axles; 12 failures of couplings; 1 case of a piece of rock falling upon an engine in a tunnel; 5 cases of broken rails; 1 case of slip in embankment; 151 cases of fire in trains; 3 cases of fire at stations, or involving injury to bridges or viaducts, and 116 other miscellaneous accidents.

Of the 116 miscellaneous accidents, 93 are reported by the East Indian Railway alone. These consist chiefly of cases of points being damaged, and it seems doubtful whether uniformity of practice is observed on all railways in returning this class of accidents.

Of the 37 axles which failed, 33 were wagon axles, the remaining four were 3 tender axles, and 1 trailing axle of an engine. The last four are reported in the return of the Rangoon and Irrawaddy Valley State Railway.

Part II.—Accidents to passengers from causes other than accidents to trains, &c. Persons passing over level crossings, trespassers, and others.

There were 5 passengers killed and 9 injured, of whom 1 was killed and 1 injured by falling between carriages and platforms; 1 killed and 1 injured by falling when getting into or out of trains; 1 injured whilst crossing the line at a station; 2 killed and 5 injured by falling out of carriages during the travelling of trains; and 1 killed and 1 injured through other causes. Of other persons included in Part II of the return, 3 were killed and 2 injured whilst passing over railways at level crossings; 22 killed and 11 injured whilst trespassing on the line; 9 were suicides; 1 injured in attempting to commit suicide; and 8 killed and 6 injured from miscellaneous causes.

Part III.—Accidents to servants in the employ of railways or of contractors whilst performing duties connected with the transit of passengers and goods.

Out of a total of 34 killed and injured, 2 were killed and 15 injured during shunting operations; 3 killed and 11 injured by falling off engines, &c.; 1 injured by coming in contact with over bridges, &c., during the travelling of trains; 7 killed and 4 injured whilst getting in or out of trains, engines, &c.; 2 killed and 4 injured whilst loading, unloading or shunting; 2 injured whilst breaking, spragging or choking wheels; 2 killed whilst working on the permanent-way or in sidings; 1 injured whilst walking along the lines on the way home or to work; 8 killed and 5 injured whilst walking, crossing or standing on the line; 1 injured whilst passing between vehicles; 1 killed and 6 injured whilst attending to the machinery of engines; 2 killed whilst attending to gates at level crossings; 2 killed and 2 injured by falling or being caught between vehicles and platforms; 2 injured by the falling of weights, &c.; 3 killed and 3 injured whilst coupling or uncoupling wagons; and 2 killed and 8 injured from miscellaneous causes.

The following table shows the general total of persons killed and injured in connection with the working of trains on all railways during the period under review:—

| | Killed. | Injured. |
|---|-----------|-----------|
| PASSENGERS— | | |
| From causes beyond their own control .. | | 2 |
| From their own misconduct or want of caution .. | 5 | 7 |
| SERVANTS — | | |
| From causes beyond their own control .. | 2 | 15 |
| From their own misconduct or want of caution .. | 35 | 54 |
| Persons passing at level crossings .. | 3 | 2 |
| Trespassers (including suicides) .. | 31 | 12 |
| Other persons .. | 8 | 6 |
| | 84 | 98 |

In addition to the above, 17 persons, mostly railway servants, were killed and 18 injured in yards, workshops, &c. There have also been reported 105 deaths of passengers in carriages and at stations, due to a large extent to their undertaking journeys when in bad health.

Owing to the late submission of the returns of some of the railways and the incomplete manner in which they were submitted, the compilation of the general returns for this quarter has been considerably delayed.

RESOLUTION.—Attention should be drawn to the large number of miscellaneous accidents on the East Indian Railway and enquiry made whether similar accidents are reported on other Railways. The discretionary powers relegated to Consulting Engineers in para. 2 of Circular No. 27 R, dated the 16th September 1878, should be exercised in the exclusion from the returns submitted to Government of such accidents as damage to points resulting in no further mischief. All Local Governments and Officers concerned should be requested to adopt such measures as will ensure the careful preparation and punctual submission of these returns to the Government of India.

ORDER.—Ordered, that this Resolution be communicated to the Govern-

Governments of Madras, Bombay, Bengal, and North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE, AND COMMERCE.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS
FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 11th FEBRUARY 1879.

GENERAL REMARKS.—In Madras general prospects are reported to be tolerably fair, except in Tinnevely and Tanjore and parts of Bellary. No change has taken place in the Bombay Presidency, where the weather continues cold; damage from rats still occurs in the Southern Mahratta country and parts of the Deccan. In Mysore the crops are in good condition; prices have risen slightly here and there. No rain has fallen in the Central Provinces; the spring crops are good towards the east and fair elsewhere, except in Damoh, Chhindwára, Betul, Hoshungabad and Saugor. In Berar the prospects of the rabi are satisfactory and reaping has commenced. No improvement has occurred in Central India and Rajputana, and prices are rising. In Bengal rain is reported to have fallen in the northern portion of the province and in Behar and parts of the Dacca division, and the standing crops have no doubt benefited by it; the want of rain is, however, still felt in many other places; the aman harvest has been completed, and reaping of some of the winter crops has commenced; prices are everywhere high, and owing to large exportations of rice, they are rising in some districts. Slight rain has fallen in Assam and prospects are favourable. In the report from British Burma there is nothing special to note in regard to the crops; slight cholera and some cattle disease continue in places, and a severe outbreak of fever has occurred at Hmawbee in the Rangoon district. Light showers of rain fell in one district of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and in two districts of the Punjab. The general report from the North-West is, that there is no change, and that rain is much needed, whilst in the Punjab the almost total failure of the winter rains has rendered harvest prospects uncertain, except in the case of canal-irrigated lands. Although broadly speaking this is the state of the Province, it is satisfactory to note that in Multan and Dera Ismail Khan, districts where any real pressure would be felt at once, the state of the crops is still favourably reported.

| Bongal—(Feb. 11th) | | |
| Chittagong | N7 | Weather seasonable; the prospects of the cold-weather crops are good; small-pox is reported from Cox's Bazar. |
| Noakhally | N7 | Mornings foggy and cloudy during the last few days; the direction of the wind has been unusual and changeable; the prospects of the rabi crops are fair; scattered cases of sickness are reported—cholera and small-pox. |
| Chittagong Hill Tracts... | N7 | Weather seasonably cold; the gathering of the mustard crop still continues; tobacco plants are doing well; general health is good. |
| Hill Tipperah | N7 | Weather rather a little too hot for the season; the prospects of chillies are good; mustard and sugarcane are being cut; winter crops are not grown to any large extent. |
| Backergunge | N7 | Weather seasonable; the crops on the ground are doing well; the price of rice in Perozepore is still said to be rising on account of large exportations; general health is good. |
| Furreedpore | N7 | Weather getting warmer; occasionally foggy in the mornings; the winter crop will be a fair one, but would have been better had there been more rain. |
| Dacca | 0.60 | Weather getting sensibly warmer; heavy fogs during the week; the state and prospects of the crops are good; the fogs have been almost as good as rain, and all crops look well. |
| Mymensingh | N7 | Weather fine; a little warmer than last week; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable, but a little rain is wanted for the chena and kaon crops. |
| Tipperah | 0.13 | Weather seasonable; the cold-weather crops are being gathered; the outturn is fully up in the average; exportation is keeping up the price of rice; a few cases of sporadic cholera are reported from the Brahmanbaria sub-division. |
| 24-Pergunnahs | N7 | Weather warmer; foggy mornings; the state and prospects of the crops are satisfactory, but prices of grains continue very high; public health in general is good; small-pox is reported from Barackpore. |
| Jessore | N7 | Weather fine and gets warm during the day; rain is still wanted in parts of the district; the prospects of the winter crops in parts of the district are not so good from want of rain; the chena and linseed crops are well reported of; public health is good. |
| Nuddea | N7 | Weather warm; the winter crops are fair, but rain is wanted for the wheat; cholera is still prevalent in various parts of the district. |
| Moorshedabad | N7 | A great change in the weather since last week; it has become perpetually warm; the crops are in fair condition; the price of chena has fallen in the market; small-pox is reported from Barackpore. |
| Pubna | N7 | Weather warmer than a few days since; prospects are good; the only spring crops (rice) are in fair condition; prospects for good. |
| Rajshahye | N7 | The winter crops are in fair condition; but want a little rain; luc is being prepared for the market; public health is good. |
| Bogra | N7 | Weather fine and gets warm during the day; prospects are favourable, though rain will soon be wanted for the winter crops. |
| Dinagpore | 0.17 | Weather fine; the winter crops are in fair condition; the cold-weather crops are good; rice continues to be in fair condition; the luc is in fair condition. |
| Rungpore | 0.16 | Weather seasonable; all crops prosper well; public health is good; cholera is abating. |
| Cooch Behar | N7 | Weather fair; somewhat warmer; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable; nothing to add to last report; public health continues good. |
| Jalpaiguri | 0.39 | Weather fine; sensibly warmer and clouds gather frequently; strong east wind have been prevalent; the cultivation for chena is progressing; wheat and barley are being harvested; mustard and tobacco are doing well; for the former crop in the Duars portion of the district rain is wanted. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|--|------------------------------|---|
| Darjeeling ... | 0.15 | Weather very cold; atmosphere cloudy; there is no important crop on the ground; land is being cultivated for other crops. |
| Midnapore .. | Nil | Weather much better than usual for the time of year, the thermometer registering 80° to 90°; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable; the malarious fever is abating. |
| Howrah ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; but somewhat warmer than it ought to be; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable. |
| Hooghly ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the prospects of the winter crops are good; some of them are being cut; a few cases of cholera and small-pox are reported in the sub-division of Serampore. |
| Burdwan ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the prospects of the standing crops are good. |
| Bankura ... | Nil | Weather getting warmer daily; the prospects of the crops are fair; a little rain is wanted; fever is disappearing; some cases of small-pox are reported. |
| Bacchhoom ... | Nil | The weather has become much warmer; nothing to report about the crops. |
| Southal Pergunnahs .. | A few drops of rain. | Weather dry, hot, and hazy till the morning of the 9th; the rabi crops want rain. |
| Blajalpur ... | 0.92 | Weather getting warm; mustard is being gathered; other rabi crops are thriving well, but would improve by rain; prices are high for the season; general health is good; a few cases of small-pox are reported from the interior. |
| Monghyr ... | 0.69 | Weather growing warmer; dry west winds prevail; the crops are in excellent condition. |
| Purneah ... | 0.43 | Weather fine; the rabi crops are good, but rain is wanted. |
| Maldah ... | Nil | Weather fair; the reaping of the paddy crop is nearly over; the wheat, barley and rabi plant are thriving well; the public health is improving with the blowing of the western breeze. |
| Darbhanga ... | 0.86 | Weather seasonable; rain is much wanted throughout the district; prices are stationary; health of the people is generally good. |
| Mozufferpore .. | 0.60 | Weather mild, with west wind; the prospects of the rabi crops on good lands are fair, but the crops are very thin and poor elsewhere. |
| Sarun ... | Nil | Weather less cold than last week; west wind (favourable to the rabi crops) is prevailing; the continued drought is doing much harm to the cold-weather crops; rabar , maser and peas have suffered considerable injury from the effect of the frost; poppy is in flower; prices are stationary; public health is good. |
| Champuram .. | 0.29 | High east and west winds; weather warmer; no change to report in the state and prospects of the crops; the rabi crops are urgently in need of rain. |
| Patna ... | 0.97 | Weather seasonable; the prospects of the rabi crops are good. |
| Sysa ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the highest reading of the thermometer in the shade was 86.4; the prospects of rabi continue the same, but a good fall of rain is wanted; a good many cases of small-pox have been reported; the health of the plough-cattle is good. |
| Shahabad ... | 0.60 | Weather cool in the morning; getting warm daily; the rabi crops are suffering for want of rain; small-pox is prevalent in the Sasse-ram sub-division. |
| Hazáribagh .. | Nil | Weather fine and in the day time warm; the nights are still cool; the state of the rabi crops is generally fair, though in parts of the district damage has been done by frost. |
| Lohardugga ... | Nil | Weather becoming warm during the day with occasional high winds; the rabar crop has partially suffered from frosts, but other rabi crops promise well; fever is still very prevalent in the Palamow sub-division. |
| Manbhoom ... | Nil | Weather very warm and most unseasonable; the crops continue good, but the large exportation is sending the price of rice up; 16 or 17 seers per rupee is the current price of common rice; general health continues good. |
| Singhbhoom .. | Nil | Weather warm for the time of the year; no change to report; rain is much required generally, and particularly for the mango which is now coming into blossom. |
| Balasore ... | Nil | Weather rapidly getting warmer; very dry; the cold-weather crops are being got in. |
| Cuttack ... | Nil | Weather fine and warm, with cold nights; the reaping of the sarad and rabi crops is going on; the spring crops are coming up; cholera is decreasing. |
| Pooree ... | Nil | Weather seasonable, sultry at Khorla; the harvesting of the sarad rice continues; the dalia rice is progressing fairly; common rice sells at 15½ to 21 seers for the rupee; public health is good. |
| General Remarks. —There has been rain in Northern Bengal, in Bihar, and in parts of the Dacca Division; whenever it has fallen it must have done good to the standing cold-weather crops, particularly in the Patna Division, where they have long suffered from drought; rain is still wanted in many other places; the aman harvest is now entirely over, and some of the cold-weather crops are being gathered; prices continue high in all districts, and in some they are rising owing to large exportations of rice. | | |

PRESENT:

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by an Act passed in the 37th year of Her Majesty's reign, chapter 85, intituled "The Slave Trade Act, 1873," it was, amongst other things, provided that, where any Treaty in relation to the slave trade is made after the passing of that Act, by or on behalf of Her Majesty with any Foreign State, Her Majesty may, by Order in Council, direct that as from such date, not being earlier than the date of the Treaty as may be specified in the Order, such Treaty shall be deemed to be an existing Slave Trade Treaty within the meaning of the Act, and it was further provided that thereupon (as from the said date, or, if no date should be specified, as from the date of such Order) all the provisions of the Act should apply and be construed accordingly.

And whereas on the 4th day of August in the year 1877 a Treaty or Convention for the suppression of the Slave Trade was concluded between Her Majesty's Government and the Government of His Highness the Khedive of Egypt, in the following terms, that is to say:—

"The Government of Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the Government of His Highness the Khedive of Egypt, being mutually animated by a sincere desire to co-operate for the extinction of the traffic in slaves, and having resolved to conclude a Convention for the purpose of attaining this object, the undersigned, duly authorized for this purpose, have agreed upon the following Articles:—

"ARTICLE I.

"The Government of His Highness the Khedive having already promulgated a law forbidding the trade in slaves (negroes or Abyssinians) within the countries under His Highness' authority, engages to prohibit absolutely from henceforward the importation of any slaves (negroes or Abyssinians) into any part of the territory of Egypt or her dependencies, or their transit through her territories whether by land or sea; and to punish severely, in the manner provided by existing Egyptian law, or in such manner as may hereafter be determined, any person who may be found engaged, directly or indirectly, in the traffic in slaves (negroes or Abyssinians). The Government of His Highness the Khedive further engages to prohibit absolutely any person from leaving the territory of Egypt or her dependencies, unless it be proved indubitably that such negroes or Abyssinians are free or manumitted.

It shall be stated in the certificates of manumission or passports which shall be delivered to them by the Egyptian Authorities before their departure that they may dispose of themselves without restriction or reserve.

"ARTICLE II.

"Any person who, either in Egypt or on the confines of Egypt and her dependencies towards the centre of Africa, may be found engaged in the traffic in slaves (negroes or Abyssinians) either directly or indirectly, shall, together with his accomplices, be considered by the Government of the Khedive as guilty of 'stealing with murder' ('vol avec meurtre'); if subject to Egyptian jurisdiction he shall be handed over for trial to a court-martial, if not he shall immediately be handed over for trial according to the laws of his country to the competent tribunals, with the depositions (procès verbaux) drawn up by the Egyptian superior authority of the place where the traffic has been proved, and all other documents or evidence ('éléments de conviction') handed over by the said authority and destined to serve as proofs at the trial of the traders so far as those laws may admit of such proof.

"All slaves (negroes or Abyssinians) found in the possession of a dealer in slaves shall be liberated and dealt with in conformity with the provisions of Article III, and of Annex (A) to the present Convention.

"ARTICLE III.

"Taking into consideration the impossibility of sending back to their homes slaves (negroes or Abyssinians) who may be captured from slave dealers and liberated, without exposing them to the risk of perishing from fatigue or want, or of falling again into slavery, the Egyptian Government will continue to take and apply in their favour such measures as they have already adopted, and which are hereinafter enumerated in Annex (A) to the present Convention.

"ARTICLE IV.

"The Egyptian Government will exert all the influence it may possess among the tribes of Central Africa, with the view of preventing the wars which are carried on for the purpose of procuring and selling slaves.

"It engages to pursue as murderers all persons who may be found engaged in the mutilation of or traffic in children, if such persons are amenable to Egyptian jurisdiction they will be brought before a court-martial; if not they will be handed over to the competent tribunals to be dealt with according as the law of their country directs, together with the depositions (procès verbaux) and other documents or evidence ('éléments de conviction') as laid down in Article II.

"ARTICLE V.

"The Egyptian Government engages to publish a special Ordinance, the text of which shall be annexed to the present Convention, prohibiting altogether all traffic in slaves within Egyptian territories after a date to be specified in the Ordinance, and providing also for the punishment of persons guilty of violating the provisions of the Ordinance.

"ARTICLE VI.

"With the view to the more effectual suppression of the traffic in slaves (negroes or Abyssinians) in the Red Sea, the Egyptian Government agrees that British cruizers may visit, search, and, if necessary, detain, in order to hand over to the nearest or most convenient Egyptian authority for trial, any Egyptian vessel which may be found engaged in the traffic in slaves (negroes or Abyssinians) as well as any Egyptian vessel which traffic, or which may have been engaged in it on the voyage during which she has been met with.

"This right of visit and detention may be exercised in the Red Sea, in the Gulf of Aden, on the coast of Arabia, and on the East Coast of Africa, and in the maritime waters of Egypt and her dependencies.

"All slaves (negroes or Abyssinians) captured by a British cruiser on board an Egyptian vessel shall be at the disposal of the British Government, who undertakes to adopt efficient measures for securing to them their freedom.

"The vessel and her cargo as well as the crew shall be handed over for trial to the nearest or most convenient Egyptian authority.

"Nevertheless, in all cases where it may not be possible for the commander of the cruiser making the capture to forward the captured slaves to a British depot, or where from any other circumstances it may appear desirable and in the interest of the captured slaves (negroes or Abyssinians) that they should be handed over to the Egyptian authorities, the Egyptian Government engages, on an application being made to them by the commander of the British cruiser, or by an officer deputed by him for that purpose, to take over charge of the captured negroes or Abyssinians, and to secure to them their freedom with all the other privileges stipulated for on behalf of negroes or Abyssinians captured by the Egyptian authorities.

"The British Government, on its part, agrees that all vessels navigating under the British flag in the Red Sea, in the Gulf of Aden, along the coast of Arabia, and the East Coast of Africa, or in the inland waters of Egypt and her dependencies, which may be found engaged in the traffic in slaves (negroes or Abyssinians), may be visited, seized, and detained by the Egyptian authorities, but it is agreed that the vessel and its cargo shall, together with its crew, be handed over to the nearest British authority for trial.

"The captured slaves (negroes or Abyssinians) shall be released by the Egyptian Government, and shall remain at their disposal.

"If the competent tribunal should decide that the seizure, detention, or prosecution was unfounded, the Government of the cruiser will be liable to pay to the Government of the prize a compensation appropriate to the circumstances of the case.

"ARTICLE VII.

"The present Convention shall come into operation from the date of the signature hereof for Egypt proper as far as Assuan, and within three months from the date of signature for the Egyptian possessions in Upper Africa and on the shores of the Red Sea.

"In witness whereof the undersigned have signed the present Convention, and have affixed thereto their seals.

"Done at Alexandria this fourth day of August one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven.

(L.S.) "C. VIVIAN.

(L.S.) "CHERIFF

"And whereas it is expedient that the said Treaty or Convention should be brought within the operation of 'The Slave Trade Act, 1873.'"

Now therefore Her Majesty by virtue and in exercise of the powers in this behalf as aforesaid is pleased by and with the advice of Her Privy Council to order and it is hereby ordered as follows:

The said Treaty or Convention hereinbefore recited shall from the said 4th day of August 1877, being the day of the date thereof, be deemed to have been and to be an existing Slave Trade Treaty within the meaning of "The Slave Trade Act, 1873."

And the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, the Right Honourable the Marquis of Salisbury, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

C. L. Peel.

SEPARATE REVENUE—POST OFFICE.

The 21st February 1879.

No. 883.—Under the provisions of Sections 13 and 63 of the Post Office Act of 1866, the Governor General in Council is pleased to prescribe the following revised rules respecting the contents of packets in "open covers" forwarded by inland post from one part of India to another. The terms "Book Packet" or "Pattern Packet" will be used to designate the packets posted under the revised rules.

PRESENT RULES RELATING TO THE CONTENTS OF PACKETS IN OPEN COVERS.

Contents of Packets.

Packets must not contain any communication having the character of an actual and personal correspondence, unless such communication be wholly printed, lithographed or papyrographed. But proof sheets marked as such on the outside under the signature of the sender (even though they bear manuscript corrections) are reckoned as being "wholly printed" within the meaning of this rule; and press manuscripts intended for publication are not reckoned as having the character of an actual and personal correspondence, provided that the packet has on the outside above the address the superscription "Press manuscript," and is addressed to the office of newspaper.

REVISED RULES RELATING TO THE CONTENTS OF BOOK-PACKETS AND PATTERN-PACKETS IN OPEN COVERS.

Contents of Book-packets.

A Book-packet may contain any paper, parchment or card-board, with or without printing or writing; also any legitimate binding, mounting, covering or other ordinary appurtenances of books or maps: provided that there shall be no communication having the character of an actual and personal correspondence, unless such communication be wholly printed, lithographed or papyrographed. Proof sheets marked as such on the outside under the signature of the sender (even though they may bear manuscript corrections) shall be reckoned as being "wholly printed" within the meaning of this rule. Press manuscripts intended for publication shall not be reckoned as having the character of an actual and personal correspondence, provided that the packet has on the outside, above the address, the superscription "Press manuscript" and is addressed to the office of a newspaper.

Contents of Pattern-packets.

A Pattern-packet may contain only bona fide trade patterns or samples of merchandise. There must be no writing upon or in any packet except the address of the person for whom it is intended, the name and address of the sender, a trade-mark or number, and the price of the articles.

No change is hereby made in the rules governing the mode of transmission, packing, size or prepayment of articles in open covers, or of the treatment of those not fulfilling the prescribed conditions.

These rules will have effect in respect of articles posted on or after the 1st April 1879.

No. 915.—Privilege leave for twenty-one days, with effect from the 1st March 1879, or from any later date on which he may avail himself of it, is granted to Mr. A. M. Monteath, Director General of the Post Office of India.

Mr. F. R. Hogg is appointed to officiate as Director General of the Post Office of India; Mr. J. Dillon to officiate as Deputy Director General of the Post Office of India; and Mr. G. J. Hynes as Compiler of Post Office Accounts, during the absence of Mr. A. M. Monteath, on privilege leave, or until further orders.

R. B. CHAPMAN,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

SPECIAL.

No. 165.—Adverting to G. G. O. No. 1100 of 1878, the Government of India are pleased to promulgate the following rules for the guidance of Administrative and Executive Medical Officers of the British and Indian Departments, of whatever Presidency, on active service:—

1. The Principal Medical Officer of each Column whether of the British or the Indian Services will (acting under the orders of the General Officer Commanding) have supreme control over all the hospitals and Medical arrangements of the Column to which he may be attached, and will be subordinate, in all matters of a departmental nature, to the Surgeon-General of the Service concerned.
2. The Bengal Medical Regulations, Part I, of 1877, will be held applicable to all troops (British and Native) on active service, but in so far only as the duties of Medical Officers in connection with hospitals and the several departments are concerned.
3. The scale of supplies, equipments and establishments for British and Native hospitals will be in accordance with the regulations at present in force, but the Principal Medical Officer of a Column is authorized to make such distribution of the same as may be considered desirable, in cases of emergency, or in the interests of the sick.

4. As far as practicable, Medical Officers and subordinates will be detailed for duty with the service to which they belong ; but, with a view to economize Medical labor, an interchange of Officers and subordinates will be carried out whenever necessary.
5. The whole of the carriage for the transport of sick and wounded will be under the orders of the Principal Medical Officer, who will distribute it according to the requirements of the service. When troops are not actually in the field, a proportion of doolies and dandies will, however, always be attached to each corps, for the purpose of transporting sick to the regimental hospital tents, and to the Divisional Field Hospital.
6. The sick of British and Native troops will be treated separately, and Native followers, when sick, will be sent to the Divisional Field or Base Hospitals for Native troops.
7. The instructions embodied in the "Précis of Field Medical Arrangements," compiled under the orders of Surgeon-General J. H. Ker Innes, C. B., Principal Medical Officer, H. M.'s British Forces in India, will be considered as specially applicable to the British Service, and the same principle will, as far as practicable, be followed in the Indian Medical Service, the supplies, equipments, establishments, &c., for Native troops being, however, ruled by existing regulations, supplemented by such additions as the Principal Medical Officer of the Column may consider requisite.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

PUBLISHED UNDER AUTHORITY.

The "Indian Law Reports," published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, will appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and will comprise four series,—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court will be reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court will be reported in the Calcutta Series. The Parts of each Series can be had separately, or all four Parts can be had stitched into one wrapper at the option of subscribers and purchasers. It will be observed from the following statement of the terms of subscription and sale, that a considerable reduction is allowed to persons taking the complete set:

Terms of subscription, payable annually in advance.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 19th February, 1879, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT NO. II OF 1879.

An Act to make better provision for recording evidence in the Central Provinces.

WHEREAS, in order to provide for the recording of evidence in civil suits in the Central Provinces by the Judge in English or in his own language, it is expedient to amend the Central Provinces Laws Act, 1875; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. This Act may be called The Central Provinces Laws Amendment Act, 1879.

And it shall come into force at once.

2. The following sections shall be deemed to have been added to the said Central Provinces Laws Act, 1875, immediately after the Code of Civil Procedure came into force, that is to say :—

Local repeal of sections 184, 185 and 189 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

“11. Sections 184, 185 and 189 of the Code of Civil Procedure are hereby repealed.

Sections substituted for sections 182, 190 and 191 of same Code.

“12. For sections 182, 190 and 191 of the same Code, the following shall be substituted (namely) :—

“182. A note of the essential points of the evidence of each witness shall be made at the time, and in the course of oral examination by the Judge, in his own language, or in English if he is sufficiently acquainted with that language, and such note shall be filed with, and form part of, the record of the case.

“190. If the Judge be prevented from making a note as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such note to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same, and such note shall form part of the record.

“191. When the Judge making a note of the evidence, or causing one to be made as above required, dies or is removed from the Court before the conclusion of the suit, his successor may, if he thinks fit, deal with such note as if he himself had made it or caused it to be made.”

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following preliminary Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 29th January, 1879 :—

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the „ Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Mysore, No. 7039-13J, dated 25th November, 1878.

Memorandum by Pandit Srikishen, Pleader, Judicial Commissioner's Court, Oudh, dated 30th November, 1878.

From Officiating Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George, No. 2440, dated 3rd December, 1878.

„ Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 2296, dated 10th December, 1878.

„ Under Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 7183, dated 10th December, 1878, and enclosures.

„ Chief Commissioner, Ajmer and Merwára, No. 19, dated 3rd January, 1879.

„ Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 119-255, dated 9th January, 1879.

Note by the Hon'ble the Chief Justice, High Court, Calcutta, dated 22nd January, 1879.

instead of adding a fifth Act to the four Acts already in force relating to pleaders, mukhtárs and revenue-agents, to frame a consolidation measure embracing the entire law.

3. We have, at the instance of the Hon'ble the Chief Justice of Bengal, restored in section 16 of the Bill now submitted, the power of the High Courts to make rules for the admission and control of mukhtárs practising on the appellate side of those Courts, which was conferred by section 44 of Act XX of 1865, but which has been held by the Calcutta High Court to have been ultra vires.

4. We have made the Bill applicable to the Courts of Small Causes in the Presidency towns, where we understand some such law is needed.

5. We have substituted, for the stamp-duties on certificates prescribed by Act XX of 1865, fees fixed according to the scale which was proposed in the Bill to amend the law relating to stamps and court-fees recently before the Council. The alterations here made are of no substantial importance.

6. We have made several amendments in arrangement and drafting, with a view to clearness and simplicity.

7. We recommend that the Bill now submitted be published.

8. The publication ordered by the Council has been made.

Pleaders, Mukhtárs and Revenue Agents Act, 1865, was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

2. We have deemed it well, instead of adding a fifth Act to the four Acts already in force relating to pleaders, mukhtárs and revenue-agents, to frame a consolidation measure embracing the entire law.

The 29th January, 1879.

Bengal Act No. VIII of 1869 (to amend the procedure in suits between Landlord and Tenant) or under any other Act for the time being in force, regulating the procedure in suits between landholders and their tenants or agents.

11. The High Court may suspend or dismiss any pleader or mukhtár holding a certificate issued under this Act, who is convicted of any criminal offence.

12. The High Court may also, after such enquiry as it thinks fit, suspend or dismiss any pleader or mukhtár holding a certificate as aforesaid, who is guilty of fraudulent or grossly improper conduct in the discharge of his professional duty, or of giving, receiving or retaining commission on remuneration paid to any legal practitioner, or for any other reasonable cause.

13. If any such pleader or mukhtár practising in any subordinate Court or in any revenue-office, is charged with any such conduct as aforesaid, the presiding officer shall send him a copy of the charge and also a notice that, on a day to be therein appointed, such charge will be taken into consideration.

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the pleader or mukhtár at least ten days before the day so appointed.

On such day or on any subsequent day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the presiding officer shall receive all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the pleader or mukhtár, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If such officer finds the charge established, and considers that the pleader or mukhtár should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding and the grounds thereof, and shall report the same to the High Court, and the High Court shall proceed to acquit, suspend or dismiss the pleader or mukhtár.

Any Judge or Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority acting under this section may, and, with the previous sanction of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, any subordinate revenue-officer so acting may, pending the investigation and the orders of the High Court, suspend the pleader or mukhtár from practising as such in his Court or office.

Every report made to the High Court under this section shall—

(a) when made by any Civil Judge other than the District Judge, be made through the Judge;

(b) when made by a Magistrate subordinate to the Magistrate of the District, be made through the Magistrate of the District and the Sessions Judge;

(c) when made by the Magistrate of the District, be made through the Sessions Judge;

(d) when made by any subordinate revenue-officer, be made through the Revenue-Authorities to which he is subordinate.

Every such report shall be accompanied by the opinion of each Judge, Magistrate or Revenue-Authority through whom or which it is made.

14. The High Court, in any case in which a pleader or mukhtár has been acquitted under section thirteen otherwise than by an order of the High Court, may call for the record and pass such order thereon as it thinks fit.

15. Whenever a mukhtár who has been suspended or dismissed by order of the High Court is also a revenue-agent holding a certificate under this Act, the High Court shall forward a report of the case to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority.

Such Authority, after making any enquiry which it thinks necessary, may suspend or dismiss him as such revenue-agent.

16. Notwithstanding anything contained in any Letters Patent or in the Code of Civil Procedure, section 37, clause (a), any High Court established by Royal Charter may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) for the qualification, admission, suspension and dismissal of proper persons to be mukhtárs practising on the appellate side of such Court;

(b) for the security which they may be required to give for their honesty and good conduct; and

(c) as to their powers and duties;

and may prescribe and impose fines for the infringement of such rules not exceeding in any case five hundred rupees; and such fines, when imposed, may be recovered as if they had been imposed in the exercise of the High Court's ordinary original criminal jurisdiction.

CHAPTER IV.—Of Revenue-Agents.

17. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) for the qualification, admission and certificates of proper persons to be revenue-agents;

(b) for the fees to be paid for the examination and admission of such persons; and

(c) for their suspension and dismissal.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

18. On the admission of any person as a Revenue-agent under section seventeen, the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority shall cause a certificate, signed by such officer as such Authority from time to time appoints in this behalf, to be issued to such person, authorizing him to practise for the period of one year from its date in such offices as may be specified therein.

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Secretary of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, or by any other officer authorized by such Authority in that behalf.

On every such renewal, the certificate then in the possession of such revenue-agent shall be cancelled and retained by such Secretary or other officer.

Every certificate so renewed shall be signed by such Secretary or other officer.

Every officer so renewing a certificate shall notify the renewal to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority.

19. Every revenue-agent holding a certificate issued under section eighteen, may apply to be enrolled in any revenue-office mentioned therein and situate within the limits of the territory under the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, and, on being so enrolled, may practise in such office as a revenue-agent.

20. Except as provided by any enactment for the time being in force, no person, other than a pleader duly qualified under the provisions hereinbefore contained, shall practise as a revenue-agent in any revenue-office, unless he holds a certificate issued under section eighteen, and has been enrolled in such office :

Provided that any person duly authorized in this behalf may, with the sanction of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, or of an officer empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, transact all or any business in which his employer may be concerned in any revenue-office :

The sanction mentioned in this section may be general or special, and may at any time be revoked or suspended by such Authority or officer.

21. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority may suspend or dismiss any revenue-agent holding a certificate issued under this Act, who is convicted of any criminal offence.

22. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority may also, after making such enquiry as it thinks fit, suspend or dismiss any revenue-agent holding a certificate issued under this Act who is guilty of fraudulent or grossly improper conduct in the discharge of his professional duty, or of giving, receiving or retaining commission on remuneration paid to any legal practitioner, or for any other reasonable cause.

23. If any revenue-agent holding a certificate issued under this Act is charged with any such conduct in any office subordinate to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, or in the Court of any Munsif, the officer at the head of such office, or such Munsif, as the case may be, shall send him a copy of the charge and also a notice that, on a day to be therein appointed, such charge will be taken into consideration.

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the person charged at least ten days before the day so appointed. On such day or on any other day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the officer or Munsif shall receive all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the person charged, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If the officer or Munsif finds the charge established and considers that the person charged should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding, and the grounds thereof, and report the same to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority; and such Authority shall proceed to acquit, suspend or dismiss him.

Where any officer acting under this section is subordinate to the Commissioner of a Division, he shall forward the report through such Commissioner, who shall accompany the same with an expression of his own opinion on the case.

24. The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, in any case in which a revenue-agent has been acquitted under section twenty-three, otherwise than by an order of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, may call for the record and pass such order thereon as seems fit.

25. Whenever a revenue-agent who has been dismissed or suspended by order of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority is also a mukhtár holding a certificate under this Act, the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority shall forward a report of the case to the High Court by which he was admitted.

Such Court, after making any enquiry which it thinks necessary, may suspend or dismiss him as such mukhtár.

CHAPTER V.—Of Certificates.

26. For every certificate, whether original or renewed, issued under this Act, a fee of the amount prescribed therefor in the second schedule hereto annexed, shall be paid by the person entitled to such certificate.

27. When any pleader, mukhtár or revenue-agent is suspended or dismissed under this Act, he shall forthwith deliver up his certificate to the Court, or officer at the head of the office, before or in which he was practising at the time he was so suspended or dismissed, or to any Court or officer to which the High Court or Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority (as the case may be) orders him to deliver the same.

CHAPTER VI.—Of the Remuneration of Pleaders, Mukhtárs and Revenue-Agents.

28. The High Court shall from time to time fix and regulate the fees payable by any party in respect of the fees of his adversary's pleader or vakil upon all proceedings (a) on the appellate side of such Court, (b) in the case of a High Court not established by Royal Charter, on its original side, and (c) in the subordinate Courts.

The Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority shall from time to time fix and regulate the fees payable upon all proceedings in the revenue-offices by any party in respect of the fees of his adversary's pleader or revenue-agent.

Tables of the fees so fixed shall be published in the local official Gazette.

Nothing in this section applies to the agents mentioned in the proviso to section twenty.

29. All persons employing pleaders, mukhtárs or revenue-agents shall be at liberty to settle with them by private agreement the remuneration to be paid for their professional services; and it shall not be necessary to specify such agreement in the power under which such pleaders, mukhtárs or revenue-agents for the time being act. Such agreements shall not be enforced otherwise than by suit.

CHAPTER VII.—Penalties.

FIRST SCHEDULE.

(See section 2).

30. Any person who appears, pleads, acts or practises in any Court or office in contravention of the provisions of section ten or section twenty, shall be liable, by order of such Court, or the officer at the head of such office, to a fine not exceeding ten times the amount of the fee required by this Act to be paid for a certificate authorizing him to appear, plead, act or practise in such Court or office, and, in default of payment, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

He shall also be incapable of maintaining any suit for, or enforcing any lien in respect of, any fee or reward for, or in respect of, anything done, or any disbursement made, by him as pleader or mukhtár or revenue-agent whilst he has been contravening the provisions of either of such sections.

31. Any pleader, mukhtár or revenue agent failing to deliver up his certificate as required by section twenty-seven, shall be liable, by order of the Court,

On suspended or dismissed pleader, &c., failing to deliver certificate.

Authority or officer to which or to whom, or according to whose orders, the delivery should be made, to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees and, in default of payment, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to three months.

32. Any pleader, mukhtár or revenue-agent who, under the provisions of this Act, has been suspended or dismissed, and who, during such suspension or after such dismissal, practises as a pleader or mukhtár or revenue-agent in any Court or office, shall be liable, by order of such Court, or the officer at the head of such office, to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees and, in default of payment, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

33. Every order under section thirty, thirty-one or thirty-two shall be subject to revision, by the High Court, where the order has been passed by a subordinate Court, and by the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, where the order has been passed by an officer subordinate to such Authority.

Revision of fines.

CHAPTER VIII.—Miscellaneous.

34. To facilitate the ascertainment of the qualifications respectively mentioned in sections six and seventeen, the Local Government shall from time to time appoint persons to be examiners for the purposes aforesaid, and make regulations for conducting such examinations.

Local Government to appoint examiners.

35. Except as provided by sections four, five, sixteen and twenty-eight, nothing in this Act applies to advocates, vakíls and attorneys admitted and enrolled by any High Court under the Letters Patent by which such Court is constituted, or to mukhtárs practising in such Court.

Exemption of High Court practitioners from certain parts of Act.

mediate application of the measure in its entirety to hundis, and, on the other side, by the Government of the Panjáb for the total exclusion of hundis from any part of the measure. We have come to the conclusion that the Bill should in this respect be left substantially as it stands. Admitting with the Chief Justice that one main principle of Indian codification is to reconcile and assimilate, as far as possible, the Native and European law on each subject, we would point out that this principle must be applied so as to produce as little friction as possible, and we feel assured that any sudden abolition of the numerous local usages (there is no general custom) as to hundis, uncertain and undefined as they often are, would cause much and justifiable dissatisfaction among Native bankers and merchants in certain parts of the country. But we believe that the effect of the Bill, if passed with a saving of the local usages in question, will be, not as the Chief Justice fears, to stereotype and perpetuate these usages, but to induce the Native mercantile community gradually to discard them for the corresponding rules contained in the Bill. The desirable uniformity of mercantile usage will thus be brought about without any risk of causing hardship to Native bankers and merchants. How long this change will take, it is of course impossible to prophesy. But the Bank of Bengal has supplied evidence that the Native usages as to negotiable paper have of recent years been greatly changing, and that the tendency is to assimilate them more and more to the European custom.

3. We do not share the apprehension of the Bank of Bengal that the recognition of Native usages would result in large withdrawal of European capital from operations in Native bills. For in this respect the Bill simply states the law as it stands. Such usages are now and have always been recognized by our Courts in all parts of India;* but the Bank itself admits that, for upwards of seventy years, its business in hundis has invariably been conducted according to the same laws and usages as apply to European bills, and that, with one exception (the alleged duty of the holder of a dishonoured hundi to exhaust the acceptor before having recourse to the drawer or endorser) Natives have made no difficulty about conforming to the Bank's requirements. It is, we understand, the practice of the Bank and, probably, of other large European purchasers of hundis to notify that they will not be bound by any local usage which contravenes the English law as to bills of exchange. Though the Bill should pass in its present form, this practice will remain legal and unaffected. It operates of course to bind only the seller to waive a defence which he might otherwise have made. But the other parties to the hundi are practically precluded from setting up any such usage by the knowledge that if they did so their credit would be destroyed by refusal of the Bank to buy hundis on which their names appear.

4. To exclude totally (as the Panjáb Government propose) hundis from any part of the Bill would be to render the proposed legislation to a great extent inoperative, and would probably result in withdrawal of the Bill. Considering the fact that the carrying on of the internal trade of India is becoming more and more dependent on English capital, and that the use in the Mufassal of bills in the English form is therefore largely increasing, we think that such withdrawal would be highly inexpedient. We are supported in this opinion by the fact that the Local Governments of Bengal, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces and Ajmer have all reported in favour of the Bill; that the Chambers of Commerce at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, the Bank of Bombay, and the Calcutta Trades Association, have done the same; and that the Directors of the Bank of Bengal bear testimony as to the ability with which it was framed by Mr Phillips.

5. Turning now to the details of the Bill, we have, in the first place, expressly saved the provisions of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section 21, which prohibits the issue of private bills or notes payable to bearer on demand.

* See, for example, 1 Suth. W. R. 75; 2 ibid. 214; 6 ibid. 301; 2 Hyde 259; 3 Beng. A. C. 198; 7 Beng. 275, 289, 431, 687; 9 Beng. Appendix 1; 2 Sevestre 621, n.; N. W. P. 1868, p. 268; Perry 296; 6 Bomb. O. C. J. 24; 7 Bomb. O. C. J. 137, 140; 12 Bomb. 113.

amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have the honour to present this further Report.

2. We have carefully considered the arguments urged on the one side by the learned Chief Justice of Bengal and the Bank of Bengal for the im-

6. We have struck out from section 16 the words "the whole or any part of," as they might have been taken to imply that there may be a special indorsement expressly directing payment of part of the amount mentioned in the instrument.

7. Section 21 was taken from the Law Commissioners' draft, and deals with a promissory note signed by two persons, and shewing that one of them subscribes only to an alternative liability. We think it very doubtful whether such an informal instrument is a promissory note at all, and for this and other reasons we have omitted the section.

8. We have also omitted section 33, as the matter appears to us to be sufficiently provided for by the Indian Contract Act; for the same reason we have omitted the first half of section 43.

9. We have omitted, as unlikely to be practically useful, sections 55 and 56, which provide for the delivery without indorsement, but with intent to transfer title, of bills payable to the order of a specified person or to a specified person or order.

10. We have omitted section 59, as the matter is sufficiently covered by the preceding section.

11. We do not think that the Bill should deal with collateral agreements, and have therefore struck out section 66.

12. We have amended the section (73, now 67) as to the drawee's term for deliberation. It now provides that the holder may allow the drawee twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept the Bill.

13. We think that, in order to charge the drawer of a cheque, the holder should only be bound to present it at the bank on which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and the banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer. We have altered section 82 accordingly.

14. We have omitted from section 97 the explanation relating to material alterations.

15. We have made some changes in wording and arrangement.

16. The Bill No. III and the second report of the Select Committee have been published in English in all the local Gazettes except those for Assam and Rájputána. Publication of the Bill and report in the vernacular has been reported only by the Governments of Madras, Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces.

17. With the exception of our Hon'ble Colleague Mr. Morgan, we think that the Bill might now be passed as amended. Mr. Morgan would omit the clause saving local usages as to hundís. In other respects he approves of the Bill. We recommend that its further consideration be stayed until the new Law Commission has reported thereon. Meanwhile, we think the Bill, as now amended, should be published with this report in the Gazette of India.

CALCUTTA,
The 19th February, 1879. }

Although I think that this Bill is, on the whole, a very good one, I cannot approve of the recognition which it accords to local usages relating to hundís. From a careful consideration of the papers which have been received with reference to the Bill, and from my own experience as regards the existing practice regarding hundís, I do not believe that there are any usages which call for special recognition at the hands of the legislature, and I think that the proposed recognition may put an arm into the hands of those who are dishonestly disposed, which they do not at present possess.

SCHEDULE.

No. IV.

A Bill to define and amend the Law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

- | | |
|--|---|
| Short title. | 1. This Act may be called "The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1879." |
| Local extent | It extends to the whole of British India; but nothing herein contained affects any local usage relating to any instrument in an oriental language or affects the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section twenty-one: |
| Saving of usages relating to handis, &c. | And it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1880. |
| Commencement. | 2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof. |
| Repeal of enactments. | 3. In this Act— |
| Interpretation clause. | "Banker" includes also persons or a corporation or company acting as bankers, and |
| "Banker." | "Notary Public" includes also any officer appointed by the Governor General in Council to perform the functions of a Notary Public under this Act. |
| "Notary Public." | |

CHAPTER II.

OF NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

4. A promissory note is an instrument in writing (not being a bank note or a currency note) containing an unconditional undertaking, signed by the maker, to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person, or to the bearer of the instrument.

Promissory Note.

Illustrations.

A signs instruments in the following terms :—

- (a) "I promise to pay B or order Rs 500."
 (b) "I acknowledge myself to be indebted to B in Rs. 1,000, to be paid on demand, for value received."
 (c) "Mr. B, I O U Rs. 1,000."
 (d) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and all other sums which shall be due to him."
 (e) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500, first deducting thereout any money which he may owe me."
 (f) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 seven days after my marriage with C."
 (g) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 on D's death, provided D leaves me enough to pay that sum."
 (h) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and to deliver to him my black horse on 1st January next."

The instruments respectively marked (a), and (b) are promissory notes. The instruments respectively marked (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) and (h) are not promissory notes.

5. A bill of exchange is an instrument in writing containing an unconditional order, signed by the maker, directing a certain person to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person or to the bearer of the instrument.

6. A cheque is a bill of exchange drawn on a specified banker and not expressed to be payable otherwise than on demand.

7. The maker of a bill of exchange or cheque is called the "drawer;" the person thereby directed to pay is called the "drawee."

"Drawer."
 "Drawee."

When the bill gives the name of any person in addition to the drawee to be resorted to in case of need, such person is called a "drawee in case of need."

After the drawee of a bill has signed his assent upon the bill, or if there are more parts thereof than one, upon one of such parts, and delivered the same, or given notice of such signing to the holder or to some person on his behalf, he is called the "acceptor."

When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour."

The person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid, is called the "payee."

8. The "holder" of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque means any person entitled in his own name to the possession thereof and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto.

Where the note, bill or cheque is lost or destroyed, its holder is the person so entitled at the time of such loss or destruction.

9. "Holder in due course" means any person who became the possessor of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque if payable to bearer, or the payee or indorsee thereof, if payable to, or to the order of, a payee, for consideration before the amount mentioned in it became payable, and without having sufficient cause to believe that any defect existed in the title of the person from whom he derived his title.

10. "Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned.

11. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque drawn or made in British India, and made payable in, or drawn upon any person resident in, British India shall be deemed to be an inland instrument.

12. Any such instrument not so drawn, made or made payable shall be deemed to be a foreign instrument.

13. A "negotiable instrument" means a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque expressed to be payable to a specified person or his order, or to the order of a specified person, or to the bearer thereof, or to a specified person or the bearer thereof.

14. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is transferred to any person, so as to constitute that person the holder thereof, the instrument is said to be negotiated.

15. When the maker or holder of a negotiable instrument signs the same, otherwise than as such maker, for the purpose of negotiation, on the back or face thereof or on a slip of paper annexed thereto, or so signs for the same purpose a stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument, he is said to indorse the same, and is called the "indorser."

16. If the indorser signs his name only, the indorsement is said to be "in blank," and if he adds a direction to pay the amount mentioned in the instrument to, or to the order of, a specified person, the indorsement is said to be "in full;" and the person so specified is called the "indorsee" of the instrument.

17. Where an instrument may be construed either as a promissory note or bill of exchange, the holder may at his election treat it as either, and the instrument shall be thenceforward treated accordingly.

18. If the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid is stated differently in figures and in words, the amount stated in words shall be the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid.

Where amount is stated differently in figures and words.

19. A promissory note or bill of exchange, in which no time for payment is specified, and a cheque are payable on demand.

20. Where a stamped paper, which is intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument, is signed and delivered by a competent person as maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser, the holder thereof may complete the same by filling up any blanks therein, and the person so signing shall be liable upon such instrument, in the capacity in which he signed the same, for any amount which may be specified therein not exceeding the amount covered by the stamp thereon: provided that as between the person delivering and the person receiving the instrument nothing in excess of the amount intended by them to be paid shall be recovered.

Illustration.

A stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument is made payable to "or order:" the holder of such instrument may fill up the blank with his own name, or that of any other person.

21. In a promissory note or bill of exchange the expressions "at sight" and "on presentment" mean on demand. The expression "after sight" means, in a promissory note, after presentment for sight, and in a bill of exchange, after acceptance or protest for non-acceptance.

22. The maturity of a promissory note or bill of exchange is the date at which it falls due.

Every promissory note or bill of exchange which is not expressed to be payable on demand, at sight, or on presentment, is at maturity on the third day after the day on which it is expressed to be payable.

23. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a stated number of months after date or after sight, or after a certain event, is at maturity, the period stated shall be held to terminate on the day of the month which corresponds with the day on which the instrument is dated, or presented for acceptance or sight or protested for non-acceptance, or the event happens, or, where the instrument is a bill of exchange made payable a stated number of months after sight and has been accepted for honour, with the day on which it was so accepted. If the month in which the period would terminate has no corresponding day, the period shall be held to terminate on the last day of such month.

Illustrations.

(a) A negotiable instrument dated 29th January 1878 is made payable at one month after date. The instrument is at maturity on the third day after the 28th February 1878.

(b) A negotiable instrument dated 30th August 1878 is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December 1878.

(c) A promissory note or bill of exchange, dated 31st August 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December 1878.

24. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a certain number of days after date or after sight or after a certain event, is at maturity, the day of the date, or of presentment for acceptance or sight, or of protest for non-acceptance, or on which the event happens, shall be excluded.

25. When the day on which a promissory note or bill of exchange is at maturity is a public holiday, the instrument shall be deemed to be due on the next preceding business day.

Explanation.—The expression "public holiday" includes Sundays: New-Year's day, Christmas day: if either of such days falls on a Sunday, the next following Monday: Good-Friday; and any other day declared by the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, to be a public holiday.

26. Until the contrary is proved, the following presumptions shall be made:—

(a) that every negotiable instrument was made of consideration; and that every such instrument, when it has been accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred, was accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred for consideration:

(b) that every negotiable instrument bearing a date was made or drawn on such date:

(c) that every accepted bill of exchange was accepted within a reasonable time after its date and before its maturity:

(d) that every transfer of a negotiable instrument was made before its maturity:

(e) that the endorsements appearing upon a negotiable instrument were made in the order in which they appear thereon:

(f) that a lost promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque was duly stamped:

(g) that the holder of a negotiable instrument is a holder in due course: provided that where the instrument has been obtained from its lawful owner, or from any person in lawful custody thereof, by means of an offence or fraud, or has been obtained from the maker or acceptor thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for unlawful consideration, the burthen of proving that the holder is a holder in due course lies upon him.

CHAPTER III.

PARTIES TO NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

27. Every person capable of contracting, according to the law to which he is subject, may bind himself and be bound by the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, delivery and negotiation of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque.

A minor may draw, indorse, deliver and negotiate such instruments so as to bind all parties except himself.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to empower a corporation to make, indorse or accept such instruments except in cases in which, under the law for the time being in force, they are so empowered.

28. Every person capable of binding himself or of being bound, as mentioned in section 27, may so bind himself or be bound by a duly authorized agent acting in his name.

A general authority to transact business and to receive and discharge debts does not confer upon an agent the power of accepting or indorsing bills of exchange so as to bind his principal.

An authority to draw bills of exchange does not of itself import an authority to indorse.

29. An agent who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange

Liability of agent signing.

or cheque, without indicating thereon that he signs as agent, or that he does not intend thereby to incur personal responsibility, is liable personally on the instrument, except to those who induced him to sign upon the belief that the principal only would be held liable.

30. A legal representative of a deceased person

Liability of legal representative signing.

who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, is liable personally thereon unless he expressly limits his liability to the extent of the assets received by him as such.

31. Where there are several drawees of a bill of Acceptance by several drawees not partners.

exchange who are not partners, each of them can accept it for himself, but none of them can accept it for another without his authority.

32. The drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque

Liability of drawer.

is bound, in case of dishonour by the drawee or acceptor thereof, to compensate the holder for any loss or damage caused thereby, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, the drawer as hereinafter provided.

33. The drawee of a cheque having sufficient

Liability of drawee of cheque.

funds of the drawer in his hands properly applicable to the payment of such cheque, must pay the cheque when duly required so to do, and, in default of such payment, must compensate the drawer for any loss or damage caused by such default.

34. In the absence of a contract to the contrary,

Liability of maker of note and acceptor of bill.

the maker of a promissory note and the acceptor before maturity of a bill of exchange, are bound to pay the amount thereof at maturity according to the appearance of the note or acceptance respectively, and the acceptor of a bill of exchange at or after maturity is bound to pay the amount thereof to the holder on demand.

In default of such payment as aforesaid, such maker or acceptor is bound to compensate any party to the note or bill for any loss or damage sustained by him, and caused by such default.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 29, 48, 49, 50, 62, 68, 72, 73 and 86.

35. No person except the drawee of a bill of drawee in case of need, or an acceptor for honour, can bind himself by an acceptance.

a negotiable instrument before maturity, without, in such indorsement, expressly excluding or making conditional his own liability, is bound thereby to every subsequent holder, in case of dishonour by the drawee, acceptor or maker, to compensate such holder for any loss or damage caused to him by such dishonour, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, such indorser as hereinafter provided.

Every indorser after dishonour is liable as upon an instrument payable on demand.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 29, 48, 49, 50, 59, 60, 62, 65, 66, 68, 72, 76, 86, 87, 88, 90, 91 and 101, clause (a).

the drawer of a bill of exchange until acceptance, and the acceptor are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively liable thereon as principal debtors, and the other parties thereto are liable thereon as sureties for the maker, drawer or acceptor, as the case may be.

39. As between the parties so liable as sureties,

Prior party a principal in respect of each subsequent party.

each prior party is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, also liable thereon as a principal debtor in respect of each subsequent party.

Illustration.

A draws a bill payable to his own order on B, who accepts. A afterwards indorses the bill to C, C to D, and D to E. As between E and B, B is the principal debtor, and A, C and D are his sureties. As between E and A, A is the principal debtor, and C and D are his sureties. As between E and C, C is the principal debtor and D is his surety.

change enters into any contract with the acceptor which under section 134 or 135

of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, would discharge the other parties, the holder may expressly reserve his right to charge the other parties, and in such case they are not discharged.

41. Where the holder of a negotiable instrument, without the consent of the indorser, destroys or impairs the indorser's remedy against a prior party, the indorser is discharged from liability to the holder to the same extent as if the instrument had been paid at maturity.

Illustration.

A is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of B, which contains the following indorsements in blank :—

First indorsement, "B."

Second indorsement, "Peter Williams."

Third indorsement, "Wright and Co."

Fourth indorsement, "John Rozario."

This bill A puts in suit against John Rozario and strikes out, without John Rozario's consent, the indorsements by Peter Williams and Wright and Co. A is not entitled to recover anything from John Rozario.

42. No maker of a promissory note, and no drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and no acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn.

43. No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange payable to, or to the order of, a specified person shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same.

44. No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument.

45. An acceptor of a bill of exchange already indorsed is not relieved from liability by reason that such indorsement is forged, if he knew or had reason to believe the indorsement to be forged when he accepted the bill.

46. An acceptor of a bill of exchange drawn in a fictitious name and payable to the drawer's order is not, by reason that such name is fictitious, relieved from liability to any holder in due course claiming under an indorsement by the same hand as the drawer's signature, and purporting to be made by the drawer.

47. If at any time there has been consideration between any parties to a negotiable instrument for the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, negotiation or transfer thereof, the party receiving such consideration is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, liable upon the instrument to all subsequent parties thereto, and every subsequent holder is, as against him, a holder for consideration.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 49, 50, 59, 65, 66, 68, 72, 73, 76, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90 and 91.

Illustrations.

(a) A indorses a bill of exchange to B, at the request of C, for C's account with B. B is a holder of the bill for consideration and if he indorses it as a present to D, D is a holder for consideration as against A.

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument, indorses it in full to B, in the belief that B has done something which he has not done. B, for consideration proceeding from C, indorses the instrument in blank to C, and C indorses it to D. D strikes out C's indorsement. D is a holder of the instrument for consideration as against B.

48. When there was no consideration for the making, drawing, acceptance or indorsement of a negotiable instrument, or when the consideration has wholly failed, the maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser is not liable thereon to the party in whose favour the instrument was so made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, or to any party claiming through him, unless consideration was given by the claimant or by some party through whom he derives title. But the maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser is liable to compensate any subsequent party who, being liable on such instrument, pays the amount due thereon.

49. When the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque consisted of money, and was originally absent in part or has subsequently failed in part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Explanation.—The drawer of a bill of exchange stands in immediate relation with the acceptor. The maker of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, stands in immediate relation with the payee, and the indorser with his indorsee. Other signers may by agreement stand in immediate relation with a holder.

Illustration.

A draws a bill on B for Rs. 500 payable to the order of A. B accepts the bill, but subsequently dishonours it by non-payment. A sues B on the bill. B proves that it was accepted for value as to Rs. 400, and as an accommodation to the plaintiff as to the residue. A can only recover Rs. 400.

50. Where a part of the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, though not consisting of money, is ascertainable in money without collateral enquiry, and there has been a failure of that part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

51. Subject to the provisions of section 62, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by delivery thereof.

Exception.—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque delivered on condition that it is not to take effect except in a certain event is not negotiable (except in the hands of a holder for value without notice of the condition) unless such event happens.

Illustrations.

(a) The holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, delivers it to B's agent to keep for B. The instrument has been negotiated.

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer which is in the hands of A's banker, who is at the time the banker of B, directs the banker to transfer the instrument to B's credit in the banker's account with B. The banker accordingly now possesses the instrument as B's agent. The instrument has been negotiated, and B has become the holder of it.

52. Subject to the provisions of section 62, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to the order of a specified person, or to a specified person or order, is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

53. The holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may, without signing his own name, by writing above the indorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as indorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full; and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an indorser.

54. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument

Effect of indorsement. followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Illustrations.

B signs the following indorsements on different negotiable instruments payable to bearer:—

- (a) "Pay the contents to C only."
- (b) "Pay C for my use."
- (c) "Pay C or order for the account of B."
- (d) "The within must be credited to C."

These indorsements exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

(e) "Pay C."

(f) "Pay C value in account with the Oriental Bank."

(g) "Pay the contents to C, being part of the consideration in a certain deed of assignment executed by C to the indorser and others."

These indorsements do not exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

55. Every sole maker, drawer, payee or indorsee, or all of several joint

Who may negotiate. makers, drawers, payees or indorsees, of a negotiable instrument may, if the negotiability of such instrument has not been restricted or excluded, as mentioned in section 54, indorse and negotiate the same.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker or drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is holder thereof.

Illustration.

A bill is drawn payable to A or order. A indorses it to B, the indorsement not containing the words "or order" or any equivalent words. B may negotiate the instrument.

56. The indorser of a negotiable instrument

Indorser who excludes his own liability or makes it conditional. may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon, depend upon the happening of a specified event, although such event may never happen.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a.) The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—
"Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b.) A is the payee and holder of a negotiable instrument. Excluding personal liability by an indorsement "without recourse," he transfers the instrument to B, and B indorses it to C, who indorses it to A. A is not only reinstated in his former rights, but has the rights of an indorsee against B and C.

57. A holder of a negotiable instrument who

Holder deriving title from holder in due course. derives title from a holder in due course has the rights thereon of that holder in due course.

58. Subject to the provisions of sections 121 and 122, a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank is payable to the bearer thereof even although originally payable to order.

59. If a negotiable instrument after having been indorsed in blank is indorsed in full, the amount of it cannot be claimed from the indorser in full, except by the person to whom it has been indorsed in full, or by one who derives title through such person.

60. No writing on a negotiable instrument is valid for the purpose of negotiation if such writing purports to transfer only a part of the amount of the instrument.

61. The legal representative of a deceased person cannot negotiate by delivery only a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order and indorsed by the deceased but not delivered.

62. When a negotiable instrument has been lost, or has been obtained by unlawful means or for unlawful consideration, the holder thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for an unlawful consideration, no possessor or indorsee who claims through the person who found or so obtained the instrument is entitled to receive the amount due thereon from such maker, acceptor or holder, or from any party prior to such holder, unless such possessor or indorsee is, or some person through whom he claims was, a holder thereof in due course.

63. The holder of a negotiable instrument, who has acquired it after dishonour, whether by non-acceptance or non-payment, with notice thereof, or after maturity, has only, as against the other parties, the rights thereon of his transferor:

Provided that any person who, in good faith and for consideration, becomes the holder, after maturity, of a promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted without consideration for the purpose of enabling some party thereto to raise money thereon, may recover the amount of the note or bill from any prior party.

Illustration.

The acceptor of a bill of exchange, when he accepted it deposited with the drawer certain goods as a collateral security for the payment of the bill, with power to the drawer to sell the goods and apply the proceeds in discharge of the bill if it were not paid at maturity. The bill not having been paid at maturity, the drawer sold the goods and retained the proceeds, but indorsed the bill to A. A's title is subject to the same objection as the drawer's title.

64. A negotiable instrument may be negotiated (except by the maker, drawee or acceptor after maturity) until payment or satisfaction thereof by the maker, drawee or acceptor at or after maturity, but not after such payment or satisfaction.

CHAPTER V.

OF PRESENTMENT.

65. A bill of exchange payable after sight must, if no time or place is specified therein for presentment, be presented to the drawee thereof for acceptance, if he can, after reasonable search, be found, by a person entitled to demand acceptance, within a reasonable time after it is drawn, and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

If the drawee cannot, after reasonable search be found, the bill is dishonoured.

If the bill is directed to the drawee at a particular place, it must be presented at that place; and if at the due date for presentment he cannot, after reasonable search, be found there, the bill is dishonoured.

66. A promissory note, payable at a certain period after sight, must be presented to the maker thereof for sight, by a person entitled to demand payment, within a reasonable time after it is made and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

67. The holder may allow the drawee of a bill of exchange presented to him for acceptance twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept it.

68. Promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques must be presented for payment to the maker, acceptor or drawee thereof respectively, by or on behalf of the holder as hereinafter provided. In default of such presentment, the other parties thereto are not liable thereon to such holder.

Exception.—Where a promissory note is payable on demand and is not payable at a specified place, no presentment is necessary in order to charge the maker thereof.

69. Presentment for payment must be made during the usual hours of business, and, if at a banker's, within banking hours.

70. A promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable at a fixed period after date or sight thereof, must be presented for payment at maturity.

71. A promissory note payable by instalments must be presented for payment on the third day after the date fixed for payment of each instalment; and non-payment on such presentment has the same effect as non-payment of a note at maturity.

72. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place and not elsewhere must, in order to charge any party thereto, be presented for payment at that place.

73. A promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place must, in order to charge the maker or drawer thereof, be presented for payment at that place.

74. A promissory note or bill of exchange, not made payable as mentioned in sections 72 and 73, must be presented for payment at one of the places specified (if any), or at the place of business (if any), or at the usual residence, of the maker, drawee or acceptor thereof, as the case may be.

75. If the maker, drawee or acceptor of a negotiable instrument has no known place of business or fixed residence, and no place is specified in the instrument for presentment for acceptance or payment, such presentment may be made to him in person wherever he can be found.

76. A cheque must, in order to charge the drawer, be presented at the bank upon which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and his banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer.

77. A cheque must, in order to charge any person except the drawer, be presented within a reasonable time after delivery thereof by such person.

78. Subject to the provisions of section 33, a negotiable instrument payable on demand must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after it is received by the holder.

79. Presentment for acceptance or payment may be made to the duly authorized agent of the drawee, maker or acceptor, as the case may be, or where the drawee, maker or acceptor has died, to his legal representative, or where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee.

80. No presentment for payment is necessary, and the instrument is dishonoured at the due date for presentment, in any of the following cases:—

(a) if the maker, drawee or acceptor intentionally prevents the presentment of the instrument, or, if the instrument being payable at his place of business, he closes such place on a business day during the usual business-hours, or if the instrument being payable at some other specified place, neither he nor any person authorized to pay it attends at such place during the usual business hours, or if the instrument not being payable at any specified place, he cannot after due search be found;

(b) as against any party if, after maturity, with knowledge that the instrument has not been presented—

he makes a part payment on account of the amount due on the instrument, or promises to pay the amount due thereon in whole or in part, or otherwise waives his right to take advantage of any default in presentment for payment;

(c) as against the drawer, if the drawer could not suffer damage from the want of such presentment.

81. When a bill of exchange, accepted payable

Liability of banker for negligently dealing with bill presented for payment.

at a specified bank, has been duly presented there for payment and dishonoured, if the banker so negligently or improperly keeps, deals with or delivers back such bill as to cause loss to the holder, he must compensate the holder for such loss.

CHAPTER VI.

OF PAYMENT AND INTEREST.

82. Subject to the provisions of section 86,

To whom payment should be made.

clause (c), payment of the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque must, in order to discharge the maker or acceptor, be made to the holder of the instrument.

83. When interest at a specified rate is ex-

Interest when rate specified.

pressly made payable on a promissory note or bill of exchange, interest shall be calculated at the rate specified, on the amount and from the date of the instrument, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

84. When no rate of interest is specified in the Interest when no rate specified.

instrument, interest on the amount thereof shall, except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532, be calculated at the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date at which the same ought to have been paid by the party charged, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Explanation.—When the party charged is the indorser of an instrument dishonoured by non-payment, he is liable to pay interest only from the time that he receives notice of the dishonour.

85. Any person liable to pay, and called upon

Delivery of instrument on payment, or indemnity in case of loss.

by the holder thereof to pay, the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque before payment entitled to have it shown, and is on payment entitled to have it delivered up, to him, or, if the instrument is lost or cannot be produced, to be indemnified against any further claim thereon against him.

CHAPTER VII.

OF DISCHARGE FROM LIABILITY ON NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

86. The maker, acceptor or indorser respect-

Discharge from liability.

ively of a negotiable instrument is discharged from liability thereon—

(a) to a holder thereof who cancels such acceptor's or indorser's name with intent to discharge him, and to all parties claiming under such holder.

(b) to a holder thereof who otherwise discharges such maker, acceptor or indorser, and to all parties deriving title under such holder after notice of such discharge;

(c) to all parties thereto, if the instrument is by payment.

payable to bearer, or has been indorsed in blank, and such maker, acceptor or indorser makes payment in due course of the amount due thereon.

87. If the holder of a bill of exchange allows

Discharge by allowing drawee more than twenty-four hours to accept.

the drawee more than twenty-four hours to consider whether he will accept the same, all previous parties not consenting to such allowance are thereby discharged from liability to such holder.

88. When the holder of a cheque fails to present it for payment, and the drawer thereof sustains loss or damage from such failure, he is discharged from liability to the holder.

89. Where a cheque payable to order, purports to be indorsed by or on behalf of the payee, the drawee is discharged by payment in due course.

90. If the holder of a bill of exchange acqui-

Parties not consenting discharged by conditional or limited ac-esces in a conditional acceptance, or one limited to part of the sum mentioned in the bill, or which substitutes a different place or time for payment, or which, where the drawers are not partners is not signed by all the drawees, all previous parties whose consent is not obtained to such acceptance are discharged as against the holder and those claiming under him.

91. Save as provided in sections 20, 53, 90

Effect of material alteration.

and 120, any material alteration of a negotiable instrument renders the same void

as against any one who is a party thereto at the time of making such alteration and does not consent thereto, unless it was made in order to carry out the common intention of the original parties;

and any such alteration if made by an indorsee, discharges his indorser from all liability to him in respect of the consideration thereof.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 20, 53, 90 and 120.

92. An acceptor or indorser of a negotiable

Accepter or indorser bound notwithstanding previous alteration.

instrument is bound by his acceptance or indorsement notwithstanding any previous alteration of the instrument.

93. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque has been materially altered, but does not appear to have been so altered, or where a cheque is presented for payment which does not at the time of presentation appear to be crossed or to have had a crossing which has been obliterated, payment thereof by a person or banker liable to pay and paying the same according to the apparent tenor thereof at the time of payment and otherwise in due course, shall discharge such person or banker from all liability thereon, and such payment shall not be questioned by reason of the instrument having been altered, or the cheque crossed.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF NOTICE OF DISHONOUR.

94. A bill of exchange is said to be dishonoured by non-acceptance when the drawee, or one of several drawees not being partners, makes default in acceptance upon being duly required to accept the bill.

Where the drawee is incompetent to contract the bill may be treated as dishonoured.

95. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is said to be dishonoured by non-payment when the maker of the note, acceptor of the bill, or drawee of the cheque makes default in payment upon being duly required to pay the same.

96. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder thereof, or some party thereto who remains liable thereon, must give notice that the instrument has been dishonoured to all other parties whom the holder seeks to make severally liable thereon, and to some one of several parties whom he seeks to make jointly liable thereon.

Nothing in this section renders it necessary to give notice to the maker of the dishonoured promissory note, or the drawee or acceptor of the dishonoured bill of exchange or cheque.

97. Notice of dishonour may be given to a duly authorised agent of the person to whom it is required to be given, or, where he has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee; may be oral or written; may, if written, be sent by post; and may be in any form; but it must inform the party to whom it is given, either in express terms or by reasonable intendment, that the instrument has been dishonoured, and in what way, and that he will be held liable thereon; and it must be given within a reasonable time after dishonour, at the place of business, or (in case such party has no place of business) at the residence of the party for whom it is intended.

If the notice is sent by post and miscarries, such miscarriage does not render the notice invalid.

98. Any party receiving notice of dishonour must, in order to render any prior party liable to himself, transmit it to such party within a reasonable time, unless such party otherwise receives due notice as provided by section 96.

99. When the instrument is deposited with an agent for presentment, the agent is entitled to the same time to give notice to his principal as if he were the holder giving notice of dishonour, and the principal is entitled to a further like period to give notice of dishonour.

100. When the party to whom notice of dishonour is despatched is dead, but the party despatching the notice is ignorant of his death, the notice is sufficient.

When notice of dishonour is unnecessary. 101. No notice of dishonour is necessary—

(a) when it is dispensed with by the party entitled thereto;

(b) in order to charge the drawer, when he has countermanded payment;

(c) when the party charged could not suffer damage for want of notice;

(d) when the party entitled to notice cannot after due search be found; or the party bound to give notice is, for any other reason, unable without any fault of his own to give it;

(e) to charge the drawers, when the acceptor is also a drawer;

(f) in the case of a promissory note which is not negotiable;

(g) when the party entitled to notice, knowing the facts, promises unconditionally to pay the amount due on the instrument.

CHAPTER IX.

OF NOTING AND PROTEST.

102. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may cause such dishonour to be noted by a notary public upon the instrument, or upon a paper attached thereto, or partly upon each.

Such note must be made within a reasonable time after dishonour, and must specify the date of dishonour, the reason, if any, assigned for such dishonour, or, if the instrument has not been expressly dishonoured, the reason why the holder treats it as dishonoured, and the notary's charges.

103. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause such dishonour to be noted and certified by a notary public. Such certificate is called a protest, and in a suit upon the instrument, on proof of the protest, the Court shall presume the fact of dishonour, unless and until the contrary is proved.

When the acceptor of a bill of exchange has become insolvent, or his credit has been publicly impeached, before the maturity of the bill, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause a notary public to demand better security of the acceptor, and on its being refused may, within a reasonable time, cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security.

104. A protest under section 103 must contain—

(a) either the instrument itself, or a literal transcript of the instrument and of everything written or printed thereupon;

(b) the name of the person for whom and against whom the instrument has been protested;

(c) a statement that payment or acceptance, or better security, as the case may be, has been demanded of such person by the notary public; the terms of his answer, if any, or a statement that he gave no answer, or that he could not be found;

(d) when the note or bill has been dishonoured, the place and time of dishonour, and when better security has been refused, the place and time of refusal.

(e) the subscription of the notary public making the protest;

(f) in the event of an acceptance for honour or of a payment for honour, the name of the person by whom, of the person for whom, and the manner in which, such acceptance or payment was offered and effected.

105. When a promissory note or bill of exchange is required by law to be protested, notice of such protest must be given instead of notice of dishonour, in the same manner and subject to the same conditions; but the notice may be given by the notary public who makes the protest.

106. All bills of exchange drawn payable at some other place than the place mentioned as the residence of the drawee, and which are dishonoured by non-acceptance, may, without further presentment to the drawee, be protested for non-payment, in the place specified for payment, unless paid before or at maturity.

CHAPTER X.

OF REASONABLE TIME.

107. In determining what is a reasonable time for presentment for acceptance or payment, for giving notice of dishonour and for noting, regard shall be had to the nature of the instrument and the usual course of dealing with respect to similar instruments; and in calculating such time, public holidays shall be excluded.

108. Presentment is made within a reasonable time, within the meaning of sections 65, 77 and 78, if it is made on the business day next after that on which the holder received the instrument referred to, or when there is no more delay than is occasioned by the residence of the parties to the instrument in different places.

Illustration.

A draws on B, resident at Calcutta, a bill of exchange in favour of C payable at sight, and sends it to C at Benares. C, the day after he receives it, indorses it to D, and despatches it to D at Calcutta. D, the day after he receives the bill, presents it for payment. The delay which has taken place in presenting the bill is not unreasonable.

109. If the holder and the party to whom notice of dishonour is given carry on business or live (as the case may be) in different places, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched by the next post or on the day next after the day of dishonour.

If the said parties carry on business or live in the same place, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched in time to reach its destination on the day next after the day of dishonour.

110. A party receiving notice of dishonour, who seeks to enforce his right against a prior party, transmits the notice within a reasonable time if he transmits it within the same time after its receipt as he would have had to give notice if he had been the holder.

CHAPTER XI.

OF ACCEPTANCE AND PAYMENT FOR HONOUR.

111. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or for better security, any person may, with the consent of the holder, by writing on the bill, accept the same for the honour of any party thereto.

112. Where the acceptance does not express for whose honour it is made, it shall be deemed to be made for the honour of the drawer.

113. An acceptor for honour binds himself to all parties subsequent to the party for whose honour he accepts to pay the amount of the bill if the drawee do not; and such party and all prior parties are liable in their respective capacities to compensate the acceptor for honour for all loss or damage sustained by him in consequence of such acceptance.

But an acceptor for honour is not liable to the holder of the bill unless it is presented, or (in case the address given by such acceptor on the bill is a place other than the place where the bill is made payable) forwarded for presentment, not later than the day next after the day of its maturity.

114. An acceptor for honour cannot be charged unless the bill has at its maturity been presented to the drawee for payment and has been dishonoured by him, and noted or protested for such dishonour.

115. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-payment, any person may pay the same for the honour of any party liable to pay the same, provided that the person so paying has previously declared before a notary public the party for whose honour he pays, and that such declaration has been recorded by such notary public.

116. Any person so paying is entitled to all the rights, in respect of the bill, of the holder at the time of such payment, and may recover from the party for whose honour he pays all sums so paid, with interest thereon and with all expenses properly incurred in making such payment.

CHAPTER XII.

OF COMPENSATION.

117. The compensation payable in case of dishonour of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, by any party liable to the holder or any indorsee, shall (except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532) be determined by the following rules:—

(a) The holder is entitled to the amount due upon the instrument, together with the expenses properly incurred in presenting, noting and protesting it;

(b) When the person charged resides at a place different from that at which the instrument was payable, the holder is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(c) An indorser who, being liable, has paid the amount due on the same is entitled to the amount so paid with interest at six per centum per annum from the date of payment until tender or realization thereof, together with all expenses caused by the dishonour and payment;

(d) When the person charged and such indorser reside at different places, the indorser is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(e) The party entitled to compensation may draw a bill upon the party liable to compensate him, payable at sight or on demand, for the amount due to him together with all expenses properly incurred by him. Such bill must be accompanied by the instrument dishonoured and the protest thereof (if any). If such bill is dishonoured, the party dishonouring the same is liable to make compensation thereof in the same manner as in the case of the original bill.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF CROSSED CHEQUES.

118. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company" or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

119. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

120. Where a cheque is uncrossed, the holder may cross it generally or specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally, the holder may cross it specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, the holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent, for collection.

121. Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed, or his agent for collection.

122. Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

123. Where the banker on whom a crossed cheque is drawn has paid the same in due course, the banker paying the cheque, and (in case such cheque has come to the hands of the payee) the drawer thereof, shall respectively be entitled to the same rights, and be placed in the same position in all respects, as they would respectively be entitled to and placed in if the amount of the cheque had been paid to and received by the true owner thereof.

124. Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same is crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

125. A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable," shall not have, and shall not be capable of giving, a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

Who has in good faith and without negligence received payment from a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF FOREIGN BILLS.

126. Foreign bills of exchange may be drawn in parts, each part being numbered and containing a provision that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. All the parts together make a set; but the whole set constitutes only one bill, and is extinguished when one of the parts, if a separate bill, would be extinguished.

Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he is liable on each part as if it were a separate bill.

127. As between holders in due course of different parts of the same set, he who first acquired title to his part is entitled to the other parts and the money represented by the bill.

128. Where a drawee in case of need is named in a foreign bill of exchange, the bill is not dishonoured until dishonoured by such drawee.

129. Foreign bills of exchange must be protested for dishonour when such protest is required by the law of the place where they are drawn.

CHAPTER XV.

OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

130. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Illustrations.

A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is endorsed in British India, and is dishonoured. An action on the bill is brought against B in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

131. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorsee causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and give notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills which are not foreign. The notice is sufficient.

132. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, Instrument made, &c., accepted or indorsed out of out of British India, but British India, but in accordance with its law. accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into, does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or endorsement made thereon in British India.

133. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

DEPT. OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE, AND COMMERCE, }
STATISTICAL BRANCH,
The 21st February 1879.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE AND COMMERCE.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS
FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 18th FEBRUARY 1879.

GENERAL REMARKS.—General prospects in Madras continue on the whole tolerably fair; in Bellary damage to the crops by rats is reported. In the Bombay Presidency slight showers have fallen in Kaira, Broach and Wadhwan; the rabi crops in Sind need rain; injury by rats is reported from Ahmednagar and Sholapur. There has been no change in Mysore. No rain fell in the Central Provinces, where the weather has been cloudy and warm; the harvesting of the rabi has begun in some districts and the anticipated results are not unfavourable. In Berar matters remain satisfactory. In Central India light rain fell in Morar, Rutlam and Indore. The report from Rajputana exhibits no material alteration. In most of the districts of Bengal there has been rain during the week, and it has benefited the standing crops, especially in the Patna division, and helped the preparation of land for the next sowings; crops, in flower will, however, be somewhat injuriously affected by the wet; more rain is required in Central Bengal, Furreedpore and Chumparun; in Palamow and parts of Jessore the prospects of the rabi are reported to be unfavourable. In Assam the outlook is promising; as before, but more rain is wanted. In British Burma though fever, cholera and cattle disease continue in places, the general health of the Province is good. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh light rain has fallen, and has to some extent improved prospects. There has also been drizzling rain followed by heavy dews at night in the Punjab, and this will benefit the crops; more rain is, however, required in several districts.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

ABSTRACT OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA, ASSEMBLED FOR THE PURPOSE OF MAKING LAWS AND REGULATIONS UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF PARLIAMENT 24 & 25 VIC., CAP. 67.

The Council met at Government House on Wednesday, the 19th February, 1879.

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, G.M.S.I., presiding.

His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, K.C.S.I.

The Hon'ble Sir A. J. Arbuthnot, K.C.S.I.

Colonel the Hon'ble Sir Andrew Clarke, R.E., K.C.M.G., C.B.

Lieutenant-General the Hon'ble Sir E. B. Johnson, K.C.B.

The Hon'ble Whitley Stokes, C.S.I.

The Hon'ble Rivers Thompson, C.S.I.

The Hon'ble T. H. Thornton, D.C.L., C.S.I.

The Hon'ble E. C. Morgan.

The Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell.

The Hon'ble Sayyad Ahmad Khán Bahádur, C.S.I.

Lieutenant-General the Hon'ble Sir M. K. Kennedy, R.E., K.C.S.I.

The Hon'ble T. C. Hope, C.S.I.

The Hon'ble B. W. Colvin.

The Hon'ble Mahárájá Jotíndra Mohan Tagore.

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES presented a further Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques.

TRANSFER OF PROPERTY BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also presented a further Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to define and amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property.

CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES asked leave to postpone the presentation of the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure.

Leave was granted.

CENTRAL PROVINCES EVIDENCE BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to make better provision for recording evidence in the Central Provinces and moved that it be taken into consideration. He said the Committee had considered the suggestion of the Home Department that the opportunity might be taken to empower the other Local Governments to extend the procedure provided by the Bill to the rest of British India. The Committee was not prepared without further enquiry to recommend that such a power should be given; the chief justification for the present measure was, that it embodied a practice which had prevailed in the Central Provinces for the last seventeen years, and which the local authorities were not prepared to abandon for the general rule prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure.

The only objection which could reasonably be taken to the Bill was, that it had received the unqualified approval of the Local Government concerned, and that no suggestions had been made for its amendment. MR. STOKES did not say this ironically. He did not believe that he, or any one else, could draw a Bill of any complexity that would really deserve unqualified approval and require no change either in substance or form. He had now been engaged for twenty-five years in the study and practice of the art of legal expression, and in the interpretation of the work of masters of the craft like Sir Henry Thring; and he had been more and more impressed with the great and inherent difficulties of legislative draftsmanship and the truth of Austin's dictum, which he would take leave to read to the Council: "I will venture to affirm that what is commonly called the technical part of legislation is incomparably more difficult than what may be styled the ethical. In other words, it is far easier to conceive justly what would be useful law, than so to construct that same law that it may accomplish the design of the law-giver." In India, moreover, these difficulties were enhanced by the practical impossibility of getting complete and perfectly accurate information as to the subject-matter and bearings of any proposed piece of legislation. In the present case, however, the matter of the Bill was extremely small and simple, and he thought that, notwithstanding the regrettable absence of criticism, the Council might safely comply with the recommendation of the Committee, and let the Bill become law with all its presumable defects.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES then moved that the Bill be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Wednesday, the 26th February, 1879.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

PUBLISHED UNDER AUTHORITY.

The "Indian Law Reports," published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, will appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and will comprise four series,—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court will be reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court will be reported in the Calcutta Series. The Parts of each Series can be had separately, or all four Parts can be had stitched into one wrapper at the option of subscribers and purchasers. It will be observed from the following statement of the terms of subscription and sale, that a considerable reduction is allowed to persons taking the complete set :

Terms of subscription, payable annually

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 19th February, 1879, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT No. II OF 1879.

An Act to make better provision for recording evidence in the Central Provinces.

WHEREAS, in order to provide for the recording of evidence in civil suits in the Central Provinces by the Judge in English or in his own language, it is expedient to amend the Central Provinces Laws Act, 1875; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called "The Central Provinces Laws Act, 1879;"

And it shall come into force at once.

2. The following sections shall be deemed to have been added to the said Central Provinces Laws Act, 1875, immediately after the Code of Civil Procedure came into force, that is to say:—

Local repeal of sections 184, 185 and 189 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

"11. Sections 184, 185 and 189 of the Code of Civil Procedure are hereby repealed."

Sections substituted for sections 182, 190 and 191 of same Code.

"12. For sections 182, 190 and 191 of the same Code, the following shall be substituted (namely):—

"182. A note of the essential points of the evidence of each witness shall be made at the time, and in the course of oral examination by the Judge, in his own language, or in English if he is sufficiently acquainted with that language, and such note shall be filed with, and form part of, the record of the case.

"190. If the Judge be prevented from making a note as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such note to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same, and such note shall form part of the record.

"191. When the Judge making a note of the evidence, or causing one to be made as above required, dies or is removed from the Court before the conclusion of the suit, his successor may, if he thinks fit, deal with such note as if he himself had made it or caused it to be made."

amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have the honour to present this further Report.

2. We have carefully considered the arguments urged on the one side by the learned Chief Justice of Bengal and the Bank of Bengal for the immediate application of the measure in its entirety to hundis, and, on the other side, by the Government of the Panjáb for the total exclusion of hundis from any part of the measure. We have come to the conclusion that the Bill should in this respect be left substantially as it stands. Admitting with the Chief Justice that one main principle of Indian codification is to reconcile and assimilate, as far as possible, the Native and European law on each subject, we would point out that this principle must be applied so as to produce as little friction as possible, and we feel assured that any sudden abolition of the numerous local usages (there is no general custom) as to hundis, uncertain and undefined as they often are, would cause much and justifiable dissatisfaction among Native bankers and merchants in certain parts of the country. But we believe that the effect of the Bill, if passed with a saving of the local usages in question, will be, not as the Chief Justice fears, to stereotype and perpetuate these usages, but to induce the Native mercantile community gradually to discard them for the corresponding rules contained in the Bill. The desirable uniformity of mercantile usage will thus be brought about without any risk of causing hardship to Native bankers and merchants. How long this change will take, it is of course impossible to prophesy. But the Bank of Bengal has supplied evidence that the Native usages as to negotiable paper have of recent years been greatly changing, and that the tendency is to assimilate them more and more to the European custom.

3. We do not share the apprehension of the Bank of Bengal that the recognition of Native usages would result in large withdrawal of European capital from operations in Native bills. For in this respect the Bill simply states the law as it stands. Such usages are now and have always been recognized by our Courts in all parts of India:* but the Bank itself admits that, for upwards of seventy years, its business in hundis has invariably been conducted according to the same laws and usages as apply to European bills, and that, with one exception (the alleged duty of the holder of a dishonoured hundi to exhaust the acceptor before having recourse to the drawer or endorser) Natives have made no difficulty about conforming to the Bank's requirements. It is, we understand, the practice of the Bank and, probably, of other large European purchasers of hundis to notify that they will not be bound by any local usage which contravenes the English law as to bills of exchange. Though the Bill should pass in its present form, this practice will remain legal and unaffected. It operates of course to bind only the seller to waive a defence which he might otherwise have made. But the other parties to the hundi are practically precluded from setting up any such usage by the knowledge that if they did so their credit would be destroyed by refusal of the Bank to buy hundis on which their names appear.

4. To exclude totally (as the Panjáb Government propose) hundis from any part of the Bill would be to render the proposed legislation to a great extent inoperative, and would probably result in withdrawal of the Bill. Considering the fact that the carrying on of the internal trade of India is becoming more and more dependent on English capital, and that the use in the Mufassal of bills in the English form is therefore largely increasing, we think that such withdrawal would be highly inexpedient. We are supported in this opinion by the fact that the Local Governments of Bengal, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces and Ajmer have all reported in favour of the Bill; that the Chambers of Commerce at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, the Bank of Bombay, and the Calcutta Trades Association, have done the same; and that the Directors of the Bank of Bengal bear testimony as to the ability with which it was framed by Mr. Phillips.

5. Turning now to the details of the Bill, we have, in the first place, expressly saved the provisions of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section 21, which prohibits the issue of private bills or notes payable to bearer on demand.

6. We have struck out from section 16 the words "the whole or any part of," as they might have been taken to imply that there may be a special indorsement expressly directing payment of part of the amount mentioned in the instrument.

7. Section 21 was taken from the Law Commissioners' draft, and deals with a promissory note signed by two persons, and shewing that one of them subscribes only to an alternative liability. We think it very doubtful whether such an informal instrument is a promissory note at all, and for this and other reasons we have omitted the section.

8. We have also omitted section 33, as the matter appears to us to be sufficiently provided for by the Indian Contract Act; for the same reason we have omitted the first half of section 43.

9. We have omitted, as unlikely to be practically useful, sections 55 and 56, which provide for the delivery without indorsement, but with intent to transfer title, of bills payable to the order of a specified person or to a specified person or order.

10. We have omitted section 59, as the matter is sufficiently covered by the preceding section.

11. We do not think that the Bill should deal with collateral agreements, and have therefore struck out section 66.

12. We have amended the section (73, now 67) as to the drawee's term for deliberation. It now provides that the holder may allow the drawee twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept the Bill.

13. We think that, in order to charge the drawer of a cheque, the holder should only be bound to present it at the bank on which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and the banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer. We have altered section 82 accordingly.

14. We have omitted from section 97 the explanation relating to material alterations.

15. We have made some changes in wording and arrangement.

16. The Bill No. III and the second report of the Select Committee have been published in English in all the local Gazettes except those for Assam and Rájputána. Publication of the Bill and report in the vernacular has been reported only by the Governments of Madras, Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and ~~Cash~~ and the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces.

17. With the exception of our Hon'ble Colleague Mr. Morgan, we think that the Bill might now be passed as amended. Mr. Morgan would omit the clause saving local usages as to hundis. In other respects he approves of the Bill. We recommend that its further consideration be stayed until the new Law Commission has reported thereon. Meanwhile, we think the Bill, as now amended, should be published with this report in the Gazette of India.

CALCUTTA, }
The 19th February, 1879. }

Although I think that this Bill is, on the whole, a very good one, I cannot approve of the recognition which it accords to local usages relating to hundis. From a careful consideration of the papers which have been received with reference to the Bill, and from my own experience as regards the existing practice regarding hundis, I do not believe that there are any usages which call for special recognition at the hands of the legislature, and I think that the proposed recognition may put an arm into the hands of those who are dishonestly disposed, which they do not at present possess.

SCHEDULE.

No. IV.

A Bill to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

- 1. This Act may be called
Short title. "The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1879 :"
- It extends to the whole of British India ; but nothing herein contained affects Local extent. any local usage relating to any instrument in an oriental language or affects the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section twenty-one :
- And it shall come into Commencement. force on the first day of January, 1880.
- 2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be Repeal of enactments. repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof.
- Interpretation clause. 3. In this Act—
"Banker." includes also persons or a corporation or company acting as bankers, and
"Notary Public" includes also any officer appointed by the Governor General in Council to perform the functions of a Notary Public under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

OF NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

4. A promissory note is an instrument in writing (not being a bank note or a currency note) containing an unconditional undertaking, signed by the maker, to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person, or to the bearer of the instrument.

Promissory Note.

Illustrations.

A signs instruments in the following terms :—

- (a) "I promise to pay B or order Rs. 500."
- (b) "I acknowledge myself to be indebted to B in Rs. 1,000 to be paid on demand, for value received."
- (c) "Mr. B, I O U Rs. 1,000."
- (d) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and all other sums which shall be due to him."
- (e) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500, first deducting thereout any money which he may owe me."
- (f) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 seven days after my marriage with C."
- (g) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 on D's death, provided D leaves me enough to pay that sum."
- (h) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and to deliver to him my black horse on 1st January next."

The instruments respectively marked (a), and (b) are promissory notes. The instruments respectively marked (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) and (h) are not promissory notes.

5. A bill of exchange is an instrument in writing containing an unconditional order, signed by the maker, directing a certain person to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person or to the bearer of the instrument.

Bill of exchange.

6. A cheque is a bill of exchange drawn on a specified banker and not expressed to be payable otherwise than on demand.

Cheque.

7. The maker of a bill of exchange or cheque is called the "drawer;" the person thereby directed to pay is called the "drawee."

"Drawer."
"Drawee."

When the bill gives the name of any person in addition to the drawee to be resorted to in case of need, such person is called a "drawee in case of need."

After the drawee of a bill has signed his assent upon the bill, or if there are more parts thereof than one, upon one of such parts, and delivered the same, or given notice of such signing to the holder or to some person on his behalf, he is called the "acceptor."

"Acceptor."

When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour."

The person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid, is called the "payee."

"Payee."

8. The "holder" of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque means any person entitled in his own name to the possession thereof and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto.

"Holder."

Where the note, bill or cheque is lost or destroyed, its holder is the person so entitled at the time of such loss or destruction.

9. "Holder in due course" means any person who became the possessor of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque if payable to bearer, or the payee or indorsee thereof, if payable to, or to the order of, a payee, for consideration before the amount mentioned in it became payable, and without having sufficient cause to believe that any defect existed in the title of the person from whom he derived his title.

"Holder in due course."

10. "Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned.

11. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque drawn or made in British India, and made payable in, or drawn upon any person resident in, British India shall be deemed to be an inland instrument.

Inland instrument.

12. Any such instrument not so drawn, made or made payable shall be deemed to be a foreign instrument.

Foreign instrument.

13. A "negotiable instrument" means a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque expressed to be payable to a specified person or his order, or to the order of a specified person, or to the bearer thereof, or to a specified person or the bearer thereof.

Negotiable instrument.

14. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is transferred to any person, so as to constitute that person the holder hereof, the instrument is said to be negotiated.

15. When the maker or holder of a negotiable instrument signs the same, otherwise than as such maker, for the purpose of negotiation, on the back or face thereof or on a slip of paper annexed thereto, or so signs for the same purpose a stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument, he is said to indorse the same, and is called the "indorser."

Indorsement.

16. If the indorser signs his name only, the indorsement is said to be "in blank," and if he adds a direction to pay the amount mentioned in the instrument to, or to the order of, a specified person, the indorsement is said to be "in full;" and the person so specified is called the "indorsee" of the instrument.

Indorsement "in blank" and "in full."

"Indorsee."

17. Where an instrument may be construed either as a promissory note or bill of exchange, the holder may at his election treat it as either, and the instrument shall be thenceforward treated accordingly.

Ambiguous instruments.

18. If the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid is stated differently in figures and in words, the amount stated in words shall be the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid.

Where amount is stated differently in figures and words.

19. A promissory note or bill of exchange, in which no time for payment is specified, and a cheque are payable on demand.

20. Where a stamped paper, which is intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument, is signed and delivered by a competent person as maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser, the holder thereof may complete the same by filling up any blanks therein, and the person so signing shall be liable upon such instrument, in the capacity in which he signed the same, for any amount which may be specified therein not exceeding the amount covered by the stamp thereon: provided that as between the person delivering and the person receiving the instrument nothing in excess of the amount intended by them to be paid shall be recovered.

Illustration.

A stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument is made payable to "or order:" the holder of such instrument may fill up the blank with his own name, or that of any other person.

21. In a promissory note or bill of exchange the expressions "at sight" and "on presentment" mean on demand. The expression "after sight" means, in a promissory note, after presentment for sight, and in a bill of exchange, after acceptance or protest for non-acceptance.

22. The maturity of a promissory note or bill of exchange is the date at which it falls due.

Every promissory note or bill of exchange which is not expressed to be payable on demand, at sight, or on presentment, is at maturity on the third day after the day on which it is expressed to be payable.

23. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a stated number of months after date or after sight, or after a certain event, is at maturity, the period stated shall be held to terminate on the day of the month which corresponds with the day on which the instrument is dated, or presented for acceptance or sight or protested for non-acceptance, or the event happens, or, where the instrument is a bill of exchange made payable a stated number of months after sight and has been accepted for honour, with the day on which it was so accepted. If the month in which the period would terminate has no corresponding day, the period shall be held to terminate on the last day of such month.

Illustrations.

(a) A negotiable instrument dated 29th January 1878 is made payable at one month after date. The instrument is at maturity on the third day after the 28th February 1878.

(b) A negotiable instrument dated 30th August 1878 is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December 1878.

(c) A promissory note or bill of exchange, dated 31st August 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December 1878.

24. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a certain number of days after date or after sight or after a certain event, is at maturity, the day of the date, or of presentment for acceptance or sight, or of protest for non-acceptance, or on which the event happens, shall be excluded.

25. When the day on which a promissory note or bill of exchange is at maturity is a public holiday, the instrument shall be deemed to be due on the next preceding business day.

Explanation.—The expression "public holiday" includes Sundays: New-Year's day, Christmas day: if either of such days falls on a Sunday, the next following Monday: Good-Friday; and any other day declared by the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, to be a public holiday.

26. Until the contrary is proved, the following presumptions shall be made:—

(a) that every negotiable instrument was made or drawn for consideration, and that every such instrument, when it has been accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred, was accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred for consideration:

(b) that every negotiable instrument bearing a date was made or drawn on such date:

(c) that every accepted bill of exchange was accepted within a reasonable time after its date and before its maturity:

(d) that every transfer of a negotiable instrument was made before its maturity:

(e) that the endorsements appearing upon a negotiable instrument were made in the order in which they appear thereon:

(f) that a lost promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque was duly stamped:

(g) that the holder of a negotiable instrument is a holder in due course: provided that where the instrument has been obtained from its lawful owner, or from any person in lawful custody thereof, by means of an offence of fraud, or has been obtained from the maker or acceptor thereof by means of an offence of fraud, or for unlawful consideration, the burthen of proving that the holder is a holder in due course lies upon him.

CHAPTER III.

PARTIES TO NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

27. Every person capable of contracting, according to the law to which he is subject, may bind himself and be bound by the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, delivery and negotiation of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque.

A minor may draw, indorse, deliver and negotiate such instruments so as to bind all parties except himself.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to empower a corporation to make, indorse or accept such instruments except in cases in which, under the law for the time being in force, they are so empowered.

28. Every person capable of binding himself or of being bound, as mentioned in section 27, may so bind himself or be bound by a duly authorized agent acting in his name.

A general authority to transact business and to receive and discharge debts does not confer upon an agent the power of accepting or indorsing bills of exchange so as to bind his principal.

An authority to draw bills of exchange does not of itself import an authority to indorse.

29. An agent who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange

Liability of agent signing.

or cheque, without indicating thereon that he signs as agent, or that he does not intend thereby to incur personal responsibility, is liable personally on the instrument, except to those who induced him to sign upon the belief that the principal only would be held liable.

30. A legal representative of a deceased person

Liability of legal representative signing.

who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, is liable personally thereon unless he expressly limits his liability to the extent of the assets received by him as such.

31. Where there are several drawees of a bill of Acceptance by several drawees not partners.

exchange who are not partners, each of them can accept it for himself, but none of them can accept it for another without his authority.

32. The drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque

Liability of drawer.

is bound, in case of dishonour by the drawee or acceptor thereof, to compensate the holder for any loss or damage caused thereby, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, the drawer as hereinafter provided.

33. The drawee of a cheque having sufficient

Liability of drawee of cheque.

funds of the drawer in his hands properly applicable to the payment of such cheque, must pay the cheque when duly required so to do, and, in default of such payment, must compensate the drawer for any loss or damage caused by such default.

34. In the absence of a contract to the contrary,

Liability of maker of note and acceptor of bill.

the maker of a promissory note and the acceptor before maturity of a bill of exchange, are bound to pay the amount thereof at maturity according to the apparent tenor of the note or acceptance respectively, and the acceptor of a bill of exchange at or after maturity is bound to pay the amount thereof to the holder on demand.

In default of such payment as aforesaid, such maker or acceptor is bound to compensate any party to the note or bill for any loss or damage sustained by him, and caused by such default.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 29, 48, 49, 50, 62, 68, 72, 73 and 86.

35. No person except the drawee of a bill of

Only drawee can be acceptor except in need or for honour.

exchange, or all or some of several joint drawees, or a person named therein as a drawee in case of need, or an acceptor for honour, can bind himself by an acceptance.

36. In the absence of a contract to the contrary,

Liability of indorser.

whoever indorses and delivers a negotiable instrument before maturity, without, in such indorsement, expressly excluding or making conditional his own liability, is bound thereby to every subsequent holder, in case of dishonour by the drawee, acceptor or maker, to compensate such holder for any loss or damage caused to him by such dishonour, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, such indorser as hereinafter provided.

Every indorser after dishonour is liable as upon an instrument payable on demand.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 29, 48, 49, 50, 59, 60, 62, 65, 66, 68, 72, 76, 86, 87, 88, 90, 91 and 101, clause (a).

37. Every prior party to a negotiable instru-

Liability of prior parties to holder in due

ment is liable thereon to a holder in due course until the instrument is duly satisfied.

38. The maker of a promissory note or cheque,

Maker, drawer and acceptor principals.

the drawer of a bill of exchange until acceptance, and the acceptor are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively liable thereon as principal debtors, and the other parties thereto are liable thereon as sureties for the maker, drawer or acceptor, as the case may be.

39. As between the parties so liable as sureties,

Prior party a principal in respect of each subsequent party.

each prior party is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, also liable thereon as a principal debtor in respect of each subsequent party.

Illustration.

A draws a bill payable to his own order on B, who accepts. A afterwards indorses the bill to C, C to D, and D to E. As between E and B, B is the principal debtor, and A, C and D are his sureties. As between E and A, A is the principal debtor, and C and D are his sureties. As between E and C, C is the principal debtor and D is his surety.

40. When the holder of an accepted bill of exchange enters into any contract with the acceptor which under section 134 or 135 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, would discharge the other parties, the holder may expressly reserve his right to charge the other parties, and in such case they are not discharged.

41. Where the holder of a negotiable instru-

Discharge of indorser's liability.

ment, without the consent of the indorser, destroys or impairs the indorser's remedy against a prior party, the indorser is discharged from liability to the holder to the same extent as if the instrument had been paid at maturity.

Illustration.

A is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of B, which contains the following indorsements in blank :—

First indorsement, "B."

Second indorsement, "Peter Williams."

Third indorsement, "Wright and Co."

Fourth indorsement, "John Rozario."

This bill A puts in suit against John Rozario and strikes out, without John Rozario's consent, the indorsements by Peter Williams and Wright and Co. A is not entitled to recover anything from John Rozario.

42. No maker of a promissory note, and no drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and no acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn.

43. No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange payable to, or to the order of, a specified person shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same.

44. No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument.

45. An acceptor of a bill of exchange already indorsed is not relieved from liability by reason that such indorsement is forged, if he knew or had reason to believe the indorsement to be forged when he accepted the bill.

46. An acceptor of a bill of exchange drawn in a fictitious name and payable to the drawer's order is not, by reason that such name is fictitious, relieved from liability to any holder in due course claiming under an indorsement by the same hand as the drawer's signature, and purporting to be made by the drawer.

47. If at any time there has been consideration between any parties to a negotiable instrument for the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, negotiation or transfer thereof, the party receiving such consideration is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, liable upon the instrument to all subsequent parties thereto, and every subsequent holder is, as against him, a holder for consideration.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 49, 50, 59, 65, 66, 68, 72, 73, 76, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90 and 91.

Illustrations.

(a) A indorses a bill of exchange to B, at the request of C, for C's account with B. B is a holder of the bill for consideration and if he indorses it as a present to D, D is a holder for consideration as against A.

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument, indorses it in full to B, in the belief that B has done something which he has not done. B, for consideration proceeding from C, indorses the instrument in blank to C, and C indorses it to D. D strikes out C's indorsement. D is a holder of the instrument for consideration as against B.

48. When there was no consideration for the making, drawing, acceptance or indorsement of a negotiable instrument, or when the consideration has wholly failed, the maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser is not liable thereon to the party in whose favour the instrument was so made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, or to any party claiming through him, unless consideration was given by the claimant or by some party through whom he derives title. But the maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser is liable to compensate any subsequent party who, being liable on such instrument, pays the amount due.

49. When the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque consisted of money, and was originally absent in part or has subsequently failed in part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Explanation.—The drawer of a bill of exchange stands in immediate relation with the acceptor. The maker of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, stands in immediate relation with the payee, and the indorser with his indorsee. Other signers may by agreement stand in immediate relation with a holder.

Illustration.

A draws a bill on B for Rs. 500 payable to the order of A. B accepts the bill, but subsequently dishonours it by non-payment. A sues B on the bill. B proves that it was accepted for value as to Rs. 400, and as an accommodation to the plaintiff as to the residue. A can only recover Rs. 400.

50. Where a part of the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, though not consisting of money, is ascertainable in money without collateral enquiry, and there has been a failure of that part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

51. Subject to the provisions of section 62, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by delivery thereof.

Exception.—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque delivered on condition that it is not to take effect except in a certain event is not negotiable (except in the hands of a holder for value without notice of the condition) unless such event happens.

Illustrations.

(a) The holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, delivers it to B's agent to keep for B. The instrument has been negotiated.

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer which is in the hands of A's banker, who is at the time the banker of B, directs the banker to transfer the instrument to B's account in the banker's account with B. The banker does so, and accordingly now possesses the instrument as B's agent. The instrument has been negotiated, and B has become the holder of it.

52. Subject to the provisions of section 62, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to the order of a specified person, or to a specified person or order, is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

53. The holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may, without signing his own name, by writing above the indorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as indorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full; and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an indorser.

54. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument
Effect of indorsement. followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Illustrations.

B signs the following indorsements on different negotiable instruments payable to bearer:—

(a) "Pay the contents to C only."

(b) "Pay C for my use."

(c) "Pay C or order for the account of B."

(d) "The within must be credited to C."

These indorsements exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

(e) "Pay C."

(f) "Pay C value in account with the Oriental Bank."

(g) "Pay the contents to C, being part of the consideration in a certain deed of assignment executed by C to the indorser and others."

These indorsements do not exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

55. Every sole maker, drawer, payee or indorsee, or all of several joint makers, drawers, payees or indorsees, of a negotiable instrument may, if the negotiability of such instrument has not been restricted or excluded, as mentioned in section 54, indorse and negotiate the same.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker or drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is holder thereof.

Illustration.

A bill is drawn payable to A or order. A indorses it to B, the indorsement not containing the words "or order" or any equivalent words. B may negotiate the instrument.

56. The indorser of a negotiable instrument may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon, depend upon the happening of a specified event, although such event may never happen.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a.) The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—
 "Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b.) A is the payee and holder of a negotiable instrument. Excluding personal liability by an indorsement "without recourse," he transfers the instrument to B, and B indorses it to C, who indorses it to A. A is not only reinstated in his former rights, but has the rights of an indorsee against B and C.

57. A holder of a negotiable instrument who derives title from a holder in due course has the rights thereon of that holder in due course.

Holder deriving title from holder in due course.

58. Subject to the provisions of sections 121 and 122, a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank is payable to the bearer thereof even although originally payable to order.

59. If a negotiable instrument after having been indorsed in blank is indorsed in full, the amount it cannot be claimed from the indorser in full, except by the person to whom it has been indorsed in full, or by one who derives title through such person.

60. No writing on a negotiable instrument is valid for the purpose of negotiation if such writing purports to transfer only a part of the amount of the instrument.

61. The legal representative of a deceased person cannot negotiate by delivery only a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order and indorsed by the deceased but not delivered.

62. When a negotiable instrument has been lost, or has been obtained by unlawful means or for unlawful consideration, the holder thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for an unlawful consideration, no possessor or indorsee who claims through the person who found or so obtained the instrument is entitled to receive the amount due thereon from such maker, acceptor or holder, or from any party prior to such holder, unless such possessor or indorsee is, or some person through whom he claims was, a holder thereof in due course.

63. The holder of a negotiable instrument, who has acquired it after dishonour or when overdue, acceptance or non-payment, with notice thereof, or after maturity, has only, as against the other parties, the rights thereon of his transferor:

Provided that any person who, in good faith and for consideration, becomes the holder, after maturity, of a promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted without consideration for the purpose of enabling some party thereto to raise money thereon, may recover the amount of the note or bill from any prior party.

Illustration.

The acceptor of a bill of exchange, when he accepted it deposited with the drawer certain goods as a collateral security for the payment of the bill, with power to the drawer to sell the goods and apply the proceeds in discharge of the bill if it were not paid at maturity. The bill not having been paid at maturity, the drawer sold the goods and retained the proceeds, but indorsed the bill to A. A's title is subject to the same objection as the drawer's title.

64. A negotiable instrument may be negotiated (except by the maker, drawee or acceptor after maturity) until payment or satisfaction thereof by the maker, drawee or acceptor at or after maturity, but not after such payment or satisfaction.

CHAPTER V.

OF PRESENTMENT.

65. A bill of exchange payable after sight must, if no time or place is specified therein for presentment, be presented to the drawee thereof for acceptance, if he can, after reasonable search, be found, by a person entitled to demand acceptance, within a reasonable time after it is drawn, and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

If the drawee cannot, after reasonable search be found, the bill is dishonoured.

If the bill is directed to the drawee at a particular place, it must be presented at that place; and if at the due date for presentment he cannot, after reasonable search, be found there, the bill is dishonoured.

66. A promissory note, payable at a certain period after sight, must be presented to the maker thereof for sight, by a person entitled to demand payment, within a reasonable time after it is made and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

67. The holder may allow the drawee of a bill of exchange presented to him for acceptance twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept it.

68. Promissory notes, bills of exchange and enques must be presented for payment to the maker, acceptor or drawee thereof respectively, by or on behalf of the holder as hereinafter provided. In default of such presentment, the other parties thereto are not liable thereon to such holder.

Exception.—Where a promissory note is payable on demand and is not payable at a specified place, no presentment is necessary in order to charge the maker thereof.

69. Presentment for payment must be made during the usual hours of business, and, if at a banker's, within banking hours.

70. A promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable at a specified period after date or sight thereof, must be presented for payment at maturity.

71. A promissory note payable by instalments must be presented for payment on the third day after the date fixed for payment of each instalment; and non-payment on such presentment has the same effect as non-payment of a note at maturity.

72. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place and not elsewhere must, in order to charge any party thereto, be presented for payment at that place.

73. A promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place must, in order to charge the maker or drawer thereof, be presented for payment at that place.

74. A promissory note or bill of exchange, not made payable as mentioned in sections 72 and 73, must be presented for payment at one of the places specified (if any), or at the place of business (if any), or at the usual residence, of the maker, drawee or acceptor thereof, as the case may be.

75. If the maker, drawee or acceptor of a negotiable instrument has no known place of business or fixed residence, and no place is specified in the instrument for presentment for acceptance or payment, such presentment may be made to him in person wherever he can be found.

76. A cheque must, in order to charge the drawer, be presented at the bank upon which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and his banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer.

77. A cheque must, in order to charge any person except the drawer, be presented within a reasonable time after delivery thereof by such person.

78. Subject to the provisions of section 33, a negotiable instrument payable on demand must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after it is received by the holder.

79. Presentment for acceptance or payment may be made to the duly authorized agent of the drawee, maker or acceptor, as the case may be, or where the drawee, maker or acceptor has died, to his legal representative, or where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee.

80. No presentment for payment is necessary, and the instrument is dishonoured at the due date for presentment, in any of the following cases—

(a) if the maker, drawee or acceptor intentionally prevents the presentment of the instrument, or, if the instrument being payable at his place of business, he closes such place on a business day during the usual business-hours, or if the instrument being payable at some other specified place, neither he nor any person authorized to pay it attends at such place during the usual business hours, or if the instrument not being payable at any specified place, he cannot after due search be found;

(b) as against any party if, after maturity, with knowledge that the instrument has not been presented—

he makes a part payment on account of the amount due on the instrument, or promises to pay the amount due thereon in whole or in part, or otherwise waives his right to take advantage of any default in presentment for payment;

(c) as against the drawer, if the drawer could not suffer damage from the want of such presentment.

81. When a bill of exchange, accepted payable

Liability of banker for negligently dealing with bill presented for payment at a specified bank, has been duly presented there for payment and dishonoured, if the banker so negligently or improperly keeps, deals with or delivers back such bill as to cause loss to the holder, he must compensate the holder for such loss.

CHAPTER VI.

OF PAYMENT AND INTEREST.

82. Subject to the provisions of section 86,

To whom payment should be made.

clause (c), payment of the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque must, in order to discharge the maker or acceptor, be made to the holder of the instrument.

83. When interest at a specified rate is ex-

Interest when rate specified.

pressly made payable on a promissory note or bill of exchange, interest shall be calculated at the rate specified, on the amount and from the date of the instrument, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

84. When no rate of interest is specified in the instrument, interest on the amount thereof shall, except in cases provided for by Code of Civil Procedure, section 532, be calculated at the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date at which the same ought to have been paid by the party charged, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Explanation.—When the party charged is the indorser of an instrument dishonoured by non-payment, he is liable to pay interest only from the time that he receives notice of the dishonour.

85. Any person liable to pay, and called upon

Delivery of instrument on payment, or indemnity in case of loss.

by the holder thereof to pay, the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is ~~entitled to have it shown, and is on payment entitled to have it delivered up, to him, or, if the instrument is lost or cannot be produced, to be indemnified against any further claim thereon against him.~~

CHAPTER VII.

OF DISCHARGE FROM LIABILITY ON NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

86. The maker, acceptor or indorser respectively of a negotiable instrument is discharged from liability thereon—

Discharge from liability.

(a) to a holder thereof who cancels such acceptor's or indorser's name with intent by cancellation, to discharge him, and to all parties claiming under such holder.

(b) to a holder thereof who otherwise discharges such maker, acceptor or indorser, and to all parties deriving title under such holder after notice of such discharge;

(c) to all parties thereto, if the instrument is payable to bearer, or has been indorsed in blank, and such maker, acceptor or indorser makes payment in due course of the amount due thereon.

87. If the holder of a bill of exchange allows

Discharge by allowing drawee more than twenty-four hours to accept.

the drawee more than twenty-four hours to consider whether he will accept the same, all previous parties not consenting to such allowance are thereby discharged from liability to such holder.

88. When the holder of a cheque fails to present it for payment, and the drawer thereof sustains loss or damage from such failure, he is discharged from liability to the holder.

89. Where a cheque payable to order, purports to be indorsed by or on behalf of the payee, the drawee is discharged by payment in due course.

90. If the holder of a bill of exchange acqui-

Parties not consenting discharged by conditional or limited acceptance.

esces in a conditional acceptance, or one limited to part of the sum mentioned in the bill, or which substitutes a different place or time for payment, or which, where the drawers are not partners is not signed by all the drawees, all previous parties whose consent is not obtained to such acceptance are discharged as against the holder and those claiming under him.

91. Save as provided in sections 20, 53, 90

Effect of material alteration.

and 120, any material alteration of a negotiable instrument renders the same void as against any one who is a party thereto at the time of making such alteration and does not consent thereto, unless it was made in order to carry out the common intention of the original parties;

and any such alteration if made by an indorsee, discharges his indorser from all liability to him in respect of the consideration thereof.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 20, 53, 90 and 120.

92. An acceptor or indorser of a negotiable

Accepter or indorser bound notwithstanding previous alteration.

instrument is bound by his acceptance or indorsement notwithstanding any previous alteration of the instrument.

93. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque has been materially altered, but does not appear to have been so altered, or where a cheque is presented for payment which does not at the time of presentation appear to be crossed or to have had a crossing which has been obliterated, payment thereof by a person or banker liable to pay and paying the same according to the apparent tenor thereof at the time of payment and otherwise in due course, shall discharge such person or banker from all liability thereon, and such payment shall not be questioned by reason of the instrument having been altered, or the cheque crossed.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF NOTICE OF DISHONOUR.

94. A bill of exchange is said to be dishonoured by non-acceptance when the drawee, or one of several drawees not being partners, makes default in acceptance upon being duly required to accept the bill.

Where the drawee is incompetent to contract the bill may be treated as dishonoured.

95. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is said to be dishonoured by non-payment when the maker of the note, acceptor of the bill, or drawee of the cheque makes default in payment upon being duly required to pay the same.

96. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder thereof, or some party thereto who remains liable thereon, must give notice that the instrument has been so dishonoured to all other parties whom the holder seeks to make severally liable thereon, and to some one of several parties whom he seeks to make jointly liable thereon.

Nothing in this section renders it necessary to give notice to the maker of the dishonoured promissory note, or the drawee or acceptor of the dishonoured bill of exchange or cheque.

97. Notice of dishonour may be given to a duly authorised agent of the person to whom it is required to be given, or, where he has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee; may be oral or written; may, if written, be sent by post; and may be in any form; but it must inform the party to whom it is given, either in express terms or by reasonable intendment, that the instrument has been dishonoured, and in what way, and that he will be held liable thereon; and it must be given within a reasonable time after dishonour, at the place of business, or (in case such party has no place of business) at the residence of the party for whom it is intended.

If the notice is sent by post and miscarries, such miscarriage does not render the notice invalid.

98. Any party receiving notice of dishonour must, in order to render any prior party liable to himself, transmit it to such party within a reasonable time, unless such party otherwise receives due notice as provided by section 96.

99. When the instrument is deposited with an agent for presentment, the agent is entitled to the same time to give notice to his principal as if he were the holder giving notice of dishonour, and the principal is entitled to a further like period to give notice of dishonour.

100. When the party to whom notice of dishonour is despatched is dead, but the party despatching the notice is ignorant of his death, the notice is sufficient.

When notice of dishonour is unnecessary. 101. No notice of dishonour is necessary—

(a) when it is dispensed with by the party entitled thereto;

(b) in order to charge the drawer, when he has countermanded payment;

(c) when the party charged could not suffer damage for want of notice;

(d) when the party entitled to notice cannot after due search be found; or the party bound to give notice is, for any other reason, unable without any fault of his own to give it;

(e) to charge the drawers, when the acceptor is also a drawer;

(f) in the case of a promissory note which is not negotiable;

(g) when the party entitled to notice, knowing the facts, promises unconditionally to pay the amount due on the instrument.

CHAPTER IX.

OF NOTING AND PROTEST.

102. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may cause such dishonour to be noted by a notary public upon the instrument, or upon a paper attached thereto, or partly upon each.

Such note must be made within a reasonable time after dishonour, and must specify the date of dishonour, the reason, if any, assigned for such dishonour, or, if the instrument has not been expressly dishonoured, the reason why the holder treats it as dishonoured, and the notary's charges.

103. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause such dishonour to be noted and certified by a notary public. Such certificate is called a protest, and in a suit upon the instrument, on proof of the protest, the Court shall presume the fact of dishonour, unless and until such fact is disproved.

When the acceptor of a bill of exchange has become insolvent, or his credit has been publicly impeached, before the maturity of the bill, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause a notary public to demand better security of the acceptor, and on its being refused may, within a reasonable time, cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security.

104. A protest under section 103 must contain—

(a) either the instrument itself, or a literal transcript of the instrument and of everything written or printed thereupon;

(b) the name of the person for whom and against whom the instrument has been protested;

(e) a statement that payment or acceptance, or better security, as the case may be, has been demanded of such person by the notary public; the terms of his answer, if any, or a statement that he gave no answer, or that he could not be found;

(f) when the note or bill has been dishonoured, the place and time of dishonour, and when better security has been refused, the place and time of refusal;

(g) the subscription of the notary public making the protest;

(h) in the event of an acceptance for honour or of a payment for honour, the name of the person by whom, of the person for whom, and the manner in which, such acceptance or payment was offered and effected.

105. When a promissory note or bill of exchange is required by law to be protested, notice of such protest must be given instead of notice of dishonour, in the same manner and subject to the same conditions; but the notice may be given by the notary public who makes the protest.

Notice of protest.

Protest for non-payment after dishonour by non-acceptance.

106. All bills of exchange drawn payable at some other place than the place mentioned as the residence of the drawee, and which are dishonoured by non-acceptance, may, without further presentment to the drawee, be protested for non-payment, in the place specified for payment, unless paid before or at maturity.

CHAPTER X.

OF REASONABLE TIME.

107. In determining what is a reasonable time for presentment for acceptance or payment, for giving notice of dishonour and for noting, regard shall be had to the nature of the instrument and the usual course of dealing with respect to similar instruments; and in calculating such time, public holidays shall be excluded.

Reasonable time.

108. Presentment is made within a reasonable time, within the meaning of sections 65, 77 and 78, if it is made on the business day next after that on which the holder received the instrument referred to, or when there is no more delay than is occasioned by the residence of the parties to the instrument in different places.

Illustration.

A draws on B, resident at Calcutta, a bill of exchange in favour of C payable at sight, and sends it to C at Bombay. C, the day after he receives it, indorses it to D, and despatches it to D at Calcutta. D, the day after he receives the bill, presents it for payment. The delay which has taken place in presenting the bill is not unreasonable.

109. If the holder and the party to whom notice of dishonour is given carry on business or live in different places, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched by the next post or on the day next after the day of dishonour.

Reasonable time of giving notice of dishonour.

If the said parties carry on business or live in the same place, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched in time to reach its destination on the day next after the day of dishonour.

110. A party receiving notice of dishonour, who seeks to enforce his right against a prior party, transmits the notice within a reasonable time if he transmits it within the same time after its receipt as he would have had to give notice if he had been the holder.

Reasonable time for transmitting such notice.

CHAPTER XI.

OF ACCEPTANCE AND PAYMENT FOR HONOUR.

111. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or for better security, any person may, with the consent of the holder, by writing on the bill, accept the same for the honour of any party thereto.

Acceptance for honour.

112. Where the acceptance does not express for whose honour it is made, it shall be deemed to be made for the honour of the drawer.

Acceptance not specifying for whose honour it is made.

113. An acceptor for honour binds himself to all liability of acceptor parties subsequent to the party for whose honour he accepts to pay the amount of the bill if the drawee do not; and such party and all prior parties are liable in their respective capacities to compensate the acceptor for honour for all loss or damage sustained by him in consequence of such acceptance.

But an acceptor for honour is not liable to the holder of the bill unless it is presented, or (in case the address given by such acceptor on the bill is a place other than the place where the bill is made payable, forwarded for presentment, not later than the day next after the day of its maturity.

114. An acceptor for honour cannot be charged unless the bill has at its maturity been presented to the drawee for payment and has been dishonoured by him, and noted or protested for such dishonour.

115. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-payment, any person may pay the same for the honour of any party, but he is not to pay the same, provided that the person so paying has previously declared before a notary public the party for whose honour he pays, and that such declaration has been recorded by such notary public.

116. Any person so paying is entitled to all the rights in respect of the bill, of the holder at the time of such payment, and may recover from the party for whose honour he pays all sums so paid, with interest thereon and with all expenses properly incurred in making such payment.

Right of payer for honour.

CHAPTER XII.

OF COMPENSATION.

117. The compensation payable in case of dishonour of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, by any party liable to the holder or any indorsee, shall (except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532) be determined by the following rules :—

(a) The holder is entitled to the amount due upon the instrument, together with the expenses properly incurred in presenting, noting and protesting it ;

(b) When the person charged resides at a place different from that at which the instrument was payable, the holder is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places ;

(c) An indorser who, being liable, has paid the amount due on the same is entitled to the amount so paid with interest at six per centum per annum from the date of payment until tender or realization thereof, together with all expenses caused by the dishonour and payment ;

(d) When the person charged and such indorser reside at different places, the indorser is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places ;

(e) The party entitled to compensation may draw a bill upon the party liable to compensate him, payable at sight or on demand, for the amount due to him together with all expenses properly incurred by him. Such bill must be accompanied by the instrument dishonoured and the protest thereof (if any). If such bill is dishonoured, the party dishonouring the same is liable to make compensation thereof in the same manner as in the case of the original bill.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF CROSSED CHEQUES.

118. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company" or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

119. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

120. Where a cheque is uncrossed, the holder may cross it generally specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally, the holder may cross it specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, the holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent, for collection.

121. Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed, or his agent for collection.

122. Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

123. Where the banker on whom a crossed cheque is drawn has paid the same in due course, the banker paying the cheque, and (in case such cheque has come to the hands of the payee) the drawer thereof, shall respectively be entitled to the same rights, and be placed in the same position in all respects, as they would respectively be entitled to and placed in if the amount of the cheque had been paid to and received by the true owner thereof.

124. Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same is crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

125. A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable," shall not have, and shall not be capable of giving, a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

But a banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment from a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF FOREIGN BILLS.

126. Foreign bills of exchange may be drawn in parts, each part being numbered and containing a provision that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. All the parts together make a set; but the whole set constitutes only one bill, and is extinguished when one of the parts, if a separate bill, would be extinguished.

Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he is liable on each part as if it were a separate bill.

127. As between holders in due course of different parts of the same set, he who first acquired title to his part is entitled to the other parts and the money represented by the bill.

128. Where a drawee in case of need is named in a foreign bill of exchange, the bill is not dishonoured until dishonoured by such drawee.

129. Foreign bills of exchange must be protested for dishonour when such protest is required by the law of the place where they are drawn.

CHAPTER XV.

OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

130. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Illustrations.

A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B, payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is endorsed in British India, and is dishonoured. An action on the bill is brought against B in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

131. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorsee causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and gives notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills which are not foreign. The notice is sufficient.

132. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, Instrument made, &c., accepted or indorsed out of out of British India, but British India, but in accordance with its law. accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into, does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or endorsement made thereon in British India.

133. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

Forms of instruments taken from a Bengali book of forms received from Mr. O'Kinealy.

amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have the honour to present this further report.

2. The principal objections taken to this Bill in its second form are, first, that, as a whole, it is heterogeneous, and, secondly, that certain parts of it are neither necessary nor expedient. It is said, for instance, that, though the bulk of the Bill deals with transfer of property inter vivos by act of parties, it also treats, in sections 82, 83, of conditions in Wills, and, in section 129, of Succession to a deceased person. It is said, again, that the chapters dealing respectively with the rights and liabilities of owners of limited interests and with property held by several persons belong rather to the subject of the enjoyment, than to that of the transfer, of property. It is urged that settlements (in the conveyancer's sense of the word) are hardly ever made in India, that what are technically called Powers are almost unknown, and that the chapters respectively dealing with those subjects are certainly not necessary and can hardly be said to be expedient. We feel the force of these objections. In fact, we have always felt them. But we were not responsible for the first draft of the Bill, whatever were its excellences or defects. The matters thus objected to, together with others, such as Registration and Trusts, still more foreign to the proper subject of the Bill, are all dealt with by the draft prepared by the late Indian Law Commission, which was sent out in 1870 by the then Secretary of State with instructions to introduce a Bill founded upon it, revised by Sir A. Hobhouse and sent home by the Government of India in January, 1877, i. e., nearly six months before the Bill was introduced and referred to a Select Committee. The great deference due to the Law Commission and to Sir A. Hobhouse has hitherto prevented us from dealing freely with the Bill. Until the opinions of the Local Governments and the results of local experience had been obtained, for us to have altered it would have been to set our individual views against those of the able and learned men who were answerable for the Bill as introduced. But now that the opinions and results above referred to have been obtained, we see that, if the Bill is to go on at all, it must be strictly confined to the subject of transfer of property by act of parties, that is to say, by contract or gift.

3. We have therefore omitted chapters VII to XII both inclusive.

4. We cannot maintain that they are in accordance with one of the canons laid down in our last report, namely, that no addition should be made to the existing law of which are not either necessary or clearly expedient. The chapters dealing respectively with settlements, the rights and liabilities of owners of limited interests, and property held by several persons, are, moreover, very incomplete; and, as Natives are excluded from ~~chapter VII~~ it would apply to a very limited class of persons. Chapter XI of Powers, ~~is almost entirely of little use~~. We believe that among Natives powers are almost unknown. So far as we are aware, the only reported cases in which anything like a power was given by a Native are see C. O. 171, and N.-W. P. (1869) Part II, p. 6, in each of which cases a Hindu bequeathed her to his wife and expressly empowered her to nominate her, and in 5 Beng. 181, where a Hindu testator empowered his sister to appoint a trustee of a religious endowment. Moreover, powers may be created by will and are, as often as not, exercisable by will. The subject therefore does not properly fall within a measure treating of the transfer of property, the term, as lawyers generally understand the expression, the conveyance of property from one living person to another.

5. As the Bill is, so far as it deals with immoveable property and debts, only a partial measure, we have made the preamble run thus:—"Whereas it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties." Compare the preamble to the Indian Contract Act, IX of 1872.

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

6. In section 2, we have expressly saved all transfers by operation of law (e. g., in case of insolvency, forfeiture, sale in execution of a decree), with which the Bill is not intended to deal.

7. In section 3 we have omitted, as unnecessary, the definitions of "grantor," "grantee," and "grant;" and, for the last paragraph, we have said: "Chapters III, IV, V and VI of this Act shall be taken as part of the Indian Contract Act, 1872."

CHAPTER II.—Of Assurances of Immoveable Property.

8. This chapter should we think be entitled "Of Transfers of Immoveable Property," as it relates to all transfers of such property, whether or not an assurance is employed. We have omitted section 5 and the schedule to which it relates: they do not fitly form part of a Bill dealing with substantive law. Moreover, English experience shews that statutory forms of conveyances are rarely used, and they are dangerous, as tempting unskilled persons to try and be their own conveyancers.

9. Section 6 applies to transfers of immoveable property made by assurance; but it obviously ought to apply also to oral transfers of such property. We have therefore re-drawn it.

10. In section 7, we have provided for the case of a Sebit, which has twice come before the Judicial Committee. (See 14 Beng. 450, and I. L. R. 2 Cal. 341).

11. As rents and profits of land are 'immoveable property,' we have, after this section, inserted section 1 of Act XI of 1855:—

"No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held the same, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits."

This section now applies only to cases to which the English law is applicable; but there seems no reason why so equitable and useful a rule should not be extended to every one in India.

12. Section 8 of Bill No. III applies not only to cases where land has passed inter vivos by act of parties, but also to cases in which it has been transferred by operation of law. It therefore seems beyond the scope of the Bill.

13. The Bill is silent as to the doctrine of lis pendens, which has in about a dozen reported cases been applied to Native purchasers and mortgagees (see 11 Bom. 24, 29, 30, 139; 8 Beng. 174; 1 O'Kin. 303, 309; 10 W. R. 469; Sev. 808, 951). We have inserted the following:—

"10. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a suit in which the right to any immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred by any party to the suit so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order made therein."

14. Section 9 of Bill No. III (as to the effect of payment by one person, of consideration for which a transfer is made to another) properly belongs to the Trusts Bill and should, we think, be omitted from the present measure.

CHAPTER III.—Sales of Immoveable Property.

15. In accordance with a suggestion of Mr. Justice Cunningham we have prefixed to this chapter a section founded on section 78 of the Contract Act; but we do not think with him that the section should provide for ~~part delivery~~, an expression which, in the sense in which it is used in the Contract Act, section 92, would be inappropriate as applied to land, nor do we consider that, in stating the time at which delivery takes place, the effect of executing and delivering the assurance should be ignored.

The section referred to is as follows:—

Sale how effected.

"Sale of immoveable property is effected by offer and acceptance of certain immoveable property for a price, or of a price for certain immoveable property,

"together with payment of the price and delivery of the property, or with tender, part-payment or earnest; or with an agreement, express or implied, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed.

"Where there is a contract for the sale of immoveable property, the ownership of the property passes to the buyer when the whole or part of the price, or when the earnest, is paid, or when the property is delivered.

"If the parties agree, expressly or by implication, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed, the ownership passes as soon as the proposal for sale is accepted.

"Delivery of immoveable property takes place—

"(a) if the transfer is made by assurance—when the assurance is executed and delivered by the seller, and (if its registration is required by law) registered :

"(b) if the transfer is not made by assurance, in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing—when the parties consent to its delivery, and in the case of other immoveable property—when the buyer becomes capable of exercising physical control over it and determines to exercise such control on his own behalf or on behalf of the person whom he represents."

This will have the effect of settling a moot point of Hindú law, namely, whether change of possession is necessary to complete a sale of land, whether, in other words, the vendor must, at the time of sale, be in possession of the property sold (I. L. R. 1 Cal. 302 : I. L. R. 1 Bomb. 502 : N. W. P. 1871. p. 2 : contra 7 Bomb. A. C. J. 4 : 10 Bomb. 491). This question is answered in the negative by the Calcutta High Court and Mr. J. D. Mayne, a considerable authority on Hindú law.

16. We have omitted clauses (d) and (i) of section 11 (now 12). The former is, as Mr. Jacob points out, provided for by the Contract Act, section 39 ; the latter by section 10 of the same Act. On the other hand, we have restored clauses (c) and (f) of Bill No. I, modified as follows :—

"Till the ownership of the property passes to the buyer, the seller is entitled to the rents and profits thereof.

"When the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, he must bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or deterioration of the property not caused by the seller, and he is entitled to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property and to the rents and profits thereof."

The latter clause corresponds with the provision of the Contract Act, section 86, as to goods.

17. We have recast and abridged section 10 (now 13) as follows :—

Disclosures required from seller and buyer.

"The following omissions are fraudulent :—

"(a) an omission of the seller of immoveable property to disclose to the buyer any defect therein of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover :

"(b) an omission of the buyer of immoveable property to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest therein, of which the buyer is, and the seller is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest."

This will attract section 17, clause (5), of the Contract Act, which declares that "fraud" includes "any such omission as the law specially declares to be fraudulent."

18. As the Bill is now strictly limited to transfers by act of parties, we have omitted section 13, as to the procedure where the buyer becomes insolvent before completion. For the same reason we have also omitted section 73, as to the procedure where, during the continuance of a lease, the lessee becomes insolvent.

19. Section 17 (now 18), as to joint purchases. We have added, as Mr. Field suggests : "In the absence of evidence as to the shares so advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property."

CHAPTER IV.—Of Exchanges.

20. As this chapter deals with moveable as well as immoveable property, we have placed it after the chapter on leases and we have omitted the first paragraph of section 22 as the matter seems sufficiently provided for by Act IX of 1872, sections 64, 65, and Act I of 1867, sections 25, 37.

CHAPTER V.—Of Mortgages of Immoveable Property.

21. Section 27.—We fear that the abolition of equitable mortgages here proposed by the Law Commissioners would inconvenience the mercantile community. We have thought it better to say that a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds shall be deemed to create a charge on the property comprised therein and to insert the necessary clause in section 68 (now 63).

22. We have provided, in accordance with a suggestion of Mr. Field, that in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagor may recover possession of the property, (1) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the principal and interest of the mortgage-money—when such principal and interest are so paid; (2) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the mortgage-money—when the term (if any) of the mortgage expires and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee, or deposits in such Court as last aforesaid, the principal of the mortgage-money."

23. Section 29 (now 24).—We have here declared the duty of a mortgagor to take all legal means to protect his rights in the mortgaged property (Macph. 112).

24. Section 31 (now 27).—This provided only for voluntary waste. We have now provided that the mortgagor is not liable for permissive waste.

25. Section 42 (now 39), clause (c).—We have added, in order to meet the case of patni tenures and saleable under-tenures, "and any arrears of rent in default of payment of which the property may be summarily sold."

We have provided that a mortgagee in possession ought to do such repairs as he can pay for out of the rents received after his interest is paid (see 9 W. R. 488).

We have omitted clause (c). The right which it gives is, as Mr. Field says, part of the mortgagee's right to take possession, which, as a general rule, finds no place in the Bill.

Where sufficient tender is made, the mortgagee in possession is thenceforth accountable for all his receipts from the mortgaged property (9 N.-W. P. 1: Macph. 159—160). We have provided for this.

26. Section 60 (now 57).—When a mortgagor obtains a decree in a redemption-suit and fails to pay the amount due, we think the mortgagee should be entitled either to a foreclosure or a sale. We have altered this section accordingly.

27. Section 61 (now 58).—We have omitted the second paragraph and the schedule to which it refers. It is hardly the function of a Bill codifying substantive law to give forms of decrees. They should, if necessary, be added to schedule IV of the Code of Civil Procedure.

CHAPTER VI.—Of Leases.

28. Section 70 (now 66).—We have substituted a section analogous to that above proposed as a substitute for section 10.

29. Section 71 (now 65).—We have struck out clauses (c) and (g). The former is superfluous, the latter is provided for by the Contract Act, sections 64 and 73.

Clause (b) now (j).—With reference to Couch, C. J.'s, decision in Koegler v. Yule, 5 Beng. 401, 416, we think this clause should run thus: "The lessee may use the property leased and its products (if any) as a reasonable owner would use them, but he must not use the property for a purpose other than that for which it was leased, or fell timber, open mines or quarries, or commit any other act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto." We have added "The prohibition in this clause does not apply to mines which were open when the lease was granted."—See 8 Chan. Div. 526.

Clause (q) now (o).—We have inserted words in the proviso to shew that the lessor's transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent due before the transfer.

Clause (r) now (p).—We have made (in accordance with a suggestion of the Government of the North-Western Provinces) the second paragraph to run thus: "Nothing in this clause shall be deemed to authorize a tenant having a right of occupancy, the farmer of an estate in respect of which default has been made in paying revenue, and the lessee of an estate under the management of a Court of Wards, to assign his interest as such tenant, farmer or lessee."

30. Section 76 (now 70).—We have completed the list of events on which a lease determines.

31. We have redrawn the clause as to waiver of forfeiture and notice. It is now numbered 71, 72.

32. We have inserted a section (74) as to the effect of surrender and forfeiture of a lease, on sub-lessees.

33. We have made some other comparatively unimportant omissions, additions and alterations in wording and arrangement. We have added on the margins references to the reported decisions of the Indian Courts and the Judicial Committee, which justify the rules contained in the Bill. It will be seen that but few of these rules are devoid of this valuable support. The assertion that the Bill would introduce a mass of new law into India must therefore be due to ignorance of the extent to which English law (under the name of justice, equity and good conscience) is actually administered to the Natives by the Anglo-Indian Courts. The object of the Bill, like that of all our Codes, is to strip our own law of all that is local and historical, and to mould the residue into a shape in which it would be suitable for an Indian population and could be easily administered by non-professional Judges. But the Bill will introduce hardly any new substantive law, and it will not (except in the case of the procedure relating to mortgages) displace any existing enactment. The rules, for instance, as to the relation of landlord and tenant contained in the local Acts, X of 1859, XVIII of 1873, XIX of 1868, XXVIII of 1868, Bengal Act VIII of 1869, and Madras Act VIII of 1865, will all remain untouched.

34. To the body of local usages and contractual incidents which in India, as in other countries, exists as to the transfer of land the tenderest care is shewn by the Bill. Not only is local usage expressly saved in sections 62, 65 and 68, but the effect of section 1, clause (a), will be to maintain intact the statutory force which the legislature has given to local usage in those two pays de coutumes the Panjab and Oudh; and throughout India all the many incidents of a mortgage or a lease, which are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Bill, will remain wholly unaffected.

35. The Bill and preliminary report of the Select Committee have been published in English in the Presidency-towns, the Panjab, the Central Provinces and British Burma. From the North-Western Provinces no report of publication has been received. Publication of the Bill and Report in the vernacular has been reported only by the Government of Bengal. We recommend that the Bill as now altered be published in the Gazette of India and sent to the various Local Governments for opinion. And we think that no further steps should be taken upon the Bill until it has been reported on by the new Indian Law Commission.

WHITLEY STOKES.
F. R. COCKERELL.

Calcutta;
The 19th February, 1879. }

I concur in all the omissions and amendments made by the Committee and in their final recommendation; but I believe the Bill to be capable of further simplification and regret to notice the almost entire absence of illustrations.

T. H. THORNTON.

I have not had time to consider either the provisions of the Bill or the changes now made thoroughly; but I agree that the chapters on Powers, Settlements, &c., should be omitted, and think these omissions necessitate republication with a view to elicit fresh criticism to be laid before the new Commission.

I would modify the new section 10 by requiring a written instrument in all cases where the value of the property sold is Rs. 100 or upwards. This will involve registration and get rid of the inconvenience and anomaly which would arise from oral sales of valuable land with deferred possession and no registration. Subject to the above remarks, I approve of the additions now made to the Bill.

G. H. P. EVANS.

I concur in all the omissions and agree that there should be a further publication.

G. C. PAUL.

I am opposed to the republication of this Bill at the present time. I believe that there is a great deal still left in the Bill which it will be desirable to omit, as relating to matters on which legislation is not called for; and I think that there should be no further publication until the Law Commission have reported on the measure.

A. J. ARBUTHNOT.

I am inclined to think that there can be no harm in republishing the Bill in its present form (though I must say that I believe it admits of further improvement), inasmuch as the republication will elicit public criticisms which may be of some use to the Law Commission.

SCHEDULE—Repeal of Enactments.

No. III.

A Bill to amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property by act of Parties.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Bill, s. 1:
Bill II, s. 1.

1. This Act may be called "The Transfer of Property Act, 1879."

Extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. And it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1880.

Bill, s. 2:
Bill II, s. 1.

2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof. But nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect—

Act IX of 1872, s. 1.

(a) the provisions of any enactment not hereby expressly repealed;

(b) any incidents of any contract which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act;

(c) any right or liability acquired or incurred before this Act comes into force, or any remedy in respect of any such right or liability;

(d) the right to anything affixed to the soil by the lessee under any lease granted before this Act comes into force;

4 Beng. A. C. 219.

(e) any right of pre-emption acquired after this Act comes into force;

N. L. R., 2 Bom. 541.

(f) any transfer by operation of law.

Bill, s. 3:
Bill II, s. 1:
Report, s. 2:

~~In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—~~

Act III of 1877, s. 17, cl. (b).

"assurance" means any non-testamentary instrument which purports or operates to create, transfer, or otherwise dispose of, whether in present or in future, any right, title or interest, whether vested or contingent, to or in immoveable property;

"registered" means registered in British India under the law for the time being in force regulating the registration of documents:

"attached to the earth" means—

(a) imbedded in the earth, as in the case of walls;

See ss. 18, 44, clause (e), 61.

(b) permanently resting upon it, as in the case of buildings; or

(c) attached to what is so imbedded or so rests, as by means of nails, bolts, screws, cement, solder or other permanent fastening,

4. Chapters III, IV, V and VI of this Act shall be construed as one with the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

CHAPTER II.

OF TRANSFERS OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

5. Every person competent to contract Bill, s. 4:

Persons competent to make transfers of immoveable property. may make a transfer of immoveable property: but subject to the law for the time being in force as to the circumstances and extent in and to which he may dispose of such property.

6. Unless a different intention is expressed or necessarily implied, a transfer of immoveable property vests in the transferee all the interest which the transferor is then capable of passing therein and in the legal incidents thereof.

Such incidents include (where the property is land) the easements annexed thereto, the mines and minerals thereunder, and the standing trees, and all other products of the soil, and (where the property is machinery attached to the earth) the moveable parts thereof, and (where the property is a house) the easements annexed thereto and its locks, keys, bars, doors, windows, pankhas, half-doors, mats and blinds.

7. The transferor of immoveable property cannot give to another a title thereto better than his own, and where he has only a restricted power of alienating the property, he cannot give to another a title thereto valid as against third parties, except upon an alienation within the restriction:

Title which transferor of immoveable property can give.

where he has only a restricted power of alienating the property, he cannot give to another a title thereto valid as against third parties, except upon an alienation within the restriction:

Provided that where the transferor is (a) the manager of the property of a minor, an undivided family, or an endowed temple, (b) a soulless Hindú widow in possession of her deceased husband's property, or (c) a trustee, benamidar or other ostensible owner, the transferee's title shall not be impeached if the transfer has been made for a consideration and the transferee has acted in good faith and used due care and diligence to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer.

11. Sale of immoveable property is effected by offer and acceptance of certain immoveable property for a price, or of a price for certain immoveable property, together with payment of the price and delivery of the property, or with tender, part-payment or earnest ; or with an agreement, express or implied, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed. Where there is a contract for the sale of immoveable property, the ownership of the property passes to the buyer when the whole or part of the price, or when the earnest, is paid, or when the property is delivered.

If the parties agree, expressly or by implication, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed, the ownership passes as soon as the proposal for sale is accepted.

Delivery of immoveable property takes place—

12. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the buyer and the seller of immoveable property respectively have the rights, and are subject to the liabilities, mentioned in the ten rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property sold :

(a). The seller must produce to the buyer, Deost Ghelá v. Jivaraj Mukundda, 2 Bom. 432 (no right to have good title shown). Abstract of title, 1 Bom. 78. for examination, all documents of title relating to the property which are in his possession or power, and must inform the buyer of all facts not apparent thereon of which the seller is aware and which affect the seller's power to fulfil his contract, and must answer to the best of his information all relevant questions put to him by the buyer in respect to the property or the title thereto.

(b). Till the ownership of the property Bill, 11 (c). passes to the buyer, the seller is entitled to the rents and profits thereof.

(c). When the ownership of the property Cf. Act IX of 1872, s. 86. Bill, 11 (f). has passed to the buyer, he must bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or decrease in value of the property not caused by the seller, and he is entitled to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property, and to the rents and profits thereof.

(d). When the buyer has been let into 3 Bom. A. C. J. 102 : possession of the property before payment of the whole of the purchase-money, the seller 2 May 577.

has a charge upon the property for the amount of the purchase-money, or any part thereof, remaining unpaid, and for interest on such amount or part ; but as soon as the assurance, if any, is registered, such charge shall cease except as against the buyer.

(e). Unless the buyer has improperly declined to accept delivery of the property, he has, against the seller, a charge on the property, to the extent of the seller's interest therein, for the amount of any purchase-money properly paid by the buyer in anticipation of the delivery, and for interest on the amount of such payment ; and, when the buyer properly declines to accept the delivery, also for the earnest (if any) and for his costs (if any) of a suit by himself or the seller to compel specific performance of the contract or to obtain a decree for its rescission. 3 Beng. O. C. J. 79.

(f). When the buyer has been let into beneficial possession of the property before payment of the price, and the price is not paid owing to defects in the seller's title, the buyer is not liable to pay for such possession.

(g). The seller must discharge all incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the contract. The buyer may retain, out of the unpaid purchase-money, the amount of such incumbrances, and shall pay the amount so retained to the parties entitled thereto.

(h). On payment or tender of the amount due in respect of the price, the seller is bound to execute a proper assurance of the property when the buyer tenders it to him for execution at a proper time and place.

(i). On delivery of the property, the buyer is entitled to all documents of title relating thereto which are in the seller's possession or power :

Provided that (1) where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (2) where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (1) the seller, and in case (2) the buyer of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, or by any person claiming under him, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof as he may require; and, in the meantime, the seller or the buyer, as the case may be, of the lot of greatest value, must keep the said documents safe, uncanceled and undefaced, unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident.

Bill, s. 41 (1) altered. (j). Unless the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, the seller shall be deemed to contract with the buyer, first, that notwithstanding anything done by the seller or any person through whom he claims, the seller has power to transfer the property to the buyer, free from incumbrances;

secondly, that the seller and all persons claiming any interest in the same through or for him, or any person through whom he claims, will on demand execute and deliver to the buyer at his expense any further assurance of the same that may reasonably be required;

and, where the property is leasehold, thirdly, that the lease is valid and subsisting and that the rent reserved thereby, the conditions contained therein and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid, performed and observed down to the delivery.

When the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, the seller shall be deemed to contract with the buyer that the seller has done no act whereby the property is incumbered or whereby he is hindered from transferring it.

Bill II, s. 10.

~~The price required~~ 13. The following omissions are fraudulent:—

(a) an omission of the seller of immoveable property to disclose to the buyer any defect therein of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover:

(b) an omission of the buyer of immoveable property to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest therein, of which the buyer is, and the seller is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest.

Bill, s. 12: Bill II, s. 12: Report, s. 15: W. R. 38.

14. A contract for, or relating to, the sale of immoveable property, shall not of itself have the effect of creating any interest in, or charge on, such property; but the only right of any person under the contract shall be to apply for specific performance, or for compensation, or for both, according to the rules laid down in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, and the Specific Relief Act, 1877.

15. As between the seller and buyer of leasehold property, the liability of buyer of leasehold, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, bound to pay the rent reserved by the lease and accruing due after delivery of the property, to perform the contracts entered into by the lessee, and to indemnify the seller against all claims arising after the delivery in respect of non-payment of such rent or breach or non-observance of such contracts.

16. As between the seller and buyer of a right to redeem mortgaged property, the liability of buyer of right to redeem, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, bound (a) to pay to the mortgagee the principal sum which, on delivery of the right, is due on the mortgage, and all interest from time to time due for the same, when payment thereof, respectively, is lawfully demanded, and (b) to indemnify the seller against the payment thereof, and against all claims for non-payment thereof, respectively.

17. If at the date of the contract the property is insured against loss or damage by fire, the buyer, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the seller actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in reinstating the property.

18. When two or more persons purchase any immoveable property, with separate funds belonging to them respectively, they shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be interested in such property in proportion to the shares of the purchase-money which they respectively advanced.

In the absence of evidence as to the shares so advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property.

19. When two properties are subject to a common charge, and one of the properties is sold, the buyer is, against the seller, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to have the charge satisfied out of the other property, so far as such property will extend.

20. When any property is sold, the bona fide buyer not bound to see to the application of the purchase-money, in good faith of the property is not bound to see to the application of the purchase-money to the purposes of the trust nor is he answerable for the misapplication of such money.

21. When, for the purpose of securing money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan or an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement, one person transfers to another a right over specific immoveable property, the transfer is called a mortgage of immoveable property, the transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee, the money of which payment is secured is called the mortgage-money, and the assurance by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

For the purposes of this chapter, any person entitled as heir, legatee, assignee, lessee or otherwise than as a mortgagee to the interest of the transferor in the property subject to the mortgage, or any part of such interest, is a mortgagor; and any person entitled as heir, legatee, assignee or otherwise to the interest of the transferee under the mortgage, or any part thereof, is a mortgagee.

Where the mortgagor transfers the property to the mortgagee with a proviso that, upon payment of the mortgage-money at a certain date, the property shall be retransferred, the transaction is called a mortgage in the English form.

Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the property to the mortgagee, and authorizes him to retain such possession and to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the interest, or the mortgage-money and interest, or to take such rents and profits in lieu of interest, or of the mortgage-money and interest, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage.

eph. 10, 12.

Where the mortgagor binds himself personally to repay the mortgage-money, and pledges the property as collateral security for the repayment, but does not contract that, on default of payment of the mortgage-money and interest at a certain date, the property shall pass to the mortgagee, the transaction is called a simple mortgage.

eph. 11, 12

Where the mortgagor not so binding himself, contracts that, on default of payment of the mortgage-money and interest at a certain date, the property shall pass to the mortgagee, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale.

22. A mortgage can be effected only by assurance signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses.

Right of mortgagor to redeem, tender or deposit.

23. A mortgagor has the following rights against the mortgagee :—

(a) at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable, or has been paid, the mortgagor has a right on payment or tender, at a proper time and place, of the mortgage-money and interest remaining due on the mortgage, to require the mortgagee to re-transfer the mortgaged property to him, or to execute an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of his ownership or other interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished :

Provided that the mortgagee has not obtained an order absolute foreclosing such right, or that such right has not been after the date of the mortgage released or otherwise extinguished, or that the property has not been duly sold in pursuance of a decree or under a power given by the mortgage-deed.

The right conferred by this clause is called a right to redeem and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption :

(b) at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable and before such suit is barred, the mortgagor may deposit in any Court in which he might have instituted a suit for redemption of the mortgaged property, to the account of the mortgagee, the mortgage-money and interest remaining due on the mortgage :

(c) in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, he may recover possession of the property (1) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the mortgage-money and interest thereof,—when such money and interest are so paid, (2) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the mortgage-money,—when the term (if any) of the mortgage expires and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee the mortgage-money, or deposits it in such Court as last aforesaid.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize a person interested in part only of the mortgaged property to institute a suit for the redemption of his own part only, on payment of a proportionate part of the amount remaining due on the mortgage, except where there is but one mortgagee and the mortgagor's interest in part of the property becomes vested in such mortgagee, in which case the person so interested may institute such suit.

24. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagor shall be deemed to contract with the mortgagee, first, that the mortgagor has power to grant the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, free from incumbrances ;

27. A mortgagor in possession of the mortgaged property is not liable to the mortgagee for allowing the property to deteriorate; but he shall not commit any act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto, if the security is insufficient or will be rendered insufficient by such act.

Explanation.—A security is insufficient within the meaning of this section unless the value of the mortgaged property exceeds by one-third, or, if consisting of buildings exceeds by one-half, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage.

I II, s. 32

28. A mortgagor proposing to make a second or other subsequent mortgage of the mortgaged property shall, before effecting the mortgage, give the second or other subsequent mortgagee notice in writing under his hand of the prior mortgage or mortgages, and a mortgagor effecting a second or other subsequent mortgage of the mortgaged property shall, as soon as may be, give the prior mortgagee or mortgagees like notice of such mortgage.

Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagee.

30. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagee may, at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable to him, and before a decree has been made for the redemption of the mortgaged property, or the mortgage-money has been paid, institute against the mortgagor (1) a suit for a declaration that he has lost his right to redeem the property, or (2) a suit for a sale of the property.

A suit for a declaration that a mortgagor has lost his right to redeem the mortgaged property is called a suit for foreclosure.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed—

(a) to authorize a simple mortgagee to institute a suit for foreclosure, or an usufructuary mortgagee to institute a suit for foreclosure or sale, or a conditional mortgagee to institute a suit for sale;

(b) to authorize a mortgagor who has become a trustee of the mortgaged property or legal representative of the mortgagee, to institute a suit for foreclosure;

(c) to authorize the mortgagee of a railway, canal or other work in the maintenance of which the public are interested, to institute a suit for foreclosure or sale; or

(d) to authorize a person interested in part only of the mortgage-money to institute a suit relating only to a corresponding part of the mortgaged property: but he may institute any suit which, under this Act, he is authorized to institute, relating to the whole of the mortgaged property, making the other mortgagees, if they cannot or will not join as plaintiffs, defendants.

31. When the mortgagor deposits money in Court under section twenty-three, and pays the fee leviable for the service next hereinafter mentioned, the Court shall forthwith cause written notice of the deposit to be served on the mortgagee, and the mortgagee may, on depositing the mortgage-deed in the same Court and on filing a written statement (verified in manner prescribed by law for the verification of plaints) of the amount then due on the mortgage, apply for and receive in payment of such amount the money so deposited.

32. Where the mortgagor and mortgagee have contracted as to the payment of interest on the mortgage-money, interest shall be payable in accordance with such contract.

Where no such contract has been entered into, the mortgagee is entitled to interest on such money at the rate of six per cent. per annum:

W. P. 1. Macph. 3, 160.

Provided that, when the mortgagor has tendered or deposited in Court under section twenty-three, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage, interest on the mortgage-money shall cease from the date of the tender or from the earliest time when the mortgagee could take such amount out of Court, as the case may be.

I, s. 37: mb. 121

33. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, no mortgagee shall be entitled as such to take possession of the mortgaged property; but at any time after the expiration of one year from the time when the mortgage money has become payable according to the terms of the mortgage-deed, or after any interest thereon has been in arrear for six months, he may institute a suit for the appointment of a receiver of the rents and profits of the whole or any part of the mortgaged property.

Right to receiver.

In any suit for foreclosure or sale, the Court may, if it think fit, appoint such a receiver pending the proceedings in the suit, unless the mortgagee is already in possession of the mortgaged property.

I, s. 38.

34. The mortgagee may sue the mortgagor for the mortgage-money in the following cases only:—

- (a) where the mortgagor expressly binds himself to repay the same;
- (b) where the mortgagor remains in possession of the mortgaged property and fails to pay arrears of revenue or rent due in respect thereof, and the property is consequently sold or attached;
- (c) where the property is destroyed by diluvion, fire or other superior force;
- (d) where the mortgagee is deprived of his security by the wrongful act or default of the mortgagor;
- (e) in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, where the rents and profits of the property are to be taken in lieu of interest only, or where the mortgagor fails to deliver to the mortgagee possession of the property or to secure the possession thereof to him without disturbance by the mortgagor or any other person.

35. A power conferred by the mortgage-deed on the mortgagee, or on any person on his behalf, to sell or concur in selling the mortgaged property, or any part thereof, is invalid, except where the mortgagee is the Secretary of State for India in Council, or the mortgaged property is situate within the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Karachi or Rangoon.

Act No. XXVIII of 1866, section 6, is repealed so far as it is inconsistent with this section.

II, s. 40.

36. If, at the date of the mortgage, the mortgaged property is insured against loss or damage by fire, the mortgagee, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of an express contract to the contrary, require any money which the mortgagor actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be laid out in reinstating the property.

37. If, after the date of the mortgage, any accession is made to the mortgaged property, the mortgagee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, and subject to the law relating to alluvion for the time being in force, shall, for the purposes of the security, be entitled to such accession.

Illustrations.

- (a) A mortgages to B a certain field bordering on a river. The field is increased by alluvion. For the purposes of his security, B is entitled to the increase.
- (b) A mortgages a certain plot of building-land to B and afterwards erects a house on the plot. For the purposes of his security, B is entitled to the house as well as the plot.

38. When the mortgaged property is a lease for a term of years, and the mortgagor while in possession of the property, obtains a renewal of the lease, the mortgagee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, shall, for the purposes of the security, be entitled to the new lease.

39. When, during the continuance of the mortgage, the mortgagee takes possession of the mortgaged property, he has the following rights and liabilities:—

- (a) he shall manage the property as a person of ordinary prudence would manage it if it were his own; 2 Bomb. 222: A IX of 1872, s. 15
- (b) he shall use his best endeavours to collect the rents and profits thereof; N.-W. P. 1875, p. 10
- (c) he shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, out of the income of the property pay the Government revenue, all other charges of a public nature accruing due in respect thereof during such possession and any arrears of rent in default of payment of which the property may be summarily sold; 2 Bomb. 231.
- (d) he shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, make such necessary repairs of the property as he can pay for out of the rents and profits thereof after deducting from such rents and profits the payments mentioned in clause (c) and the interest on the mortgage-money; 9 W. R. 48

(e) he may spend such money as is necessary (1) for the due management of the property and the collection of the rents and profits thereof, (2) for its preservation from destruction, forfeiture or sale, (3) for supporting the mortgagor's title to the property, (4) for making his own title thereto good against the mortgagor, and (5), when the mortgaged property is a renewable leasehold, for the renewal of the lease; and may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, add such money to the mortgage-money, at the same rate of interest; Macph. 109, 113, 25 1 Bomb. 199, 203: 5 Bomb. (g) he shall keep clear, full and accurate accounts of all sums received and spent by him as mortgagee and, at any time during the continuance of the mortgage, give the mortgagor, at his request and cost, true copies of such accounts and of the vouchers by which they are supported;

(h) his receipts from the mortgaged property, or, where such property is personally occupied by him, a fair occupation-rent in respect thereof, shall, after deducting the expenses mentioned in clauses (c), (d), (e) and (f), and interest thereon, be debited against him in reduction of the amount (if any) from time to time due to him on account of interest on the mortgage-money and, so far as such receipts exceed any interest due, in reduction or discharge of the mortgage-money. The surplus, if any, shall be paid to the mortgagor;

(i) when the mortgagor tenders, or deposits in court under section twenty-three, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage, the mortgagee must, notwithstanding the provisions in the other clauses of this section, account for his gross receipts from the mortgaged property from the date of the tender or from the earliest time when he could take such amount out of court, as the case may be.

If the mortgagee fail to perform any of the duties imposed upon him by this section, his default. he may, when accounts are taken in pursuance of a decree made under this chapter, be debited with the loss, if any, occasioned by such failure.

40. Nothing in section thirty-nine, clauses (g) and (h), applies to cases where there is a contract in writing between the mortgagee and the mortgagor that the receipts from the mortgaged property after deducting the said expenses, shall, so long as the mortgagee is in possession of the property, be taken in lieu of interest on the mortgage money.

41. A mortgagee in possession of the mortgaged property shall not commit any act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto.

42. When a mortgagor in possession of the mortgaged property fails to pay arrears of revenue or rent due in respect thereof, and the property is consequently sold, the mortgagee has a charge on the surplus, if any, of the proceeds, after payment thereof of the said arrears, for the amount remaining due on the mortgage.

43. Any second or other subsequent mortgagee may, at any time before a sale of the mortgaged property has taken place under this chapter, tender to the next prior mortgagee the amount due to him on account of his mortgage. Such mortgagee is bound to accept such tender and to give a receipt for the sum due, and on such receipt being registered, the person making the tender shall acquire, in respect of the property, all the rights and powers of the mortgagee, as such, to whom he has made such tender.

Priority.

44. Where, through the fraud or gross neglect of a prior mortgagee, another person has been induced to advance money on the security of the mortgaged property, the prior mortgagee shall be postponed to the subsequent mortgagee.

45. If a mortgage made to secure the balance of a running account expresses the maximum to be secured thereby, a subsequent mortgage on the same property shall, if made with notice of the prior mortgage, or if the instrument effecting the prior mortgage is registered, be postponed to the prior mortgage in respect of all advances or debits not exceeding the maximum, though made or allowed with notice of the subsequent mortgage.

A mortgages Sultānpur to his bankers, B & Co., to secure the balance of his account with them to the extent of Rs. 10,000. A then mortgages Sultānpur to C, to secure Rs. 10,000; and C gives notice thereof to B & Co. At the date of the second mortgage, the balance due to B & Co. does not exceed Rs. 5,000. B & Co. subsequently advance to A sums making the balance of the account against him exceed the sum of Rs. 10,000. B & Co. are entitled, to the extent of Rs. 10,000, to priority over C.

46. No mortgagee paying off a prior mortgage, whether with or without notice of an intermediate mortgage, shall thereby acquire any priority in respect of his original security. And, except in the case provided for by section forty-five, no mortgagee making a subsequent advance to the mortgagor, whether with or without notice of an intermediate mortgage, shall thereby acquire any priority in respect of his security for such subsequent advance.

Subject to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, section 437, all persons having an interest either in the right of redemption or in the security ought to be joined as parties to any suit under this chapter, and the first or any subsequent mortgagee who institutes a suit for foreclosure or sale ought to make every mortgagee and other incumbrancer whose security is subsequent to his own, a party to the suit.

Foreclosure and Sale.

II, sec. 53:
i, s. 19.

50. In a suit for foreclosure, if the plaintiff succeeds, the Court shall pass a decree, ordering that an account be taken of what will be due to the plaintiff for principal and interest on the mortgage and for his costs of the suit, on the day next hereinafter referred to, or declaring the amount so due at the date of such decree, and ordering that, upon the defendant paying to the plaintiff or into court the amount so due, on a day within six months from the date of declaring in court the amount so due, to be fixed by the Court, the plaintiff shall deliver up to the defendant, or to such person as he appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall transfer the mortgaged property to the defendant free from all incumbrances created by the plaintiff or any person claiming under him, or, where the plaintiff claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims; and shall, if necessary, put the defendant into possession of the mortgaged property; but that, if such payment is not made on or before such day, the defendant shall be absolutely foreclosed of all right to redeem such property.

Bill II, sec. 54.

51. If payment is so made of such amount and of such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section fifty-nine, the defendant shall (if necessary) be put into possession of the mortgaged property.

If such payment is not so made, the plaintiff may apply to the Court for an order absolute for the foreclosure of the said mortgage, and the Court shall then pass an order absolute that the defendant be foreclosed of all right to redeem the mortgaged property, and may, if necessary, deliver possession of the property to the plaintiff; and thereupon the defendant's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished;

W. R. 91.

Provided that the Court may, upon good cause shewn, from time to time postpone the day appointed for such payment.

In the Code of Civil Procedure, schedule IV, No. 129, for the words "Final Decree," the words "Order absolute" shall be substituted.

52. In a suit for a sale under this chapter, Bill II, s. 55.

Decree for sale.

by the mortgagee under this chapter, if the plaintiff succeeds, the Court shall, and in any other suit the plaintiff succeeds, the Court may, at his instance, pass a decree ordering as provided in the first and second paragraphs of section fifty and also ordering that, in default of the defendant making payment as therein mentioned, the mortgaged property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale (after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale) be paid into Court and applied in payment of what is so found due to the plaintiff and that the balance, if any, be paid to the defendant or other persons entitled to receive the same.

When the mortgagee sues only for a foreclosure, if the Court considers that he will not be damaged by such sale and if the defendant furnishes such security, if any, as the Court thinks sufficient for the payment of the balance due for the time being by him on the mortgage, the Court may, at the instance of the defendant, pass a like decree.

Any decree under this section may also direct the defendant to pay any balance remaining due to the plaintiff upon the mortgage after the proceeds of sale have been dealt with as above provided.

53. If in any case under section fifty-two, the defendant makes payment as mentioned in section fifty-one, he shall (if necessary) be put in possession of the mortgaged property: but if such payment is not so made, the plaintiff or the defendant, as the case may be, may apply to the Court for an order absolute for sale of the mortgaged property, and the Court shall then pass an order that such property, or a sufficient part thereof, be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale be dealt with as is mentioned in section fifty-two; and thereupon the defendant's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished.

54. When the net proceeds of any such sale are insufficient to pay the amount due for the mortgage, the balance, if payable according to the contract between the parties by the defendant otherwise than out of the property sold, may be recovered either (if the Court thinks fit) in the same suit in the same manner as under a decree for money, or by any other legal process open to the mortgagee.

Redemption.

55. Besides the mortgagor, any of the following persons may institute a suit for redemption of the mortgaged property:—

(a) any person (other than the mortgagee) having any interest in or charge upon the property;

(b) any person having any interest in or charge upon the right to redeem the property;

(c) any surety for the payment of the mortgage-debt or any part thereof;

(d) the guardian of the property of a minor mortgagor;

(e) the committee or other legal curator of a lunatic or idiot mortgagor;

(f) the judgment-creditor of the mortgagor, when he has obtained execution;

(g) a creditor of the mortgagor who has in a suit for the administration of his estate obtained a decree for sale of the mortgaged property.

56. In a suit for redemption, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court shall pass a decree ordering that an account be taken of what will be due to the defendant for principal and interest on the mortgage, and for his costs of the suit, on the day next hereinafter referred to, or declaring the amount so due at the date of such decree; and ordering that upon the plaintiff paying to the defendant or into court the amount so due on a day within six months from the date of declaring in court the amount so due, to be fixed by the Court, the defendant shall deliver up to the plaintiff, or to such person as he appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall (if such property has been transferred to the defendant) re-transfer it to the plaintiff free from the mortgage and from all incumbrances created by the defendant or any person claiming under him, or, when the defendant claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims, and shall, if necessary, put the plaintiff into possession of the mortgaged property; but that if such payment is not made on or before such day, the plaintiff shall be absolutely foreclosed of all right to redeem such property.

Bill II, s. 60.

57. If payment is made of such amount and of such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section fifty-nine, the plaintiff shall, if necessary, be put into possession of the mortgaged property.

If such payment is not so made, the defendant may apply to the Court for an order absolute either for the foreclosure of the said right to redeem, or for a sale of the mortgaged property.

If he apply for an order for foreclosure, the Court shall pass an order absolute declaring the plaintiff to be foreclosed of all right to redeem the mortgaged property, and may, if necessary, deliver possession of the property to the defendant.

If he apply for an order for sale, the Court shall pass an order that such property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale (after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale) be paid into Court and applied in payment of what is found due to the defendant and that the balance be paid to the plaintiff or other persons entitled to receive the same.

On the passing of any order under this section the plaintiff's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished:

Provided that the Court may upon good cause shewn, from time to time, postpone the day fixed under section fifty-six for payment of the amount due.

Redemption and Foreclosure.

58. When property is mortgaged for successive debts to successive mortgagees, any mesne mortgagee may institute a suit to redeem the interests of the prior mortgagees and to foreclose the rights of those that are posterior to himself and of the mortgagor.

Costs.

59. In finally adjusting the amount to be paid to a mortgagee in case of a redemption or a sale by the Court under this chapter, the Court shall, unless the conduct of the mortgagee has been such as to disentitle him to costs, add to the mortgage-money such costs of suit as have been properly incurred by him since the decree for foreclosure, redemption or sale up to the time of actual payment.

Sale of Property subject to prior mortgage.

60. If any property the sale of which is directed under this chapter is subject to a prior mortgage, the Court may, with the consent of the prior mortgagee, order that the property be sold free from the same, giving to such prior mortgagee the same interest in the proceeds of the sale as he had in the property sold.

61. Such proceeds shall be brought into court and applied as follows:—

first, in payment of all expenses incident to the sale or properly incurred in any attempted sale;

secondly, if the property has been sold free from any prior mortgage, in payment of whatever is due on account of such mortgage;

thirdly, in payment of all interest due on account of the mortgage in consequence whereof the sale was directed, and of the costs of the suit in which the decree directing the sale was made;

fourthly, in payment of the principal money due on account of that mortgage; and fifthly, the residue (if any) shall be paid to the person proving himself to be interested in the property sold, or if there be more such persons than one, then to such persons according to their respective interests therein or upon their joint receipt.

Anomalous Mortgages.

62. In the case of a mortgage not coming within any of the definitions contained in section twenty-one, the rights and liabilities of the parties shall be determined by their contract as evidenced in the mortgage-deed, and, so far as such contract does not extend, by local usage: Provided that, in the absence of an express contract to the contrary, the mortgaged property shall be deemed to be the only security for payment of the mortgage money.

Charges.

63. If by any assurance other than a mortgage-deed, or by any will, or under the provisions of this or any other Act, or by operation of law, certain immoveable property of one person is made security for the payment of certain money to another, the latter person is said to have a charge on the property; and all the provisions hereinbefore applied to a mortgagor shall, so far as may be, apply to the owner of such property, and all the provisions hereinbefore applied to a mortgagee instituting a suit for the sale of the mortgaged property shall, so far as may be, apply to the person having such charge.

64. Where a person is or becomes absolutely entitled to immoveable property, of a charge or other incumbrance on which he is also the owner, the charge or incumbrance shall be extinguished, unless he declares, by express words or necessary implication, that it shall continue to subsist, or unless such continuance would be for his benefit.

CHAPTER V.

OF LEASES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

65. In the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, the lessor and the lessee of immoveable property, as against one another, respectively possess the rights and are subject to the liabilities mentioned in the sixteen rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property leased:—

(a.) The lessor is bound on the lessee's request to put him in possession of the property leased:

(b.) The lessor shall be deemed to contract with the lessee that the latter paying the rent reserved by the lease and performing the contracts binding on the lessee may hold the property leased during the time limited by the lease without interruption by the lessor or his transferees, or any person lawfully claiming through him or them:

(c.) The lessee is entitled to the enjoyment of all easements annexed to the property leased at the time when the lease was made until the lease determines or such easements are extinguished, whichever event first happens:

(d.) The lessee is bound to keep, and on the termination of the lease to restore, the property leased in as good condition as it was in at the time when he was put in possession, subject only to reasonable wear and tear, and to allow the lessor and his agents, at all reasonable times during the term, to enter into the property leased and inspect the condition thereof, and to give or leave notice of any defect in such condition and to make good all such defects within three months after such notice has been given or left:

(e.) If during the continuance of the lease any accession is made to the property leased, such accession (subject to the law relating to alluvion for the time being in force) shall be deemed to be comprised in the lease:

(f.) If by fire, tempest or flood, or violence of an army or of a mob, or other superior force, any part of the property leased be wholly destroyed or rendered substantially unfit for the purposes for which it was let, the lease shall be void as to that part, and any rent or fine payable under the lease shall proportionately abate, and a proportionate part of any fine paid by the lessee shall be returned by the lessor:

If the injury be occasioned by the wrongful act or default of either party, such party shall not be entitled to avail himself of the benefit of this provision:

(g.) If the lessor neglects to make, within a reasonable time after notice, repairs which he is bound to make to the property leased, the lessee may make the same himself, and deduct the expense of such repairs with interest from the rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(h.) If the lessor neglects to make any payment which he is bound to make, and which, if not made by him, is recoverable from the lessee or against the property leased, the lessee may make such payment himself, and deduct it from his rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(i.) Every lessee who becomes aware of any proceeding to recover the property leased or any part thereof, or of any encroachment made upon, or any interference with, the lessor's rights concerning such property, is bound to give notice thereof to the lessor with reasonable diligence; and, in default of so doing, he is liable to make compensation to the lessor for any loss or expenses occasioned by such omission:

(j.) The lessee may use the property leased and its products (if any) as a reasonable owner would use them; but he must not use the property for a purpose other than that for which it was leased, or fell timber, pull down or damage houses, open mines or quarries, or commit any other act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto.

The prohibition in this clause does not apply to mines which were open when the lease was granted:

(k.) No lessee shall, without the lessor's consent, erect on the property leased any permanent structure, except for agricultural purposes; and no such lessee who erects thereon any building, engine or machine for agricultural purposes shall remove the same without giving to the lessor or his agent one month's previous notice in writing of his intention so to do, and thereupon the lessor or his agent may elect to purchase the thing so proposed to be removed, and the lessee's right to remove the same shall thereby cease, and the same shall belong to the lessor, and the value thereof shall in case of dispute be ascertained and determined by two referees, one to be chosen by each party, or by an umpire to be named by such referees, and shall be paid or allowed in account by the lessor:

(l.) Subject to the provisions of clause (k), the lessee has a right to remove, at any time during his possession of the property leased, all things which he has affixed to the soil: but he is liable to make compensation to the lessor for all damage caused to the property by such removal:

(m.) On the determination of the lease, the lessee is bound to put the lessor into possession of the property leased:

(o.) If the lessor transfers the property leased, or any part thereof, or any part of his interest therein, the transferee shall possess all the rights and, if the lessee so elects, be subject to all the liabilities, of the lessor as to the property or part transferred so long as he is the owner of it; but the lessor shall not by reason only of such transfer cease to be subject to any of the liabilities imposed upon him by the lease, unless the lessee elects to treat the transferee as the person liable to him: Provided that the transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent due before the transfer, and that if the lessee pay rent to the lessor without having reason to believe that such transfer has been made, the lessee shall not be liable to pay such rent over again to the transferee :

Act XI of 1855, s. 1 :
Anne, c. 16, s. 10.

Where only a part of the property leased is transferred by the lessor, he may determine what proportion of the rent reserved by the lease is payable in respect of the part so transferred :

(p.) The lessee may transfer, absolutely or by way of mortgage, the whole or any part of his interest in the property leased, and any transferee of such interest or part may again transfer it. The lessee shall not, by reason of such transfer, cease to be subject to any of the liabilities attaching to the lease, unless the lessor elects to treat the transferee as the person subject to such liabilities. Subject as aforesaid, each successive transferee, so long as he is entitled to the property leased, possesses all the rights, and is subject to all the liabilities, of the lessee as such.

Disclosures required from lessor and lessee.

66. The following omissions are fraudulent :—

Beng. A. C. J. 277.

(a) an omission of the lessor of immoveable property to disclose to the lessee any defect therein of which the former is, and the latter is not, aware, and which the latter could not with ordinary care discover ;

(b) an omission of the lessee of immoveable property to disclose to the lessor any fact as to the nature or extent of the lessor's interest therein, of which the lessee is, and the lessor is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest.

Bill II, s. 72.

67. A tenancy begins when the lessee enters, under the lease, into possession of the property leased, and until he so enters, he cannot sue for compensation for an unlawful entry thereon.

68. In the absence of a contract in writing expressed as commencing from a particular day, in computing that time such day shall be excluded. Where no day of commencement is named, the time so limited begins from the making of the lease.

Where the time so limited is a year or a number of years, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, the lease shall last during the whole anniversary of the day from which such time commences.

Where the time so limited is expressed to be determinable before its expiration at the option of the parties or one of them, the lessee, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, shall have such option.

70. A lease of immoveable property determines—

(b) where such time is limited conditionally on the happening of some event—by the happening of such event ;

(c) where the lessor can only alienate for his own life the property leased—by the death of the lessor ;

(d) where the lessor holds the property leased for the term of the life of another person—by the death of such person ;

(e) on the expiration of a notice to determine the lease duly given in pursuance of a power therein contained ;

(f) in case the interests of the lessee and the lessor in the whole of the property leased become vested at the same time in one person in the same right ;

(g) by express surrender, that is to say, in case the lessee yields up his interest under the lease to the lessor, by mutual agreement between them ;

(h) by implied surrender, that is to say, in case the lessee accepts from the lessor a new lease of the property leased, to take effect during the continuance of the existing lease ;

(i) by forfeiture, that is to say, (1) in case the lessee breaks an express condition which provides that, on breach thereof, the lessor may re-enter, or the lease shall become void ; or (2) in case the lessee renounces his character as such by setting up a title in a third person or by claiming title in himself, and in either case the lessor or his transferee does some act evidencing his intention to determine the lease :

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE AND COMMERCE.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 25th FEBRUARY 1879.

GENERAL REMARKS.—No change has occurred in Madras during the week. In the Bombay Presidency the harvesting of the rabi has begun and in two districts some damage has been done by rain and hail; rats continue to be destructive in Ahmednagar and part of the Southern Mahratta Country. Matters in Mysore remain as before. Slight rain has fallen in most of the districts of the Central Provinces, and in Seoni injury to the crops thereby is apprehended; the rabi harvest is progressing, and the results are expected to be on the whole fair; prices are stationary. In ~~Ber~~ the prospects of the rabi, which is being gathered in, are satisfactory. There has been no change in Central India. Some rain has fallen in Rajputana, and ~~the~~ outlook is now more promising. The rain in Bengal, though it has injured certain crops in Burdwan and ~~Durbhunga~~, has been generally very beneficial; rain is still required in some districts, and in places damage has been caused by hail; the opium crop in Sarun is said to be a short one and is also affected by blight. The reports from Assam and British Burma exhibit no material alteration. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh light rain has fallen in places and the prospects of the rabi are fair. In the Punjab the want of rain is still much felt, though recent showers, so far as they have extended, have done good.

| Monghyr ... | Nil | Weather becoming hotter every day; a severe, though local, hail-storm on the 16th damaged the crops near the Monghyr town; the damage is, however, trifling; elsewhere every thing looks well, and a bumper rabi crop may be expected. |
| Purneah ... | Nil | Weather fair and rather warm; the recent rain has done much good; prospects are favourable; general health is good. |
| Maldah ... | 0.15 | Weather fair; occasionally cloudy; the rabi crops are thriving; prices of rice, &c., are slightly lower; public health is generally improving. |
| Durbhunga ... | Nil | Weather fair and seasonable; the late rains have benefited to a certain extent wheat, barley and some other crops, but have, on the other hand, done some injury to the rahur , peas and tobacco crops; prices are stationary. |
| Mezufferpore ... | Nil | Weather mild, with west wind; the rabi crops have been much improved by the recent fall of rain, and there is now every prospect of a fair harvest. |
| Sarun ... | Slight rain in most parts. | Weather cloudy at the beginning, but fair towards the end of the week; it is now getting warm; west wind is prevailing; the crops are generally doing well; mustard and peas are being harvested; the Sub-Deputy Opium Agent of Sewan reports that not only is the opium crop very short, but blight has set in as it did last year; the prices of food grains are stationary; public health is good, but small-pox is on the increase. |
| Chumparun ... | Nil | Weather getting warmer; no change to report in the state and prospects of the crops; more rain is required. |
| Patna ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the prospects of the crops continue good. |
| Gya ... | 0.22 | Weather seasonable; the maximum reading of the thermometer in the shade was 85.2°; the state of the rabi crops is fair; the prices of food grains are stationary; cases of small-pox are not so frequent; the health of the plough cattle is good. |
| Shahabad ... | Nil | Weather clear; on the whole the recent rain has done good to the rabi crops; small-pox is prevalent. |
| Hazáribágh ... | 0.67 | Weather stormy and cloudy; cooler; the hail during the week has damaged the mohwa crop; the rabi crops are well advanced; the fall of rain has been beneficial to the backward crops. |
| Lohardugga ... | 0.39 | Light rain on the 16th and 17th; the prospects of the rabi crops are unchanged at head-quarters; in Palamow an improvement is reported both as regards the crops and general health. |
| Munbhoon ... | 0.96 | Weather somewhat unseasonable; the state of the mohwa crop on which the people largely depend for at least a couple of months is doubtful; the weather is threatening, and if heavy rain falls the crop will be seriously injured. |
| Singhbhoon ... | ... | Return not received. |
| Balasore ... | 0.30 | Weather warm; the rice harvest has been finished; the average outturn is estimated at 11½ annas; malarial fever is much less prevalent. |
| Cuttack ... | 0.07 | Weather getting warm, but fine and seasonable; the sárad crop is still being reaped in some places; the dalua crop is progressing well; public health is on the whole good. |
| Pooree ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the sárad rice is still being harvested; dalua rice is progressing well; common rice sells at 11½ to 21 seers for the rupee; a few cases of cholera have been reported. |
| | | General Remarks. —The recent rain has done much good to the crops on the ground, and has facilitated the preparation of the land for the next sowing; it has, however, injured some crops in Burdwan and Durbhunga; rain is still wanted in parts of Furreedpore and Backergunge, as well as in South Tipperah, Noakholly, Jessore and Chumparun; in Hazáribágh the mohwa crop has been damaged by hail, and in Munbhoon it is in a doubtful state; some damage has been done by hail near the town of Monghyr, and by caterpillars in Bháradwaj; in Sarun the opium crop is very short, and is moreover affected by blight; in Moorsheadabad, Sorajgunj and Maldah the price of rice has fallen a little. |

REMARKS.

The volume entering the Bari Doab Canal was 194,588 cubic feet per second, of which 58,000 cubic feet per second passed down the Escape. There is an increase of 14,144 acres as compared with the corresponding period of last year. The available supply is barely sufficient, but the whole of the water in the river is being utilized.

The volume entering the Western Jumna Canal head was 2,047 cubic feet per second, of this amount 60 cubic feet per second passed down the Buhla Khara Escape, and 7 cubic feet out at the tail of the canal. The decrease of 43,312 acres as compared with the corresponding period of last year is not stated to be only apparent but due to the non-entry of the land irrigated owing to the prevailing sickness. The special attention of the Superintending Engineer has been called to the decrease.

There is an increase of 15,000 acres on the Indus Canals as compared with corresponding period of last year.

INDIAN RAILWAY BILL.

Colonel the Hon'ble SIR ANDREW CLARKE presented the final Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Railways in India.

PRESIDENCY BANKS ACT, 1876, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR JOHN STRACHEY moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the Presidency Banks Act, 1876. He should explain in a very few words the object of the little Bill which he asked leave to introduce. The Presidency Banks Act had now been in force nearly three years, and had worked, so far as the Government was informed, in a very satisfactory manner. The object of the Bill he proposed to introduce was not to alter any of the substantive provisions of the existing Act, but only to provide for a few omissions and improvements in detail which had been suggested. Amongst these proposed changes, the only change which had any real importance had been suggested by the Banks themselves, and it was with the object of meeting the wishes of the Presidency Banks that he now asked leave to introduce this Bill. Its necessity had mainly arisen from doubts which had been expressed as to whether the Banks had power, under the Act of 1876, to borrow money by pledging the assets or property of the Bank. The need for such a power was obvious; and this omission having been brought to the notice of the Government by the three Presidency Banks, it was with the object of removing these doubts that it was proposed to introduce the present Bill.

The other changes which it was proposed to take the opportunity of making in the existing law were for the most part so unimportant, that he need not take up the time of the Council in explaining them.

The Hon'ble MR. HOPE said he heard with great satisfaction that it was proposed to amend the Presidency Banks Act. He was not aware of the exact nature of the amendments proposed; but he felt at the time the Act was being passed, and when he sat as a Member of the Select Committee, that it was in many points very incomplete. He trusted that the amendment the Act would receive would not only affect matters of detail, but that its general tendency would be to increase the security of the public and the shareholders of the Bank. The present Act was still in many respects defective, and the very serious malpractices which had come to light both in India and in England showed that a much greater amount of stringency than had hitherto been considered necessary, was desirable in all Acts of this description.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Wednesday, the 5th March, 1879.

NOTIFICATIONS.—PUBLIC.

Fort William, the 6th March 1879.

No. 518.—In continuation of Notification No. 9, dated 2nd January 1879, the following revised edition of the notification and rules made by the Governor General in Council under "The Indian Arms Act, 1878," is published. The revised rules will take effect from the date of publication. The forms cited in these rules are precisely the same as those previously published:

I.—The Governor General in Council is pleased, under Section 27, to exempt from the operations of all prohibitions and directions contained in Sections 13, 14, 15 and 16 of "The Indian Arms Act, 1878," other than those referring to cannon, articles designed for torpedo service, war-rockets, and machinery for the manufacture of arms and ammunition, the under-mentioned persons, namely,—

- (1) all Maharajahs, Rajahs, Nawabs, Members of any Order of Knighthood; all persons bearing a title conferred by the Government of India; all persons who have been granted a sword in public Durbar; all persons who received certificates on the 1st January 1877; all persons who are exempted from personal attendance at civil courts;
- (2) all Members or ex-Members of the Council of the Governor General, or of the Governors of Madras or Bombay, or of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal;
- (3) all military and naval officers, all soldiers, sailors, volunteers, police officers, forest officers, postal officers, jail officers, serving the Government;
- (4) all Magistrates, Justices of the Peace, Honorary Magistrates, and judicial officers of or above the rank of Munsif;
- (5) all European and East Indian subjects of Her Majesty the Queen-Empress; all Armenians; and all Americans and Europeans not British-born subjects of Her Majesty who are temporarily residing or travelling in India;
- (6) all Consuls, Consular Agents, all duly accredited Vakeels or Agents of Native States;
- (7) all Ruling Chiefs on the occasions of their entering, or residing in, British India, with their retinues, to such numbers as may in each case be settled by the political officer under the orders of the Foreign Department or of the Madras and Bombay Governments in respect to Chiefs whose political relations are with those Governments respectively; and all officials of such Chiefs passing through British India on duty;
- (8) all pensioned officers of the Native Army, and pensioned officers of the civil departments who, when employed, were exempt;
- (9) the following personages and their retainers—
 - (a) the ancient zemindars and poligars of the Madras Presidency;
 - (b) the Deccan and Southern Mahratta Sirdars;
 - (c) the Maharajah of Bulrampore, K. C. S. I.,
the Maharajah of Benares,
the Rajah of Gursahai;
the Rajah of Jagmanpore;
the Rao of Gopalpura;
 - (d) the great Sirdars and Jagirdars of the Punjab;
 - (e) the zemindars of the scheduled districts in the Central Provinces;
 - (f) the great zemindars of Bengal; subject to such orders as the respective Local Governments may issue regarding personages to be included in these categories, or the numbers of retainers in each case;
- (10) landholders and members of Municipal Committees of approved loyalty and of good position, according to lists that may from time to time be issued by the respective Local Governments;
- (11) all heads of villages, ghatwals, dighwars, and other rural police;
- (12) all Thoogyes, Yazawut-goungs, Kyadangees in British Burma;

- (13) all persons of Coorg race ; and all jumma tenure-holders in Coorg who by their tenures are liable for police and military duties ;
- (14) all subjects of the Baroda State who may transport arms or ammunition from one part of Baroda territory to another part of the same territory, under a license granted by the Resident or Assistant Resident of Baroda ;
- (15) all revenue officials and postal runners in frontier or wild districts, where the superior departmental officers direct them to carry arms on duty.

II.—The Governor General in Council is pleased, under Section 27, to exclude from the operation of any prohibition and direction contained in the Act—

- (a) spears of all kinds, so far as regards the Presidency of Madras ;
- (b) weapons known as kákrís and dhaos, so far as regards the Lieutenant-Governorship of Bengal ;
- (c) weapons known as dhars, so far as regards the Chief Commissionership of British Burma ;
- (d) swords, daggers, spears, kákrís, dhaos, so far as regards the Chief Commissionership of Assam ;
- (e) bows and arrows ; and
- (f) spears of all kinds in Bengal, so far as regards districts or parts of districts which the Local Government may declare to come within this exemption.

III.—The Governor General in Council is pleased, under Section 27, to withdraw from the operation of prohibitions and directions contained in the Act certain tracts as follows :

- (a) all scheduled districts in the Madras Presidency from all prohibitions and directions, save in respect to rifled arms and cannon, and except those directions contained in Sections 12 and 25 ;
- (b) the Chittagong Hill Tracts of Bengal from the prohibitions and directions contained in Sections 13 and 14 ;
- (c) all scheduled districts in the Lieutenant-Governorship of the Punjab, except Hazara, and also certain tracts and villages on the Hazara frontier specially notified by the Local Government, from all prohibitions and directions contained in Sections 13 and 14 ;
- (d) the Arracan Hill Tracts of British Burma from the prohibitions and directions contained in Sections 13 and 14 ; and
- (e) in the ~~North-Western~~ Provinces the districts of the Jhansi Division and the parts of the Mirzapore District on the right bank of the River Sonc, from the prohibitions and directions contained in Section 14.

IV.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to extend the prohibitions and directions regarding military stores as follows :

- (a) to sulphur in quantities above ten seers, all sections of the Act to all parts of India ;
- (b) to saltpetre and lead, Sections 6, 10, 11, 12, 17, 19—28, in all districts on the external land frontier of British India, and in the seaboard districts of British Burma.

V.—The Governor General in Council is pleased, under Section 11, to sanction the establishment of searching stations, under Section 11, at—

- (a) the land customs-houses near the boundary line between British India and the French Settlements on the Eastern and Western coasts and the Portuguese Settlements on the Western coast ;

(b) Allanmyo near the external boundary line between British India and the Kingdom of Upper Burma.

The Governor General in Council is pleased, under Section 9, to direct that at the said land customs-houses the duties specified in the second Schedule shall be levied.

VI.—The Governor General in Council is pleased, under Section 17, to make the following rules determining the officers by whom, the form in which, and the terms and conditions on and subject to which, licenses shall be granted :

RULES.

TRANSPORT, IMPORT, AND EXPORT.

1. No cannon, articles designed for torpedo service, war-rockets, or machinery for the manufacture of arms and ammunition, shall be imported into British India, or transported over any part of British India without a license granted by the Governor General in Council under the signature of the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department. The license shall be in Form I. appended to these rules, and a copy shall be at once communicated to the Magistrate of the District, or to the Political Officer of the State, to which the articles are consigned.

2. No arms, or ammunition, or military stores, shall be transported in any part of British India without a license in Form II. appended to these rules. If the articles are despatched from Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, the license will be granted by the Commissioner of Police ; in all other cases the license will be granted by the Magistrate of the District. If the articles are to be consigned to a place beyond the jurisdiction of the officer granting the license, the consent of the Magistrate of the District to which the consignment is made must be obtained before the license is issued. Such consent may be obtained by the person applying for the license ; or the Police Commissioner, or District Magistrate, to whom application for the license is made, may forward the proposed license to the officer whose consent is required ; and on receiving reply should either issue the license to the applicant, or inform him that his application for a license to transport arms, &c., had been refused.

3. Persons lawfully entitled to possess arms, or to go armed, are permitted to transport, in any part of British India, arms or ammunition in reasonable quantities for their own use. Any person abusing this exemption and transporting such articles otherwise than in reasonable quantities for his own use will be held to have contravened this rule, and will, on conviction, become liable to the penalties under Sections 18 and 19.

4. A license to transport arms or ammunition or military stores is void if the consignment breaks bulk at any place short of the district for which it may be granted. A license to transport shall ordinarily not be made valid for more than twice the period actually required for the conveyance of the articles to their destination by the intended route.

5. No license shall be granted, save by the special order of the Governor General in Council certified under the signature of the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department for the importation into British India by sea or river or land, or for exportation from British India by sea, of any cannon, or of any rifles, except rifles of such quality or in such quantity as may reasonably be held to be intended for bond fide sporting purposes.

6. Licenses to import or export arms, ~~other than~~ cannon or rifles not excepted as in the next foregoing rule, ammunition or military stores by sea, may be granted at the ports of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Rangoon, Calicut, Kurrachee, Aden, and for no other ports. They shall be granted by the Commissioners of Police in respect of each Presidency Town, and by the Magistrate of the District in respect of Rangoon and Kurrachee. The fee payable in respect of each such license shall be ten rupees, and the licenses shall be in the Forms III. and IV. appended to these rules. It shall be a condition of such licenses that the arms and ammunition imported shall either be deposited in a warehouse sanctioned in this regard under Section 7 of the Indian Arms Act, or that they shall be at once despatched to their destination under a separate license to transport.

7. Licenses to export arms or ammunition or military stores by land or by river to any place beyond the frontier of British India, or to any place within the limits of the feudatory State, and licenses to import arms or ammunition or military stores into, or to export the same out of, the District of Ajmere, may be granted by the Secretary to the Government of India in the Foreign Department, or by any other officer specially empowered by the Government of India to grant them.

Licenses to export arms or ammunition or military stores by land or by river to any place within the political jurisdiction of the Governments of Madras and Bombay may be granted by the Secretaries to the Governments of Madras and Bombay, respectively; copies of such licenses being sent to the Foreign Department of the Government of India for information. These licenses will be valid only for the State named in them, and no export beyond the limits of that State can be permitted under them.

Licenses granted under this rule will be prepared in Form V., and be charged with a fee of rupees five.

8. Persons desirous of transporting arms, ammunition, or military stores; must apply in writing to the officer authorised to grant transport licenses from the place of despatch. The application must specify—

- (a) the place to which the articles are to be transported, the route of transport, and the probable time occupied in the journey;
- (b) the quantity, description, average price, and the purpose of each kind of arms or ammunition; or
- (c) whether the applicant desires that the officer to whom he applies should obtain the consent of the Magistrate or Political Officer of the place of consignment [if the applicant has obtained such consent, the evidence of such consent must be produced].

9. Persons transporting arms, ammunition, or military stores under a license must write legibly on the cases or packages containing such articles an account of their contents.

10. Within six days of the articles reaching their destination the consignee must deliver the transport license to the Magistrate of the District, or to the Political Officer; and, in the case of articles crossing the external frontier of British India, to the Magistrate of the District where the consignment crosses the external frontier. The officer to whom the transport license shall be delivered must satisfy himself that the articles transported to his district correspond with the entries in the pass, and that any deficiency is properly accounted for.

MANUFACTURE AND SALE.

11. Licenses to manufacture, convert, keep and sell arms or ammunition or military stores, may be granted by Commissioners of Police in the Presidency Towns, and by the Magistrate of the District outside those towns. They shall be in Forms VI. and VII. appended to these rules. The fee payable in stamps shall be twenty rupees in respect of licenses to manufacture and sell, &c., and ten rupees in respect of licenses to keep and sell, &c. Every license-holder under this rule shall keep, in such form as the Local Government may from time to time direct, a record and account of all stock, and of all sales of arms and ammunition or sulphur, which he may keep or sell. He shall exhibit his stock and his record, or accounts, of stock and sales to any Magistrate, or to any police officer not below the rank of Inspector. Magistrates and all police officers not below the rank of Inspector are hereby empowered to enter and inspect any premises within their several jurisdictions in which arms or ammunition or sulphur are manufactured or kept, and to examine the stock and accounts of receipts and sales of arms, ammunition and military stores. Any person licensed to sell arms and ammunition shall affix a board on a conspicuous part of his shop, or usual place of business, and shall cause to be painted thereon in large letters in English, or in the vernacular of the district, his name and the words "licensed to manufacture," or "licensed to deal in arms, ammunition and military stores," as the case may be. He shall also have a copy of Section 28 of the Indian Arms Act posted up, in the vernacular of the district or in English, on some conspicuous part of his usual place of business.

POSSESSION OF ARMS AND GOING ARMED.

12. Licenses to possess cannon shall not be granted, save under the special order of the Governor General in Council, certified under the signature of the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department. A copy of such license, so certified, must be sent immediately on its issue to the District Magistrate of the place where the cannon is to be kept.

13. Licenses to possess arms and ammunition in reasonable quantities and to go armed for purposes of sport, of protection, or of display, may be granted by the Commissioner of Police in the Presidency Towns, and by the Magistrate of the District outside those towns in Form VIII. Such licenses shall be liable to a fee of eight annas for each weapon in disarmed districts, and to a fee of four annas for each weapon in districts which have not been disarmed. Such a license will authorise its holder to carry the arms described in the license, on occasions when they may be reasonably required for the purposes named in the license. But the holder, unless specially authorised by the Magistrate, must not go armed in rallies, fairs, religious processions, or other public assemblages. Licenses granted under this rule shall, on countersignature by the Commissioner of the District, or other officer authorised in this regard by the Local Government, where there are no Commissioners, shall be valid for all the districts of the Local Government within the territories of which the license may have been granted.

14. Any Commissioner of Police or Magistrate of the District may grant a license in Form IX. for a journey, specifying the direction of the journey and the period it will occupy. Such license will be valid in other jurisdictions only for such journey and for such period, and will be liable to a fee of four annas for each weapon. Political Agents may grant licenses under this rule to natives of the States where they may be serving, and such licenses granted for journeys by Political Agents shall be liable to no fee. Holders of licenses under this rule, unless specially authorised by the officer granting the licenses, must not go armed in railway carriages, to fairs, religious processions, or other public assemblies.

15. Licenses to possess fire-arms or ammunition or military stores in districts which have not been disarmed may be granted in Form X. without fee. Such licenses will not authorise the holders to go armed, or to carry arms. In districts which have not been disarmed, as well as in disarmed districts, licenses to possess and carry arms (Form VIII.) will be liable to fees as stated to Rule 13.

16. Licenses for possession of arms and ammunition may be granted in Form XI. without fee, and for a term of five years, to persons who require arms for the destruction of wild animals which do injury to human beings, cattle, or crops. Such license will be valid only in or on the immediate confines of the district for which it is granted. It will be subject to the conditions that the license and the weapon it covers is shown once a year, between the 15th November and the 31st December, to the nearest Magistrate; that the weapon becomes confiscated to Government directly it is sold or seized in execution of any debt; and that such weapon is carried only on occasions when it is to be used bonâ fide for the destruction of wild animals. Holders of licenses under this rule must not go armed in railway carriages, to fairs, religious processions, or other public assemblages.

GENERAL.

17. Applications for licenses, or renewals of licenses, under these rules, shall be written on "impressed stamps" of value equal to the amount of fee leviable in respect of such licenses.

18. Applications for licenses in respect of which no fee is leviable, or regarding licenses on which the full fee has been paid, shall be considered to be applications within meaning of Schedule II., Article 1, clause (a) of "the Indian Stamp Act, 1879," and shall bear a court fee stamp of one anna.

19. All licenses under Rules 11 and 13 shall expire on the 31st December of the year for which they may be issued; licenses under Rule 15 shall expire on the 31st December of the 5th year of their currency. But the currency of a license may be renewed, previous to its expiration, on payment of a second fee by the same authority that granted it.

20. All licenses shall be given and held subject to the conditions endorsed on the reverse, and subject to these rules, and subject to the provisions of the Act. Licenses under Rules 13 and 16 may be granted subject to the observance of a close season in the pursuit of game-birds or animals that do not injure either men, or cattle, or crops. The limits of the close season will be decided by the Local Government, and the condition regarding such close season, if imposed, shall be endorsed on the reverse of the license.

21. Any person holding a license, or acting under a license, granted in accordance with these rules, shall be bound to produce the same, when called upon to do so by any Magistrate, or by any police officer in charge of a police station, or by any police officer of higher rank.

22. Licenses granted for use within a district ~~shall be~~ written or printed in the vernacular language of such district. Licenses granted in a Presidency Town, or for use beyond the district where they may be granted, shall be in English and may be in the vernacular as well.

23. The Assistant Resident at Aden shall exercise the powers of a Magistrate in respect of the grant of licenses under these rules.

24. A license granted under these rules will cover only the weapons or other articles, and the persons named therein, unless the officer granting a license under Rule 13 or 14 deems it expedient to include the retainers of any person named in the license; in such case the entry on the face of the license shall declare how many and whose retainers are covered by the license.

25. Any officer empowered to grant a license under these rules may at his discretion refuse to grant, to renew, or to consent to the issue of, a license, or may refer any application for the orders of the Local Government.

26. All Magistrates or other authorities acting under these rules will perform their duties subject to the control of their executive superiors and of the Local Government.

No. 12 of 1879.—The following Notice to Mariners is published for general information:—

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

AFRICA—EAST COAST—DELAGOA BAY.

Cockburn Light-Vessel, Removal in Bad Weather.

The Hydrographic Department of the British Admiralty has published the following information, received from Commodore F. W. Sullivan, C.B., C.M.G., Senior Officer, Cape of Good Hope, relative to the light-vessel placed on the western side of Cockburn shoal, Delagoa bay:—

On H.M.S. Active visiting Delagoa bay in November 1878, the light-vessel was not at her station. It was also reported that on the approach of bad weather, shelter is sought for the vessel in port Melville: reliance therefore should not at such times be placed on her being in position.

NOTE.—This light-vessel when in position forms the only safe mark for entering Delagoa bay at night; mariners are accordingly warned as to her probable removal in bad weather.

R. C. CARRINGTON, Chief Civil Assistant,

for A. DUNDAS TAYLOR, Comdr. (late I. N.),
Superintendent, Marine Survey of India.

CALCUTTA,—Marine Survey } Department; }
The 4th March 1879.

By Order, &c.,

A. O. HUME,

Secretary to the Government of India.

This Notice affects the following:—

BRITISH ADMIRALTY Charts, Nos. 2090 and 644; also Admiralty List of Lights in South Africa, 1879; and Africa Pilot, Part III, 1878, pages 154 and 156; also Taylor's Sailing Directory, Vol. I, page 87.

If this Notice is received on boardship, the substance of it should be inserted on the Charts affected by it, and introduced into the Sailing Directions to which it relates.

The 7th March 1879.

No. 13 of 1879.—The following Notice to Mariners is published for general information:—

NOTICE TO MARINERS.
AUSTRALIA—EAST COAST.
BURNETT RIVER ENTRANCE.

(1) Alteration in position of Beacons and Leading Lights.

The Government of Queensland has given Notice, that consequent on the extension southward of the spit on the northern side of Burnett river entrance, the beacons have been moved to the south side of the river and carry the leading lights. These kept in line bearing W. S. W. lead over the bar in the deepest water, and clear of the end of the spit; which having been passed, the leading marks in the bend of Sea reach may be steered for.

PIONEER RIVER—ROCKY ISLETS.

(2) Fixed Light on Flat-Top Islet.

Also, with reference to British Admiralty Notice to Mariners, No. 28 (1) of 4th March 1874, on the exhibition of a temporary light on Flat-top islet, off the entrance of Pioneer river—

Further Notice has been given, that on 26th September 1878, the permanent light would be exhibited—

The light is a fixed white light, elevated 174 feet above high water, and should be visible from seaward in clear weather between the bearings N. W. and S. by W. (except where intercepted by Round-top islet between N. 58° W. and N. 64° W.), from a distance of 19 miles. A sector of red light is shown between the bearings N. W. and N. by E.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric, or by lenses of the fourth order.

Position: Latitude 21° 10' 20" S.; longitude 149° 17' 30" E.

NOTE.—The light bearing S. S. W. leads eastward of Llewellyn shoal, Singapore rock, and the foul ground extending off Shoal point, also clears the ledge off Rocky islet and the dangerous reef northward of Flat-top islet. The reef off Hay point will be avoided by keeping within the south-west limit of the white light.

Llewellyn shoal (recently discovered by Staff Commander E. P. Bedwell, conducting the Admiralty Survey, Queensland), with 3 fathoms water on it, lying N. E. of Slade point distant 6½ miles, being within the limits of the white light; it is intended shortly to show a sector of red light through an arc of 10°, on the western side of the sector, so that with the white light in sight, vessels will be clear of danger.

TRINITY BAY.

(3) Revolving light on Low Isles.

Also, with reference to British Admiralty Notice to Mariners, No. 58 (2), of 14th March 1878, on the exhibition of a temporary light, pending the construction of a lighthouse, on the westernmost Low islet, Trinity bay:—

Further Notice has been given, that on 17th September 1878 the permanent light would be exhibited:—

The light is a revolving white light, attaining its greatest brilliancy every minute, elevated 65 feet above the sea, and should be visible in clear weather from a distance of 14 miles.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric, or by lenses of the third order.

The lighthouse, painted white, is situated in the centre of the islet.

Position, lat. 16° 23' S., long. 145° 35' 15" E.

On the exhibition of this light, the temporary light was discontinued.

ENDEAVOUR RIVER ENTRANCE—COOK HARBOUR.

(4) Leading Lights at Cook Town.

Also, that on 14th September 1878, two leading lights would be exhibited from above the sheds on Nos. 1 and 2 wharves, at Cook town, Endeavour river entrance:

The lights are fixed red lights, and kept in line lead over the bar in the deepest water, and through the channel towards wharf No. 1.

Approximate position of outer light, lat. 15° 27' 30" S., long 145° 15' E.

Mr. G. J. Hynes received charge of the Office of Compiler of Post Office Accounts, before noon on the 1st March 1879.

No. 1170.—Ordered that the following Resolution be published in the Gazette of India:—

It has been brought to the notice of the Government of India, that articles liable to Sea Customs duty are frequently imported into India through the Letter Post and thus escape the duty to which they are liable. Such importations are in direct contravention of the Indian Post Office Act, 1866, Section 60 of which Act declares that any covers, supposed to contain articles subject to Customs duty may be opened by the Post Office authorities after due notice to attend has been given to the addressee.

His Excellency the Governor General in Council desires to remind the public that the importation through the Letter Post of goods liable to duty is illegal, and to notify for general information that the provisions of Section 60 of Act XIV of 1866 will be strictly enforced.

Ordered, that this Resolution be communicated to the several Local Governments and Administrations, and for information and guidance to the Director General of the Post Office of India.

Under the authority of the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State, the regulations governing the promotion of Officers of the Unattached List, are revised as follows:—

I.—Unattached Commissions are conferred on Warrant and Non-Commissioned Officers employed on staff or detached duty who may distinguish themselves in action on the recommendation of the Commander-in-Chief and the Government of India.

II.—The rank of 2nd Lieutenant will be given in the first instance, promotion to the grade of Lieutenant being granted after one year's service; to Captain after 12 years' service, and to Major after 20 years' service, from date of first commission, provided that for each step of rank the prescribed examination is passed and the officer is reported by the Commander-in-Chief as qualified in other respects for the higher grade.

III.—The qualifying period of service and examination may be relaxed on the recommendation of the Commander-in-Chief in the cases of those officers who perform further distinguished service in the field, subsequent to the date of their last promotion.

IV.—Captains of the Indian Unattached List who obtained their promotion to that rank prior to the 30th October 1871, may be advanced to the next higher rank without examination, provided that they are reported to be in other respects qualified for promotion; but those whose commission as Captain bears a subsequent date, must pass the prescribed tests before becoming eligible for promotion.

V.—This order is applicable to the three Presidencies.

SPECIAL.

No. 210.—In continuation of G. G. O. No. 1226, dated the 31st December 1878, the Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council directs the publication of the following extract of a despatch from Major-General Roberts, C.B., V.C., Commanding the Kuram Valley Field Force, submitting a supplementary account of the capture of the Peiwar Kotal on the 2nd December 1878:—

No. 205.

From Major-General F. S. ROBERTS, C.B., V.C., Commanding Kuram Field Force, to the Quartermaster General in India, Army Head Quarters.—Head Quarters, Camp Matur, the 24th January 1879.

SIR,—With reference to the correspondence forwarded with your No. 107 F-C of the 13th January 1879, I have the honor to submit, in continuation of my despatch dated the 5th December 1878, the following supplementary account of the operations which led to the capture of the Peiwar Kotal.

2. In paragraph 18 of my previous despatch, I reported that the following troops under Brigadier-General A. H. Cobbe were left in camp on the night of the 1st December, when the turning force under my personal command marched for the Spin Gawai Kotal, viz.:—

- 2 Guns F.A. Royal Horse Artillery.
- 3 " G-3rd Royal Artillery.
- 12th Bengal Cavalry.
- 2-8th Foot (Wing.)
- 5th Punjab Infantry.

3. The guns under escort of a company of the 8th Foot were placed in position about 1,700 yards from the Peiwar Kotal shortly before daybreak, and they opened on the enemy's artillery about a quarter past 6 o'clock.

4. The Infantry were at the same time exposed under cover, and slightly in advance of the guns.

5. At 8 A.M., two companies of the 5th Regiment were pushed forward to within 1,300 yards of the enemy's line of defence.

6. At about eleven o'clock, the two Afghan guns which were placed to our left of the pass were silenced.

The Infantry simultaneously advanced from ridge to ridge, and by noon had approached to within 1,400 yards of the top of the pass.

7. At this time Brigadier-General Cobbe was severely wounded, and the command of the troops devolved on Colonel Barry Drew of the 8th Regiment.

8. The 5th Punjab Infantry, who were on the right of the attack, and who had succeeded in gaining a position close under the main ridge, now established communication with and joined the column which had come over the Spin Gawai Kotal.

9. Shortly after one o'clock, the remaining infantry, which consisted of five companies of the 8th Regiment, gained a crest from which they were able to open fire at a distance of 800 yards upon the enemy's guns at the Kotal.

10. About 2 P.M., the enemy's defence appeared to be so much shaken that Colonel Drew resolved to deliver his attack. As his infantry were crossing the broken ground to gain the road which led up to the Kotal, they were subjected to a dropping fire; but once on the road all opposition ceased, and shortly before half-past two the troops entered the Afghan position without suffering further loss.

11. The 12th Bengal Cavalry under Colonel Hugh Gough, C.B., V.C., were immediately sent in pursuit, and captured several guns which had been abandoned by the enemy in their rapid flight.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 19th February, 1879, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT NO. II OF 1879.

An Act to make better provision for recording evidence in the Central Provinces.

WHEREAS, in order to provide for the recording of evidence in civil suits in the Central Provinces by the Judge in English or in his own language, it is expedient to amend the Central Provinces Laws Act, 1875; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. This Act may be called “The Central Provinces Laws Act, 1879;”

And it shall come into force ~~to~~ once.

2. The following sections shall be deemed to have been added to the said Central Provinces Laws Act, 1875, immediately after the Code of Civil Procedure came into force, that is to say :—

Local repeal of sections 184, 185 and 189 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

“11. Sections 184, 185 and 189 of the Code of Civil Procedure are hereby repealed.

Sections substituted for sections 182, 190 and 191 of same Code.

“12. For sections 182, 190 and 191 of the same Code, the following shall be substituted (namely) :—

“182. A note of the essential points of the evidence of each witness shall be made at the time, and in the course of oral examination by the Judge, in his own language, or in English if he is sufficiently acquainted with that language, and such note shall be filed with, and form part of, the record of the case.

“190. If the Judge be prevented from making a note as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such note to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same, and such note shall form part of the record.

“191. When the Judge making a note of the evidence, or causing one to be made as above required, dies or is removed from the Court before the conclusion of the suit, his successor may, if he thinks fit, deal with such note as if he himself had made it or caused it to be made.”

mediate application of the measure in its entirety to hundís, and, on the other side, by the Government of the Panjáb for the total exclusion of hundís from any part of the measure. We have come to the conclusion that the Bill should in this respect be left substantially as it stands. Admitting with the Chief Justice that one main principle of Indian codification is to reconcile and assimilate, as far as possible, the Native and European law on each subject, we would point out that this principle must be applied so as to produce as little friction as possible, and we feel assured that any sudden abolition of the numerous local usages (there is no general custom) as to hundís, uncertain and undefined as they often are, would cause much and justifiable dissatisfaction among Native bankers and merchants in certain parts of the country. But we believe that the effect of the Bill, if passed with a saving of the local usages in question, will be, not as the Chief Justice fears, to stereotype and perpetuate these usages, but to induce the Native mercantile community gradually to discard them for the corresponding rules contained in the Bill. The desirable uniformity of mercantile usage will thus be brought about without any risk of causing hardship to Native bankers and merchants. How long this change will take, it is of course impossible to prophesy. But the Bank of Bengal has supplied evidence that the Native usages as to negotiable paper have of recent years been greatly changing, and that the tendency is to assimilate them more and more to the European custom.

3. We do not share the apprehension of the Bank of Bengal that the recognition of Native usages would result in large withdrawal of European capital from operations in Native bills. For in this respect the Bill simply states the law as it stands. Such usages are now and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have the honour to present this further Report.

2. We have carefully considered the arguments urged on the one side by the learned Chief Justice of Bengal and the Bank of Bengal for the im-

have always been recognized by our Courts in all parts of India:* but the Bank itself admits that, for upwards of seventy years, its business in hundis has invariably been conducted according to the same laws and usages as apply to European bills, and that, with one exception (the alleged duty of the holder of a dishonoured hundi to exhaust the acceptor before having recourse to the drawer or endorser) Natives have made no difficulty about conforming to the Bank's requirements. It is, we understand, the practice of the Bank and, probably, of other large European purchasers of hundis to notify that they will not be bound by any local usage which contravenes the English law as to bills of exchange. Though the Bill should pass in its present form, this practice will remain legal and unaffected. It operates of course to bind only the seller to waive a defence which he might otherwise have made. But the other parties to the hundi are practically precluded from setting up any such usage by the knowledge that if they did so their credit would be destroyed by refusal of the Bank to buy hundis on which their names appear.

4. To exclude totally (as the Panjáb Government propose) hundis from any part of the Bill would be to render the proposed legislation to a great extent inoperative, and would probably result in withdrawal of the Bill. Considering the fact that the carrying on of the internal trade of India is becoming more and more dependent on English capital, and that the use in the Mufassal of bills in the English form is therefore largely increasing, we think that such withdrawal would be highly inexpedient. We are supported in this opinion by the fact that the Local Governments of Bengal, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces and Ajmer have all reported in favour of the Bill; that the Chambers of Commerce at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, the Bank of Bombay, and the Calcutta Trades Association, have done the same; and that the Directors of the Bank of Bengal bear testimony as to the ability with which it was framed by Mr. Phillips.

5. Turning now to the details of the Bill, we have, in the first place, expressly saved the provisions of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section 21, which prohibits the issue of private bills or notes payable to bearer on demand.

6. We have struck out from section 16 the words "the whole or any part of," as they might have been taken to imply that there may be a special indorsement expressly directing payment of part of the amount mentioned in the instrument.

7. Section 21 was taken from the Law Commissioners' draft, and deals with a promissory note signed by two persons, and shewing that one of them subscribes only to an alternative liability. We think it very doubtful whether such an informal instrument is a promissory note at all, and for this and other reasons we have omitted the section.

8. We have also omitted section 33, as the matter appears to us to be sufficiently provided for by the Indian Contract Act; for the same reason we have omitted the first half of section 43.

9. We have omitted, as unlikely to be practically useful, sections 55 and 56, which provide for the delivery without indorsement, but with intent to transfer title, of bills payable to the order of a specified person or to a specified person or order.

10. We have omitted section 59, as the matter is sufficiently covered by the preceding section.

11. We do not think that the Bill should deal with collateral agreements, and have therefore struck out section 66.

12. We have amended the section (73, now 67) as to the drawee's term for deliberation. It now provides that the holder may allow the drawee twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept the Bill.

13. We think that, in order to charge the drawer of a cheque, the holder should only be bound to present it at the bank on which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and the banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer. We have altered section 82 accordingly.

14. We have omitted from section 97 the explanation relating to material alterations.

15. We have made some changes in wording and arrangement.

16. The Bill No. III and the second report of the Select Committee have been published in English in all the local Gazettes except those for Assam and Rajputana. Publication of the Bill and report in the vernacular has been reported only by the Governments of Madras, Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces.

17. With the exception of our Hon'ble Colleague Mr. Morgan, we think that the Bill might now be passed as amended. Mr. Morgan would omit the clause saving local usages as to hundis. In other respects he approves of the Bill. We recommend that its further consideration be stayed until the new Law Commission has reported thereon. Meanwhile, we think the Bill, as now amended, should be published with this report in the Gazette of India.

CALCUTTA,
The 19th February, 1879. }

Although I think that this Bill is, on the whole, a very good one, I cannot approve of the recognition which it accords to local usages relating to hundis. From a careful consideration of the papers which have been received with reference to the Bill, and from my own experience as regards the existing practice regarding hundis, I do not believe that there are any usages which call for special recognition at the hands of the legislature, and I think that the proposed recognition may put an arm into the hands of those who are dishonestly disposed, which they do not at present possess.

SCHEDULE.

No. IV.

A Bill to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1879."

It extends to the whole of British India ; but nothing herein contained affects any local usage relating to any instrument in an oriental language or affects the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section twenty-one :

And it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1880.

2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof.

Interpretation clause.

"Banker."

"Notary Public"

"Notary Public."

3. In this Act—
"Banker" includes also persons or a corporation or company acting as bankers, and
"Notary Public" includes also any officer appointed by the Governor General in Council to perform the functions of a Notary Public under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

OF NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

4. A promissory note is an instrument in writing (not being a bank note or a currency note) containing an unconditional undertaking, signed by the maker, to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person, or to the bearer of the instrument.

Illustrations.

A signs instruments in the following terms :—

- (a) "I promise to pay B or order Rs. 500."
 (b) "I acknowledge myself to be indebted to B in Rs. 1,000 to be paid on demand, for value received."
 (c) "Mr. B, I O U Rs. 1,000."
 (d) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and all other sums which shall be due to him."
 (e) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500, first deducting thereout any money which he may owe me."
 (f) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 seven days after my marriage with C."
 (g) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 on D's death, provided D leaves me enough to pay that sum."
 (h) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and to deliver to him my black horse on 1st January next."

The instruments respectively marked (a), and (b) are promissory notes. The instruments respectively marked (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) and (h) are not promissory notes.

5. A bill of exchange is an instrument in writing containing an unconditional order, signed by the maker, directing a certain person to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person or to the bearer of the instrument.

6. A cheque is a bill of exchange drawn on a specified banker and not expressed to be payable otherwise than on demand.

7. The maker of a bill of exchange or cheque is called the "drawer;" the person thereby directed to pay is called the "drawee."

When the bill gives the name of any person in addition to the drawee to be resorted to in case of need, such person is called a "drawee in case of need."

After the drawee of a bill has signed his assent upon the bill, or if there are more parts thereof than one, upon one of such parts, and delivered the same, or given notice of such signing to the holder or to some person on his behalf, he is called the "acceptor."

When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour."

The person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid, is called the "payee."

8. The "holder" of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque means any person entitled in his own name to the possession thereof and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto.

Where the note, bill or cheque is lost or destroyed, its holder is the person so entitled at the time of such loss or destruction.

9. "Holder in due course" means any person who became the possessor of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque if payable to bearer, or the payee or indorsee thereof, if payable to, or to the order of, a payee, for consideration before the amount mentioned in it became payable, and without having sufficient cause to believe that any defect existed in the title of the person from whom he derived his title.

10. "Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned.

11. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque drawn or made in British India, and made payable in, or drawn upon any person resident in, British India shall be deemed to be an inland instrument.

12. Any such instrument not so drawn, made or made payable shall be deemed to be a foreign instrument.

13. A "negotiable instrument" means a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque expressed to be payable to a specified person or his order, or to the order of a specified person, or to the bearer thereof, or to a specified person or the bearer thereof.

14. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is transferred to any person, so as to constitute that person the holder thereof, the instrument is said to be negotiated.

15. When the maker or holder of a negotiable instrument signs the same, otherwise than as such maker, for the purpose of negotiation, on the back or face thereof or on a slip of paper annexed thereto, or so signs for the same purpose a stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument, he is said to indorse the same, and is called the "indorser."

16. If the indorser signs his name only, the indorsement is said to be "in blank," and if he adds a direction to pay the amount mentioned in the instrument to, or to the order of, a specified person, the indorsement is said to be "in full;" and the person so specified is called the "indorsee" of the instrument.

17. Where an instrument may be construed either as a promissory note or bill of exchange, the holder may at his election treat it as either, and the instrument shall be thenceforward treated accordingly.

18. If the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid is stated differently in figures and in words, the amount stated in words shall be the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid.

19. A promissory note or bill of exchange, in which no time for payment is specified, and a cheque are payable on demand.

20. Where a stamped paper, which is intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument, is signed and delivered by a competent person as maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser, the holder thereof may complete the same by filling up any blanks therein, and the person so signing shall be liable upon such instrument, in the capacity in which he signed the same, for any amount which may be specified therein not exceeding the amount covered by the stamp thereon: provided that as between the person delivering and the person receiving the instrument nothing in excess of the amount intended by them to be paid shall be recovered.

Illustration.

A stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument is made payable to "or order:" the holder of such instrument may fill up the blank with his own name, or that of any other person.

21. In a promissory note or bill of exchange the expressions "at sight" and "on presentment" mean on demand. The expression "after sight" means, in a promissory note, after presentment for sight, and in a bill of exchange, after acceptance or protest for non-acceptance.

22. The maturity of a promissory note or bill of exchange is the date at which it falls due.

Every promissory note or bill of exchange which is not expressed to be payable on demand, at sight, or on presentment, is at maturity on the third day after the day on which it is expressed to be payable.

23. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a stated number of months after date or after sight, or after a certain event, is at maturity, the period stated shall be held to terminate on the day of the month which corresponds with the day on which the instrument is dated, or presented for acceptance or sight or protested for non-acceptance, or the event happens, or, where the instrument is a bill of exchange made payable a stated number of months after sight and has been accepted for honour, with the day on which it was so accepted. If the month in which the period would terminate has no corresponding day, the period shall be held to terminate on the last day of such month.

Illustrations.

(a) A negotiable instrument dated 29th January 1878 is made payable at one month after date. The instrument is at maturity on the third day after the 28th February 1878.

(b) A negotiable instrument dated 30th August 1878 is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December 1878.

(c) A promissory note or bill of exchange, dated 31st August 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December 1878.

24. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a certain number of days after date or after sight or after a certain event, is at maturity, the day of the date, or of presentment for acceptance or sight, or of protest for non-acceptance, or on which the event happens, shall be excluded.

25. When the day on which a promissory note or bill of exchange is at maturity is a public holiday, the instrument shall be deemed to be due on the next preceding business day.

Explanation.—The expression "public holiday" includes Sundays: New-Year's day, Christmas day: if either of such days falls on a Sunday, the next following Monday: Good-Friday; and any other day declared by the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, to be a public holiday.

26. Until the contrary is proved, the following presumptions shall be made:—

(a) that every negotiable instrument was made of consideration; or drawn for consideration, and that every such instrument, when it has been accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred, was accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred for consideration:

(b) that every negotiable instrument bearing a date was made or drawn on such date:

(c) that every accepted bill of exchange was accepted within a reasonable time after its date and before its maturity

(d) that every transfer of a negotiable instrument was made before its maturity

(e) that the endorsements appearing upon a negotiable instrument were made in the order in which they appear thereon:

(f) that a lost promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque was duly stamped:

(g) that the holder of a negotiable instrument is a holder in due course provided that where the instrument has been obtained from its lawful owner, or from any person in lawful custody thereof, by means of an offence or fraud, or has been obtained from the maker or acceptor, or ~~by means of an offence or fraud~~ for unlawful consideration, the burthen of proving that the holder is a holder in due course lies upon him.

CHAPTER III.

PARTIES TO NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

27. Every person capable of contracting, according to the law to which he is subject, may bind himself and be bound by the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, delivery and negotiation of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque.

A minor may draw, indorse, deliver and negotiate such instruments so as to bind parties except himself.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to empower a corporation to make, indorse or accept such instruments except in cases in which, under the law for the time being in force, they are so empowered.

28. Every person capable of binding himself or of being bound, as mentioned in section 27, may so bind himself or be bound by a duly authorized agent acting in his name.

A general authority to transact business and to receive and discharge debts does not confer upon an agent the power of accepting or indorsing bills of exchange so as to bind his principal.

An authority to draw bills of exchange does not of itself import an authority to indorse.

29. An agent who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange

Liability of agent signing.

or cheque, without indicating thereon that he signs as agent, or that he does not intend thereby to incur personal responsibility, is liable personally on the instrument, except to those who induced him to sign upon the belief that the principal only would be held liable.

30. A legal representative of a deceased person

Liability of legal representative signing.

who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, is liable personally thereon unless he expressly limits his liability to the extent of the assets received by him as such.

31. Where there are several drawees of a bill of Acceptance by several drawees not partners.

exchange who are not partners, each of them can accept it for himself, but none of them can accept it for another without his authority.

32. The drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque

Liability of drawer.

is bound, in case of dishonour by the drawee or acceptor thereof, to compensate the holder for any loss or damage caused thereby, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, the drawer as hereinafter provided.

33. The drawee of a cheque having sufficient

Liability of drawee of cheque.

funds of the drawer in his hands properly applicable to the payment of such cheque, must pay the cheque when duly required so to do, and, in default of such payment, must compensate the drawer for any loss or damage caused by such default.

34. In the absence of a contract to the contrary,

Liability of maker of note and acceptor of bill.

the maker of a promissory note and the acceptor of a bill, before maturity of a bill of exchange, are bound to pay the amount thereof at maturity according to the apparent tenor of the note or acceptance respectively, and the acceptor of a bill of exchange at or after maturity is bound to pay the amount thereof to the holder on demand.

In default of such payment as aforesaid, such maker or acceptor is bound to compensate any party to the note or bill for any loss or damage sustained by him, and caused by such default.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 29, 48, 49, 50, 62, 68, 72, 73 and 86.

35. No person except the drawee of a bill of exchange, or all or some of Only drawee can be acceptor except in need or for honour.

several joint drawees, or a person named therein as a drawee in case of need, or an acceptor for honour, can bind himself by an acceptance.

36. In the absence of a contract to the contrary,

Liability of indorser.

whoever indorses and delivers a negotiable instrument before maturity, without, in such indorsement, expressly excluding or making conditional his own liability, is bound thereby to every subsequent holder, in case of dishonour by the drawee, acceptor or maker, to compensate such holder for any loss or damage caused to him by such dishonour, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, such indorser as hereinafter provided.

Every indorser after dishonour is liable as upon an instrument payable on demand.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 29, 48, 49, 50, 59, 60, 62, 65, 66, 68, 72, 76, 86, 87, 88, 90, 91 and 101, clause (a).

37. Every prior party to a negotiable instru-

Liability of prior parties to holder in due course.

ment is liable thereon to a holder in due course until the instrument is duly satisfied.

38. The maker of a promissory note or cheque,

Maker, drawer and acceptor principals.

the drawer of a bill of exchange until acceptance, and the acceptor are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively liable thereon as principal debtors, and the other parties thereto are liable thereon as sureties for the maker, drawer or acceptor, as the case may be.

39. As between the parties so liable as sureties,

Prior party a principal in respect of each subsequent party.

each prior party is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, also liable thereon as a principal debtor in respect of each subsequent party.

Illustration.

A draws a bill payable to his own order on B, who accepts. A afterwards indorses the bill to C, C to D, and D to E. As between E and B, B is the principal debtor, and A, C and D are his sureties. As between E and A, A is the principal debtor, and C and D are his sureties. As between E and C, C is the principal debtor and D is his surety.

40. When the holder of an accepted bill of exchange enters into any contract with the acceptor which under section 134 or 135

Suretyship.

of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, would discharge the other parties, the holder may expressly reserve his right to charge the other parties, and in such case they are not discharged.

41. Where the holder of a negotiable instru-

Discharge of indorser's liability.

ment, without the consent of the indorser, destroys or impairs the indorser's remedy against a prior party, the indorser is discharged from liability to the holder to the same extent as if the instrument had been paid at maturity.

Illustration.

A is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of B, which contains the following indorsements in blank:—

First indorsement, "B."

Second indorsement, "Peter Williams."

Third indorsement, "Wright and Co."

Fourth indorsement, "John Rozario."

This bill A puts in suit against John Rozario and strikes out, without John Rozario's consent, the indorsements by Peter Williams and Wright and Co. A is not entitled to recover anything from John Rozario.

42. No maker of a promissory note, and no drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and no acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn.

43. No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange payable to, or to the order of, a specified person shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same.

44. No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument.

45. An acceptor of a bill of exchange already indorsed is not relieved from liability by reason that such indorsement is forged, if he knew or had reason to believe the indorsement to be forged when he accepted the bill.

46. An acceptor of a bill of exchange drawn in a fictitious name and payable to the drawer's order is not, by reason that such name is fictitious, relieved from liability to any holder in due course claiming under an indorsement by the same hand as the drawer's signature, and purporting to be made by the drawer.

47. If at any time there has been consideration between any parties to a negotiable instrument for the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, negotiation or transfer thereof, the party receiving such consideration is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, liable upon the instrument to all subsequent parties thereto, and every subsequent holder is, as against him, a holder for consideration.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 49, 50, 59, 65, 66, 68, 72, 73, 76, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90 and 91.

Illustrations.

(a) A indorses a bill of exchange to B, at the request of C, for C's account with B. B is a holder of the bill for consideration and if he indorses it as a present to D, D is a holder for consideration as against A.

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument, indorses it in full to B, in the belief that B has done some thing which he has not done. B, for consideration proceeding from C, indorses the instrument in blank to C, and C indorses it to D. D strikes out C's indorsement. D is a holder of the instrument for consideration as against B.

48. When there was no consideration for the making, drawing, acceptance or indorsement of a negotiable instrument, or when the consideration has wholly failed, the maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser is not liable thereon to the party in whose favour the instrument was so made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, or to any party claiming through him, unless consideration was given by the claimant or by some party through whom he derives title. But the maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser is liable to compensate any subsequent party who, being liable on such instrument, pays the amount due thereon.

49. When the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque consisted of money, and was originally absent in part or has subsequently failed in part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Explanation.—The drawer of a bill of exchange stands in immediate relation with the acceptor. The maker of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, stands in immediate relation with the payee, and the indorser with his indorsee. Other signers may by agreement stand in immediate relation with a holder.

Illustration.

A draws a bill on B for Rs. 500 payable to the order of A. B accepts the bill, but subsequently dishonours it by non-payment. A sues B on the bill. B proves that it was accepted for value as to Rs. 400, and as an accommodation to the plaintiff as to the residue. A can only recover Rs. 400.

50. Where a part of the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, though not consisting of money, is ascertainable in money without collateral enquiry, and there has been a failure of that part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

51. Subject to the provisions of section 62, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by delivery thereof.

Exception.—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque delivered on condition that it is not to take effect except in a certain event is not negotiable (except in the hands of a holder for value without notice of the condition) unless such event happens.

Illustrations.

(a) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, delivers it to B's agent to keep for B. The instrument has been negotiated.

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer which is in the hands of A's banker, who is at the time the banker of B, directs the banker to transfer the instrument to B's credit in the banker's account with B. The banker does so, and accordingly now possesses the instrument as B's agent. The instrument has been negotiated, and B has become the holder of it.

52. Subject to the provisions of section 62, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to the order of a specified person, or to a specified person or order, is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

53. The holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may, without signing his own name, by writing above the indorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as indorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full; and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an indorser.

54. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument

Effect of indorsement. followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Illustrations.

B signs the following indorsements on different negotiable instruments payable to bearer:—

(a) "Pay the contents to C only."

(b) "Pay C for my use."

(c) "Pay C or order for the account of B."

(d) "The within must be credited to C."

These indorsements exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

(e) "Pay C."

(f) "Pay C value in account with the Oriental Bank."

(g) "Pay the contents to C, being part of the consideration in a certain deed of assignment executed by C to the indorser and others."

These indorsements do not exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

55. Every sole maker, drawer, payee or indorsee, or all of several joint

Who may negotiate. makers, drawers, payees or indorsees, of a negotiable instrument may, if the negotiability of such instrument has not been restricted or excluded, as mentioned in section 51, indorse and negotiate the same.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker or drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is holder thereof.

Illustration.

A bill is drawn payable to A or order. A indorses it to B, the indorsement not containing the words "or order" or any equivalent words. B may negotiate the instrument.

56. The indorser of a negotiable instrument

Indorser who excludes his own liability or makes it conditional. may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon, depend upon the happening of a specified event, although such event may never happen.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a.) The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—
"Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b.) A is the payee and holder of a negotiable instrument. Excluding personal liability by an indorsement "without recourse," he transfers the instrument to B, and B indorses it to C, who indorses it to A. A is not only reinstated in his former rights, but has the rights of an indorsee against B and C.

57. A holder of a negotiable instrument who

Holder deriving title from holder in due course. derives title from a holder in due course has the rights thereon of that holder in due course.

58. Subject to the provisions of sections 121 and 122, a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank is payable to the bearer thereof even although originally payable to order.

59. If a negotiable instrument after having been Conversion of indorsement in blank into indorsement in full. indorsed in blank is indorsed in full, the amount of it cannot be claimed from the indorser in full, except by the person to whom it has been indorsed in full, or by one who derives title through such person.

60. No writing on a negotiable instrument is

Indorsement for part of sum due. valid for the purpose of negotiation if such writing purports to transfer only a part of the amount of the instrument.

61. The legal representative of a deceased

Legal representative cannot by delivery only negotiate instrument indorsed by deceased. person cannot negotiate by delivery only a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order and indorsed by the deceased but not delivered.

62. When a negotiable instrument has been

Instrument obtained by unlawful means or for unlawful consideration. lost, or has been obtained from any maker, acceptor or holder thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for an unlawful consideration, no possessor or indorsee who claims through the person who found or so obtained the instrument is entitled to receive the amount due thereon from such maker, acceptor or holder, or from any party prior to such holder, unless such possessor or indorsee is, or some person through whom he claims was, a holder thereof in due course.

63. The holder of a negotiable instrument, who

Instrument acquired after dishonour or when overdue. has acquired it after dishonour, whether by non-acceptance or non-payment, with notice thereof, or after maturity, has only, as against the other parties, the rights thereon of his transferor:

Provided that any person who, in good faith

Accommodation note or bill. and for consideration, becomes the holder, after maturity, of a promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted without consideration for the purpose of enabling some party thereto to raise money thereon, may recover the amount of the note or bill from any prior party.

Illustration.

The acceptor of a bill of exchange, when he accepted it deposited with the drawer certain goods as a collateral security for the payment of the bill, with power to the drawer to sell the goods and apply the proceeds in discharge of the bill if it were not paid at maturity. The bill not having been paid at maturity, the drawer sold the goods and retained the proceeds, but indorsed the bill to A. A's title is subject to the same objection as the drawer's title.

64. A negotiable instrument may be negotiated

Instrument negotiable till payment or satisfaction. (except by the maker, drawee or acceptor after maturity) until payment or satisfaction thereof by the maker, drawee or acceptor at or after maturity, but not after such payment or satisfaction.

CHAPTER V.

OF PRESENTMENT.

65. A bill of exchange payable after sight must, if no time or place is specified therein for presentment, be presented to the drawee thereof for acceptance, if he can, after reasonable search, be found, by a person entitled to demand acceptance, within a reasonable time after it is drawn, and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

If the drawee cannot, after reasonable search be found, the bill is dishonoured.

If the bill is directed to the drawee at a particular place, it must be presented at that place; and if at the due date for presentment he cannot, after reasonable search, be found there, the bill is dishonoured.

66. A promissory note, payable at a certain period after sight, must be presented to the maker thereof for sight, by a person entitled to demand payment, within a reasonable time after it is made and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

67. The holder may allow the drawee of a bill of exchange presented to him for acceptance twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept it.

68. Promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques must be presented for payment to the maker, acceptor or drawee thereof respectively, by or on behalf of the holder as hereinafter provided. In default of such presentment, the other parties thereto are not liable thereon to such holder.

Exception.—Where a promissory note is payable on demand and is not payable at a specified place, no presentment is necessary in order to charge the maker thereof.

69. Presentment for payment must be made during the usual hours of business, and, if at a banker's, within banking hours.

70. A promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable at a specified period after date or sight thereof, must be presented for payment at maturity.

71. A promissory note payable by instalments must be presented for payment on the third day after the date fixed for payment of each instalment; and non-payment on such presentment has the same effect as non-payment of a note at maturity.

72. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place and not elsewhere, must, in order to charge any party thereto, be presented for payment at that place.

73. A promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place must, in order to charge the maker or drawer thereof, be presented for payment at that place.

74. A promissory note or bill of exchange, not made payable as mentioned in sections 72 and 73, must be presented for payment at one of the places specified (if any), or at the place of business (if any), or at the usual residence, of the maker, drawee or acceptor thereof, as the case may be.

75. If the maker, drawee or acceptor of a negotiable instrument has no known place of business or fixed residence, and no place is specified in the instrument for presentment for acceptance or payment, such presentment may be made to him in person wherever he can be found.

76. A cheque must, in order to charge the drawer, be presented at the bank upon which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and his banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer.

77. A cheque must, in order to charge any person except the drawer, be presented within a reasonable time after delivery thereof by such person.

78. Subject to the provisions of section 33, a negotiable instrument payable on demand must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after it is received by the holder.

79. Presentment for acceptance or payment may be made to the duly authorized agent of the drawee, maker or acceptor, as the case may be, or where the drawee, maker or acceptor has died, to his legal representative, or where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee.

80. No presentment for payment is necessary, and the instrument is dishonoured at the due date for presentment, in any of the following cases:—

(a) if the maker, drawee or acceptor intentionally prevents the presentment of the instrument, or, if the instrument being payable at his place of business, he closes such place on a business day during the usual business-hours, or if the instrument being payable at some other specified place, neither he nor any person authorized to pay it attends at such place during the usual business hours, or if the instrument not being payable at any specified place, he cannot after due search be found;

(b) as against any party if, after maturity, with knowledge that the instrument has not been presented—

he makes a part payment on account of the amount due on the instrument, or promises to pay the amount due thereon in whole or in part, or otherwise waives his right to take advantage of any default in presentment for payment;

(c) as against the drawer, if the drawer could not suffer damage from the want of such presentment.

81. When a bill of exchange, accepted payable

Liability of banker for negligently dealing with bill presented for payment.

at a specified bank, has been duly presented there for payment and dishonoured, if the banker so negligently or improperly keeps, deals with or delivers back such bill as to cause loss to the holder, he must compensate the holder for such loss.

CHAPTER VI.

OF PAYMENT AND INTEREST.

82. Subject to the provisions of section 86,

To whom payment should be made.

clause (c), payment of the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque must, in order to discharge the maker or acceptor, be made to the holder of the instrument.

83. When interest at a specified rate is ex-

Interest when rate specified.

pressly made payable on a promissory note or bill of exchange, interest shall be calculated at the rate specified, on the amount and from the date of the instrument, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

84. When no rate of interest is specified in the Interest when no rate specified.

instrument, interest on the amount thereof shall, except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532, be calculated at the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date at which the same ought to have been paid by the party charged, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Explanation.—When the party charged is the indorser of an instrument dishonoured by non-payment, he is liable to pay interest only from the time that he receives notice of the dishonour.

85. Any person liable to pay, and called upon

Delivery of instrument on payment, or indemnity in case of loss.

by the holder thereof to pay, the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is before payment entitled to have it shown, and is on payment entitled to have it delivered up, to him, or, if the instrument is lost or cannot be produced, to be indemnified against any further claim thereon against him.

CHAPTER VII.

OF DISCHARGE FROM LIABILITY ON NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

86. The maker, acceptor or indorser respect-

Discharge from liability.

ively of a negotiable instrument is discharged from liability thereon—

(a) to a holder thereof who cancels such acceptor's or indorser's name with intent to discharge him, and to all parties claiming under such holder.

(b) to a holder thereof who otherwise discharges by release, such maker, acceptor or indorser, and to all parties deriving title under such holder after notice of such discharge;

(c) to all parties thereto, if the instrument is by payment. payable to bearer, or has been indorsed in blank, and such maker, acceptor or indorser makes payment in due course of the amount due thereon.

87. If the holder of a bill of exchange allows

Discharge by allowing drawee more than twenty-four hours to accept.

the drawee more than twenty-four hours to consider whether he will accept the same, all previous parties not consenting to such allowance are thereby discharged from liability to such holder.

88. When the holder of a cheque fails to present it for payment, and the drawer thereof sustains loss or damage from such failure, he is discharged from liability to the holder.

89. Where a cheque payable to order, purports to be indorsed by or on behalf of the payee, the drawee is discharged by payment in due course.

90. If the holder of a bill of exchange acquiesces in a conditional acceptance, or one limited to part of the sum mentioned in the bill, or which substitutes a different place or time for payment, or which, where the drawers are not partners is not signed by all the drawees, all previous parties whose consent is not obtained to such acceptance are discharged as against the holder and those claiming under him.

91. Save as provided in sections 20, 53, 90

Effect of material alteration.

and 120, any material alteration of a negotiable instrument renders the same void

as against any one who is a party thereto at the time of making such alteration and does not consent thereto, unless it was made in order to carry out the common intention of the original parties; and any such alteration if made by an indorsee, discharges his indorser from all liability to him in respect of the consideration thereof.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 20, 53, 90 and 120.

92. An acceptor or indorser of a negotiable

Acceptor or indorser bound notwithstanding previous alteration.

instrument is bound by his acceptance or indorsement notwithstanding any previous alteration of the instrument.

93. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque has been materially altered, but does not appear to have been so altered, or where a cheque is presented for payment which does not at the time of presentation appear to be crossed or to have had a crossing which has been obliterated, payment thereof by a person or banker liable to pay and paying the same according to the apparent tenor thereof at the time of payment and otherwise in due course, shall discharge such person or banker from all liability thereon, and such payment shall not be questioned by reason of the instrument having been altered, or the cheque crossed.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF NOTICE OF DISHONOUR.

94. A bill of exchange is said to be dishonoured by non-acceptance when the drawee, or one of several drawees not being partners, makes default in acceptance upon being duly required to accept the bill.

Where the drawee is incompetent to contract the bill may be treated as dishonoured.

95. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is said to be dishonoured by non-payment when the maker of the note, acceptor of the bill, or drawee of the cheque makes default in payment upon being duly required to pay the same.

96. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder thereof, or some party thereto who remains liable thereon, must give notice that the instrument has been so dishonoured to all other parties whom the holder seeks to make severally liable thereon, and to some one of several parties whom he seeks to make jointly liable thereon.

Nothing in this section renders it necessary to give notice to the maker of the dishonoured promissory note, or the drawee or acceptor of the dishonoured bill of exchange or cheque.

97. Notice of dishonour may be given to a duly authorised agent of the person to whom it is required to be given, or, where he has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee; may be oral or written; may, if written, be sent by post; and may be in any form; but it must inform the party to whom it is given, either in express terms or by reasonable intendment, that the instrument has been dishonoured, and in what way, and that he will be held liable thereon; and it must be given within a reasonable time after dishonour, at the place of business, or (in case such party has no place of business) at the residence of the party for whom it is intended.

If the notice is sent by post and miscarries, such miscarriage does not render the notice invalid.

98. Any party receiving notice of dishonour must, in order to render any prior party liable to himself, transmit it to such party within a reasonable time, unless such party otherwise receives due notice as provided by section 96.

99. When the instrument is deposited with an agent for presentment, the agent is entitled to the same time to give notice to his principal as if he were the holder giving notice of dishonour, and the principal is entitled to a further like period to give notice of dishonour.

100. When the party to whom notice of dishonour is despatched is dead, but the party despatching the notice is ignorant of his death, the notice is sufficient.

When party to whom notice given is dead.

When notice of dishonour is unnecessary.

101. No notice of dishonour is necessary—

(a) when it is dispensed with by the party entitled thereto;

(b) in order to charge the drawer, when he has countermanded payment;

(c) when the party charged could not suffer damage for want of notice;

(d) when the party entitled to notice cannot after due search be found; or the party bound to give notice is, for any other reason, unable without any fault of his own to give it;

(e) to charge the drawers, when the acceptor is also a drawer;

(f) in the case of a promissory note which is not negotiable

(g) when the party entitled to notice, knowing the facts, promises unconditionally to pay the amount due on the instrument.

CHAPTER IX.

OF NOTING AND PROTEST.

102. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may cause such dishonour to be noted by a notary public upon the instrument, or upon a paper attached thereto, or partly upon each.

Such note must be made within a reasonable time after dishonour, and must specify the date of dishonour, the reason, if any, assigned for such dishonour, or, if the instrument has not been expressly dishonoured, the reason why the holder treats it as dishonoured, and the notary's charges.

103. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause such dishonour to be noted and certified by a notary public. Such certificate is called a protest, and in a suit upon the instrument, proof of the protest, the Court shall presume the fact of dishonour, unless and until such fact is disproved.

When the acceptor of a bill of exchange has become insolvent, or his credit has been publicly impeached, before the maturity of the bill, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause a notary public to demand better security of the acceptor, and on its being refused may, within a reasonable time, cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security.

104. A protest under section 103 must contain—

(a) either the instrument itself, or a literal transcript of the instrument and of everything written or printed thereupon;

(b) the name of the person for whom and against whom the instrument has been protested;

(c) a statement that payment or acceptance, or better security, as the case may be, has been demanded of such person by the notary public; the terms of his answer, if any, or a statement that he gave no answer, or that he could not be found;

(d) when the note or bill has been dishonoured, the place and time of dishonour, and when better security has been refused, the place and time of refusal;

(e) the subscription of the notary public making the protest;

(f) in the event of an acceptance for honour or of a payment for honour, the name of the person by whom, of the person for whom, and the manner in which, such acceptance or payment was offered and effected.

105. When a promissory note or bill of exchange is required by law to be protested, notice of such protest must be given instead of notice of dishonour, in the same manner and subject to the same conditions; but the notice may be given by the notary public who makes the protest.

106. All bills of exchange drawn payable at some other place than the place mentioned as the residence of the drawer, and which are dishonoured by non-acceptance, may, without further presentment to the drawee, be protested for non-payment, in the place specified for payment, unless paid before or at maturity.

CHAPTER X.

OF REASONABLE TIME.

107. In determining what is a reasonable time for presentment for acceptance or payment, for giving notice of dishonour and for noting, regard shall be had to the nature of the instrument and the usual course of dealing with respect to similar instruments; and in calculating such time, public holidays shall be excluded.

108. Presentment is made within a reasonable time, within the meaning of sections 65, 77, and 78, if it is made on the business day next after that on which the holder received the instrument referred to, or when there is no more delay than is occasioned by the residence of the parties to the instrument in different places.

Illustration.

A draws on B, resident at Calcutta, a bill of exchange in favour of C payable at sight, and sends it to C at Benares. C, the day after he receives it, indorses it to D, and despatches it to D at Calcutta. D, the day after he receives the bill, presents it for payment. The delay which has taken place in presenting the bill is not unreasonable.

109. If the holder and the party to whom notice of dishonour is given carry on business or live (as the case may be) in different places, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched by the next post or on the day next after the day of dishonour.

If the said parties carry on business or live in the same place, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched in time to reach its destination on the day next after the day of dishonour.

110. A party receiving notice of dishonour, who seeks to enforce his right against a prior party, transmits the notice within a reasonable time if he transmits it within the same time after its receipt as he would have had to give notice if he had been the holder.

CHAPTER XI.

OF ACCEPTANCE AND PAYMENT FOR HONOUR.

111. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or for better security, any person may, with the consent of the holder, by writing on the bill, accept the same for the honour of any party thereto.

112. Where the acceptance does not express for whose honour it is made, it shall be deemed to be made for the honour of the drawer.

113. An acceptor for honour binds himself to all parties subsequent to the party for whose honour he accepts to pay the amount of the bill if the drawee do not; and such party and all prior parties are liable in their respective capacities to compensate the acceptor for honour for all loss or damage sustained by him in consequence of such acceptance.

But an acceptor for honour is not liable to the holder of the bill unless it is presented, or (in case the address given by such acceptor on the bill is a place other than the place where the bill is made payable) forwarded for presentment, not later than the day next after the day of its maturity.

114. An acceptor for honour cannot be charged unless the bill has at its maturity been presented to the drawee for payment and has been dishonoured by him, and noted or protested for such dishonour.

115. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-payment, any person may pay the same for the honour of any party liable to pay the same, provided that the person so paying has previously declared before a notary public the party for whose honour he pays, and that such declaration has been recorded by such notary public.

116. Any person so paying is entitled to all the rights, in respect of the bill, of the holder at the time of such payment, and may recover from the party for whose honour he pays all sums so paid, with interest thereon and with all expenses properly incurred in making such payment.

CHAPTER XII.

OF COMPENSATION.

117. The compensation payable in case of dishonour of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, by any party liable to the holder or any indorsee, shall (except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532) be determined by the following rules:—

(a) The holder is entitled to the amount due upon the instrument, together with the expenses properly incurred in presenting, noting and protesting it;

(b) When the person charged resides at a place different from that at which the instrument was payable, the holder is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(c) An indorser who, being liable, has paid the amount due on the same is entitled to the amount so paid with interest at six per centum per annum from the date of payment until tender or realization thereof, together with all expenses caused by the dishonour and payment;

(d) When the person charged and such indorser reside at different places, the indorser is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(e) The party entitled to compensation may draw a bill upon the party liable to compensate him, payable at sight or on demand, for the amount due to him together with all expenses properly incurred by him. Such bill must be accompanied by the instrument dishonoured and the protest thereof (if any). If such bill is dishonoured, the party dishonouring the same is liable to make compensation thereof in the same manner as in the case of the original bill.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF CROSSED CHEQUES.

118. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company" or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

119. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

120. Where a cheque is uncrossed, the holder may cross it generally or specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally, the holder may cross it specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, the holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent, for collection.

121. Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed, or his agent for collection.

122. Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

123. Where the banker on whom a crossed cheque is drawn has paid the same in due course, the banker paying the cheque, and (in case such cheque has come to the hands of the payee) the drawer thereof, shall respectively be entitled to the same rights, and be placed in the same position in all respects, as they would respectively be entitled to and placed in if the amount of the cheque had been paid to and received by the true owner thereof.

124. Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same is crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

125. A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable," shall not have, and shall not be capable of giving, a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

But a banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment from a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF FOREIGN BILLS.

126. Foreign bills of exchange may be drawn in parts, each part being numbered and containing a provision that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. All the parts together make a set; but the whole set constitutes only one bill, and is extinguished when one of the parts, if a separate bill, would be extinguished.

Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he is liable on each part as if it were a separate bill.

127. As between holders in due course of different parts of the same set, he who first acquired title to his part is entitled to the other parts and the money represented by the bill.

128. Where a drawee in case of need is named in a foreign bill of exchange, the bill is not dishonoured until dishonoured by such drawee.

129. Foreign bills of exchange must be protested for dishonour when such protest is required by the law of the place where they are drawn.

CHAPTER XV.

OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

130. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Illustrations.

A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B, payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is endorsed in British India, and is dishonoured. An action on the bill is brought against B in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

131. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorsee causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and gives notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills which are not foreign. The notice is sufficient.

132. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, Instrument made, &c., accepted or indorsed out of out of British India, but in accordance with its law. British India, but in accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into, does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or endorsement made thereon in British India.

133. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

Forms of instruments taken from a Bengali book of forms received from Mr. O'Kinealy.

amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have the honour to present this further report.

2. The principal objections taken to this Bill in its second form are, first, that, as a whole, it is heterogeneous, and, secondly, that certain parts of it are neither necessary nor expedient. It is said, for instance, that, though the bulk of the Bill deals with transfer of property inter vivos by act of parties, it also treats, in sections 82, 83, of conditions in Wills, and, in section 129, of Succession to a deceased person. It is said, again, that the chapters dealing respectively with the rights and liabilities of owners of limited interests and with property held by several persons belong rather to the subject of the enjoyment, than to that of the transfer of property. It is urged that settlements (in the conveyancer's sense of the word) are hardly ever made in India, that what are technically called Powers are almost unknown, and that the chapters respectively dealing with those subjects are certainly not necessary and can hardly be said to be expedient. We feel the force of these objections. In fact, we have always felt them. But we were not responsible for the first draft of the Bill, whatever were its excellences or defects. The matters thus objected to, together with others, such as Registration and Trusts, still more foreign to the proper subject of the Bill, are all dealt with by the draft prepared by the late Indian Law Commission, which was sent out in 1870 by the then Secretary of State with instructions to introduce a Bill founded upon it, revised by Sir A. Hobhouse and sent home by the Government of India in January, 1877, i.e., nearly six months before the Bill was introduced and referred to a Select Committee. The great deference due to the Law Commission and to Sir A. Hobhouse has hitherto prevented us from dealing freely with the Bill. Until the opinions of the Local Governments and the results of local experience had been obtained, for us to have altered it would have been to set our individual views against those of the able and learned men who were answerable for the Bill as introduced. But now that the opinions and results above referred to have been obtained, we see that, if the Bill is to go on at all, it must be strictly confined to the subject of transfer of property by act of parties, that is to say, by contract or gift.

3. We have therefore omitted chapters VII to XI both inclusive.

4. We cannot maintain that they are in accordance with one of the canons laid down in our last report, namely, that no additions should be made to the existing law "which are not either necessary or clearly expedient." The chapters dealing respectively with settlements, the rights and liabilities of owners of limited interests, and property held by several persons, are, moreover, very incomplete; and, as Natives are excluded from chapter IX, it would apply to a very limited class of persons. Chapter XI (of Powers) would also be of little use. We believe that among Natives powers are almost unknown. So far as we are aware, the only reported cases in which anything like a power was given by a Native are in 2 Cal. 474, and N.-W. P. (1869) Part II, p. 6, in each of which cases a Hindú bequeathed land to his wife and expressly empowered her to alienate it, and in 5 Beng. 181, where a Hindú testator empowered his sister to appoint a trustee of a religious endowment. Moreover, powers may be created by will and are, as often as not, exercisable by will. The subject therefore does not properly fall within a measure treating of the transfer of property, that is, as lawyers generally understand the expression, the conveyance of property from one living person to another.

5. As the Bill is, so far as it deals with immoveable property and debts, only a partial measure, we have made the preamble run thus:—"Whereas it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties." Compare the preamble to the Indian Contract Act, IX of 1872.

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

6. In section 2, we have expressly saved all transfers by operation of law (e.g., in case of insolvency, forfeiture, sale in execution of a decree), with which the Bill is not intended to deal.

7. In section 3 we have omitted, as unnecessary, the definitions of "grantor," "grantee," and "grant;" and, for the last paragraph, we have said: "Chapters III, IV, V and VI of this Act shall be taken as part of the Indian Contract Act, 1872."

CHAPTER II.—Of Assurances of Immoveable Property.

8. This chapter should we think be entitled "Of Transfers of Immoveable Property," as it relates to all transfers of such property, whether or not an assurance is employed. We have omitted section 5 and the schedule to which it relates: they do not fitly form part of a Bill dealing with substantive law. Moreover, English experience shews that statutory forms of conveyances are rarely used, and they are dangerous, as tempting unskilled persons to try and be their own conveyancers.

9. Section 6 applies to transfers of immoveable property made by assurance; but it obviously ought to apply also to oral transfers of such property. We have therefore re-drawn it.

10. In section 7, we have provided for the case of a Shâit, which has twice come before the Judicial Committee. (See 14 Beng. 450, and 1 L. R. 2 Cal. 341).

11. As rents and profits of land are 'immoveable property,' we have, after this section, inserted section 1 of Act XI of 1855:—

"No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held the same, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits."

This section now applies only to cases to which the English law is applicable; but there seems no reason why so equitable and useful a rule should not be extended to every one in India.

12. Section 8 of Bill No. III applies not only to cases where land has passed inter vivos by act of parties, but also to cases in which it has been transferred by operation of law. It therefore seems beyond the scope of the Bill.

13. The Bill is silent as to the doctrine of lis pendens, which has in about a dozen reported cases been applied to Native purchasers and mortgagees (see 11 Bom. 24, 29, 30, 139; 8 Beng. 474; 1 O'Kin. 363, 309; 10 W. R. 469; Sev. 808, 951). We have inserted the following:—

"10. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a suit in which the right to any immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred by any party to the suit so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order made therein."

14. Section 9 of Bill No. III (as to the effect of payment by one person, of consideration for which a transfer is made to another) properly belongs to the Trusts Bill, and should, we think, be omitted from the present measure.

CHAPTER III.—Sales of Immoveable Property.

15. In accordance with a suggestion of Mr. Justice Cunningham we have prefixed to this chapter a section founded on section 78 of the Contract Act; but we do not think with him that the section should provide for ~~part delivery~~, an expression which, in the sense in which it is used in the Contract Act, section 92, would be inappropriate as applied to land, nor do we consider that, in stating the time at which delivery takes place, the effect of executing and delivering the assurance should be ignored.

The section referred to is as follows:—

Sale how effected.

"Sale of immoveable property is effected by offer and acceptance of certain immoveable property for a price, or of a price for certain immoveable property,

"together with payment of the price and delivery of the property, or with tender, part-payment or earnest; or with an agreement, express or implied, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed.

"Where there is a contract for the sale of immoveable property, the ownership of the property passes to the buyer when the whole or part of the price, or when the earnest, is paid, or when the property is delivered.

"If the parties agree, expressly or by implication, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed, the ownership passes as soon as the proposal for sale is accepted.

"Delivery of immoveable property takes place—

"(a) if the transfer is made by assurance—when the assurance is executed and delivered by the seller, and (if its registration is required by law) registered :

"(b) if the transfer is not made by assurance, in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing—when the parties consent to its delivery, and in the case of other immoveable property—when the buyer becomes capable of exercising physical control over it and determines to exercise such control on his own behalf or on behalf of the person whom he represents."

This will have the effect of settling a moot point of Hindú law, namely, whether change of possession is necessary to complete a sale of land, whether, in other words, the vendor must, at the time of sale, be in possession of the property sold (I. L. R. 1 Calc. 302 : I. L. R. 1 Bomb. 502 : N. W. P. 1871, p. 2 : contra 7 Bomb. A. C. J. 4 : 10 Bomb. 491). This question is answered in the negative by the Calcutta High Court and Mr. J. D. Mayne, a considerable authority on Hindú law.

16. We have omitted clauses (d) and (i) of section 11 (now 12). The former is, as Mr. Jacob points out, provided for by the Contract Act, section 39 ; the latter by section 10 of the same Act. On the other hand, we have restored clauses (c) and (j) of Bill No. I, modified as follows :—

"Till the ownership of the property passes to the buyer, the seller is entitled to the rents and profits thereof.

"When the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, he must bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or deterioration of the property not caused by the seller, and he is entitled to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property and to the rents and profits thereof."

The latter clause corresponds with the provision of the Contract Act, section 86, as to goods.

17. We have recast and abridged section 10 (now 13) as follows :—

Disclosures required from seller and buyer. "The following omissions are fraudulent :—

"(a) an omission of the seller to disclose to the buyer any defect therein of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover :

"(b) an omission of the buyer of immoveable property to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest therein, of which the buyer is, and the seller is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest."

This will attract section 17, clause (5), of the Contract Act, which declares that "fraud" includes "any such omission as the law specially declares to be fraudulent."

18. As the Bill is now strictly limited to transfers by act of parties, we have omitted section 13, as to the procedure where the buyer becomes insolvent before completion. For the same reason we have also omitted section 73, as to the procedure where, during the continuance of a lease, the lessee becomes insolvent.

19. Section 17 (now 18), as to joint purchases. We have added, as Mr. Field suggests : "In the absence of evidence as to the shares so advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property."

CHAPTER IV.—Of Exchanges.

20. As this chapter deals with moveable as well as immoveable property, we have placed it after the chapter on leases, and we have omitted the first paragraph of section 22, as the matter seems sufficiently provided for by Act IX of 1872, sections 64, 65, and Act I of 1867, sections 25, 37.

CHAPTER V.—Of Mortgages of Immoveable Property.

21. Section 27.—We fear that the abolition of equitable mortgages here proposed by the Law Commissioners would inconvenience the mercantile community. We have thought it better to say that a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds shall be deemed to create a charge on the property comprised therein and to insert the necessary clause in section 68 (now 63).

22. We have provided, in accordance with a suggestion of Mr. Field, that in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagor may recover possession of the property, (1) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the principal and interest of the mortgage-money—when such principal and interest are so paid; (2) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the mortgage-money—when the term (if any) of the mortgage expires and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee, or deposits in such Court as last aforesaid, the principal of the mortgage-money."

23. Section 29 (now 24).—We have here declared the duty of a mortgagor to take all legal means to protect his rights in the mortgaged property (Macph. 112).

24. Section 31 (now 27).—This provided only for voluntary waste. We have now provided that the mortgagor is not liable for permissive waste.

25. Section 42 (now 39), clause (c).—We have added, in order to meet the case of patni tenures and saleable under-tenures, "and any arrears of rent in default of payment of which the property may be summarily sold."

We have provided that a mortgagee in possession ought to do such repairs as he can pay for out of the rents received after his interest is paid (see 9 W. R. 488).

We have omitted clause (e). The right which it gives is, as Mr. Field says, part of the mortgagee's right to take possession, which, as a general rule, finds no place in the Bill.

Where sufficient tender is made, the mortgagee in possession is thenceforth accountable for all his receipts from the mortgaged property (9 N.-W. P. 1: Macph. 159—160). We have provided for this.

26. Section 60 (now 57).—When a mortgagor obtains a decree in a redemption-suit and fails to pay the amount due, we think the mortgagee should be entitled either to a foreclosure or a sale. We have altered this section accordingly.

27. Section 61 (now 58).—We have omitted the second paragraph and the schedule to which it refers. It is hardly the function of a Bill codifying substantive law to give forms of decrees. They should, if necessary, be added to schedule IV of the Code of Civil Procedure.

CHAPTER VI.—Of Leases.

28. Section 70 (now 66).—We have substituted a section analogous to that above proposed as a substitute for section 10.

29. Section 71 (now 65).—We have struck out clauses (c) and (g). The former is superfluous, the latter is provided for by the Contract Act, sections 64 and 73.

Clause (f) now (j).—With reference to Couch, C. J.'s, decision in Koegler v. Fule, 5 Beng. 401, 416, we think this clause should run thus: "The lessee may use the property leased and its products (if any) as a reasonable owner would use them, but he must not use the property for a purpose other than that for which it was leased, or fell timber, open mines or quarries, or commit any other act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto." We have added "The prohibition in this clause does not apply to mines which were open when the lease was granted."—See 8 Chan. Div. 526.

Clause (g) now (o).—We have inserted words in the proviso to shew that the lessor's transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent due before the transfer.

Clause (r) now (p).—We have made (in accordance with a suggestion of the Government of the North-Western Provinces) the second paragraph to run thus: "Nothing in this clause shall be deemed to authorize a tenant having a right of occupancy, the farmer of an estate in respect of which default has been made in paying revenue, and the lessee of an estate under the management of a Court of Wards, to assign his interest as such tenant, farmer or lessee."

30. Section 76 (now 70).—We have completed the list of events on which a lease determines.

31. We have redrawn the clause as to waiver of forfeiture and notice. It is now numbered 71, 72.

32. We have inserted a section (74) as to the effect of surrender and forfeiture of a lease, on sub-lessees.

33. We have made some other comparatively unimportant omissions, additions and alterations in wording and arrangement. We have added on the margins references to the reported decisions of the Indian Courts and the Judicial Committee, which justify the rules contained in the Bill. It will be seen that but few of these rules are devoid of this valuable support. The assertion that the Bill would introduce a mass of new law into India must therefore be due to ignorance of the extent to which English law (under the name of justice, equity and good conscience) is actually administered to the Natives by the Anglo-Indian Courts. The object of the Bill, like that of all our Codes, is to strip our own law of all that is local and historical, and to mould the residue into a shape in which it would be suitable for an Indian population and could be easily administered by non-professional Judges. But the Bill will introduce hardly any new substantive law, and it will not (except in the case of the procedure relating to mortgages) displace any existing enactment. The rules, for instance, as to the relation of landlord and tenant contained in the local Acts, X of 1859, XVIII of 1873, XIX of 1868, XXVIII of 1868, Bengal Act VIII of 1869, and Madras Act VIII of 1865, will all remain untouched.

34. To the body of local usages and contractual incidents which in India, as in other countries, exists as to the transfer of land the tenderest care is shewn by the Bill. Not only is local usage expressly saved in sections 62, 65 and 68, but the effect of section 1, clause (a), will be to maintain intact the statutory force which the legislature has given to local usage in those two pay de coutumes* the Panjáb and Oudh; and throughout India all the many incidents of a mortgage or a lease, which are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Bill, will remain wholly unaffected.

35. The Bill and preliminary report of the Select Committee have been published in English in the Presidency-towns, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces and British Burma. From the North-Western Provinces no report of publication has been received. Publication of the Bill and Report in the vernacular has been reported only by the Government of Bengal. We recommend that the Bill as now altered be published in the Gazette of India and sent to the various Local Governments for opinion. And we think that no further steps should be taken upon the Bill until it has been reported on by the new Indian Law Commission.

CALCUTTA ;
The 19th February, 1879. }

I concur in all the omissions and amendments made by the Committee and in their final recommendation; but I believe the Bill to be capable of further simplification, and regret to notice the almost entire absence of illustrations.

T. H. THORNTON.

I have not had time to consider either the provisions of the Bill or the changes now made thoroughly; but I agree that the chapters on Powers, Settlements, &c., should be omitted, and think these omissions necessitate republication with a view to elicit fresh criticism to be laid before the new Commission.

I would modify the new section 11 by requiring a written instrument in all cases where the value of the property sold is Rs. 100 or upwards. This will involve registration and get rid of the inconvenience and anomaly which would arise from oral sales of valuable land with deferred possession and no registration. Subject to the above remarks, I approve of the additions now made to the Bill.

G. H. P. EVANS.

I concur in all the omissions and agree that there should be a further publication.

G. C. PAUL.

I am opposed to the republication of this Bill at the present time. I believe that there is a great deal still left in the Bill which it will be desirable to omit, as relating to matters on which legislation is not called for; and I think that there should be no further publication until the Law Commission have reported on the measure.

A. J. ARBUTHNOT.

I am inclined to think that there can be no harm in republishing the Bill in its present form (though I must say that I believe it admits of further improvement), inasmuch as the republication will elicit public criticisms which may be of some use to the Law Commission.

SCHEDULE.—Repeal of Enactments.

No. III.

A Bill to amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property by act of Parties.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Transfer of Property Act, 1879."

It extends to the whole of British India; And it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1880.

2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof. But nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect—

(a) the provisions of any enactment not hereby expressly repealed; (b) any incidents of any contract which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act;

(c) any right or liability acquired or incurred before this Act comes into force, or any remedy in respect of any such right or liability;

(d) the right to anything affixed to the soil by the lessee under any lease granted before this Act comes into force;

(e) any right of pre-emption acquired after this Act comes into force;

(f) any transfer by operation of law.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"assurance" means any non-testamentary instrument which purports or operates to create, transfer, or otherwise dispose of, whether in present or in future, any right, title or interest, whether vested or contingent, to or in immoveable property;

"registered" means registered in British India under the law for the time being in force regulating the registration of documents;

"attached to the earth" means—

(a) imbedded in the earth, as in the case of walls;

(b) permanently resting upon it, as in the case of buildings; or

(c) attached to what is so imbedded or so rests, as by means of nails, bolts, screws, cement, solder or other permanent fastening.

4. Chapters III, IV, V and VI of this Act shall be construed as one with the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

CHAPTER II.

OF TRANSFERS OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

5. Every person competent to contract may make a transfer of immoveable property; but subject to the law for the time being in force as to the circumstances and extent in and to which he may dispose of such property.

6. Unless a different intention is expressed or necessarily implied, a transfer of immoveable property vests in the transferee all the interest which the transferor is then capable of passing therein and in the legal incidents thereof.

Such incidents include (where the property is land) the easements annexed thereto, the mines and minerals thereunder, and the standing trees, and all other products of the soil, and (where the property is machinery attached to the earth) the moveable parts thereof, and (where the property is a house) the easements annexed thereto and its locks, keys, bars, doors, windows, pankhas, half-doors, mats and blinds.

7. The transferor of immoveable property cannot give to another a title thereto better than his own, and where he has only a restricted power of alienating the property, he cannot give to another a title thereto valid as against third parties, except upon an alienation within the restriction:

Provided that where the transferor is (a) the manager of the property of a minor, an undivided family, or an endowed temple, (b) a soulless Hindu widow in possession of her deceased husband's property, or (c) a trustee, benāmidār or other ostensible owner, the transferee's title shall not be impeached if the transfer has been made for a consideration and the transferee has acted in good faith and used due care and diligence to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer.

8. No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held the same, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits.

9. Where undivided immovable property is held in possession by co-owners and one of them transfers his share or any interest therein, the transferee takes the share or interest subject to the right of the other co-owners to enforce a partition of the property; and when such partition is effected, the right of the transferee as such, in the absence of a contract to the contrary by the co-owners, extends only to the share allotted to himself or to his transferor.

10. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India, or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a suit in which the right to any immovable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred by any party to the suit so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order therein.

11. Sale of immovable property is effected by offer and acceptance of certain immovable property for a price, or of a price for certain immovable property, together with payment of the price and delivery of the property, or with tender, part-payment or earnest; or with an agreement, express or implied, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed.

Where there is a contract for the sale of immovable property, the ownership of the property passes to the buyer when the whole or part of the price, or when the earnest, is paid, or when the property is delivered.

If the parties agree, expressly or by implication, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed, the ownership passes as soon as the proposal for sale is accepted.

Delivery of immovable property takes place—

(a) if the transfer is made by assurance—when the assurance is executed and delivered by the seller, and (if its registration is required by law) registered :

(b) if the transfer is not made by assurance, in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing—when the parties consent to the delivery, and in the case of other immovable property—when the buyer becomes capable of exercising physical control over it and determines to exercise such control on his own behalf or on behalf of the person whom he represents.

12. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the buyer and the seller of immovable property respectively have the rights, and are subject to the liabilities, mentioned in the ten rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property sold :

(a). The seller must produce to the buyer, for examination, all documents of title relating to the property which are in his possession or power, and must inform the buyer of all facts not apparent thereon of which the seller is aware and which affect the seller's power to fulfil his contract, and must answer to the best of his information all relevant questions put to him by the buyer in respect to the property or the title thereto.

(b). Till the ownership of the property passes to the buyer, the seller is entitled to the rents and profits thereof.

(c). When the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, he must bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or decrease in value of the property not caused by the seller, and he is entitled to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property, and to the rents and profits thereof.

(d). When the buyer has been let into possession of the property before payment of the whole of the purchase-money, the seller has a charge upon the property for the amount of the purchase-money, or any part thereof, remaining unpaid, and for interest on such amount or part; but as soon as the assurance, if any, is registered, such charge shall cease except as against the buyer.

(e). Unless the buyer has improperly declined to accept delivery of the property, he has, against the seller, a charge on the property, to the extent of the seller's interest therein, for the amount of any purchase-money properly paid by the buyer in anticipation of the delivery, and for interest on the amount of such payment; and, when the buyer properly declines to accept the delivery, also for the earnest (if any) and for his costs (if any) of a suit by himself or the seller to compel specific performance of the contract or to obtain a decree for its rescission.

(f). When the buyer has been let into beneficial possession of the property before payment of the price, and the price is not paid owing to defects in the seller's title, the buyer is not liable to pay for such possession.

(g). The seller must discharge all incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the contract. The buyer may retain, out of the unpaid purchase-money, the amount of such incumbrances, and shall pay the amount so retained to the parties entitled thereto.

(h). On payment or tender of the amount due in respect of the price, the seller is bound to execute a proper assurance of the property when the buyer tenders it to him for execution at a proper time and place.

(i). On delivery of the property, the buyer is entitled to all documents of title relating thereto which are in the seller's possession or power :

Provided that (1) where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (2) where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (1) the seller, and in case (2) the buyer of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, or by any person claiming under him, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof as he may require; and, in the meantime, the seller or the buyer, as the case may be, of the lot of greatest value, must keep the said documents safe, uncancelled and undefaced, unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident.

41 (1) altered. (j). Unless the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, the seller shall be deemed to contract with the buyer, W. R. 196: 6 R. 152: 25 W.

first, that notwithstanding anything done by the seller or any person through whom he claims, the seller has power to transfer the property to the buyer, free from incumbrances;

secondly, that the seller and all persons claiming any interest in the same through or for him, or any person through whom he claims, will on demand execute and deliver to the buyer at his expense any further assurance of the same that may reasonably be required;

and, where the property is leasehold, thirdly, that the lease is valid and subsisting and that the rent reserved thereby, the conditions contained therein and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid, performed and observed down to the delivery.

When the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, the seller shall be deemed to contract with the buyer that the seller has done no act whereby the property is incumbered or whereby he is hindered from transferring it.

10. Disclosures required from seller and buyer. 13. The following omissions are fraudulent:—

(a) an omission of the seller of immoveable property to disclose to the buyer any defect therein of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover;

(b) an omission of the buyer of immoveable property to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest therein, of which the buyer is, and the seller is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest.

12: 15: 18. 14. A contract for, or relating to, the sale of immoveable property, shall not of itself have the effect of creating any interest in, or charge on, such property; but the only right of any person under the contract shall be to apply for specific performance, or for compensation, or for both, according to the rules laid down in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, and the Specific Relief Act, 1877.

15. As between the seller and buyer of leasehold property, the Liability of buyer of leasehold. buyer is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, bound to pay the rent reserved by the lease and accruing due after delivery of the property, to perform the contracts entered into by the lessee, and to indemnify the seller against all claims arising after the delivery in respect of non-payment of such rent or breach or non-observance of such contracts.

16. As between the seller and buyer of a right to redeem mortgaged property, the Liability of buyer of right to redeem. buyer is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, bound (a) to pay to the mortgagee the principal sum which, on delivery of the right, is due on the mortgage, and all interest from time to time due for the same, when payment thereof, respectively, is lawfully demanded, and (b) to indemnify the seller against the payment thereof, and against all claims for non-payment thereof, respectively.

17. If at the date of the contract the property is insured against loss or damage by fire, the buyer, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the seller actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in reinstating the property.

Money received by seller under fire-policy. by fire, the buyer, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the seller actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in reinstating the property.

18. When two or more persons purchase any immoveable property, with separate funds

Joint purchases. belonging to them respectively, they shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be interested in such property in proportion to the shares of the purchase-money which they respectively advanced.

In the absence of evidence as to the shares so advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property.

19. When two properties are subject to a common charge, and one of the properties is sold, the buyer is, as against the seller, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to have the charge satisfied out of the other property, so far as such property will extend.

Right of buyer of one of two properties subject to common charge. sold, the buyer is, as against the seller, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to have the charge satisfied out of the other property, so far as such property will extend.

20. When any property is sold, the proceeds of which are subject to any trust, the buyer in good faith of the property is not bound to see to the application of the purchase-money to the purposes of the trust nor is he answerable for the misapplication of such money. 21. When, for the purpose of securing money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan or an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement, one person transfers to another a right over specific immoveable property, the transfer is called a mortgage of immoveable property, the transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee, the money of which payment is secured is called the mortgage-money, and the assurance by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

For the purposes of this chapter, any person entitled as heir, legatee, assignee, lessee or otherwise than as a mortgagee to the interest of the transferor in the property subject to the mortgage, or any part of such interest, is a mortgagor; and any person entitled as heir, legatee, assignee or otherwise to the interest of the transferee under the mortgage, or any part thereof, is a mortgagee.

5 Beng. 393 :
5 W. R. 230.

Where the mortgagor transfers the property to the mortgagee with a proviso that, upon payment of the mortgage-money at a certain date, the property shall be retransferred, the transaction is called a mortgage in the English form.

Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the property to the mortgagee, and authorizes him to retain such possession and to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the interest, or the mortgage-money and interest, or to take such rents and profits in lieu of interest, or of the mortgage-money and interest, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage.

Macph. 10, 12.

Where the mortgagor binds himself personally to repay the mortgage-money, and pledges the property as collateral security for the repayment, but does not contract that, on default of payment of the mortgage-money and interest at a certain date, the property shall pass to the mortgagee, the transaction is called a simple mortgage.

Macph. 11, 12

Where the mortgagor not so binding himself, contracts that, on default of payment of the mortgage-money and interest at a certain date, the property shall pass to the mortgagee, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale.

22. A mortgage can be effected only by assurance signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses.

Right of mortgagor to redeem, tender or deposit.

23. A mortgagor has the following rights against the mortgagee :—

(a) at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable, or has been paid, the mortgagor has a right on payment or tender, at a proper time and place, of the mortgage-money and interest remaining due on the mortgage, to require the mortgagee to re-transfer the mortgaged property to him, or to execute an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of his ownership or other interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished :

Provided that the mortgagee has not obtained an order absolute foreclosing such right, or that such right has not been after the date of the mortgage released or otherwise extinguished, or that the property has not been duly sold in pursuance of a decree or under a power given by the mortgage-deed.

The right conferred by this clause is called a right to redeem and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption :

(b) at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable and before such suit is barred, the mortgagor may deposit in any Court in which he might have instituted a suit for redemption of the mortgaged property, to the account of the mortgagee, the mortgage-money and interest remaining due on the mortgage :

(c) in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, he may recover possession of the property (1) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the mortgage-money and interest thereof,—when such money and interest are so paid, (2) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the mortgage-money,—when the term (if any) of the mortgage expires and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee the mortgage-money, or deposits it in such Court as last aforesaid.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize a person interested in part only of the mortgaged property to institute a suit for the redemption of his own part only, on payment of a proportionate part of the amount remaining due on the mortgage, except where there is but one mortgagee and the mortgagor's interest in part of the property becomes vested in such mortgagee, in which case the person interested may institute such suit.

24. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagor shall be deemed to contract with the mortgagee, first, that the mortgagor has power to grant the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, free from incumbrances ;

forfeiture of N.-W. P. p. 128. and, where the property is leasehold, fourthly, that the lease is valid and subsisting, that the rent reserved thereby, the conditions contained therein, and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid,

- performed and observed down to the execution of the mortgage-deed; and that the mortgagor will, so long as the security exists, pay the rent reserved by the lease, perform the conditions contained therein and observe the contracts binding on the lessee and indemnify the mortgagee against all claims sustained by reason of the non-payment of the said rent or the non-performance or non-observance of the said conditions and contracts.

369: 11 25. If after the date of the mortgage any accessions are made to the mortgaged property, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, and subject to the law relating to alluvion for the time being in force, be entitled to such accessions.

Illustration.

369, 371, N.-W. P. 281. A mortgages to B a field the trees on which are the property of Government. B enters into possession of the field and as occupant thereof buys the trees. A redeems the field. He is entitled to the trees.

30. 26. Where the mortgaged property is a lease for a term of years, and the mortgagee, while in possession of the property, obtains a renewal of the lease, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, have the benefit of the new lease.

27. A mortgagor in possession of the mortgaged property is not liable to the mortgagee for allowing the property to deteriorate; but he must not commit any act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto, if the security is insufficient or will be rendered insufficient by such act.

Explanation.—A security is insufficient within the meaning of this section unless the value of the mortgaged property exceeds by one-third, or, if consisting of buildings, exceeds by one-half, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage.

2. 28. A mortgagor proposing to make a second or other subsequent mortgage of the mortgaged property shall, before effecting the mortgage, give the second or other subsequent mortgagee notice in writing under his hand of the prior mortgage or mortgages, and a mortgagor effecting a second or other subsequent mortgage of the mortgaged property shall, as soon as may be, give the prior mortgagee or mortgagees like notice of such mortgage.

A mortgagor failing to give any notice required by this section shall, when the accounts are taken in pursuance of a decree made under this chapter, be debited with the loss, if any, occasioned by such failure, in addition to any other liability resulting therefrom.

29. If the owner of two or more properties creates separate mortgages on them by separate assurances, each mortgage may be dealt with irrespectively of the other, though the mortgages are created in favour of the same mortgagee.

Illustration.

A, the owner of farms Z and Y, mortgages Z to B for Rs. 1,000. A afterwards mortgages Y to B for Rs. 1,000, making no stipulation as to any additional charge on Z. A may institute a suit for the redemption of the mortgage on Z alone.

Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagee.

30. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagee may, at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable to him, and before a decree has been made for the redemption of the mortgaged property, or the mortgage-money has been paid, institute against the mortgagor (1) a suit for a declaration that he has lost his right to redeem the property, or (2) a suit for a sale of the property.

A suit for a declaration that a mortgagor has lost his right to redeem the mortgaged property is called a suit for foreclosure.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed—

(a) to authorize a simple mortgagee to institute a suit for foreclosure, or an usufructuary mortgagee to institute a suit for foreclosure or sale, or a conditional mortgagee to institute a suit for sale;

(b) to authorize a mortgagor who has become a trustee of the mortgaged property or legal representative of the mortgagee, to institute a suit for foreclosure;

(c) to authorize the mortgagee of a railway, canal or other work in the maintenance of which the public are interested, to institute a suit for foreclosure or sale or

(d) to authorize a person interested in part only of the mortgage-money to institute a suit relating only to a corresponding part of the mortgaged property: but he may institute any suit which, under this Act, he is authorized to institute, relating to the whole of the mortgaged property, making the other mortgagees, if they cannot or will not join as plaintiffs, defendants.

31. When the mortgagor deposits money in Court under section twenty-three, and pays the fee leviable for the service next hereinafter mentioned, the Court shall forthwith cause written notice of the deposit to be served on the mortgagee, and the mortgagee may, on depositing the mortgage-deed in the same Court and on filing a written statement (verified in manner prescribed by law for the verification of plaints) of the amount then due on the mortgage, apply for and receive in payment of such amount the money so deposited.

Bill II, s. 36 :
Bill, s. 28, usufructuary mortgage, 10 W. R. 251.

32. Where the mortgagor and mortgagee have contracted as to the payment of interest on the mortgage-money, interest shall be payable in accordance with such contract.

Where no such contract has been entered into, the mortgagee is entitled to interest on such money at the rate of six per cent. per annum :

9 N.-W. P. 1. Macph. 159, 160.

Provided that, when the mortgagor has tendered or deposited in Court under section twenty-three, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage, interest on the mortgage-money shall cease from the date of the tender or from the earliest time when the mortgagee could take such amount out of Court, as the case may be.

In any suit for foreclosure or sale, the Court may, if it think fit, appoint such a receiver pending the proceedings in the suit, unless the mortgagee is already in possession of the mortgaged property.

Bill II, s. 40.

36. If, at the date of the mortgage, the mortgaged property is insured against loss or damage by fire, the mortgagee, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of an express contract to the contrary, require any money which the mortgagor actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be laid out in reinstating the property.

37. If, after the date of the mortgage, any accession is made to the mortgaged property, the mortgagee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, and subject to the law relating to alluvion or the time being in force, shall, for the purposes of the security, be entitled to such accession.

Accession to mortgaged property.

Illustrations.

(a) A mortgages to B a certain field bordering on a river. The field is increased by alluvion. For the purposes of his security, B is entitled to the increase.

(b) A mortgages a certain plot of building-land to B and afterwards erects a house on the plot. For the purposes of his security, B is entitled to the house as well as the plot.

38. When the mortgaged property is a lease for a term of years, and the mortgagor while in possession of the property, obtains a renewal of the lease, the mortgagee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, shall, for the purposes of the security, be entitled to the new lease.

39. When, during the continuance of the mortgage, the mortgagee takes possession of the mortgaged property, he has the following rights and liabilities :—

(a) he shall manage the property as a person of ordinary prudence would manage it if it were his own ;

(b) he shall use his best endeavours to collect the rents and profits thereof ;

(c) he shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, out of the income of the property pay the Government revenue, all other charges of a public nature accruing and any arrears of rent in default of payment of which the property may be summarily sold ;

(d) he shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, make such necessary repairs of the property as he can pay for out of the rents and profits thereof after deducting from such rents and profits the payments mentioned in clause (c), and the interest on the mortgage-money ;

(e) he may spend such money as is necessary (1) for the due management of the property and the collection of the rents and profits thereof, (2) for its preservation from destruction, forfeiture or sale, (3) for supporting the mortgagor's title to the property, (b) for making his own title thereto good against the mortgagor, and (b), when the mortgaged property is a renewable leasehold, for the renewal of the lease ; and may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, add such money to the mortgage-money, at the same rate of interest ;

(f) where the property is by its nature insurable at ordinary rates, he may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, insure and keep insured against loss or damage by fire the whole or any part of such property, and add the premiums paid for any such insurance to the mortgage-money at the same rate of interest; and, in case of such loss or damage, shall apply any money which he may actually receive under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, in reinstating the property;

(h) his receipts from the mortgaged property, or, where such property is personally occupied by him, a fair occupation-rent in respect thereof, shall, after deducting the expenses mentioned in clauses (c), (d), (e) and (f), and interest thereon, be debited against him in reduction of the amount (if any) from time to time due to him on account of interest on the mortgage-money and, so far as such receipts exceed any interest due, in reduction or discharge of the mortgage-money. The surplus, if any, shall be paid to the mortgagor;

59, 160.

(i) when the mortgagor tenders, or deposits in court under section twenty-three, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage, the mortgagee must, notwithstanding the provisions in the other clauses of this section, account for his gross receipts from the mortgaged property from the date of the tender or from the earliest time when he could take such amount out of court, as the case may be.

62.

If the mortgagee fail to perform any of the duties imposed upon him by this section, he may, when accounts are taken in pursuance of a decree made under this chapter, be debited with the loss, if any, occasioned by such failure.

40. Nothing in section thirty-nine, clauses (g) and (h), applies to cases where there is a contract in writing between the mortgagee and the mortgagor that the receipts from the mortgaged property after deducting the said expenses, shall, so long as the mortgagee is in possession of the property, be taken in lieu of interest on the mortgage money.

43. Any second or other subsequent mortgagee may, at any time before a sale of the mortgaged property has taken place under this chapter, tender to the next prior mortgagee the amount due to him on account of his mortgage. Such mortgagee is bound to accept such tender and to give a receipt for the sum due, and on such receipt being registered, the person making the tender shall acquire, in respect of the property, all the rights and powers of the mortgagee, as such, to whom he has made such tender.

Priority.

44. Where, through the fraud or gross postponement of prior neglect of a prior mortgagee, another person has been induced to advance money on the security of the mortgaged property, the prior mortgagee shall be postponed to the subsequent mortgagee.

A mortgages Sultānpur to his bankers, B & Co., to secure the balance of his account with them to the extent of Rs. 10,000. A then mortgages Sultānpur to C, to secure Rs. 10,000; and C gives notice thereof to B & Co. At the date of the second mortgage, the balance due to B & Co. does not exceed Rs. 5,000. B & Co. subsequently advance to A sums making the balance of the account against him exceed the sum of Rs. 10,000. B & Co. are entitled, to the extent of Rs. 10,000, to priority over C.

46. No mortgagee paying off a prior mortgage, whether with or without notice of an intermediate mortgage, shall thereby acquire any priority in respect of his original security. And, except in the case provided for by section forty-five, no mortgagee making a subsequent advance to the mortgagor, whether with or without notice of an intermediate mortgage, shall thereby acquire any priority in respect of his security for such subsequent advance.

49. Subject to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, section 437, all persons having an interest either in the right of redemption or in the security ought to be joined as parties to any suit under this chapter, and the first or any subsequent mortgagee who institutes a suit for foreclosure or sale ought to make every mortgagee and other incumbrancer whose security is subsequent to his own, a party to the suit.

Foreclosure and Sale.

Bill II, sec. 53:
Bill, s. 19.

50. In a suit for foreclosure, if the plaintiff succeeds, the Court shall pass a decree, ordering that an account be taken of what will be due to the plaintiff for principal and interest on the mortgage and for his costs of the suit, on the day next hereinafter referred to, or declaring the amount so due at the date of such decree, and ordering that, upon the defendant paying to the plaintiff or into court the amount so due, on a day within six months from the date of declaring in court the amount so due, to be fixed by the Court, the plaintiff shall deliver up to the defendant, or to such person as he appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall transfer the mortgaged property to the defendant free from all incumbrances created by the plaintiff or any person claiming under him, or, where the plaintiff claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims; and shall, if necessary, put the defendant into possession of the mortgaged property; but that, if such payment is not made on or before such day, the defendant shall be absolutely foreclosed of all right to redeem such property.

Bill II, sec. 54.

51. If payment is so made of such amount and of such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section fifty-nine, the defendant shall (if necessary) be put into possession of the mortgaged property.

If such payment is not so made, the plaintiff may apply to the Court for an order absolute for the foreclosure of the said mortgage, and the Court shall then pass an order absolute that the defendant be foreclosed of all right to redeem the mortgaged property, and may, if necessary, deliver possession of the property to the plaintiff; and thereupon the defendant's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished;

W. R. 91.

Provided that the Court may, upon good cause shewn, from time to time postpone the day appointed for such payment.

In the Code of Civil Procedure, schedule IV, No. 129, for the words "Final Decree," the words "Order absolute" shall be substituted.

52. In a suit for a sale under this chapter, if the plaintiff succeeds, the Court shall, and in any other suit by the mortgagee under this chapter, if the plaintiff succeeds, the Court may, at his instance, pass a decree ordering as provided in the first and second paragraphs of section fifty and also ordering that, in default of the defendant making payment as therein mentioned, the mortgaged property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale (after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale) be paid into Court and applied in payment of what is so found due to the plaintiff and that the balance, if any, be paid to the defendant or other persons entitled to receive the same.

security, if any, as the Court thinks sufficient for the payment of the balance due for the time being by him on the mortgage, the Court may, at the instance of the defendant, pass a like decree.

Any decree under this section may also direct the defendant to pay any balance remaining due to the plaintiff upon the mortgage after the proceeds of sale have been dealt with as above provided.

53. If in any case under section fifty-two, the defendant makes payment as mentioned in section fifty-one, he shall (if necessary) be put in possession of the mortgaged property; but if such payment is not so made, the plaintiff or the defendant, as the case may be, may apply to the Court for an order absolute for sale of the mortgaged property, and the Court shall then pass an order that such property, or a sufficient part thereof, be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale be dealt with as is mentioned in section fifty-two; and thereupon the defendant's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished.

55. Besides the mortgagor, any of the Bill II, s. 1 following persons may institute a suit for redemption of the mortgaged property:—

(a) any person (other than the mortgagee) having any interest in or charge upon the property;

(b) any person having any interest in or charge upon the right to redeem the property;

(c) any surety for the payment of the mortgage-debt or any part thereof;

ordering that an account be taken of what will be due to the defendant for principal and interest on the mortgage, and for his costs of the suit, on the day next hereinafter referred to, or declaring the amount so due at the date of such decree ; and ordering that upon the plaintiff paying to the defendant or into court the amount so due on a day within six months from the date of declaring in court the amount so due, to be fixed by the Court, the defendant shall deliver up to the plaintiff, or to such person as he appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall (if such property has been transferred to the defendant) re-transfer it to the plaintiff free from the mortgage and from all incumbrances created by the defendant or any person claiming under him, or when the defendant claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims, and shall, if necessary, put the plaintiff into possession of the mortgaged property ; but that if such payment is not made on or before such day, the plaintiff shall be absolutely foreclosed of all right to redeem such property.

II, s. 60.

57. If payment is made of such amount and of such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section fifty-nine, the plaintiff shall, if necessary, be put into possession of the mortgaged property.

If such payment is not so made, the defendant may apply to the Court for an order absolute either for the foreclosure of the said right to redeem, or for a sale of the mortgaged property.

If he apply for an order for foreclosure, the Court shall pass an order absolute ordering the plaintiff to be foreclosed of all right to redeem the mortgaged property, and may, if necessary, deliver possession of the property to the defendant.

If he apply for an order for sale, the Court shall pass an order that such property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale (after defraying thereon the expenses of the sale) be paid into Court and applied in payment of what is found due to the defendant and that the balance be paid to the plaintiff or other persons entitled to receive the same.

On the passing of any order under this section the plaintiff's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished :

Provided that the Court may upon good cause shewn, from time to time, postpone the day fixed under section fifty-six for payment of the amount due.

Redemption and Foreclosure.

58. When property is mortgaged for successive debts to successive mortgagees, any mesne mortgagee may institute a suit to redeem the interests of the prior mortgagees and to foreclose the rights of those that are posterior to himself and of the mortgagor.

Costs.

59. In finally adjusting the amount to be paid to a mortgagee in case of a redemption or a sale by the Court under this chapter, the Court shall, unless the conduct of the mortgagee has been such as to disentitle him to costs, add to the mortgage-money such costs of suit as have been properly incurred by him since the decree for foreclosure, redemption or sale up to the time of actual payment.

Sale of Property subject to prior mortgage.

60. If any property the sale of which is directed under this chapter is subject to a prior mortgage, the Court may, with the consent of the prior mortgagee, order that the property be sold free from the same, giving to such prior mortgagee the same interest in the proceeds of the sale as he had in the property sold.

61. Such proceeds shall be brought into court and applied as follows :—

first, in payment of all expenses incident to the sale or properly incurred in any attempted sale ;

secondly, if the property has been sold free from any prior mortgage, in payment of whatever is due on account of such mortgage ;

thirdly, in payment of all interest due on account of the mortgage in consequence whereof the sale was directed, and of the costs of the suit in which the decree directing the sale was made ;

fourthly, in payment of the principal money due on account of that mortgage ; and fifthly, the residue (if any) shall be paid to the person proving himself to be interested in the property sold, or if there be more such persons than one, then to such persons according to their respective interests therein or upon their joint receipt.

Anomalous Mortgages.

62. In the case of a mortgage not coming within any of the definitions contained in section twenty-one, the rights and liabilities of the parties shall be determined by their contract as evidenced in the mortgage-deed, and, so far as such contract does not extend, by local usage : Provided that, in the absence of an express contract to the contrary, the mortgaged property shall be deemed to be the only security for payment of the mortgage money.

Charges.

63. If by any assurance other than a mortgage-deed, or by any will, or under the provisions of this or any other Act, or by operation of law, certain immoveable property of one person is made security for the payment of certain money to another, the latter person is said to have a charge on the property; and all the provisions hereinbefore applied to a mortgagor shall, so far as may be, apply to the owner of such property, and all the provisions hereinbefore applied to a mortgagee instituting a suit for the sale of the mortgaged property shall, so far as may be, apply to the person having such charge.

The delivery by a debtor to the creditor or his agent, of documents of title relating to property, with intent to create a security thereon, shall be deemed to create a charge on such property in favour of the creditor for the amount of the debt.

Nothing in this section applies to the charge of a trustee on the trust-property for expenses properly incurred in the execution of his trust.

64. Where a person is or becomes absolutely entitled to immoveable property, of a charge or other incumbrance on which he is also the owner, the charge or incumbrance shall be extinguished, unless he declares, by express words or necessary implication, that it shall continue to subsist, or unless such continuance would be for his benefit.

CHAPTER V.

OF LEASES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

65. In the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, the lessor and the lessee of immoveable property, as against one another, respectively possess the rights and are subject to the liabilities mentioned in the sixteen rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property leased:—

(a.) The lessor is bound on the lessee's request to put him in possession of the property leased:

(b.) The lessor shall be deemed to contract with the lessee that the latter paying the rent reserved by the lease and performing the contracts binding on the lessee may hold the property leased during the time limited by the lease without interruption by the lessor or his transferees, or any person lawfully claiming through him or them:

(c.) The lessee is entitled to the enjoyment of all easements annexed to the property leased at the time when the lease was made until the lease determines or such easements are extinguished, whichever event first happens:

(d.) The lessee is bound to keep, and on the termination of the lease to restore, the property leased in as good condition as it was in at the time when he was put in possession, subject only to reasonable wear and tear, and to allow the lessor and his agents, at all reasonable times during the term, to enter into the property leased and inspect the condition thereof, and to give or leave notice of any defect in such condition and to make good all such defects within three months after such notice has been given or left:

(e.) If during the continuance of the lease any accession is made to the property leased, such accession (subject to the law relating to alluvion for the time being in force) shall be deemed to be comprised in the lease:

(f.) If by fire, tempest or flood, or violence of an army or of a mob, or other superior force, any part of the property leased be wholly destroyed or rendered substantially unfit for the purposes for which it was let, the lease shall be void as to that part, and any rent or fine payable under the lease shall proportionately abate, and a proportionate part of any fine paid by the lessee shall be returned by the lessor:

If the injury be occasioned by the wrongful act or default of either party, such party shall not be entitled to avail himself of the benefit of this provision:

(g.) If the lessor neglects to make, within a reasonable time after notice, repairs which he is bound to make to the property leased, the lessee may make the same himself, and deduct the expense of such repairs with interest from the rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(h.) If the lessor neglects to make any payment which he is bound to make, and which, if not made by him, is recoverable from the lessee or against the property leased, the lessee may make such payment himself, and deduct it from his rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(i.) Every lessee who becomes aware of any proceeding to recover the property leased or any part thereof, or of any encroachment made upon, or any interference with, the lessor's rights concerning such property, is bound to give notice thereof to the lessor with reasonable diligence; and, in default of so doing, he is liable to make compensation to the lessor for any loss or expenses occasioned by such omission:

(j.) The lessee may use the property leased and its products (if any) as a reasonable owner would use them; but he must not use the property for a purpose other than that for which it was leased, or fell timber, pull down or damage houses, open mines or quarries, or commit any other act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto.

The prohibition in this clause does not apply to mines which were open when the lease was granted:

(k.) No lessee shall, without the lessor's consent, erect on the property leased any permanent structure, except for agricultural purposes; and no such lessee who erects thereon any building, engine or machinery for agricultural purposes shall remove the same without first giving to the lessor or his agent ~~25~~ month's previous notice in writing of his intention so to do, and thereupon the lessor or his agent may elect to purchase the thing so proposed to be removed, and the lessee's right to remove the same shall thereby cease, and the same shall belong to the lessor, and the value thereof shall in case of dispute be ascertained and determined by two referees, one to be chosen by each party, or by an umpire to be named by such referees, and shall be paid or allowed in account by the lessor:

(l.) Subject to the provisions of clause (k), the lessee has a right to remove, at any time during his possession of the property leased, all things which he has affixed to the soil: but he is liable to make compensation to the lessor for all damage caused to the property by such removal:

(m.) On the determination of the lease, the lessee is bound to put the lessor into possession of the property leased:

(b) an omission of the lessee of immoveable property to disclose to the lessor any fact as to the nature or extent of the lessor's interest therein, of which the lessee is, and the lessor is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest.

I, s. 72.

67. A tenancy begins when the lessee enters, under the lease, into possession of the property leased, and until he so enters, he cannot sue for compensation for an unlawful entry thereon.

68. In the absence of a contract in writing or local usage to the contrary, a lease of immoveable property for purposes of cultivation shall be a lease from year to year terminable on the part of either lessor or lessee, by six months' notice expiring with the end of a year of the tenancy ; and a lease of immoveable property for any other purpose shall be a lease from month to month, terminable, on the part of either lessor or lessee, by fifteen days' notice expiring with the end of a month of the tenancy.

Every notice under this section must be in writing signed by or on behalf of the party giving it and tendered or delivered to the party who is intended to be bound by it, or affixed on a conspicuous part of the property.

69. Where the time limited by a lease of immoveable property is expressed as commencing from a particular day, in computing that time such day shall be excluded. Where no day of commencement is named, the time so limited begins from the making of the lease.

Exclusion of day on which term commences.

Where the time so limited is a year or a number of years, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, the lease shall last during the whole anniversary of the day from which such time commences.

Duration of lease for a number of years, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, the lease shall last during the whole anniversary of the day from which such time commences.

Where the time so limited is expressed to be determinable before its expiration at the option of the parties or one of them, the lessee, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, shall have such option.

Option to determine lease.

70. A lease of immoveable property determined by—

(a) by efflux of the time limited thereby :
(b) where such time is limited conditionally on the happening of some event—by the happening of such event :

(c) where the lessor can only alienate for his own life the property leased—by the death of the lessor :

(d) where the lessor holds the property leased for the term of the life of another person—by the death of such person :

(e) on the expiration of a notice to determine the lease duly given in pursuance of a power therein contained :

(f) in case the interests of the lessee and the lessor in the whole of the property leased become vested at the same time in one person in the same right :

(g) by express surrender, that is to say, in case the lessee yields up his interest under the lease to the lessor, by mutual agreement between them :

(h) by implied surrender, that is to say, in case the lessee accepts from the lessor a new lease of the property leased, to take effect during the continuance of the existing lease :

(i) by forfeiture, that is to say, (1) in case the lessee breaks an express condition which provides that, on breach thereof, the lessor may re-enter, or the lease shall become void ; or (2) in case the lessee renounces his character as such by setting up a title in a third person or by claiming title in himself, and in either case the lessor or his transferee does some act evidencing his intention to determine the lease :

74. The surrender, express or implied, of a lease of immoveable property does not prejudice an under-lease of the property or any part thereof previously granted by the lessee: but, unless the surrender is made for the purpose of obtaining a new lease, the rent payable by, and the contracts binding on, the under-lessee shall be respectively payable to, and enforceable by, the lessor.

The forfeiture of such a lease annuls all such under-leases.

[First Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th March, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 4 OF 1879.

A Bill to amend the Presidency Banks Act, 1876.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Presidency Banks Act, 1876, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

1. This Act may be called "The Presidency Banks Act, 1879;" and it shall come into force on the first day of May, 1879.

Short title.

Commencement.

2. To the first clause of section 28 of the Presidency Banks Act, 1876, the following proviso shall be added, that is to say:

Amendment of Act XI of 1876, section 28.

"Provided that no person shall be chosen to be President or Vice-President twice in succession."

3. In the same Act, section 34, before the words "no Khazānchi," the words "without the previous sanction of the Board" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 34 of same Act.

4. In the same Act, section 36, clause (a), sub-clause (4), after the words "municipal body," the words "or any body of Commissioners for making improvements in any port or of trustees of any port" shall be inserted.

In the same section, the words "in the case of the Bank of Madras" shall be omitted in both the places in which they occur.

In the same section, after clause (m), the following clause shall be inserted, that is to say, "(m m) the borrowing of money in India for the purposes of the Bank's business and the giving of security for money so borrowed by pledging assets or otherwise."

5. In section 37 of the same Act, for clause (d), the following shall be substituted, that is to say,

"(d) Nor shall they (except upon the security mentioned in section 36, paragraph a, Nos. 1 to 5 inclusive) discount bills for any individual or partnership-firm for an amount exceeding in the whole at any one time such sum as may be prescribed by the bye-laws for the time being in force, or lend or advance in any way to any individual or partnership-firm an amount exceeding in the whole at any one time such sum as may be so prescribed."

6. In section 63 of the same Act, clause (a), for the words "lent by discount of bills or otherwise to," the words "lent to or for which bills may be discounted for" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 63.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. THE necessity for this Bill has arisen chiefly from a doubt which has been expressed as to whether the Presidency-banks have power under the Presidency Banks Act, 1876, to borrow money for the purposes of their business by pledging assets or otherwise. The need of such a power is obvious.

As observed in a memorial recently submitted to the Governor General in Council by the banks, "it is an ordinary incident of banking-business to obtain funds for temporary purposes by pledging assets. If banks are prohibited from raising money by pledge of assets when occasion arises, they may, on a sudden requisition for cash, be obliged to make forced sales of property at a disadvantage; and this applies with great force to the Presidency-banks of India whose action in forcing Government or other securities on the market might cause a public panic."

The power required will be conferred by a new clause which the Bill (in the last clause of section 4) proposes to add to section 36 of the Act; but it is limited to borrowing in India, because so long as the Government balances are in the custody of the Presidency-banks, it is not considered expedient that the banks should engage in foreign exchanges or have the power of creating a foreign agency in England, which would be the necessary results of conceding a power to borrow out of India.

2. The other sections of the Bill provide for certain minor amendments of the Act which it has been thought desirable to take this opportunity of making.

Section 2 provides that no person shall be, in two successive years, chosen as President or Vice-President of a Presidency-bank.

3. Section 3, which admits of a khazānchi, cashier or shroff at the principal office of a bank engaging in business with the previous sanction of the Board, has been introduced at the instance of the Bank of Bengal, who represent that the absolute prohibition contained in the present law makes it difficult to secure the services of a suitable person, and that the necessity for any such absolute prohibition has ceased to exist, now that the khazānchi has no longer any concern with the discount business in Native Bills, and is, in fact, a mere cashier.

4. Lastly, clauses have been added to clear up an ambiguity which, in the opinion of Counsel, attaches to section 37, clause (d), and section 63, clause (a), of the Act; to include in the securities on which loans may be made, and in which the banks may invest, debentures and other securities issued by the Port Trusts under Acts of the Indian legislatures, and to concede to the Banks of Bengal and Bombay the power already possessed by the Bank of Madras of drawing and dealing in negotiable instruments, and issuing bank-post-bills and letters of credit, payable in Ceylon.

Despatch No. 99 (Statistics and Commerce), dated the 23rd May 1878.

Despatch No. 204 (Statistics and Commerce), dated the 5th December 1878.

RESOLUTION.

The Paris International Exhibition of 1878 having been brought to a close, and the prizes awarded, the Governor General in Council desires to place on record briefly the results of the arrangements adopted for the collection and transmission of the articles exhibited by this country, and to acknowledge the services rendered by the officers entrusted with the duty of carrying out those arrangements.

2. Early in 1877, when the French Government invited the co-operation of the India Office in the representation of India at the proposed Exhibition, Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India remarked that it was undesirable for India to be represented at exhibitions like that to be held at Paris to the same extent and at so great a cost as on previous occasions. The Government of India concurred in the view expressed by the Marquis of Salisbury with the more readiness that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales had agreed to lend his collection, which would sufficiently represent the higher class of Indian art manufacture, and because a collection of the raw products of India, similar to that supplied to the late Philadelphia Exhibition, was to be contributed by the India Museum in London. Under these circumstances, it was considered unnecessary to take any action in the direction of representing India at the Exhibition beyond communicating, as desired by the Secretary of State, with His Highness the Maharaja of Kashmir and other native chiefs, leaving it to them to contribute to the Exhibition if, of their own accord, they should desire to do so.

3. It was soon ascertained, however, that the surplus stores in the India Museum were inadequate to supply a suitable collection of products for the Exhibition, and that many important groups could not be exhibited unless fresh specimens were supplied. Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, therefore, in his letter of the 26th April, asked for contributions from India, leaving it to the Government of India to determine what articles should be sent to supplement those already available at the India Museum, and observing only that if, without any material increase of cost, a larger quantity of articles than was actually needed for the Exhibition could be procured for meeting similar requirements of museums and institutions in England, it would be desirable to take the opportunity of replenishing the stores of the India Museum.

4. The Government of India asked for a specification of the articles required to supplement the collection at the India Museum; but as there was little time to spare, if a useful collection was to be made, a reply to this reference was not awaited, and steps were at once taken for the preparation in India of a list of products to be collected and for the prompt collection of good samples of them. The plan of operations was simple: the Government of India placed the whole matter in the hands of two selected officers—Dr. Brandis, the Inspector General of Forests, and Mr. J. E. O'Connor, Assistant Secretary in this Department. To the former was assigned the duty of arranging for the collection of woods and other forest products, of which there were few or none in the India Museum; and to the latter was entrusted the duty of arranging for a similar collection of the raw products of the country. Both were empowered to correspond direct with local Governments and Administrations, and on their suggestion each Government nominated a special officer to carry on the local work, these corresponding direct with Dr. Brandis and Mr. O'Connor, respectively. The results of this arrangement, both in point of economy and as regards absolute excellence of the specimens collected, are, in the opinion of the Governor General in Council, sufficient evidence of the efficiency of the system adopted. It seems clear from the experience acquired on this occasion that, whether it is desired to make only collections of primary material, or to make also collections representative of the art-manufactures of India, the appointment of one officer specially qualified by taste and knowledge for the conduct of such work will ensure much more satisfactory and expeditious results than the elaborate machinery hitherto resorted to of local and central committees and sub-committees, and that the work will be more cheaply done.

5. The collections which were made by the local officers with the help of the classified lists prepared by the two officers selected by the Government of India were sent to Calcutta in small lots from time to time, and there the specimens were sorted, prepared, classified, labelled, catalogued, packed, and despatched,—those of forest produce under the supervision of Dr. Brandis and Mr. J. S. Gamble, his Personal Assistant, now Officiating Conservator of Forests, Bengal; and those of raw produce by Mr. O'Connor. The contributions of raw produce from the Madras and Bombay Presidencies were, however, an exception to the rule: these were sent direct from Madras and Bombay, in order to save time and prevent delay which would have precluded their exhibition at Paris. The work of collection, classification, and transmission of the articles received was conducted under difficult conditions, arising mainly out of the shortness of the period during which it had to be accomplished, but the final results were quite satisfactory, the collection sent being fairly, and for many groups of raw products almost exhaustively, representative of the productions of British India and Burma. The number of wood specimens exhibited was 650, this number including 370 different species. This collection has now been presented to the French National Forest School at Nancy, where for ten years past a large proportion of the forest officers in India have received their professional education under the care of the Director and Professors of that excellent institution.

6. The awards numbered fifty-six altogether, comprising two grands prix (diplômes d'honneur), 10 gold medals, 15 silver medals, 20 bronze medals, and 9 honourable mentions distributed as shewn in the annexure to the letter from the Prince of Wales.

7. Mr. O'Connor was one of those whose exertions mainly contributed to the success of the Exhibition so far as the raw products of the country are concerned, and the Governor General in Council is pleased to transfer one of the gold medals awarded to himself personally by the International Jury, and to present it to that gentleman as the officer of the Government of India whose services specially merit recognition. The gold medal for carpets was probably awarded on account of a contribution made by the Jubbulpore School of Industry, and if this is the case it will be sent through the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces to Colonel Ward, the Superintendent, for deposit in the school. The diplomas and rest of the medals conferred on Government, excepting those awarded personally, which will be forwarded to the persons to whom they were awarded, should be deposited in the Indian Museum at Calcutta.

8. The collections made by Mr. Back with the help of Mr. Duthie, Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens, Saharanpur, and that by Mr. Colin Browning, Inspector General of Education in the Central Provinces, reflect much credit on those officers, and His Excellency in Council desires that the thanks of the Government of India may be conveyed to them.

9. The Forest Department has already received its full need of recognition. To Dr. Brandis, as representing the collective labours of the forest officers under the Government of India, the Jury awarded one gold medal, and to Colonel Beddome, similarly representing Madras, another. From the Bombay Presidency most contributions arrived too late for the Exhibition, but were utilised in the preparation of additional sets of wood specimens which were distributed among the offices of Conservators of Forests and other public institutions in Europe and America in accordance with the desire of the Secretary of State. The Governor General in Council has no doubt that the Governments of Madras and Bombay will fully acknowledge the credit due to such of their officers as were employed in getting up the collection. It remains for His Excellency in Council to express his acknowledgments to the forest officers employed in the provinces under the Government of India. From the Punjab, Mr. Baden-Powell, the Conservator, and the officers under his orders, sent a large, varied, carefully-named, and selected collection, which included among others a number of interesting specimens from the inner arid Himalaya, got together by the Reverend Mr. Heyde of the Moravian Mission, Lahoul. The collections from Bengal, prepared under the orders of the Conservator, Dr. Schlich, arrived mostly in good time, and furnished a large number of interesting specimens from parts of the country, the forest resources of which are not generally known. Mr. Greig, the Conservator of Forests in the North-Western Provinces, furnished specimens from the forests in Dehra Dûn, Jaunsar, and Kumaun, but larger collections which had been made were not sent down to Calcutta, as the logs were unseasoned. From Oudh, a few well seasoned pieces were ~~received~~, but the remainder did not arrive till after the specimens for the Exhibition had left Calcutta. The contributions of Mr. Gustav Mann from Assam, of Captain Doveton from the Central Provinces, of Mr. Drysdale from Berar, and of Major Seaton and Mr. Ribbentrop from Burma, included some fine and well-seasoned pieces of useful kinds of trees and specimens of minor forest produce. Good specimens of sandalwood from Mysore were received from Captain VanSomeren, the Conservator, but specimens of other timbers could not be forwarded in time for the Exhibition on account of the difficulty experienced in getting carriage owing to the famine. The important collection of Major-General Barwell, the Chief Commissioner of the Andamans, served to shew the numerous handsome and useful timbers which are procurable in those islands. The logs and pieces thus contributed by the various provinces were received in the rough at the workshop which had been established in Calcutta, and there, under the supervision of Messrs. Gamble and Smythies, they were prepared and finished into specimens. To these gentlemen likewise the thanks of Government are due for the great skill and indefatigable energy with which they have accomplished their portion of the work under singularly difficult circumstances.

10. The collections of specimens representing art manufactures sent from India were made in a semi-official way by various local authorities in direct communication with Lord Northbrook, the Chairman of the Indian Section of the British Commission. The Governor General in Council is gratified to find from the 5th paragraph of the letter from His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales that their exertions have been appreciated. He also desires here to record his acknowledgments of the services rendered in connection with the Indian collections by Sir Cunliffe Owen, Colonel Pearson, and Messrs. Purdon Clarke, Birdwood, and Waterfield, whose exertions have already secured the approbation of His Royal Highness.

ORDER.—Ordered, that the above Resolution and the despatch from the Secretary of State, No. 204, dated the 5th December 1878, with the enclosed letters and the list of awards made by the International Jury, be published for general information in the Supplement to the Gazette of India, and that copies of these papers be communicated to the several local Governments and Administrations quoted in the margin.

Dated Marlborough House, Pall Mall, London, 31st October 1878.

From—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales,

To—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

The International Jury of the Paris Universal Exhibition having completed their labours, I have the satisfaction to submit, for the information of the Secretary of State for India in Council, the accompanying list of awards made to India.

2. The following are the principal, viz.,—

Two diplomas of honour (Grand Prix), both awarded to Lord Lytton: one on account of the great progress made in India in the cultivation of tea; the other in acknowledgment of the personal interest taken by His Excellency in the production of raw silk for the European market, and especially for the improvement in the culture and preparation of the tasar and other wild silks of India.

Ten gold medals: two to Lord Lytton for wheat and other cereals and vegetable products; one to the Government of India for carpets; one to Mr. H. Lock, of the Calcutta Museum, for a collection of native teas; one each to Dr. Brandis and Colonel Beddome for the collections of forest produce; one to Dr. Bidie for a collection of alimentary products; one to His Highness the Maharajah of Kashmir; one to Hajee Mooktar Shah, Master Craftsman to His Highness the Maharajah of Kashmir; and one to the Murree Brewery Company for beers,—in all forty-five awards, two “Grand Prix,” nine gold, fifteen silver, twenty bronze medals, and nine honourable mentions.

3. Thus, in the International competition of the present year,—the most severely contested of all that have preceded it,—the Indian Empire has taken two of the highest prizes for articles in which China has hitherto monopolised the markets of the world.

Eighteen awards (including the Grand Prix and gold medal) have been made for Indian teas, a distinction which it may be hoped will serve to stimulate the growing demand for them.

4. The remarkable interest taken in the Indian wild silks at the present Exhibition is principally due to the experiments made for the Government of India by Mr. Thomas Wardle, of Leek. He has now shewn that they can be spun as fine as Chinese silk and dyed of any colour. It is, therefore, probable that they will become merchantable wherever silk is woven or worn.

To mark their sense of the far-reaching effects that are likely to result from these improvements, the International Jury have awarded a Grand Prix to Lord Lytton and a silver medal to Mr. A. O. Hume.

5. This is also the proper occasion for me to request Your Lordship to convey to the Viceroy and Governor General of India, and to the Governors of Madras and Bombay, and the respective Lieutenant-Governors of the provinces my best thanks for the cordial assistance given by them, at my request, in the preparation of the various collections of art manufactures in India by the Royal Commission. Of the officers who acted under their orders, I would name Dr. Brandis and Lieutenant Colonel Michael, C.S.I., as deserving of special notice for their services.

6. To Colonel Pearson, who acted under the orders of the Secretary of State in Council, the efficiency of the arrangements of forest products is mainly due. I have also been particularly indebted to Mr. George Birdwood, C.S.I., for the selection he recommended of manufactures to supplement the exhibition of my own collection of Indian presents, as well as for his admirable hand-book on the art manufactures of India. I have also to express the great obligations the Royal Commission has been under to Mr. Henry Waterfield, your Secretary in the Statistical and Commercial Department, as the channel of their communications with the India Office, and for his cordial co-operation at all times with Mr. P. Cunliffe-Owen, C.B.

7. The duties of Mr. P. Cunliffe-Owen and of Mr. C. Purdon Clarke in connection with the Indian Court have been of so exceptionable a nature, that, though they are officers of the Royal Commission, I feel it my duty to submit their names also to Your Lordship. Mr. Clarke's design for the central pavilion secured the success of the Indian Exhibition. The excellent manner in which Mr. Cunliffe-Owen has disbursed the grant made by Your Lordship in Council for the purposes of the British Indian section, and his general direction of it as Executive Secretary of the Royal Commission, will not fail to meet with your commendation. India has been represented at Paris this year with a completeness and splendour never before reached, and the effect produced throughout Europe has been quite unprecedented.

It is too well recognised to need my impressing it on Your Lordship's attention how much this has been due to Mr. Cunliffe-Owen.

Dated India Office, London, 30th November 1878.

From—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India,

To—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of Your Royal Highness' letter, dated the 31st ultimo, forwarding a list of awards made to India by the International Jury of the Paris Exhibition, and expressing Your Royal Highness' thanks for services rendered to the Royal Commission by the Governor General of India and others.

I desire, in reply, to convey to Your Royal Highness the gratification felt by myself and the Council of India at the manner in which the Jury have signified their sense of the position

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE AND COMMERCE.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS
FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 4th MARCH 1879.

GENERAL REMARKS—General prospects in Madras have not changed during the week. In the Bombay Presidency the rabi is fair in Sind, Guzerat and Konkan; in Kaladgi heavy rain has proved injurious to the crops, and in several districts in the Deccan and the Southern Mahratta Country damage is being done by rats. There has been no alteration in Mysore. Slight rain fell in a good many districts of the Central Provinces, but the weather is now clear; the harvesting of the rabi continues and promises fairly; prices remain stationary. The reports from Berar and Central India do not exhibit any material change. Rain has fallen in Rajputana, and the weather is cloudy; though blight is feared, prospects are fair and prices stationary. In Bengal some crops are being reaped with a fair outturn, and those on the ground are in a satisfactory condition; rain is, however, still required in parts of Central and Eastern Bengal; public health is good, but small-pox is reported from many and cholera from some districts. In part of Assam slight rain has fallen and benefited the crops, but more is wanted generally. The report from British Burma shews that the health of the Province is generally good. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the harvest has commenced in some districts and the out-look is fair. Harvest prospects in the Punjab have on the whole somewhat improved, especially in the Frontier districts.

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|--------------------------------------|--|--|
| Madras— | | |
| Kistna (Mar. 1st) | Nil | Rice 11.41, cholum 15.57, raggi 17.78, cumboo 15.6; 4½ inches water passing over ancient; standing crops generally good; varige , pulse crops, castor, and tobacco being gathered in some localities. |
| Kurnool (" ") | 45 (average of 6 stations.) | Rice 10.96, cholum 16.53, raggi 19.90, cumboo 18.08; fever prevalent; season favourable; white cholum being harvested, outturn ½ to ¾; cotton, Bengal gram, wheat, gram, and second crop paddy in good condition; fodder and water ample. |
| Tanjore (" ") | Nil | Rice 9.11, cholum 13.51, raggi 15.81, cumboo 14.27; moderate freshes in some of the principal streams; dry crops require rain in parts of the Tanjore and Pattukottai taluks, and suffer much; wet crops generally in good condition, except in a few localities; samba , paddy, raggi , dholi , and horse-gram being harvested, outturn ¾ to 1. |
| Madura (" ") | 1.23 (average of 6 stations); nil in others. | Rice 10.60, cholum 15.93, raggi 18.07, cumboo 18.79. |
| Malabar (" ") | 46 (average of 5 stations); nil in others. | Rice 10.30, raggi 17.0; prices fallen at Cochin, stationary elsewhere. |
| Bombay—(Mar. 5th). | | General Remarks. —General prospects unchanged; slight rain fallen in Tinnevely; rats still doing damage to crops in Bellary. |
| Sind— | | |
| Kurrachee ... | ... | River still very low—only 2 feet 2 inches at Kotri on 2nd against 3 feet 5 inches on same date last year; 3 fresh cases of small-pox in Kurrachee. |
| Hyderabad ... | ... | Small-pox in Naushahro; cattle disease in Badin; fever continues; rabi reaping commenced. |
| Upper Sind Frontier... | ... | Weather cool; high winds prevailing; sarsu ripening; prospects good; wheat below average; food grains at famine rates; forage scarce. |
| Guzerat— | | |
| Ahmedabad ... | ... | Cloudy and windy during greater portion of week; weather colder. |
| Punch Mahals ... | ... | Weather cloudy and unseasonably cold. |
| Kaira ... | ... | Public health and rabi crops good. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|--|--|--|
| Bombay—continued. | | |
| Ahmednagar ... | ... | Rats still destructive; rabi harvest continues throughout district. |
| Sholapore ... | Slight rain in all talukas except Bārsi and Mādha. | |
| Satara ... | ... | Rabi reaping continues; public health good. |
| Southern Mahratta Country— | | |
| Kalāḍgi ... | 2·10 at Kalāḍgi; 1·52 at Indī; 1·53 at Bāḡwāri; 1·32 at Bagal-kot; 2·04 at Badami. | Rain not favourable. |
| Belgaum ... | ... | No change. |
| Dharwar ... | ... | Cattle disease in two talukas; no change in state of crops and public health. |
| Kanara ... | ... | Sugarcane crop being reaped on the coast. |
| Kattywar and Gaekwar's Territory— | | |
| Rājkot ... | ... | Weather fair; rabi harvest continues. |
| Wadhvān ... | ... | Weather cloudy; crops same as before. |
| Baroda ... | ... | Public health good; indications of increasing distress from high prices of food. General Remarks. —Weather generally cold; rabi fair in Sind, Guzerat, and Konkan; damage by rats in several Deccan and Southern Mahratta Country districts continues; heavy showers unfavourable to crops in Kalāḍgi. |
| Bengal—(March 4th). | | |
| Chittagong ... | Nil | Weather fine; the prospects of the crops are favourable. |
| Noakholly ... | Nil | The early mornings are foggy; weather daily getting warmer; rain is wanted; the preparation for the early rice crop has commenced. |
| Chittagong Hill Tracts... | Nil | Weather seasonable, cloudy on the 23rd February; the gathering of the mustard crop still continues; rain is very badly wanted for the crops on the ground; public health is good. |
| Hill Tipperah ... | Nil | Weather dry and warm; in the low lands aus paddy is being sown in some parts of the district, and boro paddy is being transplanted in other parts; the gathering of sugarcane still continues; public health is good. |
| Backergunge ... | Nil | Weather warm, with clouds at intervals; the prospects of the crops are fair; rain is very much needed throughout the district; prices continue unchanged, and there appears to be no prospect of a fall; some cases of small-pox are reported from Perozepore and Patuakhali. |
| Furcedpore ... | Nil | Weather fair; west winds setting in; the winter crops are generally doing well, but would have been better for rain, which still would do good. |
| Dacca ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; still cool in the morning; the state and prospects of the crops are very good; prices have a slight tendency to fall. |
| Mymensingh ... | Nil | Weather fine; still cool in the mornings and evenings; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable. |
| Tipperah ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the cold-weather crops are doing well; a little rain is wanted; exportation of rice is going on from three thanas; prices continue high; a few cases of small-pox are reported from Danakandi. |
| 24-Pergunnahs ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the state and prospects of the crops are good, but the prices of food grains are very high; public health in general is fair; small-pox continues at Barrackpore. |
| Jessore ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; rather hot during the day; rain is wanted in the east and south of the district, but prospects are fair; public health is good. |
| Nuddea ... | Nil | Weather warm; the winter crops are nearly harvested; the outturn is fair; cholera is still prevalent. |
| Moershedabad ... | Nil | Weather becoming hot in the middle of the day; the state and prospects of the crops are the same as in last week. |
| Pubna ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the state and prospects of the crops are unchanged; small-pox has broken out in thana Pubna. |
| Rajshahye ... | Nil | Weather warm in the day time, but cool at night; west winds have set in; the rabi harvest has commenced; boro dhan is still being transplanted in places; lands are being prepared for sowing dhan , jute , and teel , and in some places the sowings have commenced; a few cases of cholera and small-pox in Manda, Tanore, Lalpore, and Charghat. |
| Bogra ... | Nil | Weather clear and warm, with north-west wind blowing; the winter crops are reported to be doing well; the district is fairly healthy. |
| Dinagpore ... | Nil | Nights still cool, but weather close in the daytime; west winds have begun; the reaping of the rabi crops is still going on. |
| Rangpore ... | Nil | Weather becoming warmer; the state and prospects of the crops continue unchanged, but rain is required for the winter crops in Gaibanda; small-pox is prevailing in some parts of the district. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|--------------------------------------|------------------------------|---|
| Bengal—continued. | | |
| Cooch Behar ... | Nil | Weather fair; very hot for this season of the year; occasionally windy; the prospects of tobacco are good; bitri cultivation is progressing; public health is good. |
| Jalpáiguri ... | Nil | Weather very much warmer than is usual at this time of the year; rain is much wanted both to soften the soil for ploughing for the bhadoi dhan crop, and for the wheat, barley, and potato crops not yet gathered; there has been a very good outturn of hoimanta dhan . |
| Darjeeling ... | Nil | Weather getting warmer; no crops of importance are now on the ground; the land is being cultivated for the bhadoi crop. |
| Midnapore ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable. |
| Towrah ... | Nil | Weather growing daily hotter; the hot weather seems to have set in; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable; there is not much of any crop on the ground. |
| Hooghly ... | Nil | Weather getting warmer; the winter crops have been reaped; fever and cholera still prevail in many parts of the district; cases of small-pox in Utterparah. |
| Burdwan ... | Nil | Weather dry and gradually becoming hotter; nothing new to report in the state and prospects of the crops. |
| Bankora ... | Nil | Weather warm, with gusts of wind; the crops being harvested are giving 10 to 12 annas; those on the ground promise fairly. |
| Beerbhoom ... | Nil | High winds and hot weather; the state and prospects of the crops are favourable. |
| Southal Pergunnahs ... | Nil | Weather dry; hot west wind blowing; the rabi crops are reported to be good every where. |
| Bhúgalpur ... | Nil | Strong westerly winds prevail; the state and prospects of the crops are the same as in last week. |
| Monghyr ... | Nil | Weather fair; getting hotter; the state and prospects of the crops are good. |
| Purneah ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; dry westerly wind; the state and prospects of the crops are good. |
| Maldah ... | Nil | Weather fair; the rabi crops are thriving; the prices of rice, &c., are again on the increase; public health is generally improving. |
| Durbhunga ... | Nil | Weather seasonable, with west winds; no change in the prospects of the crops since last week; rain is required for indigo; prices are stationary; health of the people is good, except a few cases of small-pox. |
| Mozufferpore ... | Nil | Weather mild, with strong west winds; the rabi crops have improved very much of late, and are generally in a satisfactory condition; indigo sowings have commenced in some parts of the district; the poppy crop is likely to be very short, except on irrigated lands. |
| Sarun ... | Nil | Weather fair, and getting warmer daily; high west wind and dust-storms during the day; no particular change to note since last week; the crops are generally doing well; mustard and peas are being reaped; the poppy crop is in flower; indigo seed is being put in the ground; prices are stationary; public health is good. |
| Chumparun ... | Nil | High winds from the west; no change in the state and prospects of the crops since last report. |
| Patna ... | Nil | Weather getting warmer; high west winds prevail; mustard and mussoor are being harvested; the other rabi crops are in excellent condition. |
| Gya ... | 0·04 | The mornings and evenings are cool; the maximum reading of the thermometer in the shade was 92°; the condition of the rabi crops is good and the late showers are expected to improve them; cases of small-pox continue to be reported; the health of the plough cattle is good. |
| Shahabad ... | Nil | Weather getting warm daily; strong westerly wind in the day time with dust; the harvesting of some of the rabi crops has commenced; the prospects of the crops remain good on the whole; small-pox is still prevalent. |
| Hazáribágh ... | 0·06 | Weather seasonable; hot sun; cold west winds; the late rain has enabled the ryots to commence ploughing to open up the ground; the surson (mustard) crop has been gathered and has been a full one; wheat and barley are ripening and will soon be cut; grain is looking well; the fall of hail reported last week was very partial. |
| Lohardugga ... | 1·35 | A storm with heavy rain on the 24th February; high winds prevailed towards the close of the week; no change to report in the state and prospects of the crops since last week; prices are stationary. |
| Manbhoom ... | Nil | Weather seasonable; very little to report regarding the crops; the few crops on the ground are doing well; the prospects of mohwa are promising; the same may be said of mango; some cases of small-pox in the town of Purulia and the district have occurred. |
| Singhbhoom ... | 0·24 | Weather seasonable; no change to report; the rain will do good to the mango crop. |
| Balasore ... | Nil | The late showers have been beneficial, and the few crops on the ground are in good condition; the malarial fever which has raged since September last is disappearing. |

CALCUTTA, SATURDAY, MARCH 8, 1879.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

REVENUE—SEPARATE REVENUE—OPIUM.

No. 1212.

Fort William, the 8th March 1879.

It is hereby notified that in the month of January 1880, and thereafter month by month, till further notice, four thousand seven hundred chests of Bengal Opium will be sold under the usual conditions by auction in Calcutta as follows, viz. :—

| | | | | | |
|---------------|-----|-----|-----|-----|-------------------|
| Behar Opium | ... | ... | ... | ... | ... 2,350 chests. |
| Benares Opium | ... | ... | ... | ... | ... 2,350 „ |
| TOTAL | | | | | ... 4,700 chests. |

2. This Monthly Provision of 4,700 chests of opium will neither be increased nor diminished until at least twelve calendar months after notice published in the Gazette of India under the signature of a Secretary to the Government of India, or in the Calcutta Gazette under the signature of a Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

3. The division of the Monthly Provision of 4,700 chests of opium into 2,350 chests of Behar Opium and 2,350 chests of Benares Opium will not be modified until at least six calendar months after notice published in like manner.

4. Provided always that nothing in this Notification shall be understood to prevent the Government, or the Chief Authority to whom the Government may delegate the duty of superintending the sale of Bengal Provision Opium, from selling two Monthly Provisions within one calendar month, instead of in the two successive calendar months in which they would otherwise be sold, whenever the occurrence of Public Holidays or any other circumstances shall appear to the Government to make such modification of the regular course of the Monthly Sales convenient.

5. Provided also, that any chests of opium of which delivery is not taken by the purchasers may be sold in any subsequent month in addition to the 4,700 chests provided for that month.

By Order of the Governor General in Council,

R. B. CHAPMAN,

Secretary to the Govt. of India.

158. The Surplus which appears upon the face of the Regular Estimates is Expenditure. £1,300,000, from which £357,000 must be deducted for the book-credits TRUE SURPLUS from the Military Funds; on the other hand £141,575 must be added because the BY PRESENT provision for Loss by Exchange exceeds by this amount the sum which would be ESTIMATES. necessary if all the net current requirements of the Home Treasury for the year were remitted. Considering the extent to which the expenditure of the year has been increased by the high prices of food, it is not perhaps necessary to set off anything for arrears of Land Revenue (about £800,000), considerable though they be, in excess of the charge for Famine Relief (£555,000). The Discount charge is £39,000, and the portion of the last half-year's interest upon the Five and-a-half per Cent. Loan in anticipation of due date may be estimated at £185,000.

There remains, therefore, a true Surplus of £1,309,000 to compare with the estimated Surplus of £2,216,000, shewing a deficiency of £907,000.

159. Considering that this surplus exists after paying the whole charges of the War, amounting to £670,000; after allowing for a charge for Loss by Exchange higher by £586,000 than the sum taken in the Estimates of the year; and notwithstanding the other adverse influences that have been stated, the result, although less favourable than was anticipated at the beginning of the year, must be considered satisfactory. RESULT Altogether, under the two heads War and Loss by CONSIDERED Exchange alone, both of them virtually beyond control, the Government has SATISFACTORY. spent £1,258,000 more than was expected, there is still a surplus of £1,309,000. In the Financial Statement of last year it was said that the Government hoped to provide in 1878-79 from the normal resources of the year a sum of £500,000 for the relief of famine, and that a surplus of at least £1,000,000 would be available from the Revenues of the year for the purposes of Famine Insurance. The total estimated Surplus of the year was, as has been explained, largely increased by special causes. The sum of £555,000 has been spent on Famine Relief, and a surplus of £1,309,000 for Famine Insurance has been provided; but it must not be forgotten that these results would evidently not have been attained if the Government had been obliged to trust only to the normal revenues of the year.

160. It remains to remark that it is a mistake to suppose that £1,500,000 AMOUNT OF NEW of new taxes was imposed in order to secure the surplus of £1,500,000 held TAXES. necessary as a provision against Famine. The real net taxation imposed last year and in 1877 was only as follows:—

161. There will remain still to levy hereafter £27,500 of the Famine Cess in the NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH. Thus the total eventual new taxation may be estimated at £1,104,900.

163. The explanation of the variations between the First Estimates 1879-80 and the Regular Estimates 1878-79 are as follows:—

AND REVENUE.

164. I, Land Revenue.—Less £296,000 in MADRAS and the NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES. Less arrears to be collected next year.

RIBUTES.

165. II, Tributes.—Less £6,000. This year's revenue contained some arrears.

ORESTS.

166. III & 5, Forests.—Revenue more £79,000. Expenditure more £37,000. Net better £42,000. Some little recovery from the depression this year.

XCISE.

167. IV & 5, Excise.—Revenue more £150,000. Expenditure more £ 27,000. Net better £123,000. Net Revenue £2,624,000. The following improvements are expected: BENGAL £15,000; NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES £25,000; PUNJAB £2,000; MADRAS £70,000; BOMBAY £30,000; CENTRAL PROVINCES £11,000. £160,000 was lost in the NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES and the PUNJAB this year, and £29,000 would be a moderate recovery. The £100,000 improvement expected in MADRAS and BOMBAY would only replace those Provinces in their normal condition as to this revenue. The excess expenditure is for compensation to the Municipal Corporation of Bombay and other persons in connection with the reform of the Excise Revenue there.

SSESSED TAXES.

168. V & 7, Assessed Taxes.—Revenue more £27,000. Expenditure less £5,000. Net better £32,000 besides £10,000 less Refunds. The chief improvement is in BENGAL, where some arrears are expected to remain from this year.

ROVINCIAL RATES.

169. VI & 8, Provincial Rates.—Revenue more £60,000. Expenditure more £10,000. Net more £50,000. The Famine Cess (estimated to yield £110,000) was not levied this year in the NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH. Provision is made for the levy of £82,500 or three-fourths of this Cess next year. The Regular Estimates include arrears in MADRAS.

USTOMS.

170. VII & 9, Customs.—Revenue less £192,000. Expenditure £1,000 more. Net worse £193,000. The exemption from import duty of all cotton goods which contain no yarn of a higher count than 30s., is estimated to entail a sacrifice of £200,000, of which £150,000 will fall upon 1879-80. The Revision of the Tariff Valuations involves a net loss of £42,000.

217. The average rate of interest upon the whole Debt is now 4·45 per cent. Expenditure. Last year, thus calculated, it was 4·53 per cent.

218. 2, Interest other Accounts.—More £10,000. The claims of the Civil Funds grow year by year. OTHER INTEREST.

219. 4, Land Revenue.—Increase £83,000. £19,000 of this is for Village Services in LAND REVENUE. MADRAS. The rest is chiefly due to Survey and Settlement operations. Of the whole increase, only £28,600 falls upon the Imperial Treasury, Provincial and Local Funds bearing the remainder.

220. 14, & XII, Post Office.—Expenditure more £74,000. Revenue more £73,000. Net POST OFFICE. Expenditure £97,000; as nearly as possible the same as in the Regular Estimate.

221. 15 & XIII, Telegraph.—Expenditure more £60,000. Revenue more £1,000. Net TELEGRAPH. worse £56,000. Net Expenditure £151,000. This includes 1½ lakhs for Frontier Telegraphs.

222. 16, Administration.—Increase £14,000; chiefly in the Government of India Offices. ADMINISTRATION

223. 17 & XIV, Minor Departments.—Expenditure more £12,000. Revenue less £8,000 MINOR DEPARTMENTS. Net Expenditure more £20,000. Net Expenditure £317,000. Proceeds sales of Chinchona not estimated so highly.

224. 18, and XV, Law and Justice.—Expenditure less £19,000. Revenue more £14,000. LAW AND JUSTICE. Better altogether £33,000. Some decrease in the price of food expected.

225. 19 & XVI, Police.—Expenditure more £47,000. Revenue more £20,000. Net POLICE. Expenditure more £27,000; in BURMAH, where improvement in this Department has long been urgently needed. Net Expenditure £2,239,000.

226. 20 & XVII, Marine.—Expenditure less £51,000. Revenue less £27,000. Net MARINE. Expenditure less £24,000. Net Expenditure £340,000. Survey Steamer built this year.

227. 21 & XVIII, Education.—Expenditure more £39,000. Revenue less £6,000. Net EDUCATION. Expenditure more £45,000. Net Expenditure £86,000. Increase general (£19,000 under Local Funds).

228. 22, Ecclesiastical.—Increase £3,000. The expenditure this year is abnormally low. ECCLESIASTICAL.

229. 23 & XIX, Medical.—Expenditure more £16,000. Revenue less £14,000. Net MEDICAL. Expenditure more £30,000. Net Expenditure £640,000. Chief increase in BENGAL.

230. 24 & XX, Stationery and Printing.—Expenditure more £27,000. Revenue less STATIONERY AND £2,000. Net Expenditure more £29,000. Net Expenditure £490,000. The continual increase PRINTING. of this expenditure deserves the attention of the Local Governments; the service is now chiefly Provincial.

231. 25, Political.—Decrease £74,000. Arrears of subsidy paid to Khan of Khelat this year. POLITICAL.

232. 26, Allowances and Assignments.—Increase £76,000. Salt payments in Rājputānā ALLOWANCES. (£260,900,) exceed this year's payments by £96,300.

233. 27, Civil Furlough Allowances.—More £1,000. Expenditure this year unusually FURLOUGH ALLOWANCES. low. This item is now steady.

234. 28 & XXII, Superannuations.—Expenditure less £58,000. Revenue less £152,000. PENSIONS. Net Expenditure more £94,000. The retirement of the Subscribers to the Bombay Medical Fund this year increased this expenditure by £68,738. The loss of revenue is nominal, the balance at credit of several of the Military Funds being now exhausted. The transfers to Revenue this year will be less than last year by £143,113.

235. These Funds, the transfers from which have for so long disturbed the MILITARY FUNDS. Finances, were as follows:—In each of the three Presidencies there were a Military and a Medical Fund, and in Bengal there was also a Military Orphan Fund—seven Funds in all. The transfers in 1879-80 will exhaust the balances of all but the Bengal Military Orphan Fund and the Madras Medical Fund.

236. 30, Famine Relief.—£20,000 is provided for expenditure in the NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH from Provincial Funds. It is earnestly to be desired that no more expenditure may be called for under this Head. FAMINE RELIEF.

237. 31 & XXIII, Public Works Ordinary.—Expenditure more £219,000. Revenue less PUBLIC WORKS £39,000. Net Expenditure more £258,000 of which £100,000 is caused by the transfer of that ORDINARY. sum from 39, Productive Public Works to cover the cost of the Public Works establishments in excess of requirements. Net Expenditure £1,418,000.

238. These excess establishments have been caused by a variety of circumstances. Active measures are in contemplation to reduce the superfluous establishments which are as injurious to the Departmental Administration as to the Finances. Meanwhile the Government consider that no part of the cost of these superfluous establishments can properly be excluded from the ordinary expenditure and treated as Productive Public Works Capital Expenditure. The remaining excess expenditure is explained by the Local Governments having, at the request of the Government of India, curtailed their expenditure this year.

Expenditure. 239. §§ & XXVI, Irrigation and Navigation.—More Expenditure £164,000; more Revenue £44,000. Net Expenditure more £120,000. A large outlay from Local Funds is contemplated upon the Calcutta Canals and on some other works in BENGAL. Net Expenditure £249,000. Net Expenditure on both classes of Ordinary Public Works £4,667,000.

GUARANTEED RAILWAYS. 240. §§ & XXVII, Guaranteed Railways.—Upon the face of the Estimates Revenue less £1,000; Expenditure less £93,000. Net better £92,000.

241. But, as in the Regular Estimate, the comparison can most conveniently be made by the Table V in Appendix B. That Table shows that the Net Traffic Earnings are estimated to be the same as this year; that, partly owing to an increase of £56,000 in the charge for sterling interest, but much more owing to the further fall in the exchange, the interest is expected to cost £3,030 more than this year. Against this is to be set surplus profits payable to the Companies less by £167,700 and a saving in the loss on the Capital Transactions. Altogether the GUARANTEED RAILWAYS are estimated to cost £1,591,600, being £101,200 more than this year and more than in any year since 1872-73. The chief cause, it is needless to repeat, is the fall in the exchange which has seriously increased the charge for interest guaranteed on the Capital of the Companies. The contracts with most of them being for the remittance of this interest at 1s. 10d. the rupee and with one of them (the OUDH AND ROHILKHAND COMPANY) at 2s. the rupee, a substantial part of the loss falls upon the State even when Surplus Revenue is earned. When no surplus is earned the whole loss is borne by the State.

PURCHASE OF THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

STATE OBLIGATIONS UNDER THE CONTRACT. 242. By its contract with the East Indian Railway Company, the Government of India provided, free of charge to the Company, all the land on which the Railway is laid, and guaranteed from the Revenues of India, five per cent. interest on the capital of the Company payable in sterling in London.

STATE CLAIMS. 243. All the earnings and all the working expenses of the Company pass through the Public Treasury and Accounts; if the Net Traffic Earnings of the Company exceed the sum in rupees which, at 1s. 10d. the rupee, suffices to provide the guaranteed sterling interest, half the excess is appropriated to the repayment of the interest advanced by the Government during the many years for which the Railway did not earn a profit. The net cost to the State of all these concessions is estimated to have amounted to not less than twelve crores of rupees, at the end of 1876-77, since when it has somewhat diminished.

SURRENDER CLAUSE. 244. The Company, may at any time, surrender their property to the State and claim back its whole capital cost; and, as, if not transferred earlier, the Railway would become the property of the State by lapse of time after 99 years, it is certain that the Surrender Clause would not be a dead letter.

STATE RIGHT OF PURCHASE. 245. On the other hand, the Government may purchase the Railway at two successive intervals of twenty-five years, paying, in that case, a price intended to represent the fair market value of the Railway as evidenced by the quotations of the shares of the Company. Such payment may be made either in cash or in the form of a Terminable Annuity calculated at the market rate of interest in London on Indian Government sterling obligations.

FIRST OPTION OF PURCHASE. 246. The Government must declare whether it will exercise its first option of purchase within six months after the 15th February 1879. The question whether this declaration should be made, has long been anxiously debated both by the Government in India and by the Secretary of State in Council in London. Last year, Lieutenant-General Richard Strachey, R.E., C.S.I., was deputed by the Secretary of State to assist the Government of India in coming to a final conclusion, with an intimation that General Strachey enjoyed his confidence in relation to the matter in hand.

FINANCIAL CONSIDERATIONS. 247. The Government of India considered this important measure both financially and administratively. The share capital of the Company is £26,200,000, and they have issued Debentures for £4,220,000 the interest on which is £188,000. The purchase of a property of this magnitude is a large transaction; but the Government of India had no difficulty in concluding not only that the purchase was financially expedient, but that the State would not be justified in foregoing the purchase upon any conditions that could be acceptable to the Company.

248. It seemed more doubtful whether the Government of India, whose constant policy it is to reduce the mass of details which already inevitably burden it, could wisely undertake the direct management of this great Railway, and whether it would be prudent to disturb the existing management which is on the whole economical and efficient. But it was considered that these objections could be obviated by the formation of a Company to work the Railway for the State upon terms mutually advantageous.

ADMINISTRATIVE

LEASE TO WORKING COMPANY.

249. Accordingly, in a despatch No. 226, dated 17th June last, the Government of India communicated to the Secretary of State its decision that the East Indian Railway should now be bought for the State, and, for the present, worked by a Company constituted from the existing Company. No formal official reply has yet been received to this Despatch; but it is known that the proposals of the Government of India have been substantially adopted, and that, subject to the approval of Parliament, on the 31st December 1879, the East Indian Railway will become the property of the State.

PROPOSALS OF GOVERNMENT OF INDIA ACCEPTED.

250. The price to be paid is £125 for every £100 of capital stock or £32,750,000 for the whole stock of £26,200,000. Payment of that amount is to be made by an Annuity terminating on the 14th February 1953, in the calculation of which the rate of interest used is £4-6s. per cent. Both the price of £125 assumed as the market-price of the shares, and the rate of £4-6s. assumed as the market rate of interest upon the Indian Government's London sterling obligations, are liberal, and have apparently been so accepted by the shareholders with general unanimity. But, although, perhaps, by the letter of the bond, even better terms might have been exacted, there is good reason for the belief that, on the whole, the intention of the original parties to the contract has been substantially fulfilled; and it is a cause of much satisfaction to the Government of India that this important transaction has been concluded without any breach of the friendly relations between the Government and the Company, or injury to the interests of the shareholders, who will receive an annuity at the rate of £5. 12s. 6d. per cent. upon their capital, equal to simple interest at the rate of £5. 8s. 6d.

TERMS OF PURCHASE.

251. The New Working Company is now in course of formation with a capital of £6,550,000, being one-fifth of the capital of the present Company commuted into sterling bonds at £125 per centum. The nature of the arrangement with the Company and the effect of the whole measure upon the Revenues of India is illustrated by the following Statement in which the Estimates of the coming year as now framed are compared with what they would be if the arrangement now negotiated were in force:—

RESULT TO NEW COMPANY

252. The estimated net traffic earnings being £2,495,000, the Surplus Profits of the Line in 1879-80 by the new arrangement would be £372,400, of which one-fifth or £74,500 would be the remuneration of the Working Company, making their income £336,400 in all, or 6·42 per cent. upon their original unconverted share of the capital (£5,240,000). In consideration of this concession, the shareholders of the New Company surrender all claims to any interest in excess of 5 per cent. on their original capital, or 4 per cent. on their commuted capital (£6,550,000), and to all current annuity payments. When their contract terminates they will begin to receive only the yearly payment of £5. 12s. 6d. per cent. which will be paid all along on the remaining four-fifths of the capital, and the capital debt of the Government to them will be extinguished on the same date as its debt to the other four-fifths of the Company.

AND TO STATE.

253. The remaining four-fifths of the Surplus Profits or £297,600 will belong to the State, which will moreover receive £40,000 interest on the value of the stores in course of consumption. Moreover, the calculation which brings out this result, includes the yearly payment of Rs. 6,63,000 or, in the conventional notation of the Accounts, £66,300, being the amount required for the extinction of the original capital debt of £32,750,000 by the 14th February 1953. The expected Net Public Revenue from the East Indian Railway in 1879-80, if the new arrangements were already in force, would be £401,200, of which £337,900 would appear upon the Estimates, instead of £108,900 as actually estimated. Thus there is a good hope that the State will now, at length, be, to some extent, compensated for the heavy sacrifices entailed upon it during the early history of this great undertaking.

STATE REVENUE WILL INCREASE.

254. The gain to the State is likely to be still larger in the future, because four-fifths of the increasing Net Earnings which may confidently be expected from the East Indian Railway will henceforth accrue to the Public Treasury.

PRINCIPLES OF NEW ARRANGEMENT.
